A dress with detachable apron; a model of black with soutache braid trimming the top, and another of navy alpaca that reached back into the past to resurreot eyelet embroidery as something new in trimming; a skull-cap little hat that had a high, full bow in the front combining deep mauve, red and green ribbon (!); detachable white lingerie collars and cuffs on dark gowns; petalled taffeta trimming on the sleeves and yoke of another model; 'cartridge' trimming on the shoulders and back of a trimly severe navy and white printed crepe that had high accents in red glass buttons trimming the front, and red hat, purse, belt and bracelet; these were new items in the mode, as displayed in the pretty gowns.

The evening frocks were lovely, and formed a pretty tableau for the closing. They included a soft sky blue of youthful type, with a double peplum to the skirt and double frills over the shoulders, which were adorned by knots of French flowers. There were floating Grecian draperies and softly flowing chiffons to several of the models; a bright apple green with wide gold girdle; a dusk blue with wide bertha-like collar, worn with pearl-encrusted hair ornaments and bracelet; a dark navy blue velvet; a tan lace encrused with beige flowers, and a beautiful chiffon of ombre tints shading from beige to brown, with floating cape collar.

The Beauty of Simple Things

Expert Amateur Exhibits His Fine Work In Pictorial Photography

"Pictorial Photography" was the subject of a delightfully informal talk given on Friday afternoon to the members of the Lyceum Club and Women's Art Association, meeting in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., with the president, Mrs. F. Hooper, in the chair, when J. H. Mackay of Toronto came down to pinch-hit for the scheduled speaker of the afternoon, Leonard Hutchinson, and brought to the ladies a glimpse of some beautiful photographic work, the result of a hobby pursued by Mr. Mackay, who declared himself as being non-professional.

These large and striking photographic prints which have been exhibited with acclaim in Paris, London, Vienna, Australia and in most of the large centres of the United States, illustrate the touch of genius which can find, and immortalize, the beauty in everyday things. They were for the most part landscape and interior scenes, with several 'pattern' pictures and one quaint portrait study of Mr. Mackay's aunt, sitting in a sunny window with old-fashioned lace curtains and geraniums as a background. There were photographs of such well-known places as the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, taken from a vantage point which obscured much of its mean surroundings and glorified it "almost like an old-world castle"; of the Canada Life building on University avenue, Toronto, and the South African monument nearby; of Eaton's Round Room; of the Log Chateau at the Seigniory Club in Quebec; of a large fish-net strung over an old wharf; of dark-toned, cumulous clouds; of a paper-weight sitting on the floor of a bedroom (an ordinary bit that was glorified by the treatment); of April ice on new buds in a garden. And one outstanding example was just a photograph of a building as reflected across the road in a large plate-glass window.

One and all, they illustrated well Mr. Mackay's assertion that "very simple things can be worked into beautiful compositions if we can but see them in the right way."

The faculty of looking for pictures everywhere and the necessity of constant study of the subject, its mood and the story it portrays, was emphasized as a paramount habit of the photographer who aims to find subjects for his art. The tone quality should also be considered, declared Mr. Mackay, "whether it be rich and warm, light and cool, strong and bold, or subdued."

High Key for Children

Pictures of children, he asserted, should always be in a high key, with plenty of light and luminosity in the photograph, whereas a low, or darker, key, was suitable for more sombre subjects.

"Most of us come constantly in contact with beautiful stories and moods that we cannot see. Photography has brought happiness to those who are able to see that beauty and find in it a medium whereby they may portray what they see."

Three elements are necessary in successful photographic reproduction; the selection of the beautiful mood or story, the proper composition of the elements of the picture, the selection of the most appropriate process, material or technique. The whole should embody the photographer's re-action to the beauty of the story or mood, so that the onlooker may be able to experience a similar reaction.

"It is harder for a photographer to make a beautiful picture than it is for a painter," Mr. Mackay asserted, "because a painter my pick and choose what he wishes to discard from his painting, while a photographer cannot do that."

To make beautiful pictures, one must always be looking for them. Mr. Mackay said that the elusive thing called "pictorial sense" was even rarer than "common sense," which he remarked was the most "uncommon" thing in the world.

Mr. Mackay brought with him a large collection of beautiful photographs, many of which he described in detail, placing them on an easel.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid medicine for bad winter coughs. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is a very effective, dependable, quick-acting cough remedy for the whole family. Quickly, you feel its penetrating effect in the air passages. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You'll be more than delighted with its quick effect in clearing up bad coughs.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Red Cross Has 170 Registerng Home Nursied

Seven Home Nursing Classes Under Able Instructresses Organized

WESTERN EFFORT

At the February meeting of the local Red Cross Society, the reports from the various committees showed that the work of the branch is being actively carried on.

Seven Home Nursing classes with a total registration of 170 have been organized by the convenor, Mrs. Walter Perks and her committee. These classes which will continue for 12 weeks are in charge of the following graduate nurses, Miss McBrien, Mrs. F. Lynch, Mrs. Max Sloan, Mrs. DeForge, Miss F. Vickers, Miss Russell and Miss Marion Lauder. Various doctors have agreed to give lectures to the classes throughout the course and the first of these by Dr. G. Murray Fraser on "Communicable Diseases" is scheduled for this week.

Eleven families since the beginning of the year have been served by the visiting housekeeper, whose work has been particularly appreciated recently where the wife and mother has been sick with the flu.

Western Relief

A letter from Col. W. F. Marshall, Commissioner of the Saskatchewan Division of the Red Cross Society, acknowledged with sincere gratitude the gifts sent from Peterborough in answer to an appeal for the western drought sufferers, contains the following paragraphs of general interest.

"Our appreciation of your branch's six cartons of useful and appropriate goods is sincerely felt, though poorly expressed. Every article was useful and we thank you and all friends for your sympathy for our people and your successful effort in aiding them.

"I can assure all that thousands of farms and village homes are more comfortable than for two or three winters and that the outlook on life is brighter because you have thought and cared and helped."

Dr. F. W. Routley, in a letter received by the local branch, also expressed his appreciation that, despite the many other appeals in Ontario, there was raised in this province for the Western fund a total of $115,278.29 in cash, that in addition to this amount somewhere between $50,000 and $75,000 worth of goods were contributed by textile firms and 5,381 blankets and quilts were sent by Red Cross branches and other organizations. These contributions have meant not only the relief of much distress but also a change in attitude of the people of the West toward their fellow-Canadians in the East.

It was with regret that the members of the executive learned of the recent serious illness of N. R. Vinton, field organizer of the Ontario division, whose active interest in our local Red Cross work has gained for him very many warm friends in Peterborough.

Weddings

THORN—MATCHETT

The wedding took place on Thursday afternoon, February 18th, at the parsonage of Mark street United Church, of Marion J. Matchett, daughter of Mrs. Matchett and the late J. Matchett of Otonabee, and T. Walter Thorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thorn, also of Otonabee. The Rev. E. W. Rowland officiated.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Clark.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Thorn left by motor for a trip to Ottawa and points east. On their return, they will live in Otonabee.

TORONTO—Girls in school biology classes are almost sickened by being "put in laboratories to cut up dead creatures," Frank J. A. Morris, Peterborough, declared before the Ontario naturalists. Schools, he said, laid emphasis on the wrong side of science.

Mendelssohn Choir Composed Of Persons From Many Callings

Annually Draws New Members From The Junior Choir

IN FORTIETH YEAR

The Toronto Mendelssohn Choir enjoys an enviable reputation for its excellent choral performances in Canada and the United States, and ranks as the outstanding choral society on the continent, but what of the 220 men and women who compose its ranks?

The Examiner asked this question of F. H. McVity and A. W. Hutchison, both of Toronto, who were in the city recently completing arrangements for the visit here of this outstanding group under the auspices of the Men's Club of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church next month.

"Memberships of the choir is drawn from all walks of life," Mr. Hutchison, chairman of the Choir Committee declared. "It is a most democratic organization made up of plumbers, carpenters, merchants, stenographers, lawyers and unemployed, to name but a few."

"Yes," Mr. McVity, chairman of the Choir agreed, " and we have never known anyone leave the choir because they have become fed up with it. Changes in the personnel have always been due to circumstances over which the individual had no control."

In its fortieth active year the choir has had thousands of singers pass through its ranks. The directors of the organization adopt the policy of disbanding the choir each year and they accept back into membership only those who can maintain the high standard of vocal perfection required.

Both Mr. McVity and Mr. Hutchison are singing members of the choir (as indeed are all the directors). The former has been a member for twenty-two years, but Mr. Hutchison can go him eight years better than that with an active association extending over a period of thirty years.

The only original member of the choir still actively engaged with it, is Owen Staples, prominent Toronto artist. Incidentally he also has the distinction of being the oldest member of the organization.

There is a Junior Mendelssohn Choir which acts in the nature of a "feeder" for the senior organization, so that new blood is constantly being infused as a means of maintaining the high standards to which the choir under the baton of Dr. H. A. Fricker has attained.

Prior to the visit of the famed Mendelssohn Choir to Peterborough it will join forces with Toronto Symphony Orchestra in a concert to be given at Massey Hall on March 2. The program is to include two outstanding compositions in symphonic and choral repertoire. The orchestral work is to be Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 6 (the Pathetique) and for chorus and orchestra, William Walton's "Belshazzar's Feast", which was given a very successful first performance in Toronto last season.

SCHOOL TALENT

The first of a series of entertainments to be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings as part of the morning assembly exercises were staged this week.

Allen Brown of 4A academic started the ball rolling with a violin solo. He played the well-known composition of Franz Lehar, "Frasquita." Edna Borland accompanied him at the piano.

Wednesday morning Olga Westbye, one of the leading characters in the P.C.V.S. operetta, favoured the student body with a solo entitled "The Bailiff's Daughter of Islington." Merrill Smith was the accompanist. Friday morning the two musical Hooper brothers, John and Fred, played as a piano duet the introduction to Act III of "Lohengrin" by Wagner.

MORE ABOUT UNIFORMS

It appears that the school is definitely to follow the lead of the British army and smarten up the appearance of its cadet corps. Possibly the same British object of winning more recruits with flashier uniforms is in mind but, at any rate, action is to be taken.

As far as funds will allow, the old khaki ensembles are to be dyed navy blue. The tunics will be trimmed with garnet stripes. Only a portion of the corps will be afforded the renovated outfits this year. Blue tunics with red lapels and grey or white trousers are to be provided the officers.

TICKET CONTEST

L. M. Richardson announced from the assembly hall platform Tuesday morning that March 4 and 5 were the official dates for the P.C.S.V. operetta. A contest will be held in connection with the ticket selling campaign. A prize will be awarded to the form representative who sells the most tickets and to each of ten individual pupils in the school for their work in the campaign. The nature of the prizes has not been decided upon yet but will likely be left to the discretion of the contest winners.

Mr. Richardson explained that the object of the Literary Society in sponsoring an operetta was to give the pupils a training in singing and acting and to provide revenue for aiding the various school groups financially.

Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock the student body witnessed the House of Magic demonstration in the auditorium sponsored by the General Electric Company. V. R. Henry introduced the speaker and told of the famed research laboratories of the General Electric plant in Schnectady.

SCHOOL STATIONERY

The students of P.C.V.S. are to have a distinctive school stationery on which to write letters to their distant aunts, uncles, cousins and friends in the future. The Students Council canvassed the school on Thursday to find out whether the student body would like to have school stationery. The result showed a large majority in the affirmative. The note paper is regular folded sheet size with the school crest at the top of the page and garnet and grey stripes in the upper right hand corner.

GIRLS TRIUMPH

The senior girls' basketball team played an exhibition game in Lindsay Tuesday afternoon. They defeated the L.C.I. squad 34-19, scattering their counters well through the game. They scored 15 points in the first half and 10 in the second.

Mary McPherson was the leading sharpshooter for P.C.V.S., collecting 19 points. Jean Carley was high scorer for L.C.I. with 11 points. The P.C.V.S. squad included the following: Margaret Lundy, Ruth Ellis, Mary McPherson, Marion Juby, Wilda Saunders, Jean Fowler, Joan Ottewell, Peggy Lawless, Doris Glover, Linden Reed and Mabel Wray. The L.C.I. team was chosen from: Jean Bawbey, Barbara Tillcock, Lois Green, Jean Carley, Kay Richards, G. Milburne, G. Massalis, M. Mackey and Jean Hall.

P.C.V.S. ALUMNI

While thumbing through some of the old P.C.V.S. Echoes many illustrious former pupils are recalled to memory. Among many alumni of note for their accomplishments during their P.C.V.S. days and since graduation are Ernest Legon and Harry Ebbs, for example.

Harry Ebbs graduated from P.C.V.S. in 1926. After studying medicine at the University of Toronto he spent some time in Toronto and New York hospitals. He later went to England and is now Senior Pathologist in the Children's Hospital at Birmingham. While attending P.C.V.S. he won the Princeps Alumnus prize the second year it was given.

Ernest Legon, better known around the school as "Red" is another of those whose record has been interesting. After graduating from P.C.V.S., he attended Queen's University at Kingston. In 1928 he accepted a position on the teaching staff of the P.C.V.S. As a student here he was the star of many rugby and hockey matches. Later, as a member of the staff and coach, he turned out several championship gridiron squads.

At the beginning of the 1936 school year he accepted a position on the teaching staff of the Ottawa Collegiate.

ODDS AND ENDS

This week the Camera Club has had on display in its show case numerous snapshots taken by the members.

FIRST SEASON OF ORCHESTRA IS CONCLUDED

Splendid Concert In Collegiate Auditorium Further Proof Of Quality

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM

The Peterborough Orchestral Society concluded its first season of three concerts with an exceedingly attractive program in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute Friday night.

Charles Shaw, chairman, announced that this was the final concert of the season and his congratulatory comment upon the success of this organization which has been developed by its conductor, W. Harry Prevey, intimated that it would resume next fall the orchestral enterprise which has been so well begun during the present winter.

The orchestra played splendidly Friday night to a rather large assembly whose appreciation of the quality of the music was shown by the spirited applause and the rapt attention that was given to every number and the concluding National Anthem.

Mr. Prevey has been fortunate in bringing together a competent group of twenty-five musicians in this day of disembodied music that floats through the air too easily for the good of so many young people who have ample talent to become instrumentalists themselves. Twice that number of men and women of equal ability would give Peterborough an excellent band, adding more depth and opulence of tonal color to the quality which has been already. And that is only a wish, not a criticism.

The overture to Coriolanus by Beethoven was in some respects the most interesting feature of the program. It demonstrated the orchestra's sensitiveness to contrasting moods, power in building up dynamic climaxes, personifying the central figure and idea of the drama, and a persuasive change of sentiment in their dissolution expressed in the score by a lovely melody which is repeated in the strings alone and in turn by the wind section. Thematic values were eloquently revealed by the orchestra all through this overture.

Four excerpts from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne" were familiar to the audience, especially the sentimental adagietto and the equally well-known sprightly measures of the minuet.

The first and fourth Hungarian dances by Brahms gave Mr Prevey an opportunity to display his feeling for rhythm, and his band was a sheer delight in these old favorites. From that atmosphere of the frankly lilting folk song, the program changed to the selections from "Countess Maritza" by Kalman, compact of the charming melody of popular light opera; turned back to the earlier selections from "The Mikado" and concluded with the pleasingly imitative rhythm of the Light Cavalry overture by Von Suppe.

The orchestra was assisted by a vocal octette composed of Miss Jessie Pattison, Nina Hepburn, Isobel Duthie, Marion Ralston, Arthur Phillips, Douglas Weir, Harry Flowers and W. F. Skitch. They sang four numbers: "The Music of Life" by Noble Cain, "The Long Day Closes" and a madrigal from The Mikado by Arthur Sullivan, and "Come to the Fair." The harmony of this group of vocalists was a pleasing note in the program, and the smoothness of their singing deserved the encore which was sought by the audience.

As for the orchestra, it is sincerely to be hoped that they fully intend to continue their work next season, if indeed they are unable to arrange for another concert before Spring expands into the long evenings. Every section of the band deserves special commendation for the co-operation they have given Mr. Prevey. In the subjective field of music their presentation of the Coriolanus overture was vivid, fluent and impressively convincing. They evoked the elements of that drama in so far as the overture suggested them, and in such details of quality as precision, clarity, harmony, and soloist ability they have amply proved the progress they have made in one brief season.

And how in the lighter field they spun beauty of tone from the song hits of "Countess Maritza" and then pepped up the rhythm after the manner of dance bands. It was charming musical fun that would have been welcomed in the best dance hall.

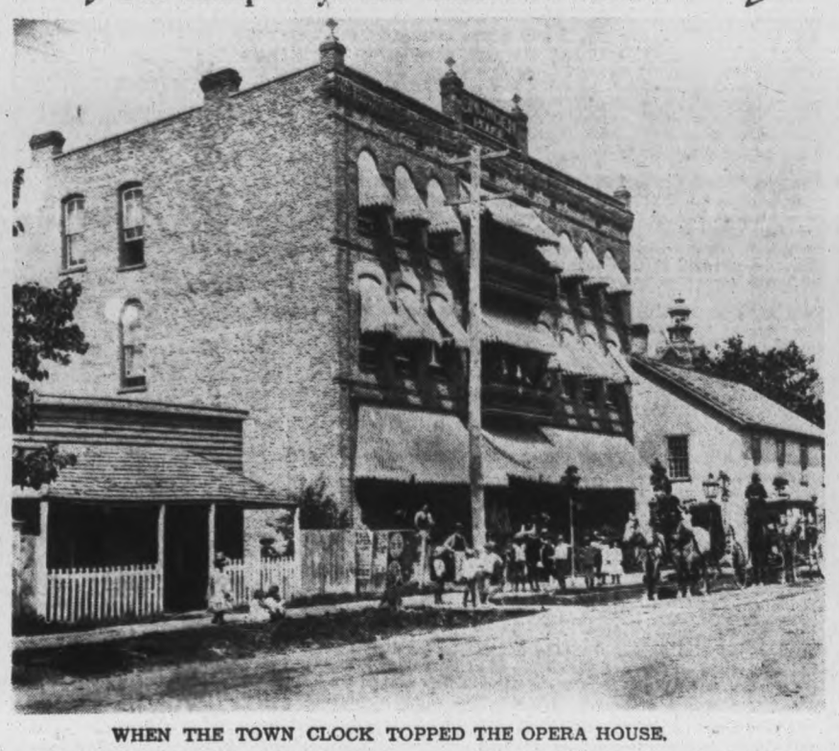
Violins—Mrs. E. M. Foster, leader, Mrs. P. Hooper, C. Searles, R. Huggins, G. Lawson, H. McDonald, J. Murphy, J. McMillan, B. Wardle, Miss A. McLeod, Miss A. Herd, Mr. S. Clarke.
Viola—C. Gallagher.
Cello—T. Smith, J. Thackeray.
Bass—F. Skitch.
Clarinets—W. Townsend, Miss M. Foster.
Bassoon—F. Hulky.
Cornets—W. Stuart, J. Minicola.
Horn—H. Parnell.
Trombone—R. Wilson.
Tuba—E. Patterson.
Percussion—Mr. S. Smith.
Piano—Miss F. Gladman.

Gas Lamp Days On Charlotte Street



WHEN THE TOWN CLOCK TOPPED THE OPERA HOUSE.

The central building in this old photograph taken by the late R. M. Roy was the late William Snowden's hotel, the Snowden House, now incorporated in the Charlbond Apartments on the north side of Charlotte street. It was built on ground that was once used as a lumber piling ground by the founder of the English Canoe Company whose factory was the white rough cast building on the right of the picture, and east of the lane that once led into the yard at the rear of the hotel. The canoe factory was erected over the creek. To the west of the hotel and at the left of the picture was the home of George Irwin, father of George Irwin, barber, still in business on Charlotte street.

W. F. Green and William J. Lundy both identified the buildings in this photograph, and called attention to the gas lamp in front of the hotel. They expressed the opinion that possibly the man in the gray suit and straw hat beside the telegraph post was Frank Clark in his younger days; and it may be that among the children in the picture may be one or more citizens who remember the summer day of years ago when this picture was taken.

The hotel bus and the horse-drawn cab were typical vehicles of those days when the town's sidewalks were of wood and Charlotte Street was macadam or 'dirt" surface.

ICE HARVEST IS IN FULL SWING ON TRENT CANAL

5,000 Blocks Of Ice a Day Are Being Harvested By Allin Company

NEED 70,000 BLOCKS

Ice that is being put in storage against the torrid months that lie ahead is being trucked into the city at the rate of over 5,000 blocks a day.

Of splendid quality and averaging a thickness of seventeen inches the ice is being cut on a section of the picturesque Trent Canal in the vicinity of Peterborough golf links.

The Allin Ice Company who are figuring on taking out from 60,000 to 70,000 blocks for storage at their Townsend Street warehouse within the next couple of weeks, have the major share of the operations. Ice is also being cut by Edward J. Nichols.

John F. Allin, proprietor of The Allin Ice Company told a reporter, he has 60 to 75 men employed on ice harvesting work. This number includes the gang of truckers, who working in a steady relay, are bringing in the ice as fast as it is cut at the rate of approximately 500 tons per day.

The thickness and strength of the ice on the canal, where some of the best skating in years has been enjoyed this winter, is attested by the fact that heavy laden motor trucks are steadily pounding backwards and forwards over a section of the frozen surface each day, while there is a team of horses and a scraper employed near the scene of the actual cutting operations, in addition to the heavy equipment that is rigged up on the ice for facilitating loading of the trucks.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, February 21

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a most encouraging one for religious, philanthropical, mystical and social activities, with more stressed in these directions than in every-day lines. Social functions and contacts with those in high places are in order. Lively companionship, courtship and romance may be expected.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of rather intriguing or singular adventures and experiences. The social, romantic, and purely personal may take precedence above worldly affairs, but these will increase the prestige and standing by contacts with important personages.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and talented, with leanings toward high position and social prestige, on which it may be inclined to squander unless properly directed in youth.

For Monday, February 22.

A VERY lively and enterprising day is the augury based on interesting lunar and mutual aspects of the planets. The forces and faculties will be stimulated to high achievements, not only in the launching of new projects but in pushing personal, social or financial prestige.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of great enterprise and promise of practical and constructive achievement. The energies and spirit of initiative will be under excellent stimuli for advancement, with fine reactions on social and business prestige.

A child born on this day may be active, enterprising and have fine initiative in creative lines. It may attract support and endorsement for its constructive work, to which a fair fortune will attest.

EUROPE BE OUSTED FROM NEAR EAST WITHIN FEW YEARS

Professor Of Oriental Languages Of Toronto University Gives Lecture In Y.M.C.A.

BE NO COMPROMISES

European countries will be ousted from the Near East within the next few years, Dr. T. J. Meek, professor of Oriental languages at University College, University of Toronto, predicted at a Friday Night Supper Club extension lecture in the Y.M.C.A. last evening. Recent footholds gained by pan-Islamic followers will lead to increased demands for complete isolation which will have to be satisfied, he declared.

The speaker claimed that the movement, general throughout the entire near Eastern countries, included in its numbers nearly every native of each of the Near East countries. At its strongest in Egypt where its members he claimed, were responsible for the riots of the past two years, a compromise treaty was signed last Fall with the British government by which many demands were granted, he related.

No Compromise

"The only reason the Wafdists, most bitter in the movement, accepted any compromise was because of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia," he said. "They had on two previous occasions refused to accept any compromise but they felt the Italian menace and preferred British domination to Italian."

"The movement is anti-European and anti-Christian," he said. He claimed it had been brought into existence by the entry of European countries into the near East after the war. "The Arabs have been prominently urging independence since the war. They had been promised independence by Col. T. E. Lawrence during the war, and felt the Allies did not live up to those promises. Indeed, Col. Lawrence felt so himself, and I believe it was one of the factors which led to his death."

Move Gaining

In every country in which the pan-Islamic movement has been active, it has gained most of its objectives, with the exception of Palestine, Professor Meek said. He said the movement was certain of success in a short time.

The speaker denied there was any possibility of a general war breaking out in the near East. Spheres of influence of the different European countries are distinctly marked out, and no contention over boundaries is possible, he stated. He admitted Germany and France might tangle in Morocco but added that at present there was little danger there.

One Of City's Oldest Houses

The house in the above picture has been the home of William Thompson, 84-year-old Ashburnham resident for over seventy-six years. Situated at 170 Hazlitt street the house was originally built as the residence of the late William Orde's coachman. Mr. Orde, a prominent resident of Ashburnham Village in the early days lived in an imposing house on the busy banks of the Otonabee River, which was burned down when Mr. Thompson was a lad.

VILLAGE ASSESSOR

William H. Thompson aged resident of this city lays claim to the distinction of having lived in one house for over seventy-six years. It is a record which must be hard to beat.

With his parents the late William Thompson and Ann McNairn, he moved into the house where he is still living at 107 Hazlitt street in May 1860.

Although he was a mere lad when he first moved into Ashburnham from his native Douro Township, Mr. Thompson has a good memory notwithstanding the fact he is now in his eighty-fourth year.

In conversation with a reporter he recalled that the house in which he is now living was originally the coach house to the imposing residence of the late William Orde which was located on the east bank of the busy Otonabee River near the end of Hazlitt street.

Biggest In Ashburnham

The Orde residence, Mr. Thompson recalled was the biggest house in Ashburnham Village at that time. It was a big clapboard structure, to quote the old gentleman's description, and was flanked on each side by spacious verandahs.

It was burned to the ground four or five years after Mr. Thompson and his parents first came to Ashburnham, after which the old coach house was made into a double dwelling house, subsequently to be converted back to a single dwelling house as it is today.

Mr. Thompson went to the little schoolhouse that was located on Mark street just north of Hunter street, where his first teacher was a Mr. McDougall who was succeeded by James Stratton, Sr., father of the late James R. Stratton one time proprietor of The Examiner.

At that time of course the village was sparsely populated by comparison with the growth it has experienced since, and the Orde residence and the adjoining coach house were among the first properties to exist in that particular section of the municipality.

Among some of his old school mates who are still living, Mr. Thompson mentioned Frank Adams, former city treasurer; Mrs. John Butcher, Mrs. James Gillespie, Miss Annie Swanston and William Swanston.

At the age of fourteen years, Mr. Thompson put away his school books and went to work at the Auburn Mills. For over sixty years he worked in the dye department, only retiring from the service of the company four years ago when failing health made it imperative for him to take life a little easier.

Village Assessor

As a spare time job he was assessor for the municipality of the Village of Ashburnham for a number of years, and when Ashburnham became united with Peterborough thirty-three years ago, he acted in a similar capacity for the city for a period of two years.

During the greater part of his lifetime, Mr. Thompson has been a subscriber to The Examiner and still reads it daily to keep informed as to the progress that is constantly being made. He is one who believes firmly in the future of Peterborough having seen it grow from a small and prosperous lumbering centre into a thriving modern city.

An editorial in The Examiner recently noted the fact that Mrs. Harry Chapman of Mitchell, Ont., had lived on the same street for seventy-two years, and is quoted as saying, "We will refer to it as a record until we hear of something which exceeds it."

Similarly it might be stated, Mr. Thompson has established a new claim which may be referred to as a record until someone else comes along with anything that can excel it.

STOPS ICE-CUTTING

The mild weather has resulted in a temporary stop in ice-cutting operations on the canal today.

DUCKS FLY NORTH.

Another sign that spring is not far off is reported by Wilfrid F. Huyoke, K.C., who states that on Thursday evening he noticed three flocks of wild ducks of the whistler variety flying north within a few minutes of each other with the third flock composed of at least fifty birds.

MADRIGALS IN TORONTO

The Peterborough Madrigal Singers under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park' are giving a concert in Toronto tonight and with a special rate prevailing on the C.P.R. a large number of Peterborough people left for the Queen City this morning. It is expected there will be another sizable contingent on the afternoon train.

WINNERS OF DRAW

The result of the drawing of the tickets sold by the Athletic Association of St. Peter's School was as follows: First prize, $500, won by Miss J. Mahoney, 525 Patterson street with ticket No. 1074; second prize, $2.00, won by Mr. F. J. Lasure, 320 Charlotte street, with ticket No. 184; third prize, $2.00, won by Mr. Vincent McIntyre, 228 McDonnell street, with ticket No. 973; fourth prize, $1.00, won by Mrs. J. Vollans, 468 Bolivar street, with ticket No. 870.

COUNTERFEIT MONEY

A number of counterfeit half dollars are in circulation in the city. Several have already been discovered by bank tellers but it is thought likely others are being passed around through unsuspecting hands. The coins are the work of counterfeiting experts for the designs are perfect. The coins lack, however, milling on the edges and have a tell-tale feel of greasiness. When rubbed against a piece of paper they leave a black mark.

MESSAGES OF REGRET.

Messages expressing deep regret at the passing of Perry J. Giffen have been received from many quarters, among those who have forwarded their expressions of sorrow being L. MacKay of the contract department of the Montreal agency of A. McKim, Limited, V. W. Gerrish, managing director of Reciprocal Managers, Limited, Toronto, and Fred W. Forster of the Monotype Company of Canada, and Walter and John Barringer of Millbrook, former employees of The Examiner.

MET BROTHER AT GAME.

Fred T. Collins, local representative of the Monarch Life Insurance Company was one of a party of Peterborough fans in attendance at the Detroit Red Wings-Toronto Maple Leafs game in Toronto on Thursday night and turning around shortly after play started to speak to the man in the seat behind him, found that it was none other than his brother, Harold from Vancouver, down east on a business trip. There are over 13,000 seats in the Maple Leaf gardens so the mathematicians can figure out just what the chances of two brothers meeting in this way

MESS BEING RENOVATED.

The officers' mess at the Armouries, where hospitality was always extended in liberal manner to the many visitors who went there as guests of The Peterborough Rangers during its long and honorable record, is undergoing extensive renovation. It is being completely remodelled and redecorated to meet the needs of the Prince of Wales Peterborough Regiment (the new unit recently created out of the amalgamation of Peterborough Rangers, Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons and the Machine Gun Company). Present indications are that the result of the work being done by government contractors will be most pleasing.

SAP STARTING TO RUN

Maple syrup from sugar trees in the Peterborough district will likely be on the market within the next few days, farmers report. None was offered on the Farmers Market today but farmers report the sap has now begun to run in their trees. "I cut a limb off one of my trees this week and the sap is running in good quantity," one commented. "If we are going to get any syrup crop at all this year I guess it will have to be now." Trees are not usually tapped in this district until the first or second week in March.

WORLD'S HOCKEY TITLE TOSS-UP ENGLAND, CANADA

INTO SECOND ROUND

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(CP).—Results of three days' play in the first round of the world's hockey championship made it appear inevitable to-day that the title will be settled when Canada and England clash next week.

Both Kimberley Dynamiters, representing Canada, and the Canadian-trained players wearing the blue and white of England, went through the first round undefeated, untied and unthreatened.

Canada scored its third victory last night 9-0 over Sweden. It was added to previous wins over France 12-0 and Poland, 8-2. England's record was equally impressive. They swamped Rumania 11-0 yesterday, and earlier defeated Germany 6-0 and Hungary 7-0.

In other games last night Poland defeated France 7-1 while Germany drew with Hungary 2-2 and Switzerland tied with Czechoslovakia, also 2-2. Both games went 20 minutes overtime.

Three winless teams, Roumania, Norway and Sweden, were dropped before the eight survivors enter the second round to-night.

In the second round England, Switzerland, Germany and France make up pool "A" while Canada joins with Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland in pool "B." Each team will play each other team in its pool once, after which the two teams from each pool with the best showing will make up the four teams to contest the final round.

Play Czechs To-night.

To-night Canada will meet Czechoslovakia; England plays Switzerland; Germany opposes France and Hungary faces Poland.

The Dynamiters were reinforced last night by a former comrade, Jack Forsey of Calgary, who played with the British Columbians last year when they won the Allan Cup but has campaigned this season with the Earl's Court Rangers in the English National League. He scored a goal.

Bill Burnett, defence, and Fred Botterill, forward, each scored three goals. Ralph Redding and George Goble got the others.

For England, as Moncton's Jimmy Foster was scoring his third straight shutout, Alex Archer of Winnipeg scored three goals; Norman McQuade, Winnipeg, Gerry Davey, Port Arthur, and Edgar Brenchley, Niagara Falls, each scored twice and Gordon Dailley, Winnipeg, and Paul McPhail, Montreal, added singles.

50 CASES OF FLU.

SIMCOE, Ont., Feb. 20 (C.P.). — Dr. S. S. English, M.O.H., has received reports of 50 cases of influenza in Simcoe, two cases of measles and one of scarlet fever.

The mild changeable weather has forced many to go on the sick list and many more are suffering from severe colds.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS

Ski-ing

By Charles Schaer

Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

48—SNOWPLOW TURN

As the name implies this turn is made in the double-stemming or snowplow position. It is inherently a low speed turn but its mastery should not be neglected on that account because it introduces the principle of weight shifting which is used in other turns.

It will be found beneficial to practise the weight shifting movements on the level while stationary. Assume the snowplow position, keeping the ankles normal. Transfer the weight to the right ski by swinging the hips around, keeping the right knee thrust well forward. The left knee will straighten out somewhat but keep the heel down on the ski. At the same time turn the shoulders to the left, that is, right shoulder forward and left shoulder back. When in motion this weight shift to the right ski will result in a turn to the left and the turning of the shoulders faces one in the direction of the turn as well as aiding the hip swing. Reverse the movements, transferring weight to the left ski. Repeat until you get the feel of the weight shifting.

Now try it on a gentle slope with, preferably, a smooth, fairly hard surface. Here it will probably be necessary to keep the skis flat instead of normally edged in order to slide better. As soon as you are nicely in motion, in the snowplow position, figure 1, transfer the weight to the right ski, figure 2. You will begin to turn to the left, figure 3, and care must be taken to hold the skis at a constant angle to each other during the complete turn. When you have reached a position where the right foot is downhill from the left, the tendency will be to straighten the right knee but this must not be done. You will continue to turn until you are facing across the hill when you will stop.

Practise both right and left turns to a stop and when moderately proficient try them alternately without stopping until you can run down the slope in a succession of turns.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

THREE BASKETBALL games are slated for the Y.M.C.A. gym this e'en. First one is a Senior City League fixture between St. Paul's and P.C.I. at 7.30; next one is an exhibition girls' game betwixt Toronto Alerts and our senior Westclox squad at 8.30; and the nightcap sees C.G.E. meeting Dominion Life at 9.15 in a Senior Loop affair. All should be lively tussles and the "Y" balcony will no doubt be creaking under the weight of a big crowd of fans. The usual weekly dawnce follows the last game. With hockey on the wane, the cage contests are drawing more and more attention.

* * * * * *

YESTERDAY WE had a letter from "Chic" Lee—a son of Knotty Lee, baseball coach. This "Chic" chap manages the Toronto Alerts' girls' cage squad. He says this is the first of a series of exhibition tilts the Toronto lasses have lined up in various Ontario cities. He figures it should be an interesting exhibition and will give a line on the comparative strength of girls' cage teams in Toronto and Peterborough. But to quote from him in part:

* * * * * *

"THE ALERT girls have a smart lineup including several who are well-known. Kay Ferguson, Margaret Taylor, Thelma McRae, Irene McGee, Jean Taylor, Bernice McRae, Margaret MacDonald, Evelyn Gordon, Audrey Burns and Margaret Dewar. Most of these girls are also star softball players for the Lakeside Ladies who are senior Ontario champions. And several belong to the Alert girls' softball squad, one of the best known teams in the Province." We recognize some of the names as cage, softball or swimming stars in Toronto. By the way, we just wonder in passing if "Chic" Lee also manages a girls' softball team—and what his dad, a militant opponent to the short diamond game, thinks about it, if so!

* * * * * *

ON THE opposite page of this paper appears an outline of hockey history in Peterborough. It was written by W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A., and appears this week in the program which is sold at hockey games in the Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens. It makes interesting reading, especially for the oldtimers. And it proves to the younger generation that this city has won many puck titles. Also, who would have thought that a Peterborough man started that under-20-by-Jan.-1st rule for junior O.H.A. players?

* * * * * *

CHURCH HOCKEY League is rapidly drawing toward a close here. Monday night sees several playoff games at All Saints' rink. At six, George St. and Park St. meet in the second of the bantam finals; it's St. Paul's vs. Mark St. in a juvenile semi-final at seven; while at 8.30 All Saints and Murray St. clash in the second of the senior finals. This large league has waded through a flock of games in the past six or seven weeks, some of the tussles having to be "waded" through on soft ice. But the end is in sight now and the finalists are battling hard to put the clutch on the coveted silverware. Other minor circuits around town are readying up for the playoffs, too. Hockey generally winds up here about the end of February, or early in March.

* * * * * *

TRENTON FLIERS bombed the Toronto Pontiacs right out of the O.H.A. picture last p.m. in Belleville, winning the second game by a 5-0 count and the round 7 to 2. This restores our faith in the R.C.A.F. crew as we figured they shouldn't have much trouble with that packed T.H.L. team, but the 2-2 tie had us a bit worried in the first game. The Petes' conquerors should zoom quite a distance in the Ontario playdowns and mayhap go all the way through. The Pontiacs' manager told the Quinte writer the other day that he had 10 more players signed besides the full squad that met the Fliers in the first game there. He said the reason Bunny Morgansen of The Telegram was riding his squad so hard to the O.H.A. for playing in Lindsay was because the Pontiacs had eliminated the Telys early this season.

* * * * * *

DOWN IN Whitby last eve, the Kingston Red Indians lost a 3-2 junior playdown game to Whitby but won the O.H.A. round by a 7-5 score. The Whitby crew had four or five of last year's Port Perry juniors aboard and made it a battle, Dafoe getting two and Vipond one goal. We imagine the local Colts will be drawn against the Kingstons next week in playdowns but, at this writing, have heard nothing definite. Kingston eliminated our junior lads last year and another series this season should be a dandy scrap. They have a huge sheet of artificial ice down there, which won't exactly help the young Petes, but neither will our smaller natural-ice surface be a break for the Limestone City kids.

* * * * * *

THERE WAS a lot of common sense to the remarks the other night of a baseball officer at the senior club meeting here. He said: "Merchants in Peterborough kick about weekend excursions and trips that take people out of town but if you were to ask these merchants for five dollars apiece toward having a real senior ball team in Peterborough, playing before big crowds of city and district fans here every Saturday through the summer, you wouldn't get to first base. They'd refuse to contribute a thing." It's a known fact that when there isn't a senior ball game here on a summer Saturday, plenty of ball fans motor out of town up the lakes or to Cobourg or Toronto or somewhere. While a game here draws folks to Peterborough from all over the district and from places like Lindsay, Port Hope, etc. They generally spend some dough, too, before leaving.

* * * * * *

UP AND down Sports' Rialto: Tommy Munns in the a.m. paper gives Lakefield Grove puck team quite a boost for beating Pickering Collitch, St. Andrew's, Ashbury College of Ottawa and Lower Canada College . . . . Hugh Brennan, hard-hitting Napanee catcher, will play ball for Kirkland Lake this summer . . . . Three good cage contests in the Ladies Basketball League were run off last e'en . . . . Senior City Puck Loop tilts at the Brock Monday: Outboard Marines vs. Bewdley at seven, Mayfairs vs. Millbrook at eight, Westclox vs. Lakefield at nine . . . . Paper went to press early and we couldn't get all the dope on the P.C.I. cage tilts in Cobourg last night . . . . All the Colts are in good trim and rarin' to get into the O.H.A. playdowns . . . . The Lindsay writers say our Kadunks put up a good scrap 'gainst Oshawa in the Fenelon Falls' tourney but were outclassed . . . . Got to chop it off here.

Would End Fiddling About Centre Ice For Long, Tiresome Minutes

FORCE DEFENCE BACK

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (CP) — A new suggestion for eliminating the frequent spells of close mid-ice checking; which adversely effect some National Hockey League matches from a spectator's viewpoint, was offered today by Clem Loughlin, coach of Chicago Black Hawks.

Spacing of blue-lines no more than 30-feet apart is the method by which the soft-spoken Winnipegger believes that fiddling about centre ice for minutes on end could be completely ousted from the game.

This, he claimed, is a less drastic plan than the single-stripe idea advocated by Frankie Boucher of New York Rangers and more effective than the curved lines sponsored by the same player.

The closely aligned stripes, Loughlin said, would necessitate defence men dropping back at least 10-feet from the position they now take when preparing to halt a thrust by their opponents. Consequently the attackers would have a far better chance of getting the puck over the blue-line without being called back for offside as is now so often the case when the defencemen manage to make the puck-carrier hesitate and his wings skid over.

Players and coaches have caught up with the rules now, the Black Hawk mentor explained. The purpose for which the wide-spaced stripes were originally put into the game has been nullified by defensive strategy and unless something is done in a year or so, he predicted, the whistle-blowing and tight checking will result in the game deteriorating to some extent.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Thursday night, being an off-night, we thought we would go up to the Brock street rink and see Mr. Buckland's boys do their stuff with the Belleville boys . . . it's a long time since we saw a game of hockey, and we thorough enjoyed it.

Anyway we wandered up George street to Brock street and then to the rink. . . We walked up to the ticket sellers' wicket and asked for an admission, and the gentleman said "Good night, Mr. Martin" . . . We got our ticket and then proceeded to go through another gate and the gentleman there said "Good night Mr. Martin" . . . He told us to go down this way and then turn to the left and keep on walking until we would come to another gentleman. . . We did as directed and sure enough there he was with outstretched hand. . . We shook hands with him and he said "Good night Mr. Martin" . . . but what he really wanted was our ticket. . . We never saw such attention as we were receiving . . . and right there and then the thought occurred to us that maybe we curlers could adopt some of these ideas . . . However we reached on our seat and while we were seated on the plush (?) chair the idea came to us. What has this hockey game got that our curling has not? . . . The first thing that inspired us was the game started exactly on the time advertised, that made a hit with us . . . and when we were looking hither and yon we noticed that at each end of the rink they had a 12-foot circle marked off the same as we have, only theirs is red and ours is blue—and they also had a blue line, same as we have, running across the rink and at each end of the rink, same as our hog line.

Well, so far so good, but what did impress us most of all was this subbing business—we don't know why the boys were taken off so often, but we'll find out—they looked good to us . . . and right now we are here to say that we have been advocating that thing in our curling matches for some time back, but we have never received any support. . . . Wouldn't we have fun if the powers that be would see their way clear to adopt the suggestion—and then another thing that appealed to us was the chap with the towel who kind of wipes the brows of the subs as they come off . . . we suppose the boys are quite hot . . . well we could adopt that idea, too, some of our curlers get warm, quite warm, indeed—and then we noticed right behind the players' bench a bunch of dignified looking men . . . We suppose they were the board of strategy . . . Well we have one of those too, only ours is situated in our No. 8 where they can't do much harm, or good either, so we're even on that—and then the score was just like some of our scores, all one-sided . . . And the ice was just like ours, also, good at first and then becoming heavy . . . And we almost forgot to mention the smoke, it was just as thick where we sat as it is in our rink.

So after all, while hockey is a good game and all that, we still think that we will stick to our curling . . . Oh, yes, and about cleaning off the ice . . . We have it all over the hockey boys, our players do that as they curl and really it is quite a help.

It looks as if there will be no curling tonight.

C.G.E. Junior Girls Win Cage Contest

C.G.E. Juniors of the Ladies Basketball League won their fifth game in a row, defeating "Y" Quakers by a 12-4 count last night in the Y.W. gym. The victory increased the young Electrics' lead in this section. They had a 6-0 edge during the first period but the Quakers made it a closer battle during the final half. Play was quite speedy most of the way with snappy passing shown in spots and some fair shooting. Checking was close during the first half, but neither side scored on free tosses. Dot Bestard and M. Sullivan had two points each for the losers. V. Bartley and Z. Birkhoff led the winners with six points each, their snipping being responsible for the win. E. Lynch had two points. The teams:

'Y' Quakers: B. Frost, S. Alexander, D. Bestard, M. Boyle, I. Hollingsworth, E. O'Leary, B. Dalliday, M. Kingsbury, M. Sullivan, V. Woods, D. Frost.

C.G.E.: V. Bartley, F. Nolan, Z. Birkhoff, E. Lynch, F. Foster, P. Baxter, M. Cumminskey.

FREDDIE STEELE RETAINS HIS CROWN BY BEATING RISKO

WINS $25,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP). — Freddie Steele, the "picture boxer" from Tacoma, Wash., to-day filed away the portrait of Syracuse's Eddie "Babe" Risko in the middleweight morgue.

Defending the American title he won from Risko last July, Steele thrashed the Babe in 15 somewhat tedious rounds last night. It was the champion's second successful defence of the title and his third straight victory over the Babe.

Risko paid Steele $25,000 for the title shot, and lost around $14,000 when the bout grossed only $17,802.23 from 11,661 customers.

Risko, the challenger, never really challenged. A stout-hearted dock-walloper, he spent most of the evening wheeling away from Steele's magnificent left hand. Occasionally, the Babe drilled a home run into the champion's lower stands, but the blot of the fight was transparent from the start. Like a stock movie, you always knew how it was coming out.

On The Associated Press score card, the champion won nine rounds, Risko five, and one was called even.

Steele weighed 158, Risko 157.

NEW YORK—Freddie Steele, 157, Tacoma, Wash., U.S. middleweight champion, outpointed Eddie (Babe) Risko, 158, Syracuse, N.Y. (15).

St. John's Basketeers Cop Girls' Game 10-6

St. John's Juniors moved ahead of Westclox in the Ladies Basketball League standing last night at the Y.W.C.A. by nudging out a 10-6 verdict over the young Clockmakers in a tidy tilt. Play was fast and close most of the distance, the count at the halfway mark being 6-4 for the losers. The Saints had a margin in the last stanza to run up six points while blanking their opponents. Neither side could hoop the ball on penalty throws. Some good passing and checking were shown in this junior melee. I. Walsh counted four points and A. Flynn two for the losers; while E. Gynane and B. Castle had four each and J. Coleman two for the victors. The teams:

Westclox: A. Flynn, J. Crowe, I. Walsh, N. Pammett, D. Dawson, L. McNaughton.

St. John's: J. Coleman, E. Gynane, E. Craig, G. Varty, B. Castle, M. Snowden, D. Groombridge, H. Maxwell, A. Bowler, J. McIlwain, I. Young, E. Maxwell.

Referee, J. Cooper.

Clockmakers Lose To C.G.E. Cagers

C.G.E. senior girls of the Ladies Basketball League unloosed a strong first-period attack in the Y.W. gym to hand Westclox their first defeat in four starts, the score being 12-7 for the Electrics. Displaying a snappy, scrappy brand of play, the C.G.E. crew tore in repeatedly for shots on basket, using neat combination and better shooting than their rivals. The score was 10-4 at halftime and much closer in the second half. Checking was fairly close but there were not so many free shots, C.G.E. cashing in on four to one for the Clockmakers. D. Schultz led the winners with four points while M. Woods had three. M. Hodson and E. Bradley got two each and M. Hallihan one. For Westclox, B. Blade had four points, M. Blade two and G. Mortimer one. The teams:

C.G.E.: E. Hodson, M. Hodson, M. Woods, A. Craig, J. Alexander, E. Bradley, M. Hallihan, D. Schultz.

Westclox: G. Mortimer, B. Blade, M. Blade, G. Hunter, M. Snowden, C. Whatman, M. Ferguson.

Referee, J. Cooper.

Norwood Is Ousted Out Of Playoffs

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 20. — The Wreckers eliminated Norwood Juniors last evening in the first round of the Kawartha Junior League play-offs, tieing them 2-2 on the game and 6-4 on the round. The locals, group leaders, will now have to play the winners of the Hastings-Warsaw series to decide the winner.

Both teams were greatly handicapped by the soft ice, but managed to give a fair exhibition of hockey. The goalies were both called upon to kick out a bunch of hot ones, and the opposing defences bounced the incoming forwards quite freely.

The teams:

Norwood — Goal, McMaster; defence, G. Puffer and D. Bedore; centre, Clark; wings, N. Godin and G. Ennis; alternates, B. Webb, W. Godin, W. Lumsden, B. Puffer.

Havelock — Goal, H. Harnden; defence, J. Aboud and G. Whitney; centre, R. Hagerman; wings, L. McMullen and J. Ketchen; alternates, F. McLaughlin, E. Ellis, S. McCutcheon, W. Brunton, and W. Moore.

FORD V-8 for 1937

New Style and Beauty—Rich Appointments

Every appearance feature of the new Ford V-8 sparkles with new beauty. From grille to tail light . . . outside and in . . . that quality look invites you. Front end is distinctive with headlamps streamlined into fender aprons. Modern lid-type hood hinges at the back. Larger luggage space is reached from rear. Slanting V-type windshield opens. Interiors have new tailoring and trim. Starter button on new instrument panel. Parking brake lever at left under panel.

New Riding Comfort—Improved Centre-Poise Design

The new Ford V-8 rides even more smoothly. Centre-Poise design has been improved by easier action of long tapering springs with pressure lubrication. New shock absorbers which are adjustable for various road conditions add to comfort. New methods of mounting body and engine, and other refinements, combine to make it a quieter car. The compact Ford V-8 engine permits more room in the body for passengers and luggage. A single ride will make you enthusiastic about the many extra comfort features that Ford has added this year.

New Gasoline Economy—Fine Performance

The improved Ford V-8 engine delivers its thrilling performance and acceleration with gasoline mileage so high that it sets a new standard of economy. Ford V-8 engine refinements include improved carburetion, new domed-top pistons, improved exhaust system, new self-lubricating water pumps in cylinder banks. Higher rear axle ratio also contributes to the new economy.

New Safety Brakes—New Steel Top—All-steel Body

New Easy-Action Safety Brakes, of the cable and conduit control type, give the "safety of steel from pedal to wheel." This entirely new braking system gives quicker straight-line stops with feather-light pressure on the braking pedal. Body is all steel — top, sides, floor and frame, welded into a single steel unit of great protective strength. Safety Glass throughout at no extra charge. In these and other features Ford follows the new trend to safety. Arrange with your dealer to take the new Ford V-8 for a trial drive.

Maple Leaf Program Contains Interesting Outline Of Puck Game As Played In Peterborough — Written By O. H. A. Secretary

MANY CHAMPIONSHIP TEAMS

A recent booklet-program of the Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens contains a brief history of hockey in Peterborough, the article being written by W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association. It goes as follows:

The city of Peterborough has always been prominent in hockey in Ontario, and teams from that centre have had the distinction of winning championships in the junior, intermediate and senior series of the O.H.A. The O.H.A. was organized in 1891, and two years later Peterborough had a team in the senior series and had the distinction of reaching the semi-finals, only to be eliminated by Queen's by 14 to 2 in a match played at Kingston. The Peterborough team was: T. H. Dumble, goal; Gus Sawyers, point; W. B. Carmichael, cover point; W. Wonham, W. J. Montgomery, J. Parsons, W. Phelan, forwards.

Win Junior Title.

The next year, 1894, Peterborough entered a team in the junior series — there was no age limit at that time—and won the championship without much difficulty. They met the Granite of Toronto in the final and defeated them 14 to 0. The Peterborough team: Geo. Dixon, goal; W. J. Montgomery, point; J. Parsons, cover point; J. Hedley, W. Phelan, W. Wonham, Lionel King, forwards. Peterborough again won the junior O.H.A. championship the following year and Toronto Granites were again their opponents in the finals. It was a close fit for the title, Peterborough winning by 7 to 6. The team was: Geo. Dixon, goal; W. J. Montgomery, point; Sam Adams, cover point; Walter Phelan, Lionel King, W. Wonham, R. Davidson, forwards. In 1896, for the third year in succession, Peterborough and Toronto Granites reached the junior finals, but on this occasion Granites were successful in winning out by 7 to 3. The Peterborough team: J. Hamilton, goal; W. J. Montgomery, point; S. Adams, cover point; W. Phelan, J. Parsons, L. King, Roger Davidson, forwards.

Peterborough played in both the senior and junior series the following year and created somewhat of a sensation in the early part of the season by defeating the champion Queen's University team at Peterborough, the first defeat for the collegians in four years. For some reason or other Peterborough declined to go back to Kingston for the return match and Queen's went on to win another championship. The Peterborough junior team failed to distinguish itself.

JUNIOR AGE LIMIT.

In 1908, W. A. Buchanan of Peterborough introduced an amendment to the rules, providing that the junior series be limited to players under 20 years of age on the 1st of January. The proposition evoked strong opposition but was eventually adopted and that age limit has remained ever since in the O.H.A.

In 1900, Peterborough reached the finals in the junior O.H.A. series with Stratford. At Peterborough the score was 6-3 for the home team but Stratford overcame the lead in Stratford, winning by a score of 9 to 3 to take the championship by 12 to 9. The Peterborough team: Miller, goal; Cavanah, point; Armstrong, cover point; Lynch, Morgan, Whitcroft and Harry King, forwards. The same teams met in the finals the next year but this time Peterborough reversed the decision to win the championship. They had: Brundrette, goal; Cavanah, point; Armstrong, cover point; King, Morgan, Whitcroft and Smith, forwards.

In 1902 the Peterborough champion juniors moved up to the intermediate series and won the championship although they had a close call in the finals with Galt, the result being in doubt until the last minute of play in the second game. Peterborough winning the round 7 to 6. In the next four years Peterborough developed another and new championship team, which dominated the intermediate series and won the title by defeating Goderich in the finals by 14 to 8. The team: E. Wassen, goal; R. M. Glover, point; W. F. Crowley, cover point; F. Whitcroft, H. Morgan, W. Cavanah, Chris Graham, forwards.

Club Withdraws

The Peterborough club withdrew from the O.H.A. in 1907 in a dispute following a game in Toronto which according to agreement made in arranging the schedule, counted as two points. This enabled Kingston to beat Peterborough for group honors, and as a consequence the club resigned. It came back again into the O.H.A. picture shortly after, but did not reach the championship finals again for many years, though teams competed in all three series and frequently won their groups. It was in 1924 that the club again figured in a championship playoff. That was in the intermediate series when they reached the finals with Niagara Falls. The Falls won at home 3 to 1, while Peterborough won the return game in the Mutual St. Arena, Toronto, 5 to 4, giving the Falls the championship, 7 to 6. Peterborough: W. J. Ranger, B. I. Burgess, Ray Rose, G. Halpin, S. MacPherson, W. C. Thomson, Joe Dwyer, A. H. Parker, Frank Collins, W. G. Lackey, Harry Tamplet.

The same teams met in the senior O.H.A. finals the following year and again the Falls emerged victorious. They won in Toronto by 5 to 1, while Peterborough won 2-0 at the Falls, giving the championship to the Falls by 5 to 3. The Peterborough team: Joe Dwyer, Bert McLeod, Ray Rose, Irvin (Ace) Bailey, B. I. Burgess, Harold Parker, Grover Halpin, Frank Collins, Wilfrid Ranger, Harry Tamplet.

The next year, 1926, the Peterborough club finally achieved its ambition and won the senior O.H.A. championship. They met a strong London team in the finals. In the first game played at Toronto, Peterborough won 4 to 2, and the return game at London was a 3-all tie, thus giving Peterborough the title by 7 to 5. The Peterborough team: Joe Dwyer, Bert McLeod, Harold Parker, Ray Rose, Irvin (Ace) Bailey, Frank Collins, Wilfrid Ranger, W. H. Bogardis, Bruce Cox, Melville McDougall. Since 1926, Peterborough has not won any championships but always turns out good junior and intermediate O.H.A. teams.

AMERICANS MEET LEAFS TONIGHT 3RD PLACE BERTH

Toronto Will Have Charlie Conacher Back Next Week After Long Lay-off

MAROONS VS- HAWKS

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP) — New York Americans have heard Coach Red Dutton dinning his slogan, "Keep punching," into their ears all season, but they have reached the point now where they have to slug it out toe to toe with Toronto Maple Leafs for that third play-off berth in the National Hockey League Canadian division.

Tonight Americans play Leafs in Toronto and then return to New York for a return engagement with Conny Smythe's crew Sunday night. Two victories would be vitally important for Amerks, for with only 11 games left on their schedule, including this week-end's double-header, they trail Toronto by three and a half games in the won and lost column.

Just to make Americans' stretch drive a little tougher, Leafs will have Charlie Conacher next week. The big right wing has been out of action most of the season through an injury to his hand, but has rounded into playing shape at last and will face Canadiens with Leafs at Montreal Tuesday.

Maroons make a stand at Montreal tonight against Chicago Black Hawks. The Montrealers hold second place in the Canadian section, five points ahead of Leafs, and nine points to the rear of Canadiens, who play Bruins in Boston Sunday.

Hawks have a busy week-end and little hope of being party to the play-offs this year. Deep in the United States division cellar, they trail New York Rangers by 15 points with 12 games to play against nine for Rangers, who enjoy a free week-end.

After tonight's engagement in Montreal, Hawks will jump a train for Detroit, where they meet the Stanley Cup champions Sunday night. Red Wings, though beaten at Toronto Thursday, cling firmly to top spot in the United States division with a five-point lead over Boston and Rangers, deadlocked for second place. In addition, the smart Detroiters have a game in hand and 11 to play.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE-CRACKER.

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well Mac, we still got the kids in there battling so the hockey season aint all washed up yet. The young brigade didn't have much trouble in shaking off that Belleville gang in the group playoffs, winning 9 to 6 at Belleville and coming through here with a 9 to 3 victory but a funny thing about that series was the Belleville gang looked a whole lot better than them figgers indicates. This Tompkins and Cain on the forward line and McCreary and Ebsey back on the rear guard was all smart hockey players with plenty of foot and more than ordinary stickhandling class but they lacked teamwork and fell down in close. At that they give the young Petes a tough tussle in the game here Thurs. nite and until well into the 3rd period looked like they might win the game. They was 3 to 2 in front at one stage in that period and then the Petes turned on the heat so completely that in the latter end of the period they run in 7 goals without a comeback from the Red men. It was a great finish to a game in which in the early stages the Petes looked far from being a championship contender.

Got Plenty of Class

The local youngsters has plenty of class but up to the present they aint found the secret of producing it all the way through a game. When they do they will be plenty tough because they gotta a lotta punch when they are clicking and once they get so they don't sag somewheres along the route and lose all their cohesian they oughta give all and sundry a merry battle. The next round argument should provide plenty of excitement for the home town fans who with the intermediates on the shelf for another season will flock behind the kids in their fight for advancement.

The Pro. Battle

Well old timer the pros is getting closer to the playoff tilts and it looks more and more like the Amerks and Black Hawks will be the lads which will be paying their way in to see the money battles decided. This week's games with the Amerks getting nosed out Tuesday and then the Leafs taking a unexpected fall outa Detroit Red Wings puts the Dutton clan well down the ladder, while in the other section the Rangers and the Bruins show no signs of lingering while the Hawks catch up to them. The chief fight from now on looks to be for second place in each loop and in the battle for the scoring honors in which the official scorers seem to be doing about as much as the lads out on the ice.

The Baseball Outlook

Baseball talk is already being made in these parts and I for 1 hope the Petes will be found in there, come May, with a revamped club that will give all and sundry a hecka battle every time out. Reinforcements is needed. We need some hitting strength and a No. 1 heaver and that with what we got should make a interesting summer for local fans. The Peterborough public will support any kinda ball team that gives them a run for their money and it is about time their loyalty was paid off with a championship of some kind. Now is the time to patch up the holes in the old ball machine so that when the Central loop starts out on the long trail we will be in there with a gang that will make the opposition say uncle.

Well old timer the big leaguers will soon be hard at the spring training. The poor slaves toiling down there under a Florida sun bathing in the briny and eating the best the land produces until its time to swing north for the big doings.

It won't be so long now.

Sportifully Yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

TRENTON'S FLIERS BLANK PONTIACS TO CAPTURE ROUND

TWO-GAME TOTAL 7-2

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 20—The Royal Canadian Air Force "Fliers" took the O.H.A. Intermediate A playoffs here last night when they blanked the Toronto Pontiacs "Chiefs" 5 to 0, winning the round by 7 to 2. The goaltending of both Gibson and Doble was outstanding, both making some sensational saves.

The "Fliers" scored every period, one in the first, two in the second, and two in the third. Lalonde, Lowrey, Laing and Lecompe scored for the "Fliers."

R.C.A.F.—Goal, Gibson; defence, Lalonde and Partridge; centre, Lowrey; wings, Cowley and Ernie McNeely; subs, Lecompe, Eric McNeely, Laing, Beck, Higgarty.

Pontiacs—Goal, Doble; defence, McKay and Cain; centre, Phillips; wings, Summerhill and Cooper; subs, Dunlop, Haste, Kitson, Murphy and Boucott.

KINGSTON JUNIORS PUT OUT WHITBY

Beaten In Whitby 3 To 2 But Win Round 7 To 5

WHITBY, Feb. 20.—Rus Hatch's R.A.F. Cadets beat Kingston Red Indians by a score of 3 to 2, but were eliminated in the round by a score of 7 to 5 in a Junior "B" feature here last night. Dafoe proved the outstanding goal-getter for Whitby, with two markers in the first 15 seconds after the game started. Carr Harris, for Kingston, tied the score in the second period, and in the third Parris put them one up, while Vipond slipped the final goal past Brigden. The game was a fast and spectacular one, considering the sloppy ice.

GRAND AGGREGATE GOES TO KITCHENER RINK UNDER HALL

14 WINS, ONE DEFEAT

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (C.P.) — Bert C. Hall's Kitchener rink held the Grand Aggregate, highest award of the 10th annual Ontario bonspiel, to-day after sweeping through four straight victories yesterday to bring their total to 14 wins with but a single defeat chalked up against them.

Hall gained the award given to the rink with the greatest number of victories in the bonspiel last night when he defeated a Toronto High Park quartet skipped by Earl Green 9-8 in the semi-final round for the Seiberling Trophy. The win put the Kitchener contingent in two of the final competitions of the spiel concluding to-day.

In the main event, the Royal York Trophy, the Kitchener ice dusters encounter H. H. Chisholm's Toronto's rink, last year's winners of the Grand Aggregate. In the final Seiberling round Hall's rink slides stones against E. D. MacInes of Toronto High Park.

Two Western Ontario fours compete for the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie Trophy to-day, when R. G. L. Harstone, Hamilton Thistles, skips his rink against A. C. Gardiner's Sarnia contenders. Harstone eliminated Chisholm's Royal York finalists from the Birks' play, 12-7, last night.

Young Beaten in Semi's.

Two of the three competitions concluded yesterday saw the same pair of Toronto rinks matched against each other in the final rounds. The North American Life Trophy was won by Harry Howard, Granites, when he defeated Ed. Young, Royal Canadiens, 12-5. Young's four reversed the scoring record in the final Seagram Trophy round, beating Howard 11-7.

Granites advanced to the North American Life final by defeating Kingston, skipped by W. J. Drysdale 12-8, while Royals eliminated W. H. Keller's Midland quartette 13-12 in the semi-final.

Sole Eastern Ontario rink to reach the finals, P. Skitch of Lindsay won the Canada Dry Trophy after a tight 11-8 match with T. O. Loveless, Agincourt. The match went only 11 ends, but Loveless fought all the way, chalking up a two on the 10th when the score stood 10-6.

Hall's steady progress featured the day's play. He defeated C. E. McConkey, Toronto Stratheonas, 11-9 in the fourth round of the Royal York play, then went on to beat C. R. Redfern, Torontos, 15-3 in the fourth for the Seiberling prize. The Kitchener rink easily defeated C. E. Peacock's Oshawa outfit 11-5 in the Royal York semi-finals.

One Western Ontario competitor, Dr. J. A. Wright, London, reached the semi-finals of the Seiberling play before he was defeated by Macliness and his Seiberling finalists. Wright's rink also reached the fourth round Royal York play, but was eliminated by D. B. Carlyle of Torontos.

C. E. Pickering, Oshawa, was another casualty in the Royal York, and was downed 11-7 by Chisholm's Torontos. W. A. Watson of Sarnia was defeated 12-8 by Young of the Royals in the Seagram semi-final, and P. G. Deitrich, Galt, who survived to the semi-finals of the Canada Dry competition, was trounced 13-7 by J. H. Meredith, Barrie. In the same round Canada Dry play Skitch's Lindsay curlers handed Meredith a 14-0 defeat.

WARKWORTH

SPLENDID PAPER BY MISS BLACK

Gives Address To Warkworth Members On History Of Women's Institute

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Feb. 20—Owing to illness in the home of Mrs. Floyd Clarke the February meeting of the Percy Women's Institute was held in the community hall with an attendance of over forty members. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Geo. Nelson, vice-president, presided. Mrs. Percy Windover was convenor for the program. A splendid paper on the history of our "Women's Institute" was given by Miss Helen Black.

Reading by Mrs. Gummer; song by Elaine Grant, Noreen McCann and Edna Windover, and a duet by Isabel Beatty and Clara Mallory was much enjoyed. Mrs. George Helson was the lucky winner in the contest. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

A Surprise Party

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Helson received a pleasant surprise recently when a number of their neighbors and friends gathered at their home to celebrate with them their 20th wedding anniversary. A social time was enjoyed, after which Rev. G. R. Duncan read an address and Mr. and Mrs. Helson were presented with a beautiful floor lamp. Lunch was then served and the guests departed.

Personals

Miss May Lord of, Toronto is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. A. Angus and Miss C. Angus, who are ill.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dingman of Kenora are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson and other relatives.

Mr. Harold Skinkle of Whitby is visiting friends in town.

Miss Lyla Allen, Miss Jean Bowen, Doris Platt and Miss Margaret Plumpton have entered the Belleville hospital to train as nurses.

Mrs. C. Morgan and baby Peter, of Toronto are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cockburn.

Mrs. Thomas Newcombe, who was operated on in the Belleville Hospital for appendicitis is progressing very satisfactorily.

The friends of Mr. J. E. Nell, manager of the Royal Bank, are sorry to hear of his serious illness in the Belleville Hospital.

Mr. H. Twyman is quite ill in the Toronto hospital.

Dr. Arnold Henry, a former Warkworth boy, was recently married to Miss Eulalia Woodcroft of Toronto. The young couple will reside in Toronto.

GOOD PRICES PAID AT FARM AUCTION

Bidding For Livestock Is Brisk At Melville Miller's Sale

WARSAW, Feb. 20—A large crowd gathered at Melville Miller's sale on Tuesday afternoon. On the live stock bidding was sharp. Geese went at $2.25 each; turkeys at $3.25. One cow went at $80.00, others from $45.00 up. A team of horses sold at $126.00 for one and $115.00 for the other. The binder and one or two other large pieces of machinery were not offered for sale. The smaller stuff brought rather low prices. A pair of sleighs which would have been cheap at $20.00 went for $7.00

Miss Drain's Address

A splendid attendance of the United Church Young People were present on Monday evening, Feb. 15, when Miss Cora Drain, a former member, gave a splendid talk. She read of the fourth chapter of Ephesians and exemplified it with stories of the life of St. Paul, Dwight L. Moody and Florence Nightingale. Miss Drain suggested that children should be told Bible stories when young, even if they do not understand. They can be made to appeal and in after life the picture will return with its full meaning. Miss Drain has a pleasing manner and puts her ideas clearly, and she held an appreciative audience.

Mr. Trevor Little came home from hospital a week ago, about a week sooner than it was expected. His parents and friends are much delighted for Trevor is an upstanding young man and a general favorite.

Mrs. McIlvena is recovering and expects soon to be out.

Sunday's snow made the roads much safer.

Campbellford Paper Mills have sent word to the truck men they are full up with pulp wood.

BANCROFT

The manager of the skating rink has made arrangements for a fancy dress carnival to be held on Friday, February 19th.

On Saturday evening there will be two hockey matches at the Bancroft rink, one, Pirates vs. L. O. L. and the other, Wilberforce vs. Bancroft (juniors).

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

In Hollywood following an ingenious maneuver on the part of his young wife, Janet, Joel Paynter, second-rate actor, begins work under a short term contract. Meanwhile Janet makes a point of cultivating the right people, joins a tenns club and meets Vernon Chester, an important director. Chester asks her to play tennis and have lunch with him. Chester likes Janet and learns inadvertently that she and Joel have been reading a best-seller about to be screened by Chester. Chester selects Joel for an important character role in his new picture and Janet virtually dictates the terms of an attractive new contract and option.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 16

OF COURSE, you remember Joel Paynter's performance in "The Dance Was Long". It made screen history, for that was the part and the picture that had everyone from the last breathless shop girl to the highest executive in Hollywood saying, "Where has this man been all my life?"

That was the picture that brought the bids from agents and producers and won Joel the contract that jumped him from the three hundred to three thousand a week in exactly eight months from the day he had heard he was to have the role.

You remember him in the satin and lace costume standing unhappily by the queen's side and telling her wistfully that he loved the little princess betrothed to her son. You remember him making love to the princess even when he knew that he must lose her. His shy grin and his unhappy eyes made you wish that you were the princess.

Joel had no grace yet he was not awkward. He wasn't one of the then popular school of smooth actors but he had a way that made every woman who looked at him want to smooth his hair and erase that wistfulness from his eyes.

Joel Paynter had sex appeal. Didn't every fan magazine tell you that? Didn't his picture meet your eye on billboards, newspapers and current women's magazines?

There were pictures of Joel looking down tenderly into the eyes of Tania Jarrett, of Louise Greun, of Isobel Saintly. All the women stars bid for him. There were pictures of Joel in top hat, in tenns togs, in a yachting cap and a sombrero. There were pictures of Joel at breakfast, reading in his library, dancing with his tiny wife at the Trocadero. There weren't too many pictures of Janet. It wasn't a good idea to play up the domestic life of America's favorite lover.

But sometimes you saw a picture of Janet Poynter at his side at the hockey bouts, at an opening. Pictures of Janet in the little ermine cape he gave her to celebrate his success in "The Dance Was Long". Or in the three-hundred-dollar suits she wore during the daytime with three sables wound around her throat.

You thought she looked very smart but you wondered why he married a little mouse like Janet.

Sometimes looking down the length of her drawing room to where Joel was standing with some beauty, Janet wondered that herself.

But when she was alone with him, she knew. She knew that she was Joel's other self. It was to her that he confided the perplexities that arose during his day, the conflicts with other personalities in that emotionally high-strung world of his. She knew when he wanted her to forget everything but himself and when he wanted to be alone.

And she knew, and she kept it from him, that those scenes that he always played to her before his director saw them were often scenes that would have been different had she not known how to tell him gently that another way was more effective.

He had Max Browne now to protect his interests, to see that his contract was expanded, to see that his roles were suitable, that there was a happy understanding between him and his studio and his director.

Sometimes Janet had him alone. Brief, cherished week-ends or a few days between the making of a picture when they went off in the town car that had replaced the two little cars. The town car would really save them money, he said, because, they wouldn't have to support two cars. So Joel paid eight thousand dollars for it and Janet sent a box of lingerie that cost five hundred dollars to Martha Colby.

Janet didn't write as often as she used to to Martha because she found that it was rather an effort to get the right amount of enthusiasm in her letters when she wrote Martha to tell her about her progressive acquisitions. There had been the ermine cape, then the first diamond bracelet.

The house had been most difficult. Why couldn't she write and tell Martha about their lovely home with its great drawing room opening onto a terrace? About the immense bedroom done in apple green and turquoise? About the servants' rooms which were more attractive than those in the little English house? She didn't even mention the Japanese servants.

She didn't think about them any more than she could help. They kept her home as beautifully as though it were a museum. The pantries and cellars were filled without her ever looking at them when they were alone or when twenty people dropped in for dinner unexpectedly.

There were always people there. But, with the exception of Lisa Carey, Janet never saw her old friends, with whom she had knitted and played bridge back in the early days. Joel's rise had cut her off from them. Joel was a star and he had to move in one circle only—the circle of stars and producers.

It was very small and it didn't move far. It went from one house to another. The big houses the real estate men had shown her almost two years before. Houses that had swimming pools and play-houses as big as a high school gymnasium. Houses where they served caviar and champaign until it palled.

There were always butlers and maids, the latter not too well-trained, and chauffeurs and expensive paintings and rugs and modern or period furniture and you wouldn't know from anything in those houses what the owners were like except that they had a great deal of money.

Joel and Janet went to parties, to openings, to the bouts. They danced at the Clover club, at the Trocadero and they lunched at the Brown Derby. They went to Mexico and to San Francisco for week-ends. At Palm Springs they lolled in sun suits and in the mountains they went tobogganing...the same people...the same people all the time.

Joel loved it and Janet loved Joel and if sometimes she was desperately lonely, he never knew or perhaps would never have understood.

Didn't she have an enormous allowance? She could shop and play bridge for high stakes. She could buy anything she wanted to. She numbered among her friends the wives of other celebrities. She had a luxurious car at her disposal. She had a beautiful home. In her jewel box there was a short string of pearls—her second anniversary gift—three diamond bracelets, a diamond watch which she never wore.

In her decorated closets there were evening gowns without number, sports clothes, fur coats and hats and shoes and expensive lingerie.

Most of the time Janet wore tailored suits or little tennis dresses. Oh, yes, she played tennis and golf. You'd almost think she was the luckiest girl in the world. Wasn't she married to Joel Paynter?

In a way, yes. She was living in a story book world. She said that to an interviewer from a fan magazine. The other girl had looked at her sharply when she said that. Later she reflected that for a plain girl Mrs. Paynter was certainly a queer one. You'd think she'd just bubble over like Marylea Hubbell who'd come out a bride right after her New York debut and said "This is the most beautiful place in the world."

But Mrs. Paynter didn't bubble. There were too many bubbles around her and she knew their impermanence. Sometimes in the night she reached out her hand to touch Joel. She had to be sure that he was still there because he was her whole world. That was all there was.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY THAWS OUT

"Help! Help!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

No one answered. It was getting darker. It was getting colder.

"Help! Help!" cried the rabbit gentleman again.

He was standing with his rubber boots frozen fast in the slush and snow on the edge of the Duck Pond where he had been watching the animal boys slide on the ice that was half covered with water from the thaw. Then had come a sudden freeze and Uncle Wiggily was thinking so hard, perhaps about his income tax, that he forgot to hop away and take the hot soup to Mrs. Longtail, the mouse lady.

"Help! Help!" cried the rabbit gentleman, like an auctioneer for the third and last time.

But no one came to help him. The cold wind blew from the woods across the fields where the frozen Duck pond was waiting for Summer.

Not a Dance

"What's the matter?" asked a cute little Snow Bird who flew over to perch near the rabbit gentleman on a bush. "Are you practicing the rumba dance?"

"Dance?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose very fast. "I only wish I could go to a dance. But I'm frozen fast here in the ice. I didn't know the weather could grow cold and freeze so quickly."

"You'd be surprised at what the Weather Man can do," said the Snow Bird. "You should see him juggle the isobars."

"I love a vaudeville show," said Uncle Wiggily. "But what I want now is to get thawed from here so I can take a thermos bottle of hot vegeable soup to the Longtail family of mice."

"Why don't you just step out," asked the Bird.

"Step out?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Do you think this is a party?"

"No. I mean step out of your rubber boots," said the Snow Bird. "It's only your boots that are frozen in the ice, not your paws."

"You're right there," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "My boots are frozen fast but my paws are in my boots. And if I step out of them and walk in my socks on the ice I'll be sure to catch cold."

There He Was

"So you will," chirped the Snow Bird. "That would be bad luck. And I'm too small to carry you on my back, though would if I could."

"That's kind of you," said Uncle Wiggily. "Well, I guess there is nothing to be done. Here I am frozen fast. I don't dare jump out of my rubber boots and leave them to be thawed. Meanwhile poor Mrs. Longtail will be wanted this hot soup and——"

"Hot soup, did you say?" interupted the Snow Bird.

"Yes," answered Uncle Wiggily. "Hot soup in a thermos bottle."

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the Snow Bird. "Nothing is more simple. Just pour a little hot soup from the bottle around your frozen boots. The hot soup will melt the ice and you will be thawed out. And there'll be enough soup left for the Longtails."

"Hurray!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

Quickly he did as the Snow Bird told him. The hot soup melted the ice, the rabbit gentleman pulled his boots and paws loose and soon he was hopping on with most of the soup to the mouse house and Oh, how glad Mrs. Longtail was to get it! She was made quite well next day.

And if the electric clock will stop making the big hand chase the little hand all around its face, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's new tires.

TRUCKER IS HELD AFTER ACCIDENT

Two Men Badly Hurt As Trailer Runs Amok When Fastening Breaks

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Feb. 20 (CP)—Police arrested Harvey Kennedy, middle aged motor truck operator of Stratfordville, in connection with injuries received by Clarence and Harvey Marshall, Yarmouth township young men, as they were walking on highway east of St. Thomas Thursday night.

The two young men staggered into their home and were taken to hospital where they were found to be suffering from fractured skulls. Police said they found a blood-spattered trailer near the fence in front of a school house and learned that it belonged to Neal McConkey, Straffordville, and was being taken back to McConkey from London by Kennedy.

Kennedy and Walter Stillwell also of Straffordville, who was with Kennedy told police the trailer became separated from the truck but they did not miss it until they reached Straffordville, 18 miles east of the scene of the accident. They had the trailer fastened to the truck with wire and it was believed this wire had snapped and permitted the truck to run wild on the road just as it passed the Marshall brothers walking on the shoulder of the highway.

Mrs. C. MacGregor, Carol and Vernon spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. H. McAuley.

BANCROFT

Twenty-nine of Bancroft's young folk journeyed by train to Wilberforce on Saturday to witness the hockey match between Wilberforce and Bancroft juniors. The local boys won with a score of 5-2. After the game lunch was served to all the visitors at the home of Mrs. Johnson (formerly of Bancroft).

Don't Try to "Save" on Home Remedies—Ask Your Doctor

There is one point, on which practically all doctors agree. That is: Don't give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first.

All mothers know this. But sometimes the instinct to save a few pennies by buying "something just as good" overcomes caution.

When it comes to the widely used children's remedy — "milk of magnesia" — many doctors for over half a century have said "PHILLIPS." For Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is the standard of the world. Safe for children.

Keep this in mind, and say "PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" when you buy. Comes now, also in tablet form. Get the form you prefer. But see that what you get is labeled "Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia." 25¢ for a big box of the tablets at drug stores.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:
Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

GIFTS PRESENTED TO NURSES-ELECT

Norham Young People's Society Says Farewell To Two Of Its Members

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORHAM, Feb. 20—The Norham Young People's Society enjoyed a jolly social time in the church hall on Monday evening when two of the members, Misses Margaret Plumton and Doris Flatt, who are leaving to train as nurses at Belleville Hospital, were guests of honor. As a parting gift from the Society each of the girls was presented with a beautiful bedroom clock and an autograph book. Miss Lenore Isaac read an address which expressed appreciation of the work the girls had done in the society, regret at their departure and best wishes for a successful future. Each of the girls made a grateful reply.

Presentation was made by Kenneth Gummer and Cecil Brenton. The evening was spent in progressive crokinole and other amusing games, after which a delectable lunch was served.

W. M. S. Meeting

The Norham Women's Missionary Society held its February meeting at the home of Mrs. Martin Peterson on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 16 with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Rev. J. W. Flatt occupied the chair. The roll call was answered by the payment of fees for 1937. After the business part of the meeting, group leader, Mrs. S. Brenton, took charge of the program. The scripture lesson and devotional leaflet were read by Mrs. Percy Windover and the chapter from the study book was taken by Mrs. J. E. Bound. An interesting reading "Three Knocks in the Night" was given by Mrs. Lorne Evans. The singing of old familiar hymns was interspersed throughout the program which was closed with prayer by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Flatt. It has been decided that the Easter Thankoffering meeting be held on Good Friday instead of on the regular date. Mrs. W. D. Campbell will be hostess and lunch will be served. The Easter program will be in charge of Mrs. Lorne Evans and her group.

Personals

Misses Doris Flatt and Margaret Plumton have gone to train as nurses at the Belleville Hospital.

Mr. Conrad Plumton and daughter, Grace, spent a few days this week in Belleville, returning on Wednesday.

Miss Joyce Puddephatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Puddephatt of Codrington, is in Belleville Hospital for treatment.

A few cases of mumps have been reported in this vicinity.

Born—In Norham on Tuesday, Feb. 16th, to Mr. and Mrs. Amos Smith, a son.

Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Flatt were visitors in Belleville on Monday

Mr. Claud Hartford has rented the farm owned by Mr. Earl Clarke near Hastings and will move in March.

Miss Winnie Mitchell has gone to Toronto to visit relatives before returning to her home in Moose Jaw, Sask.

BETHANY

On Thursday evening, Mrs. J. J. Clarke was at home to a number of her lady friends to a dinner bridge, when six tables were played most enjoyably for several hours. Assistants at the dinner service with the hostess were, Mrs. Harold Payne and Miss Evelyn McKinnon. At the conclusion of the games, Mrs. Harold Payne was found to be the winner of high score and most suitably rewarded. Mrs. Will Morton being winner of the second gift.

Among those present included, Mrs. D. Carnes, Mrs. Wm Byers, Mrs. S. V. Young, Mrs. W. A. Brown, Mrs. H. H. Ryley, Mrs. A. B. Ryley, Mrs. Will Morton, Mrs. R. W. Prince, Mrs. Carscadden, Mrs. S. PLAYGROUND PLAN TO BE CONSIDERED

Women's Institute Members Discuss Project As Objective To Be Sought

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Feb 20.—The February meeting of the Cavan Women's Institute was held at Mrs. Milton Carr's home on Thursday afternoon, the president, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, in the chair.

The roll call was answered by a health hint, or a health exercise demonstrated. The librarian of the travelling library reported that the books were being kept in circulation and were being enjoyed. Comments showed that it contained a desirable selection of books. Mrs. Kennedy gave a sketch of a well-written book on "Sweden". Mrs. F. M. Staples gave comments on "Greenmantle" by John Buchan and Mrs. R. S. Staples recommended a book "The Land of the Free" by Ager, as being well worth reading.

Mrs. Melville Carr gave a report of the social evening recently sponsored in Cavan Community Hall.

The correspondence contained: Acknowledgment of fruit received during illness, also a letter concerning an effort being made to have humane traps used, for the protection of fur bearing animals.

Balance Reported

The treasurer's report showed a substantial balance in the bank.

It was decided to present a new baby in the Institute Circle with a bank book and a deposit of one dollar. A suggestion was made and left for consideration, that the Institute should try to secure a plot of ground for a playground for the children of the village. Also the members were asked to consider what they would do this year for the School Fair, and report at the next meeting.

The next meeting will be in charge of Group 1, whose convenor is Mrs. R. A. Sutton. The program will be on "Peace."

Mrs. Melville Carr was in charge of the following interesting program.

Frazer Carr sang "Mickey Mouse's Birthday Party", his mother played his accompaniment; Mrs. Oakley Carley gave a good paper on "What to eat and Why"; Mrs. Milton Carr read an article on "Preventing Disease"; Mrs. Melville Carr contributed "Current Events"; Mrs. R. A. Sutton read an article on "Flu and its treatment"; Mrs. Norman Braithwaite read a poem on "The Home"; Mrs. Carley read a story into which was woven the names of those who took part in serving and providing the lunch, and the items on the program, described by adjectives previously suggested by the members. These when read made such a ludicrous medley, that much merriment was caused.

An appetizing lunch was served and a short time of visiting enjoyed. Mrs. Snider and Mrs. Staples sponsored a vote of thanks to the hostess and committee in charge for the hospitality and enjoyable program and lunch.

Japan expects to produce 36,370,000 metric tons of coal this year, which would be a record.

MARMORA

BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN FOR DOLLS

Novel Juvenile Entertainment Held At Home Of Mr. And Mrs. McGregor

MARMORA, Feb. 20.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean McGregor, Marmora, Ont., was recently the scene of a novel entertainment when their youngest daughter Mary was hostess at a Birthday party given in honor of her favorite doll.

A beautifully decorated doll's cake had been sent to Mary, and when the news of this and of the coming party became known to her little playmates, excitement ran high.

On Saturday afternoon at the appointed time the guests arrived, the girls bringing their dolls. The boys enjoyed outdoor sports for a time, but later joined girls and dolls inside. Before luncheon was served each boy drew a ticket and claimed as his partner the little lassie who held a duplicate.

The table set with doll's dishes, had in the centre the birthday cake with one candle, which was lit and blown out at the proper time by the small hostess. The big doll in whose honor the party was given occupied the seat of honor—a high chair at one end. Needless to say, it was a genuinely happy, hilarious group who partook of the banquet. After luncheon there was sleigh riding for all, each boy drawing his partner to the hill.

When nearly dark all returned to the house and after a delightful evening with games, etc., the merry children took their departure, each one thanking the wee hostess for the delightful party.

Among those present were: Phyllis Vansickle, Jean Crossen, Lena Carmen, Zella Carmen, Harold Crossen, Gerald Caverly, Lawrence, McGregor, Harold Carmen and John McGregor. Mrs. Percy Carmen and Miss Laura McGregor assisted while luncheon was served.

Women's Institute Has Enjoyable Meeting With Agricultural Convenor In Charge

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HALL'S BRIDGE, Feb. 20.—The Hall's Bridge Women's Institute held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. H. T. Elliott of Hall's Bridge on Tuesday evening with 20 members present. In the absence of Mrs. Pearson, president, Mrs. G. Dunford conducted the meeting. The roll call was answered by "How to eliminate garden weeds" Many letters were read from members who had received flowers and fruit. The program was in charge of the agricultural convenor, Mrs. Dunford. Mrs. W. H. Pearson read a paper on "The Rural Community." Mrs. H. A. Shearer gave a very instructive and interesting report of the convention. All joined in and enjoyed a contest, arranged by Mrs. W. H. Pearson. The March meeting will be held at the True Blue Hall, Buckhorn. The ladies will spend the afternoon preparing quilts. This will be followed by a pot-luck supper in the evening.

MILLBROOK

JUNIOR AUXILIARY DOING GOOD WORK

Mrs. Westmacott Congratulates Members Upon Progress Organization Has Made

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 19.—Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, King street, west, was recent hostess to members of the Women's Association of St. Thomas Anglican Church when the regular meeting was held at her home.

Mrs. Westmacott, president, conducted the opening devotional period, assisted by Mrs. L. H. Winslow, who gave the scripture lesson, followed by the W. A. Litany.

The secretarial report was given by Miss R. Macnamara and brief reports were also received from the other officials.

Mrs. Westmacott spoke of having recently visited the Junior W.A. which is making marked progress under the splendid leadership of Miss Margaret Simpson, superintendent. The speaker was most favorably impressed by the capable manner in which the meeting was conducted and voiced especial credit to its leader.

Assignment of the various duties to be undertaken in preparation for the bale were distributed among the members. The Dorcas secretary reports that the bale calls for a complete outfit for an Indian girl. Arrangements were completed for a quilting bee to be held next week and Mrs. L. H. Winslow was appointed visitor to the sick and shut-in members during the coming month.

For the benefit of those unable to attend, Mrs. Westmacott gave a brief synopsis of the World Day of Prayer held Friday, February 12 in Grace Presbyterian Church.

Lantern slides on the study book, "Consider Africa" will be presented at St. Thomas Parish Hall, Wednesday, February 24. Venerable Archdeacon Simpson will give the accompanying address.

A paper on "The White Industrialist and the African Laborer" contained in the fourth chapter of the study book was related by Miss R. Macnamara, the subject dealt largely with the conditions under which the laborer earns his living in the various sections of Africa.

A portion of the "Living Message" was read by Mrs. Westmacott and contained details of the work of Miss Doris Lister, Fort George Indian School, one of the Diocese of the Arctic.

ORONO YOUTH IS KILLED BY CAR NEAR WHITBY

Death Car Pulls Out To Pass One Ahead, Hits Lad Across Highway

GIRL FRIEND ESCAPES

Had Been To Farmhouse For Jack To Fix Flat Tire—Strike Not Held

WHITBY, Feb. 22—Foster Blewett, 20, of Orono, was struck by a car driven by Mayor W. Ross Strike of Bowmanville, last night, and almost instantly killed, about four miles west of Whitby, near the Pickering Beach road.

The unfortunate youth and a companion, Miss Thelma Hyles, of the same address, were walking on the south side of the road and proceeding west, when Strike's car, full of passengers, and also proceeding in the same direction, allegedly turned out to pass a car and ran down Blewett, who was on the pavement, while Miss Myles, who was on the shoulder of the road, escaped injury.

Driver Not Held.

Traffic Officer Arthur Runicman, Pickering, was on the scene of the accident almost immediately, and finding the victim dead, sent for Coroner Dr. R. T. MacLaren. The driver of the car was not held, but an inquest has been ordered at a date to be set by Dr. R. T. MacLaren.

Miss Myles explained that Blewett's car had had a flat tire and when the jack did not work that she had accompanied him back to a farm house to borrow one and that when the accident happened they were returning with the jack and walking facing on-coming traffic.

The youth was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blewett of Orono and is the second sudden death in the family within a few months. A younger brother fell off a load of gravel and was run over by his father and died shortly after.

SNOWSLIDE KILLS TWO RAILROADERS

Locomotive And Five Cars Are Ditched As Train Hits Frozen Mass On Rails

HOPE, B.C., Feb. 22 (CP)—Death toll of railwaymen due to mishaps caused by British Columbia snowslides this month stood at four today following a derailment which claimed the lives of two members of a Canadian National Railways Locomotive crew.

Engineer J. C. Robertson and Fireman George Harrington were killed when an eastbound freight train, running through rain, crashed into a snowslide five miles west of here yesterday. The locomotive was turned over and five cars derailed by the impact.

On Feb. 11 Conductor John McDonald and Fireman W. C. Christopherson were killed when a snowslide swept a Canadian Pacific snowplough train into a canyon near Illecillewaet, 25 miles east of Revelstoke.

AIRWAY COMPANY MEASURE READY

May Be Introduced In House Before Start Is Made On Budget

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 (CP).—Bill to establish the company which will operate the trans-Canada Airway is ready, it was learned today, but there may be further delay before it is introduced in Parliament.

The House of Commons will be occupied during the early part of the week with estimates, particularly those of the National Defence Department, and on Thursday Finance Minister Dunning will bring down the budget. The Government may decide, however, to get a start on the airway bill before the budget debate begins next week.

Belief was the bill will go to a committee of the House where various interests will be able to present their views. The understanding has been the two large railway systems would be important shareholders in the company with some form of control reserved by the government itself.

Several Canadian airways are believed to have been seeking a substantial part of the business, however, and as a result the final arrangement has been delayed.

RAIN PREVENTS PLAY

Victoria Team at End of First Day Had 144 For Two.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb 22.—(CP Cable.)—Rain prevented play to-day in the match between the Marylebone Cricket Club touring team and Victoria which opened Saturday. At the end of the first day the Antipodeans had obtained 144 for the loss of two wickets in reply to the tourists' first innings score of 187.

Two Youthful Hikers Held In Belleville

Belleville, Feb. 22

BOBBY Powell, 11, and Eric Travers, 12, both of Ottawa, started out to see the world but local police took them in tow early today and they will be returned to their anxious parents. A motorist picked the pair up at Marysville and being suspicious when they evaded his questions, handed them over to the police when he arrived in this city. The police in turn placed the boys in the Children's Shelter until arrangements made to send them home. Both were hungry and were supplied with a hearty meal.

ALL ETHIOPIANS IN ABABA BOMBING ARE ORDERED SHOT

Slay Every Rebellious Chief Also Duce Orders As Example To Natives

MUST BE NO OPPOSITION

ADDIS ABABA, Feb. 22 (AP) — All Ethiopians connected with the attempted assassination of Viceroy Rodolfo Graziani will be shot by Italian firing squads on direct orders from Premier Mussolini, colonial officers announced today.

A second series of instructions from Mussolini decreed death for all native chieftains continuing opposition to the Italian government, they declared.

Reprisals for the wounding of Viceroy Graziani and several others during a celebration Friday will be "extensive and summary," the Fascist commanders said.

The Viceroy, the Abuna Cyril Coptic Bishop of Ethiopia, and Aviation General Aurelio Liotta were wounded when Ethiopians tossed hand grenades in the midst of the official party at a festival honoring the birth of King Victor Emanuel's grandson.

"The punishment will go beyond ordinary reprisals," the officers said, "to obtain a demonstration the new conqueror will not stand for opposition."

Dispatch riders from the lake region south of Addis Ababa arrived in the capital with news that all Ethiopian chieftains captured in a pitched battle Saturday had been killed.

ASSASSIN BULLET NICKS WRONG MAN

Hamilton Police Think Night Shooting Case Of Revenge

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 22.—(CP)—Police expressed belief today assassination was attempted Saturday night when a bullet whistled through the window at Freeman Fertilizer Company, and tore through a coat worn by William Kologie. Police said the shot apparently was fired in an attempt to kill a man whom Kologie resembles.

January 30 an armed thug attempted to hold up the staff of the Evangeline shop on King street east. The bandit was thwarted in his attempt and fled on the crowded street but was pursued and cornered by Patrick Costello. The thug levelled his revolver and warned Costello that he would shoot, so the young man gave up the chase.

Costello is the manager of the Freeman plant, and his appearance as seen through a window would resembled that of Kologie. Police consider that the bullet fired through the window was intended for Costello in revenge.

SOCIALISTS CLEAR VALENCIA HIGHWAY

Marne Of Madrid Centres Around Towns Of La Vega And La Maranosa

MADRID, Feb. 22 (AP)—Government militiamen, fighting Insurgents with tanks, artillery and airplanes, regained control of the vital Madrid Valencia highway today after fierce fighting in the Jarama sector 16 miles southeast of the capital, commanders reported.

The battle of "the Marne of Madrid" was concentrated around the towns of San Martin de la Vega and the La Maranosa factory district near the Arganada Bridge over the Jarama and Manzanares Rivers.

The highway — Socialist Spain's direct lifeline to the eastern seacoast — was clear of Insurgent troops, the government defence council reported. Only occasional shells from Insurgent batteries imperil traffic along the road, the official report stated.

Gen. Jose Miaja, defence commander, announced his militiamen "intend to keep the initiative now that it is in their hands." Government operations are proceeding on the theory, he said, that the Jarama battle may prove the turning point of the civil war.

As Remains of Perry J. Giffen Were Borne From Trinity Church

Newspaper colleagues, civic and industrial leaders, church officials, ex-service comrades and fellow Kiwanians joined in paying tribute to the memory of Perry J. Giffen, managing director of The Examiner at an impressive funeral service at Trinity United Church on Saturday afternoon. The flag-draped casket bearing the remains of the late Mr. Giffen is seen being borne from the church following the service on its way for interment at Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. George S. Easton, who officiated is at the head of the cortege which was flanked on either side by a guard of honor composed of Kiwanians and be-medalled war veterans. Pall-bearers were: Al Sharpe, president of Kiwanis; Harry B. Muir, Kingston; John T. Hornsby and Frank Hughes, Peterborough; Ian Macdonald, Montreal and Rupert Davies, Kingston. The late Mr. Giffen's two brothers, his nephew and son James are immediately behind the bearer party, while at the rear is seen Dr. G. R. Scott and A. R. Kennedy, managing editor.

Half Mile Sheet Steel Rolled Off In Minute

Seven Giant Electric Motors Teamed Up Produce 200 Tons Inside Hour

TWICE NEWSPRINT SPEED

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor)

PITTSBURG, Feb. 22—(AP).—Sheet steel, which is one-quarter of the American steel business, is coming out of the rolling mills at the unheard-of-speed of nearly half a mile a minute.

The steel, in sheets up to 100 inches wide and 1,000 feet long, is produced twice as fast as newsprint, whose approximate 1,000 feet a minute was long a high mark for industrial speed.

The new record is the story of applying electricity to steel production. Motors which aggregate as much as 50,000 to 60,000 horsepower and run the steel over a "racetrack" different from any mechanical course known in nature, were described to-day by G. E. Stoltz, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Seven of these motors stand in a row in the rolling mills. They are spaced 20 feet from centre to centre. Each runs a set of rollers capable of pinching steel, either hot or cold, like dough under a rolling pin.

Into the rolling jaws of the first unit in line goes a slab of steel that may be 18 feet long, three to four feet wide and a half a foot thick.

Slab Never Broken.

This slab moves slowly, a few feet a minute. Yet it is never broken, as it passes from motor to motor, and it leaves the last one travelling 2,000 feet a minute. The secret is that the same weight of steel per second comes out at the end of this racetrack as goes in at the start.

As each roller flattens the steel, the outgoing slab or sheet speeds up, like paste squeezed from a tube. If one roller flattens the sheet by half, the next one must be running at twice the speed to carry it forward. At the finish the steel may be only 1-30th of an inch thick.

Success depends on the synchronizing ability of these direct current motors. They can be set so that each one in line picks up perfectly, although at a faster speed than its predecessor. Any motor in the line can be varied, without stopping the process.

The control is by a man in a "pulpit," a platform above and to one side of the motors, where the operator can watch the line. He adjusts for sagging in the moving sheet between motors, or too much tension.

He adjusts for greater or less thickness as the workmen on the line measure the metal down to a thousandth of an inch accuracy.

One of these new lines turns out 200 tons of sheet an hour. The original hand mills of the American industry barely did more than one ton an hour.

DOCTORS OPPOSED BY RELIGIOUS SECT

Stormont May Act After Jury Finds Woman's Life Could Have Been Prolonged

BERWICK, Ont., Feb. 22 (CP)—John G. Harkness, Stormont County Crown Attorney, last night was reported considering action to curb activities of a religious sect which objects to services of physicians.

Last Tuesday night a Coroner's Jury found Mrs. Delbert Helmer, 57, died of diabetes and that her life would have been prolonged if her husband and son had obtained medical aid. Witnesses said the woman objected to attendance of a doctor.

Mrs. Helmer was a member of a small religious sect calling itself "Christians of the first-born whose names are written in heaven." She was the second member of the sect to die within a short time without having obtained medical services.

Entire School Is Tuned In While 2 Students Whipped

Broadcast Through Courtesy Of The Principal Makes Parents Peeved

RADIO MAY BE TAKEN OUT

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 22—(C.P.)—With the school broadcasting system tuned in on the scene of the punishment, two small students in a public school were given a whipping. The broadcast carried to 500 or more youngsters in the building was made through the courtesy of the school principal.

Protest from parents has arisen over the occurrence. Members of the Home and School Club which helped to purchase the radio system may ask for the removal of the radio. It was reported the trustees may be asked to investigate.

One six-year-old child was given a spanking, while the older youngster, said to be about nine, was given a whipping with the school strap. According to regulations of the Department of Education corporal punishment may be given provided a record is kept and the reason noted.

The children, it is said, have been causing considerable difficulty in the school over a long period and the principal had announced he would administer the strap unless the trouble ceased.

Safety Pins And Nails Found Boy's Stomach

Los Angeles, Feb. 22

SURGEONS received something of a shock when they placed 7-year-old James Goetz under a fluoroscope to locate an open safety pin he swallowed.

They found the pin in his throat. Then they glanced at his stomach. In it was another open safety pin, a one-inch screw, three one-inch nails, two tacks and a toy whistle. After removing the throat obstruction, doctors advised that the child be placed under observation to determine if another operation were necessary.

WARNING AGAINST JEWS

Fears of German Catholics Dispelled by Nazis

BERLIN, Feb. 22—(A.P.)—Fears of German Catholics that the crucifix might become a forbidden symbol in Nazi Germany were dispelled to-day by Julius Streicher, arch-enemy of all "Jewish traits" in religious teaching.

Good Nazis, instead of frowning on the cross, regard it as an eternal warning against the Jews, said Streicher's organ, The Stuermer.

The life struggle of Jesus was a battle against Jewish ideas; the Jews recognized Him as their enemy and crucified Him, said Streicher's newspaper.

TRADE PLEAS REFUSED

Secretary Neelands Reveals Men Fed And Housed Better Than At Home

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 22—(C.P.)—"A very small percentage of prisoners in the bull gang doing pick and shovel work say they are going to go straight when they get out," a prisoner told the Ontario Reformatory inquiry to-day.

"Most of the conversation is about now they're goin gto get even when they get out," he said. "They discuss crimes they have done and are going to do."

"They discuss how they can do a crime better next time without being caught?" suggested Gordon Gillanders, commission counsel.

"Yes," replied the prisoner. "There's one young kid in there for stealing a quart of milk, but he's learning now how to crack open stores and safes."

"What are guards doing?" asked Judge James Madden.

"There's only the one guard and he can't hear all that's going on," said the witness. "There are quite a few kids in the bull gang learning more about crime. There is no interest in the work; you are simply moving piles of gravel from one place to another.

"I would like to learn a trade, do something I would be interested in, and that I could follow on the outside," he said. "So would many others in the bull gang, but they are kept at uninteresting work and they keep planning to get even."

Carry Razors in Pockets

Prisoners carry their razors and tooth brushes in their coat pockets all day so they won't be stolen, witness said, when Judge Madden called him back and asked, "Where is your tooth brush?"

Asked why he carried the brush in his pocket, the prisoner said, "If I don't, someone will steal it and make a ring out of it. They make some real nice rings here. They bend the brush after placing it in hot water and graft on other colors with acetone."

A prisoner who was Sergeant A. Maguire's clerk until Christmas, saw maggots a half-inch thick in the bottom of cooking pans, he told the inquiry.

Witness complained also that he had been placed in three days' isolation on short rations without trial before the superintendent. He had been charged with insolence, he said.

Witness said Guard Marquiss had been discharged in the fall for another guard's error. Judge Madden said it was not a proper subject for the prisoner to discuss.

"We would like to announce that we would welcome hearing any person who wishes to give any information to the inquiry before it draws to a close this week," said Judge Madden.

C. F. Neelands, Deputy Provincial Secretary was asked by commission counsel Gordon Gillanders to give the inquiry the benefit of his experience as regards administration at the Reformatory.

16,000 Sentenced In 1936.

The numbers sentenced to jail and reformatories since 1914 have widely fluctuated, Mr. Neelands told the inquiry. There were 14,000 sentenced in 1914, 9,790 in 1921, with 21,421 in 1930; 13,500 in 1934 and 16,000 in 1936. During the 15 years since 1921, there has been a net increase of 190 in bed accommodation, in jails and reformatories, about five per cent. The population of the province increased 25 per cent during these years from 2,934,000 in 1921 to 3,690,000 in 1936, Mr. Neelands said.

"There has been a tendency in the past few years to sentence men to reformatories instead of penitentiaries," he said.

The average term actually served in reformatories is 204 days, about seven months, he told the inquiry.

SAFECRACKERS BUSY

Toronto Police Busy Investigating Week-end Breaks.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (C.P.). — Toronto police to-day had their hands full investigating a number of breaks during the week-end.

Safecrackers blew open a safe in the offices of the Electrolux Company and got away with $100 in cash. Police believed a second safecracking job in an establishment on King Street was performed with use of nitro-glycerine.

Claim Talking Makes Women Live Longer

Nice, France, Feb. 22.

TALKING is one of the most health-giving pastimes, a prominent lung specialist here declares.

Pointing out that many human ills result from weakness or deterioration of the lungs, he asserts that intensive talking strengthens them.

As women are supposed to love gossiping, he suggested that this may explain why there are many more widows in the world than widowers — talking makes the women live longer.

LAST POST SOUNDS OVER THE GRAVE OF PERRY J. GIFFEN

Largely-Attended Funeral Is Held In Trinity United Church

TIME A TOMB BUILDER

Down the slope to the south gate of the Little Lake cemetery Saturday afternoon floated the sombre notes of the Last Post over the open grave of Perry J. Giffen, managing director of The Examiner, echoing a last significant reminder that the life of the young business leader who had come to Peterborough fifteen months ago had been finally caught up in the "braver harvest" which death reaped at Hill 70 in the Lens sector of the Great War during the summer of 1917.

The contingent of comrades of the Canadian Legion added their parting salute of hope in the symbolic call of the "Reveille", but the prevailing sentiment around that flower-banked grave was a deep feeling of pathos witnessing human defeat in the realization that Perry Giffen's courage in rehabilitating himself in the post-war civilian life of his country had failed.

After all he was a war-broken soldier. His wounded body had borne his resolute spirit so far, and he had already won a high and secure place in the newspaper field of Canada, and then suddenly in the dark and early hours of Friday morning he paid at length and in full his contribution to the price of his nation's victory.

The last incident of the funeral Saturday afternoon seemed poignantly eloquent of the silence of Perry J. Giffen, as an ex-service man, about his record in the war and its permanent physical disablement. It is the characteristic attitude of returned men. Like them, he did not wince nor cry aloud at his handicapping wound in his upward progress in the business world, in Halifax and Toronto, in Winnipeg and Edmonton, here in Peterborough and in Montreal where he was a frequent visitor. To his spirit which seemed a veritable presence to the large company of his friends and comrades ringed about his grave the aggressive notes of "Reveille," the army's call to a new day and fresh adventures and daring, must have been more acceptable than the "Last Post" to his long rest.

Largely Attended

At Trinity United Church and through the central section of the city along the course of the funeral hundreds of Peterborough citizens paid a last tribute to the memory of Mr. Giffen.

It was not a military funeral, but

FOUR ARE KILLED IN CAR ACCIDENTS

Several Others Are Injured Over Weekend On Ontario Highways

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 22.—(CP).—Struck by an automobile while crossing the street here to-day, Walter Meanwell, 72, Windsor, died a short time later in Hospital. Meanwell suffered a fractured skull and did not regain consciousness.

The car was in charge of Doris Sullivan, 27, Windsor, who said the man walked in front of her car after she had sounded the horn. He was struck by the bumper of the car, she said.

Found Dying.

TORONTO.—E. Lovick, 55, night watchman at St. Andrew's College, at Aurora, 20 miles north of here, was found in a dying condition by motorists on the highway. Apparently hit by an automobile driver who failed to stop after the accident, Lovick died from head wounds and other injuries before a doctor could be reached.

Corenar Dr. C. J. Deyins has ordered an inquest.

Resting Comfortably.

Grand Runs Wild Flooding Highways, Homes, Factories

FAMILY FORCED TO MOVE

FERGUS, Ont., Feb. 22.—(CP)—Half-century high-water marks were broken today as the Grand River, swollen by rain and melted ice, flooded houses, barns and factories along its banks. Highways in this section of Wellington county were inundated as the rampaging river overflowed its banks.

Torrential rains yesterday started the flood. Huge masses of ice moved downstream threatening bridges. The Fergus-Orangeville highway was blocked by the overflow. Four miles east of Elora the Middlebrook side road was covered with five feet of water and the Elora-Kitchener road was under several feet of water for a distance of hundreds of feet.

On the second concession of West Garafraxa township, huge cakes of ice formed in the upper stretches of the river and scraped the floor of Shands bridge, 15 feet above the normal river level. The rapidly rising ice and water came within three feet of the Town Line bridge on the easterly limits of Fergus.

Family Deserts Home.

Four occupants of a frame house owned by Jack Howard at Fergus escaped as the angry waters swept indoors and large cakes of ice surrounded the building. The occu-

Havelock Wood Pile Keeps Transients Out

Havelock, Feb. 22.

SINCE the village council made it compulsory for transients to earn their night's lodging by sawing a certain amount of wood, there has been a distinct falling off in the number of nightly visitors. Constable Aikens stated that since this rule was put in force the average previously of three an evening in the town hall basement has dropped to only one.

30,000 Italian Troops Posted About Capital Upon War-Time Basis

Mussolini Orders All Suspects tried At Once By Court Martial

GRAZIANI RECOVERING

Aviation General Loses Leg, Several Loyal Ethiopian Chiefs Badly Wounded

ADDIS ABABA, Feb. 22 (AP) — Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, viceroy of conquered Ethiopia, brought 30,000 soldiers to the capital today to quell any possible uprising growing out of the attempt to assassinate him and members of his retinue.

Under express orders from Premier Mussolini, the city was placed on a war-time basis while Italian Carabinieri and Blackshirts rounded up 2,000 native suspects and witnesses and handed them over to the military authorities.

Mussolini ordered the suspects tried immediately by court-martial.

Graziani was reported recovering from the slight injuries he received from the shattered fragments of hand-grenades tossed into the midst of his party Friday as he was distributing gifts to a native multitude in celebration of the birth of an heir to the Italian throne.

Aviation General Aurelio Liotta's leg was amputated, an official communique stated, as a result of his wounds.

The Abuna Cyril, Coptic Bishop of Ethiopia, and several loyal Ethiopian chieftains the announcement said, were improving, although their injuries were described as grave.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS BODY BE CALLED

Premier Hepburn Tells Opposition Leader Henry Committee Will Meet This Season

TORONTO, Feb 22 (CP).—Public Accounts committee of the Ontario Legislature will be called this session with the Opposition ready with a number of questions.

George Henry, Conservative House leader, asked Premier Mitchell Hepburn Friday when the committee would be called. Mr. Hepburn said he would let Mr. Henry know the first of next week.

Yesterday the House sat only 45 minutes. Several bills were passed through committee stage quickly.

Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines, introduced a measure by which the government will exempt from succession duties bequests of various natures. Bequests to members of the testator's family for necessities and education, including annuities up to $1,200 a year will be exempt. Gifts made 10 years or more before death will also not be taxable.

Bequests to the Canadian Red Cross Society will be exempted and bequests to other charities in the proportion their revenues are used in Ontario.

The government also introduced a bill to regulate "executive" employment agencies. Hon. David Croll said these had become a racket in some years.

URGES SEPARATE EMBEZZLER'S FARM

Easiest Class Of Convict To Re-establish Penitentiary Probe Is Told

TORONTO, Feb. 22—(CP).—Establishment of self-contained farms for criminals who are not anti-social was suggested to the Archambault Royal Commission on Penitentiaries yesterday by Col. A. E. Kirkpatrick, member of the Toronto Police Commission.

The embezzler, he said, was of this type of prisoner. He was despised by the professional criminal. "To put such type of individual with a class of anti-social criminals is punishing him for the crime they committed," Col. Kirkpatrick said. Embezzlers were easiest of any class of convicts to re-establish.

"We have had 1,000 such cases carefully watched, psychiatrically studied and analyzed, and have here the results," he said.

"It was found that 83 per cent. of these persons were married and the average age for men was 36 years, and for women 38 years. It shows that this type is of mature years and has fallen in face of the world's most depressing times. Their average salaries have been good, ranging from $115 a month for women to $175 for men.

"Oddly enough we found that only two per cent absconded. For the rest there was no intention and preparation to abscond. Suicides numbered many more, there having been 28 men and two women out of the 1,000 cases."

COE HILL

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. R. Vatcher are leaving Coe Hill for a different field on Tuesday. They will be greatly missed in this district as they have shown great interest in their work.

A large number in Coe Hill are suffering from influenza.

Rev. Mr. Reeding spent the week-end in Coe Hill and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Johnston.

Mrs. Wally Holland underwent an operation in the Toronto General Hospital on Tuesday morning and her friends are hoping for a speedy recovery.

Mr. Wilfred Gunter is very ill in a Toronto hospital and Mr. and Mrs. David Gunter and their daughter-in-law paid a visit to him there.

SILVER REMOVED BY DIVERS.

PORTLAND. — The Oregonian said last night that 365 bars of silver valued at $185,000 were removed from the sunken Italian ship Feltre by heavily guarded divers yesterday. The treasure, said to be the property of the Federal Reserve Bank, was reported en route to Portland aboard a coastguard patrol boat.

Jacks Too Speedy For Green Hunters

Fort Erie, Feb. 22.

ALTHOUGH fifty huntsmen hailing from Buffalo; Niagara Falls, Ont.; Welland, St. Catharines, Dunnville, Stevensville and Fort Erie combed the countryside about three miles west of here Saturday, only twenty jack rabbits fell to their guns.

Secretary Edward Thompson, veteran Niagara River fisherman, at whose boathouse the hunters assembled, was unable to explain why a larger bag was not secured. "I think it was due, however, to the inexperience of most of the hunters, many of whom were participating in their first shoot. One pack of six rabbits, scared up by dogs, got away right through the middle of the hunters without a single jack being shot," Mr. Thompson related.

LABORITES CHARGE OLD COLLECTIVE SECURITY IS GONE

Claim Nation Asked To Pay Bill Representing Folly Of Tory Government

ARMS PLAN DEBATE

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP Cable).—A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty in the second Labor government, made a bitter attack this afternoon on the government's rearmament plans.

The House of Commons, in committee, was further considering the government resolution to authorize £400,000,000 in defence loans over a period of five years. The loans are part of an arms scheme, the total five-year expenditure for which has been estimated at £1,500,000,000.

"The nation," Alexander charged, "is asked to pay a bill which represents the collected ineptitude and folly, in some cases the political dishonesty of the Tory government in foreign policy."

Old Policy Abandoned.

Alexander accused the government of abandoning the principle of collective security as the basis of its foreign policy and of placing its reliance on big armaments.

Had the government calculated what the reaction might be in the Dominions to such a change? Alexander related how during the last few weeks he had met some influential representatives from the Dominions. One, on the other side of the Atlantic, had said to him:

"We have had some severe stocktaking in regard to collective security within the Commonwealth. If Haile Selassie had stayed with his troops, had Foreign Secretary Eden resigned when the cabinet would not accept his policy, then Canada would still be in favor of collective security."

But Alexander did not give the name.

Disraeli, Alexander continued had returned from the Berlin conference with the cry of peace with honor. The Baldwin government had kept peace but had lost their honor.

The Labor party, he declared, was prepared to support whatever defence vote might be required for collective security within the League of Nations.

Oppose National Policy

"We never wavered in our official policy on that," Alexander went on. "We shall oppose at all stages any attempt to stampede this country into wholesale armaments for the purpose of using them for national policy."

"Other words for defending your own country," interjected a Conservative member.

"Members of the Labor party have no more need to be ashamed of how they defended their country than anybody else," Alexander retorted. "What we are concerned about today is the adoption of a policy which is going to prevent war."

This declaration was greeted by cheers from the Labor benches.

Did big armaments prevent the war of 1914?" Alexander demanded.

"If we had not been in a comparatively unarmed state in 1914 there might have been no war," interjected a Conservative member.

"In 1914 we had the biggest navy in the world, yet we had to turn the whole citizenship of the country to war," Alexander replied. What, he preceded, was the government doing to check profiteering from the nation's extremity? There was talk that the arms plan meant giving more employment. But such a scheme was no effective contribution to permanent employment. It was only adding to a boom and then providing a slump. It meant saying to the workers: "Eat, drink and be merry," but forgetting to add the Scriptural injunction: "For tomorrow we die."

Mexican peas, hampers, $4.75 to $5, policy on that," Zalexander went on.

FAIRVIEW

On Tuesday evening, after the regular Y.P. meeting, the young people enjoyed a change in their recreation period when they motored to Duffus' bowling alley in Peterborough and enjoyed several games of bowling.

There will be a special meeting of the Bridgenorth W.C.T.U. in Fairview Church this (Friday) evening. Rev. Mr. E. W Rowland of Mark Street Church, Peterborough, will be the special speaker.

Fairview Y.P. are also preparing a short temperance play. This promises to be an interesting meeting and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

Personals.

Miss Myrtle McIlmoyle and Miss Lane spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Everett Coburn.

Reeve George Mullen and Councillor W. Rosborough were in Toronto last week on business.

Mr. Rosborough is also in Toronto again this week attending the Milk Producers' convention.

BUDGET THURSDAY KEEPS OTTAWA'S EXPERTS GUESSING

Will Contain New Trade Pact With U.S.—Longer List Tariff Changes?

DEFENCE BATTLE GOES ON

OTTAWA, Feb. 22. —(CP)— The House of Commons today was expected to continue consideration of national defence estimates but public interest was concentrated on the budget Minister Dunning will bring down Thursday.

Observers began their usual pastime of trying to guess what would be in the budget and it was taken for granted improved revenue during the last year would make it more cheerful document than those of the past several years.

This year's budget will contain a new trade agreement with the United Kingdom, probably lengthening the list of tariff changes. The major change, it was said, would probably be in schedules affecting textiles, allowing freer imports of such goods from the United Kingdom.

Defence estimates, already subject of a four-day debate, were expected to have stormy passage at the hands of the Conservatives who remained silent during last week's debate on the non-confidence resolution of Grant MacNeil (C.C.F., Vancouver North).

It was recalled that during debate a fortnight ago, when the so-called "Ginger Group" was tossing in resolutions demanding neutrality, conscription of all resources in event of war and the like, the Conservatives indicated they would criticize the manner in which the government proposed to spend the $13,000,000 by which they increased estimates for defence over those of last year.

Post Office, Health Next.

Should passage of the money prove easier than expected, the House may proceed to estimates of the Post Office and national health departments. In addition the government has before the House a number of bills. It might call for third reading of the bill to extend the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, first reading of the bill to negative the gold clause in bonds, second reading of the Foreign Enlistment Act, first reading of a bill to establish a combines commissioner under the Weights and Measures Act, or first reading of a bill to extend old-age pensions to blind persons less than 70 years old.

This was expected to be a busy week for committees. Two were

ABERHART HINTS AT NEW DEBT ACT

Admits Perhaps Old Law "Too Much Of Hot-House Variety"

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

EDMONTON, Feb. 22—(C.P.).—Premier William Aberhart dropped a broad hint to the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference last night a new debt law might result from the judgment of the Alberta Supreme Court which declared unconstitutional the reduction and settlement of debts act.

"Probably another act will be better, after all," the Premier said, after repeating his regret at the court decision, announced here Friday. He raised further conjecture when he said perhaps the old act was "too much of a hothouse variety."

Since the court decision, the Premier said, he had received many letters urging action. "The people will now understand," he continued "the nature and calibre of the problem we are facing and I hope they will not be too impatient."

Already he had been urged, Mr. Aberhart said, to reduce debt principal 25 to 50 per cent. and to apply a moritorium, "but please do not get rash, impatient or excited. This is a matter than cannot be settled right off the mark. Full consideration must be given. The approach of the session gives us opportunity to act promptly after due consideration."

Must Have Debts Eased

Alberta, he said, could not be a field of battle between debtors and creditors but, at the same time, the people must have deliverance from crushing loads of debt. There were laws against killing and there should be laws against "money barons exploiting the people and leaving them helpless, hopeless charges on the community."

At one point, the Premier was interrupted by a loud voice from the gallery. He was telling of one Alberta bond issue, sold in 1930, due in 1980 and bearing interest of 4½ per cent. Although the issue was for $1,000,000, $8,000,000 must be raised in taxes to redeem it and pay the interest.

"You need not bother about 1980," advised the man in the gallery. "There will be no capitalistic system then. It is slipping fast now."

The Premier made no comment.

LAKEFIELD

Rev. and Mrs. T. M. Wesley of Camborne were in Lakefield last week calling on friends.

Miss Helen Porter of Lakefield spent the week-end in Canton, the guest of Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard McCracken of Lakefield are being congratulated on the birth of a son on Saturday morning, February 20.

Relief Inspector McNeeley of the Department of Public Welfare at Toronto, was in the village on Saturday.

Owing to the mild weather, local hockey and curling enthusiasts have been forced to turn their attention to other activities for the past few days.

The Easter term examinations in the Lakefield High School will commence on Friday, February 26. The pupils at present are busily preparing for this dreaded yet necessary ordeal.

Albert J. Hill of Bailieboro was in Lakefield on Friday, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Porter.

The Lakefield Public School junior team, coached by T. W. Chaplin, played Captain Brine's team of Lakefield Preparatory School hockeyists on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. The Public School defeated their opponents 4 to 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian Oliver of Toronto were in Lakefield over the week-end, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gilman.

Ethiopia's Bravest Chieftain Meets His Conqueror

In the days when Italy's mechanized army was pushing its slow way through the mountains of Ethiopia, fiercest of all the warrior chieftains battling to defeat the invader was Ras Seyoum. But Ethiopia is now part of the Italian empire and the King of Kings no longer reigns in Addis Ababa. Even after Haile Selassie fled in the face of Marshal Badoglio's advance, Ras Seyoum carried on the bitter losing fight. Finally he too capitulated and here the dignified, beared chieftain meets, in Rome, the man who dictated Ethiopia's conquest. Premier Benito Mussolini is shown greeting Ras Seyoum (SECOND from RIGHT) and Ras Ghetacciu (RIGHT) as the Ethiopian chieftains arrive in the Italian capital.

Mother Of Seven Is Slain In Sault Murder-Suicide

Killer Shoots Woman At Neighbor's Door As She Flees Attack In Her Home

TURNS GUN ON SELF

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 22 (CP)—Investigation went forward today into a week-end murder-suicide that took two lives. Mrs. Bernard Mertes, mother of seven children, was shot on the doorstep of a neighbor's home Saturday night by Robert MacPherson, who afterwards killed himself.

Police said MacPherson had written a threatening letter to Mrs. Mertes some days ago. This was confirmed by Adolph Samuels, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., the woman's brother.

MacPherson, 25-year-old bachelor, went to the Mertes home Saturday night. He apparently entered through a coal chute, police said, and had cut the telephone wires. In the house with Mrs. Mertes were Theresa McCoy, a maid, Herb Myers and the Mertes children, the eldest 11 years old. Bernard Mertes, an Algoma Central Railway engineer, was at Michipicoten.

Weapon Is Taken Away

Mrs. Mertes met MacPherson in the hall where an altercation ensued, police said. The man produced a weapon described as a home-made potato-masher and attempted to strike her. Myers and the maid intervened and took the weapon. Mrs. Mertes fled screaming, followed by MacPherson.

As Mrs. Mertes reached the doorstep of her nearest neighbor, MacPherson drew a revolver and shot her twice in the left breast. As the woman slumped to the ground MacPherson turned the gun on himself and shot himself twice in the chest. He fell dead a few feet from his victim.

Police said search of the dead man's clothing revealed a bottle containing about two ounces of sulphuric acid which it was learned he had obtained Saturday. A whisky bottle, three quarters full, was also found.

Coroner Dr. A. S. McCaig said he had not yet set a date for the inquest.

FIRST MAN WOUNDED

Received Wound July 30, 1914, Dies From Heart Attack.

MILFORD, Mass., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—More than 150 Canadian Legionnaires from Massachusetts and Rhode Island adopted a resolution at a meeting here yesterday requesting a gratuity from the Canadian Government of one dollar a day for each day's services during the Great War, and four shillings a day from the British Government. Copies of the resolve will be sent to the Dominion Command of the Legion at Ottawa and thence to London.

SIX MINERS HURT IN ALBERTA BLAST

Only 24 Hours Before Another Man Had Drowned Down Shaft

EDMONTON, Feb. 22 (C.P.). — Officials investigated to-day to ascertain the cause of an explosion in the Penn Mine, 15 miles north of here, which Saturday caused injuries to six miners, one of whom was not expected to survive.

Emil Chichnita, 40, suffered severe internal injuries, head injuries and hemorrhage of the lungs, and was not expected to live. John Jackson, 35, was badly burned about the head and face.

Others less seriously injured were August Orzechosel, 37; Nich Trach, 40, Nicholas Kryskow, 44, and George Cenyk, 38. All except Cenyk were taken to hospital.

Socialists Claim Victories Along Three Major Fronts

NEW BATTLE AT OVIEDO

MADRID, Feb. 22. —(AP)— The Spanish government smashed at the insurgent foe and claimed victories today on three fronts—in Aragon to the northeast, at Oviedo in the northwest and in the Jarama River sector at Madrid's very door.

The widely scattered actions as outlined in reports to Madrid:

Aragon—an attempt by thousands of General Franco's men to pierce government lines and reach the Mediterranean in this province was battered down with a loss of more than 1,000 insurgent dead.

Oviedo—only a fierce counter-attack by insurgent captors of this city, 14 miles inland from the Bay of Biscay, prevented government forces from fortifying heights dominating the city; beleagured insurgents' communications were cut off; government militiamen penetrated into some of the city's streets.

Jarama River—General Jose Miaja, chief of the Madrid defence forces, declared his men had advanced despite insurgent reinforcements and still were holding the vital Valencia Road.

AFTER THE JAYWALKERS

600 Warning Tags Issued in Indianapolis In Past Week.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Jaywalkers will be subjected to at least another week of "warning tag education" before arrests are made for traffic ordinance violations, police indicated today.

Approximately 600 of the warning tags were handed out Saturday by a special traffic detail to pedestrians who wandered aimlessly across intersections against traffic signals or darted through heavy auto traffic in the middle of a block.

DON'T TRIFLE WITH COLDS

Follow this Practical Guide to Better Control of Colds in Your Own Home

1. To Help PREVENT Many Colds—Live normally—avoid excesses. Get plenty of fresh air, rest, and sleep. Eat light, wholesome food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular.

Watch yourself and your family after any exposure likely to be followed by a cold. Then—at the first sniffle or sneeze or the slightest irritation in the nose—quick! put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is specialized medication, expressly designed for the nose and upper throat, where most colds start. Used in time, it helps to prevent many colds or to throw off head-colds in their early stages.

2. To RELIEVE a Cold Sooner—If a cold strikes without warning or gets by even the best precautions—as some colds always will—go straight to bed. Eat lightly and drink plenty of water and fruit juices. For prompt relief, use this vigorous treatment with your dependable Vicks VapoRub.

Massage it briskly on the back (between and below the shoulder-blades) as well as on the throat and chest, for 3 full minutes. Then spread a thick layer over the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. Long after you relax into restful sleep, VapoRub's famous poultice-vapor action continues for hours to loosen phlegm, ease coughing, and help break up local congestion.

Sickness From Colds Cut in Half!

These two easy steps are the basis of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan is a simple, practical plan which any mother can easily follow in her own home. It is also a tested plan. In the most extensive colds-clinic of its kind ever conducted—among 17,353 subjects—Vicks Plan resulted in fewer colds and shorter colds—cut down sickness from colds more than half!

Reception Prior to Wedding.

Bright with lovely Spring flowers and glowing with cosy grate fires and softly-shaded lamps, the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Madill at 606 George Street was a pleasant gathering place on Friday afternoon, when Mrs. Madill and Miss Patricia, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Metcalfe, received their friends prior to the departure of Miss Madill for Hamilton, where her wedding to Arthur Metcalfe of that city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Metcalfe of 858 Water Street, Peterborough, is to take place on Saturday next, February 27th, at James Street Baptist Church, with a reception later at the Wentworth Arms Hotel.

Mrs. Madill received in a gown of Coronation blue velvet with a corsage bouquet of pink sweet peas, and Mrs. Metcalfe was in brown crepe with ivory trimming. Miss Madill's dress was of orchid taffeta, silver-trimmed, with a silver rose at the neckline. The younger daughter of the house, Virginia, opening the door, was frocked in bouquet printed crepe.

Mrs. H. H. Graham ushered the guests and Mrs. L. J. Pettit presided at the tea table, which was done with an exquisite cloth of linen embroidered in floral crosstitch design. The centerpiece was of Spring flowers; tulips, snapdragon and fern; four candles in low silver holders alternated in shades of rose pink and blue, and the tea service was in crystal and silver.

Mrs. D. A. Loomis was in charge of the tea-room. Assistants included the Misses Jean Metcalfe, Marion McAdam and Helen Reader.

Exchange of Musical Instructors.

Cyril Rice, supervisor of music in the county schools, and organist and choirmaster of St. Andrew's United Church here, is exchanging positions with Robert B. Harle, supervisor of music in the schools of Simcoe County, and organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's United Church in Orillia. The Department of Education look with favor upon an exchange such as this, and feel that it will be to the advancement of music in the schools generally, if exchanges of this sort can be made, whereby supervisors of successful experience can move to another sphere of work and carry their experience with them. Mr. Harle will come to Peterborough next month, and take over the work that Mr. Rice is doing in the rural schools here, and Mr. Rice will go to Orillia and take over Mr. Harle's work.

Mr. Harle is a supervisor of many years' experience, having supervised the music in the schools of Owen Sound for four years, and in Stratford for a similar length of time. He will be the senior supervisor in this district from the point of view of length of experience, and Mr. Rice will be the senior supervisor in the Orillia district.

As Mr. Rice has been confined to his home on account of an attack of influenza, the actual date of the exchange is uncertain, but it is expected to take place during the first week of March, so that both will be able to get their choirs ready for the Easter music.

The exchange is of a permanent nature, and his many friends in Peterborough will regret the loss to the community of Mr. Rice's bright and cheerful personality, and his unfailing interest in musical affairs, also in the work of the Liberal party, in which he has been the energetic president of the 20th Century Club of Peterborough. In the exchange, Mr. Rice takes over the duties of organist and choirmaster at St. Paul's United Church in Orillia, while Mr. Harle will assume similar work at St. Andrew's Church here.

Auxiliary to Hold 'Fee' Tea

Members Hear Explanation Of General Finances Of The Institution

At the regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y.M.C.A., held on Friday afternoon at the 'Y,' J. R. Marshall, chairman of the Y.M.C.A. Finance committee, told the members a great deal about the management and general activities of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Marshall pointed out that membership fees could not possibly begin to take care of the expenses connected with the building, and gave his listeners an illuminating insight into the manner in which finances are conducted and the general management of the institution.

The ladies planned a "Fee" tea to be held on March 1st at the home of Mrs. R. E. Cutting, Park Street.

STARVING INDIAN FAMILY RESCUED

Infant Dies Aboard Plane After Pilot Finds Six Ill In Wilds

SEPT ILES, Que., Feb. 22—(CP)—Six starving members of an Indian family were safe today in this little settlement of the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, but the family was not complete.

Pilot J. E. Jellison of Quebec Airways reported he came on the destitute family during a regular trip to pick up furs from trappers between here and far-off Ungava in the extreme north.

The whole family was suffering from illness, said Jellison, and were without provisions. He bundled them all into his plane and brought them here, but the infant died during the flight.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

OH, THE comfort, the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person—having neither to weigh thought, nor to measure words, but pouring them all right out just as they are, chaff and grain together; as certain that a faithful hand will take care and sift them, keep what is worth keeping and with the breath of comfort blow the rest away.—Dinah Mulock Craik.

Dear Friends:

Are you one of those in whom your friends can put full confidence, knowing that what you hear will not be repeated, or do you just listen eagerly, so that you can run like mad and tell all your friends?

It is the grandest thing in the world to have a friend with whom you do not have to weigh your words. One whom you can talk to without forever saying, "you won't mention this will you?" A friend that takes you as you are, strength and weakness, and likes you none the less.

And all of us need to accept the other fellow in that way. We need understanding, and freedom of speech. We hate having to watch our words, and wondering if what we say will be held against us, so we should remember that the other fellow feels like that too.

Of course, one should always keep something to themselves, and have some reserve. If you tell the story of your life to a good friend, that does not mean that you should tell everyone. There are people who love to draw a person out, so that they can get all the information they want, just to be able to use some of it at a later date for their own vile purposes. Use a little discrimination.

And of course you have to use a little common sense, and not keep on repeating yourself, thus boring your friend. Remember that what is all-important to you, is not so very important to others, so change the subject now and then, to show you do have an interest in something outside of yourself.

And if you have someone like that do not keep running to them with every little happening. Let them have some life to themselves, and if they have been a good listener, do a bit of listening yourself, showing the same deep interest in their affairs as they have shown in yours. Many a good friendship has been killed by being talked to death.

I had a neighbor long ago, and sometimes we would go out together shopping. We would hurry to this place and she would shop around, asking advice as to color texture, etc, then off to the next place where the same thing would occur. Then when she was all through, she would say, "we might as well go home now, I am all finished," with never a thought as to whether I needed to shop or not.

So one day I reversed the procedure. I hurried her from one place to another, I took my time about my purchases, I used up most of the afternoon, then blithely suggested that as I was finished we might as well go home. And what happened?

She stood stock still and told me I was the most selfish thing she had ever met. Here she had gone with me all this time, and not a thing had she been able to buy, because I had taken up all the time. I said I was glad she had noticed it, and how did she like it, because I had been doing the same thing with her for months.

After she cooled off, she was glad I had given her a lesson, as she wondered why no one wanted to go out with her. Thoughtlessness? Maybe. I think it is selfishness, and the same thing applies between friends, when one wants the other to listen all the time to them, and takes the attitude that the other has nothing of interest to tell.

In my work as a psychologist, I have to listen attentively to people's troubles, else I would not be able to help them. So, if you want your friend to listen to you, do the same for them.

Yours
ROBERTA.

HAT CHECK GIRL'S TESTIMONY KEEPS RUBINOFF WORRIED

Denies Intimacy With Several Men In Fight For $500,000 Heart Balm

JUDGE CHECKS UP LAWYER

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—(A.P.)—Peggy Garcia, hat check girl who took her stage name from a cigar, amused everybody in Supreme Court except Dave Rubinoff yesterday, as she fought off attempts in her $500,000 heart balm suit to show that she was intimate with several men.

Rubinoff, a violinist, held his head in his hands at times as the determined young woman from Virginia testified under cross-examination that there were three names on the mailbox in the vestibule of the apartment house she lives in in Astoria.

"Don't you know there are only two names on the box?" demanded Abraham Halprin, counsel for Rubinoff, who denies that he ever promised to marry Peggy, or was intimate with her on two occasions in 1933.

Confused, Peggy demanded of the lawyer if he never had "made a slip," and all but Rubinoff joined in the laughter.

"It's up to you (Halprin) to prove that she is the prostitute you say she is," commented Supreme Court Justice Salvatore Cotillo. "The question is did Rubinoff or did he not promise to marry her. I want tangible evidence. I don't want a fishing expedition."

Halprin brought into court Joseph J. Van Dyke, of Brooklyn, and asked Miss Garcia if she knew him. The answer was the same as when she was confronted Thursday with Armand Rolando, another sleek young man.

Doesn't Recall the Face

"His name is familiar," Miss Garcia said, "but I don't recall his face."

Under further questioning, however, she admitted that she had met Van Dyke in an employment agency.

"Did you ever go to Virginia with him?" Halprin asked.

"I most certainly did not," said Peggy vehemently.

"Did you ever go to Jersey with him?"

"Not that I recall.

"Do you remember ever getting some money from him?"

"Never," she screamed indignantly.

Judge Cotillo announced then that it was time for the "fishing expedition" to turn into a trial.

Miss Garcia denied that she ever had received money from Van Dyke or that she had told Van Dyke that she never could bear children as a result of a marriage when she was only 15 years old. She testified yesterday that as a result of her relations with the violinist she became pregnant.

It Is Short Sighted

Presbytery of the Glengarry United Church passed a resolution protesting against any form of advertising being used on the radio on Sunday, and this will be forwarded to the Radio Commission.

One is often moved to wonder why companies want to do advertising on Sunday. We do not believe it brings results, nor are we inclined toward the belief that it in any way favorably impresses those who hear it.

The reason for using any kind of advertising is to create more business, more good will toward a certain store or product, and the wise advertiser is not going to deliberately offend people who are potential customers by forcing his wares or name on them on the Sabbath Day.

77 Years In One House

A record remains until such time as it is broken, and that is frequently of short duration. To illustrate: A few days ago the Examiner drew attention to the fact that Mrs. Harry Chapman of Mitchell, Ont., had been living on the same street for 72 years, and in the same house for 55 years of that period. In this age when people seem to be moving about so much this paper considered a record must surely have been made in the town of Mitchell.

It did not take long for some one to come to the front and say that such a record could be broken, and had been broken right here in Peterborough. William Thompson, 84, is living in a house at 107 Hazlitt street, where he moved in May of 1860, so in a few weeks Mr. Thompson can say he has been living in the same house on the same street for 77 years.

So we will in turn have to regard that as the record until some one can show longer fixed abode under one roof.

Errors Will Creep In

News Review, a smart and readable magazine published in London, gives a sketchy survey of interesting affairs the world over. Anything which refers to Canada is generally confined to a few notes of what is going on at Ottawa.

In its most recent issue it tells briefly of the House of Commons at Ottawa passing a vote of loyalty to King George VI. That of course is all a matter of record in this country, but the London publication has occasion to refer to the Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, and the leader of the Opposition, Hon. R. B. Bennett, and the names appear this way:

Prime Minister J. L. Mackenzie King.
H. R. Bennett, Opposition leader.

The name of the leader of the C.C.F. in full: James Shaver Woodsworth. It is not often a British publication will have the initials of both the Prime Minister and leader of the Opposition wrong in one short article, but News Review achieved that distinction.

The Doctor Will Appeal

Dr. A. R. Dafoe, physician to the Dionne children, has received his full share of notice, and it could hardly be otherwise. The whole world was interested in five children being born at one time and all living, and therefore the same world was interested in the doctor who looked after them. When Dr. Dafoe goes across the line he is a marked man. His goings and comings and his sayings are all recorded in the papers. We never saw figures showing whether he had benefited or lost much by devoting his full time to the Dionne children, but we take it he has been at least receiving a good living wage.

He has also been medical health officer for North Himsworth township, and for that service he has collected $75 per year. Within recent times the councillors who legislate for that strip of territory decided that $40 was quite sufficient for Dr. Dafoe. That is open to a number of interpretations. It may be the councillors think $75 too great a charge, or that the doctor does not need the full amount But the decision is going to be appealed, and there will be two lawyers present to debate $35 reduction, one for the township—one for the doctor. The "country doctor" is not going to take the reduction from the county councillors lying down. Not a bit of it. So the stage is all set for the test and no matter which way the decision rests we have a feeling that the lawyers will do as well or better than the winning party in this $35 struggle.

It's a Slimy Business

Another probe is on the way in Montreal, and it will deal with rackets, vice conditions and the doings of what they refer to as the underworld in general. One statement from Montreal says that $200,000,000 a year is being taken from the people of that city through rackets.

That word "racket" is not an imaginary phrase. The ones in operation in Montreal are said to include loan companies, ambulance chasers, fake labor unions, booking offices for night shows, Chinese lotteries, etc. The racket was not originated in this country; it came from United States where it is so great a power today that police are not able to handle it. It is simply a combination of very clever and daring hoodlums who make their living—and a good one—by interfering with legitimate business to such an extent that business is willing to pay a good stiff fee to be left alone. If the fee is not paid then the interference can be carried to such an extent that a man running a legitimate and highly proper sort of business can be forced into bankruptcy.

It makes sorry reading to learn that the "racket" has gained a footing in our largest Canadian city. This is a comparatively young country, and the racket is entirely foreign to the intent, purpose and outlook of the sturdy folk who first pioneered this land. And it is just as foreign to the outlook of our rural districts, our villages, towns and smaller cities. It is also foreign to the desire of the Canadian element in Montreal. It is something which is brought in and set in operation for the most part by foreigners. It may be Montreal's problem for the moment, but if it is not headed off there it will become the problem of other Canadian centres. It is slimy business to catch and eradicate, something like the sow thistle, which if not checked rapidly keeps on spreading every time the wind blows.

Keep On Saying It

After reading an address delivered by J. R. MacNicol, M.P. for Davenport, Toronto, it would be easy enough to come to the conclusion that the extent of government we have and the tendency of government to keep on growing and adding to the number of taxing powers which it possesses has a direct bearing on the size of our tax bill. The tax bill in turn has a bearing on the ability of industry to keep on finding sufficient ready money to finance industry, and when industry is interfered with in that way then employment suffers.

In Britain they have but one central government; they have nothing approaching in similarity our provincial governments. The other form of government is in the hands of municipal boards. In Canada for less than 11 million people we have ten parliaments, a council in the Yukon and a senate. There are approximately 884 legislators of one kind and another, 764 elected and 120 appointed. To this rather formidable array Mr. MacNicol added: "This country has at present sixty commissions, if not more, the majority of which are overstaffed and overpaid.

The debt of this country, not including the indirect debt of municipalities, amounts to seven billions of dollars. The debts of the nine provinces are not far removed from being $1,700,000,000. There are 4,200 municipalities in Canada and they have a debt of a billion and a half dollars.

Mentioning some of the taxation which has been made necessary by the size of governments and the size of their debt, Mr. MacNicol said:

> "For instance we have the sales tax, the excise tax, the income tax, the stamp tax, the tax on cheques, the business profits tax, a small one in connection with the radio, the corporation tax, the municipal business tax, tax on capita, tax on gross revenue, taxes on branches of industry, the poll tax, the property tax, the gasoline tax, the picture show tax, soft drink and hard drink taxes and a hundred and one varieties of other taxes and licenses."

Any government is making an error when it further exploits the business of setting up more commissions. These commissions cost money, and they are not usually effective. Not only that, but it often happens when it is desired to change the personnel of a commission it costs more money to deal with those members going out. There are two examples of recent date which illustrate this: In reply to a question asked in the House it was stated that when the services of Hector Charlesworth were no longer required on the Radio Commission, he was granted a "retiring allowance of one year's salary, $10,000." When Judge Fullerton retired as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the C.N.R. he "was given a remunerative payment of $30,000." In those two cases alone $40,000 was required in order to make changes which were deemed desirable.

We admit frankly that there may be no immediate benefit from Mr. MacNicol having made his address; there may be no benefit whatever from making reference to the same matter here—that of over-government and the crippling effect of taxation which arises from that condition. But we know of nothing better than to keep calling the attention of the public to the fact. When the general public is ready to declare that a scaling down must take place, then it will take place. As long as the public tolerate the present condition nothing will be done about it.

Not a Clear Picture

The Turgeon Textile Commission has been before the public for many weeks. The general charge of counsel for the commission, J. C. McRuer, has been that the industry has failed to discharge its responsibility to the community. That charge was based on the premise that the industry had received tariff protection, and the receipt of such protection constituted an obligation to consumers in this country and also to the operatives in the various plants to which the industry had not measured up. Mr. McRuer has presented a formidable case.

Before the session now is Roy L. Kellock, counsel for the primary textile industries, and his claim is that in the years when prices were lowest many textile companies not only retained their workers, but increased the number at the shareholders' expense. Mr. Kellock mentioned several concerns which operated at a loss throughout the depression, but year after year the number of employees increased with a consequent increase in payrolls.

The one danger as we see it is in trying to place before the public a fair and adequate picture of all the evidence and arguments. Very often some of more startling things stated find their way into print, and they are not associated or joined to their context, nor is the answer to them provided at the same time. The answer may not actually be furnished for several weeks after one of the charges is made and by that time it is difficult to connect the answer with the particular statement to which it has reference. The disjointed manner in which these statements now and then appear in the newspapers is not a weakness in newspaper reporting, but it is merely a reflection of a weakness in which the charges and the answer to them are being produced at the hearing.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Ald. Bray of Montreal declares Toronto is dead. And he probably would not even say that the Queen City is well laid out.

Mr. Woodsworth says he is convinced armaments are no insurance against war. Ethiopia would probably testify that lack of them is not either.

The Budget is to be brought down on Thursday and probably the only relief it will afford the taxpayers will be the feeling of satisfaction that it is not any worse.

It is complained that the German Ambassador to England has been travelling round under the name of "Mr. Smith." He could at least have made it "Mr. Schmidt."

A Seattle man has had his first meal in ten years. The story does not give the name of the restaurant in which he has been waiting all that time for the waitress to come back.

The average wages in Japan for a working week of 62 hours is $4.30 for men and $1.33 for women. It is difficult for Canadian manufacturers to compete against schedules like that.

A Yonkers bank messenger has been awarded compensation because he strained his back carrying money from one branch of the bank to another. He could not have got hurt that way toting his salary home.

Pemmican estimated to at least 100 years old has been discovered near an old Indian trail in Manitoba. That takes the record right away from the hamburg in some of the highway refreshment booths.

It has been suggested at the Penitentiary probe that half the people in reformatories could be on probation, and sometimes the police are inclined to think that is about the percentage actually out on parole.

A story of one member of the Hepburn cabinet being bodily tossed out of the office of a colleague is denied just at the moment wrestling impressarios were beginning to think they were on the trail of some new material.

The report that the price of Canadian shoes is going to advance is well substantiated by the announcement that Canadian manufacturers are to present a $14,000 pair to Queen Elizabeth as a coronation gift.

TOLD YOU SO

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Old Hiram Blank lives up by me, as good a neighbor as could be, but dosed with ancient salt; at times I talk with him a deal, and always am I made to feel, that Hiram has a fault.

¶ He knows the village inside out, knows what the people go about, knows why they come and go; and when some trouble has its day, I often hear friend Hiram say, "Now mind, I told you so."

¶ The chap who ran the corner store, he couldn't make it go no more, his bank account was low; then Hiram stopped me as I walked, a good five minutes there he talked, he said he'd told me so.

¶ Before this new year's time began, he'd had his eye upon that man, his trade was getting thin; almost with joy he told the tale, he knew the corner store would fail, 'twas no surprise to him.

¶ A neighbor's wife skipped out one day, she's gone a thousand miles away, but Hiram knew of that; he'd seen it coming months ago, in fact he said he'd told me so, their life was tame and flat.

¶ I don't know what that man would do, if skies each day were bright and blue, and if there was no woe; no matter where some troubles hit, friend Hiram was expecting it—in fact he'd told me so.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(From Parliamentary Debates)

SURELY NOT

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): When he gets into trouble he goes to his lawyer.

Mr. MacNICOL: And many a time his lawyer has misdirected him, as I have seen.

LITTLE PROGRESS HERE

Mr. WALSH: Is the hon. member inferring that the industrial area is centred within a radius of 100 or 150 miles of Ottawa because the seat of government is in Ottawa? Is he suggesting that this is the reason why Ontario and Quebec are so highly developed industrially?

Mr. ROSS (Moose Jaw): No; I never tried to infer that that was the case because the government is located here.

Mr. YOUNG: He did not say so, either.

Mr. ROSS (Moose Jaw): This area has been developed because of a protective tariff. The hon. gentleman knows as well as I do that in the past several years, since this policy of protection has been in effect, many industries which used to be located in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have moved into the central area of Canada.

Mr. WALSH: Would the hon. member care to suggest one or two of them?

Mr. ROSS (Moose Jaw): There are a great many.

Mr. WALSH: Suggest one or two.

Mr. ROSS (Moose Jaw): No, I shall not.

Mr. WALSH: Then do not make the statement.

Mr. ROSS: (Moose Jaw): If my hon. friend thinks my statement is incorrect, he may make a speech. Some maritime members will probably speak on this resolution and they will tell my friend plenty. I realize that he is very much interested in this matter from the attitude he took the other day when he said that the Turgeon commission was more or less window-dressing. I want to tell my hon. friend that the Turgeon commission is one of the best commissions ever set up by parliament.

Mr. WALSH: I suggested it was political window-dressing.

Mr. ROSS (Moose Jaw): That is worse than what the hon. member said before. The Turgeon commission is one of the best commissions ever set up in this country. Fortunately for the people of this country it has brought out many facts which prove the contention we have made in this house for years, that the men in the textile industry are just racketeers and not industrialists. When the report finally comes out, I hope that this government will act upon it in a way to prevent any industry in Canada from again having the temerity to do what these gentlemen have done during the past twenty or thirty years.

Mr. DOUGLAS: Will the government act?

Mr. ROSS (Moose Jaw): Certainly they will act.

Mr. WALSH: May I ask if the hon. member has been instructed by the government so to answer the question that has just been asked?

Mr. DEACHMAN: May I ask if my hon. friend was instructed to ask his question?

Mr. ROSS (Moose Jaw): I would say to the hon. gentleman for Mount Royal (Mr. Walsh) that in this party and under this government every man has a right to say what he sees fit, and as for myself I will say what I think is proper whether the government says anything about it or not.

ADVISING ALBERTA

Mr. BLACKMORE: I should like to ask the hon. gentleman who has just taken his seat if I was correct when I understood him to say that the financial condition in Alberta in April of this year was the result of the misdeeds of the government in power during that month.

Mr. McINTOSH: What I want to make plain, Mr. Speaker, and what I wish to affirm is that if there is anything wrong with Alberta, financially or industrially, this dominion government is not responsible. The way to cure a condition of that kind is to go back and lead your own people to the constructive and sane solution of your own problems in a way that will mean a better day for the province of Alberta.

Mr. HEAPS: Then may I ask the hon. gentleman a question. Would he apply the same rule to Saskatchewan?

Mr. McINTOSH: Why, certainly. We can depend upon the people of Saskatchewan making a sound decision. There is no question about that.

Mr. BLACKMORE: Are not all the people of Saskatchewan Liberals now?

The DEPUTY SPEAKER: Order. Is the house ready for the question?

Mr. BLACKMORE: The hon. member did not answer my question.

The DEPUTY SPEAKER: Order.

Mr. BLACKMORE: Then I wish to say this: I understood the hon. gentleman to say that the condition of Alberta in April, 1936, was the result of the policies of the government which was in power in that province at that time. I challenge the hon. member to prove that the financial position of Alberta on April 1, 1936, was in any way due to the government in power in that province at that time. He absolutely cannot do it.

Mr. McINTOSH: The government of Alberta has a definite financial responsibility. It has had it for the last two years. It has not faced it aggressively or effectively. So much for the provincial government. While Alberta has not done that, I fear it has not done the next essential thing: it has not cooperated with the present dominion government in a manner to get anywhere. Because of these precarious limitations I suggest that the best thing for Albertans to do is to adopt a new perspective and a new type of action—cooperative action, and then, perhaps, Alberta will be more successful and contented.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Vote Liberal, eh?

Mr. McINTOSH: Well, they might do worse than that.

NICE BIG TABLE

"Yes, everything's going well at the office, sir. We're holding a ping-pong championship in the board room this afternoon."

A Lawyer For Every 763 Persons.

(From the New York Times.)

IN HIS report, published this morning, Dean Smith, of the Columbia School of Law, recurs to a familiar theme. Into the overcrowded bar new crowds are pushing every year. Average earnings are low. Nearly 10 percent. of the New York County bar has attained the status of paupers. "There is one lawyer for every 763 persons" in the whole population of the United States, "infants included."

These statistics can't check the inrush of new victims. In the six law schools of this town there are more than 6,000 students. Columbia, more careful in its requirements, has 526, "less than 9 percent."

Who and what can stay this flood of Blackstonians? The law schools are the chief sources of supply. Theirs is largely the responsibility, writes Dean Smith, for the overpopulation of the bar. Many law school graduates are not fit to practise. A college degree is no sure evidence of future qualification. In 1928 the Columbia Law School began to restrict "admission to a limited number of students upon the basis of their fitness to pursue successfully an extensive and intensive course of study." Yale, Cornell and Pennsylvania followed suit. Harvard will join in next Fall.

Under the process of selection the number of law students at Columbia fell from 815 in 1927 to 526 in 1936. Examination of the records of graduates in the last three years shows that there were about 30 students in each class "who, because of temperament or mediocre ability or defects in personality, are not likely to find in the profession the opportunities to which they aspire." A faculty committee is now studying the classes since 1928, "their pre-law school history, their law school record and their achievements since graduation, with a view to devising ways and means whereby the number of students admitted to the school, who are not likely to be useful members of the profession, may be further reduced."

The effort is praiseworthy, but since students rejected at Columbia can get in somewhere else, the congestion of the bar will scarcely be relieved. There will be easy law schools and hard law schools. In this state the Joint Conference on Legal Education, representing the bar associations and law schools in it, "is slowly bringing about the co-operative effort that is needed." Meanwhile, the tumefaction of the bar increases rapidly.

TIME AND TALK.

(Kiwanis Magazine)

A RACE horse's reputation depends on how little time he takes in going around a mile track. A golfer's reputation depends on how few strokes he can use in making the eighteen holes of the course. A speaker's reputation should depend on how few words he can use and still impress his ideas on the minds of his audience.

No speaker ever failed to leave his audience sorry. They are either sorry that he sat down when he did, or sorry that he didn't sit down when he didn't. There is no such thing as a speech exactly the right length. There is no perfect stopping place because the audience is never exactly satisfied. It either hasn't had enough, or else it has had too much.

Between the two extremes it would seem that every speaker would err on the short side instead of the long. Sad to relate, however, there are a dozen speeches too long to one that is too short.

One cannot help but recall Irvin Cobb's story of the public hanging at which a fat negro mammy stood perspiring in the sun for more than an hour while the condemned man went on with his final speech. Exasperated at last, she called out, "Git hung, Nigger! Git hung!" Most of the things a speaker says after the first fifteen minutes are of great interest to no one but himself.

HERE'S ONE REASON.

(Ottawa Journal)

WHY are taxes high?

One answer comes from Saskatchewan. The Jacoby Tax Commission report for that Province shows that Saskatchewan, with 931,000 people, has 7,662 agencies of local government, each possessing power to borrow and to tax. This represents one local tax-levying body for each 122 persons.

With all of these taxing bodies there is necessarily competition in taxation, a scramble for the taxpayer's dollar, plus a deal of superfluous government overhead.

The Journal has often held that that form of government is best which compels or induces the greatest possible number of people to take an interest in government. It is an argument for local bodies. But good things in government, like good things in everything else, may be abused, and this, quite clearly, is what is happening in Saskatchewan.

What is true of Saskatchewan is true of the rest of the country. We have too many bodies spending the money of the rest of us—with the consequent evil that too many other people are living off the rest of us.

SOME ENGLISH HUMOR.

(London Humorist)

"ENGLISH diminutives puzzle the foreigner," says a writer. A bookie, for instance, isn't a little book.

Some of the tiniest villages of Great Britain are in Wales. By the time the guard's van has passed a station nameboard, the engine is well out into the open country again.

A man who frequently writes 3,000 words on a postcard says he doesn't suffer from eyestrain. Sooner or later, however, village post-mistresses will.

It may be, as one writer says, that the motorcar has made no headway on the farm, but it certainly makes every chicken think it lives on the other side of the road.

A Bit of Nonsense

Improving

Swimming Instructor — "That's better, sir. You ain't swallerin' so much water—doin' more to the gallon so to speak."

A NEW YORK TRIBUTE.

(St. Catharines Standard)

THE New York Sunday Times comments on the recent speech of Sir Samuel Hoare, and the freedom which exists in the British Empire. The New York paper notes that claim of Sir Samuel that within the borders of the British Empire "is the broadest freedom for races and nationalities to develop on their distinctive lines that ever has been known in history."

Such a statement, comments The Times, is not only a defense of British imperial policy but a bid for support of that policy from its members as well as from the rest of the world that is concerned for the safety of democratic ideals. Year by year the British Government, through its rule of "law, tolerance and good nature," and by the gradual devolution of its imperial authority to the constitutent parts of the Empire, is justifying its vast trusteeship.

"The First Lord of the Admiralty, who may be the next Prime Minister, did not exaggerate, British strength and the wise use of it are today, more than ever before, bulwarks of human freedom."

It is a splendid tribute by an influential and friendly newspaper, one of the unquestioned leaders of opinion in the United States.

TOO MUCH VISITING.

(Galt Reporter)

MANY hospitals in Canada have recently suspended the privilege granted to relatives and friends to visit patients because it was feared that flu might be carried into the wards. In general this restriction applies to the public wards but in some cases a less-restrictive rule has been made for private and semi-private rooms also.

In some instances there has been objection to the regulation by friends of patients but that is unwarranted. When a person seeks hospital treatment it is for the purpose of obtaining the best results. There would be ground for condemnation of the hospital if the patient there contracted other maladies carried in by visitors.

Some authorities on the subject of treating the ill are of the opinion that there is too much visiting permitted by hospitals. Some individuals cannot restrain from curiosity when a friend is removed to the hospital. The occasion is made a sort of gala one for an orgy of visiting and many a patient has suffered from the excitement and nervous tension caused by seeing and trying to talk to relatives and friends while suffering from a malady that demands hospital treatment.

SLOT MACHINES.

(St. Catharines Standard)

REGISTER another big score for the slot machine. Howard Bell, 20 years, went to Kingston penitentiary yesterday for three years because he entered no less than eight homes in the city to purloin money with which to play the machines for which, he declared, he had a mania. Bell might have taken a sentence of seven years had it not been for the plea of E. H. Lancaster, K. C., the Crown Attorney, whose home was among those entered.

It was expected that St. Catharines, sooner or later, would provide a crime case arising out of the slot machine racket. Other communities have been providing such, from time to time, mostly in the case of children, but adults too have been pleading guilty to embezzlements from which they secured funds to play the slot machine racket.

NOT LESE MAJESTE

The King's health may now be drunk in water. That will be good news to banqueteers who for many years now have perhaps feared that they were committing lese majeste.

THEY'RE DEADLY, TOO.

(Kirkland Northern News)

WHENEVER someone shoots someone else with a revolver, everyone says "Dear me, revolvers are very dangerous things and shouldn't be allowed; we thought you had to register them or something. Hang the brute!"

But when someone, either by reason of hard liquor, stupidity or recklessness piles up a car and provides three or four jobs for the undertaker, nearly everyone says, "My, my, what a sad accident. And the driver was killed, poor fellow!"

The point being that while revolvers and automatic pistols are fairly well controlled, automobiles and trucks are not as yet regarded by the law as possible instruments of death, not sufficiently, at least.

Most any half-baked youth, or short-sighted individual, or nervous person, or even a person subject to heart attacks can obtain a driver's license. The examination is perfunctory and the attitude seems to be "you can drive it, and heaven help you if you hurt anybody."

Until the public is made to realize that there is almost as much responsibility in driving a car or truck as there is in driving a locomotive, and that equal safeguards should be applied, the traffic death toll will continue.

HELP OUR NEIGHBOR.

(Vancouver Sun)

THOSE unprecedented floods that have ravaged sections of the United States, rendered millions homeless and destroyed stupendous values in property have established such a condition of misery and distress that Canadians cannot fail to be moved with sorrow and with sympathy.

From one end of this Dominion to the other, our people are filled with a sense of the tragedy that has fallen upon our good neighbors.

It is pleasing to know that our Canadian sympathy is taking some tangible form.

Even the Chinese Government, from far across the Pacific, has asked to be allowed to contribute assistance to fellow mortals in distress.

All such gestures from Canadian organizations reflect the opinion and desire of every Canadian from Halifax to Victoria.

We should come in every way we can to our neighbor's aid.

IT WAS IMPORTANT.

(Vancouver Sun)

THE other day when Harold Hulen unchained himself, down in a Missouri town, from a radiator to which he had attached himself in his inamorata's apartment until the young lady should accept his offer of marriage, we did not think that Harold's victory was important and so we said nothing about it.

But upon thinking it over, we are inclined to the opinion that this absurd little farce was important after all.

It was important, we think, because a fellow who will endure the discomfort of chains and the embarrassment of being considered a prize jackass by several million people—and all to gain his own way—must possess qualities of determination and a firmness of mind that are not often found in this generation.

Here is a lad who will go out to look for a job and stick to it until he gets one.

He should make the young lady a very good husband—unless he starts beating her for not frying his eggs upside down.

WOMAN BREAKS BACK IN RESCUE.

COLLINGWOOD. — Suffering a broken back while rescuing her year-old baby from flames that destroyed her home on nearby Blue Mountain, today, Mrs. Albert Abbey was in a critical condition in hospital here from the injury and influenza. Three sons, aged three, eight and 15, were also saved when they jumped from the house into their father's arms.

Abbey had left the house and his bedridden wife to do the morning chores, and when he returned he found the lower part of the home in flames.

'Black Blizzard' Sweeps Kansas

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 22. — Rain and snow in the south-west, and prospects of more, sent wheat prices tumbling on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange on Saturday. A late-session pick-up in export sales failed to stem the swift recession. At virtually the lowest-levels of the active session, values closed at 1⅞ to 2¾ cents lower.

Liquidation prompted by snowfalls over most of the United States winter-wheat territory, swept by dust storms for more than a week, found little support in the market. Prices declined easily from the start.

On the break 400,000 bushels of wheat were sold for export, but this proved insufficient to stem the setback in the face of 3½-cent declines at Chicago and ¼d losses at Liverpool.

Coarse grains prices fell off with wheat.

Good ewe and wether lambs moved between $9.50 and $9.75, with culls selling down to $7. Sheep brought $2 to $5 cwt.

DR. WOOD WRITES FOR THE LEGIONARY

Old Peterborough Boy Writes Articles In Returned Men's Magazine

In the current issue of "The Legionary"—an ex-servicemen's publication issued in Montreal, Dr. E. H. Wood, of Ottawa, formerly of this city, writes the first part of an interesting article entitled: "Number Nines—A Medical Officer Looks Back."

Lieut.-Colonel E. H. Wood, V.D., M.B., F.A.C.S., the writer of these reminiscences, enlisted in pre-war days as a private in the old 57th Regiment—The Peterborough Rangers (now Prince of Wales' Peterborough Regiment). He later became a sergeant in the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons. His overseas service was entirely with the Royal Army Medical Corps.

On his return to Canada after the war, Dr. Wood practised in Peterborough, and was attached to his old regiment, the 3rd Dragoons, as medical officer, later becoming commanding officer of the 34th Cavalry Field Ambulance. Since moving to Ottawa in 1932 he has been M.O. of Le Regiment de Hull.

Dr. Wood specialises in surgery, and several of his papers on surgical subjects have been published in Canadian and American medical journals. He is a member of Ottawa branch of the Canadian Legion, and has rendered invaluable service to his old comrades by giving free medical attention to unemployed ex-servicemen at the Legion Shelter in the capital.

Silk stockings from America are to be introduced into Lima, Peru.

LAD IN FOR THEFT IS BEING TAUGHT

lower in 1936 than in any previous year, said Mr. Neelands. Ordinarily the reformatory contained 40 to 50 per cent first offenders, but in 1936 only 1,390 of the 4,036 in reformatories were first offenders.

"If all those committed to reformatories had continued in crime, it would have necessitated the building of a 500 to 700 person institution each year," he said.

"Would you say that can be adduced when the average term is only seven months?" asked Judge Madden.

"Yes, taking into account also that population has increased 25 per cent. and reformatory population only five per cent," said Mr. Neelands.

The law of averages shows that if a prisoner is going to repeat he does so within two years, he said.

Work Must Be Interesting.

"If work is to be really valuable to prisoners, it must be interesting," said Mr. Neelands. "If you continue placing paid men on principal jobs, all drudgery and uninteresting work would be relegated to prisoners. We must maintain the interest of prisoners in their work.

"When teamsters were absent during construction here, we gave their teams to picked prisoners and found they handled the teams more satisfactorily than the teamsters.

"Prisoners are fed better at Burwash than at Guelph," said Mr. Neelands. "There is more variety, more substantial food, better food. The reason is that climate is colder at Burwash and there is more outside work.

"A young fellow from Southern Ontario placed at Burwash at outside work has an almost ungovernable appetite for the first few months. I know it because I had a similar experience. I think the meals at Mimico and Guelph are about the same."

"Should not men working outside at Guelph get the opportunity for extra helpings?" asked Counsel Gillanders.

"The rule when I was in charge here, and which I thought was still in force, was that a man could have second helping if he wanted," said Neelands.

"There seems to be evidence such is not now the case," said Gillanders.

Housed Better Than At Home

Mr. Neelands suggested that prisoners were housed more comfortably and given better meals than in their homes. He said chefs should try for a variety of food according to season and price and a variety of menus.

"On short notice during the night we had 2,000 blankets shipped to the Haileyoury fire a few years ago.

"There is no excuse for prisoners using worn-out blankets because they are made here," he said. "Old worn blankets can be shredded here and used in making new blankets."

Mr. Neelands opposed the use of mattresses in reformatories. "They constitute a big sanitary problem as regards vermin," he said.

"The springs are fine and closely woven and it is no hardship to sleep on them with a couple of blankets over them." He opposed supplying sheets. "Thousands of men in Northern Ontario sleep without sheets" he said. "We shouldn't give them too many privileges."

Many young men who come to Guelph Reformatory need manual labor. "They need to be taught the lesson of work," he said. "When a young man their age, I did hard work such as we ask them to do with a pick and shovel and it was one of the finest lessons in my life. I got a mental kick out of it too.

"We have never attempted to teach the prisoners a trade. We don't have them long enough."

Only 6 Asked Longer Term

Mr. Neelands attached little weight to the suggestion that the reformatory was "too pretty" leading prisoners to want to stay. "In the many years I have been connected with the department, only six out of thousands of prisoners have asked to stay past their terms.

Two had been injured in the reformatory, four others ended their terms in inclement weather and wanted to stay a month or so until spring."

Mr. Neelands opposed the building of a wall around the institution. "We realized the building of an open-style reformatory would lend itself to escapes, but we thought the benefits would outweigh disadvantages."

"We have not been stinted by the government, but we have tried to make only necessary expenditures, taking into consideration the scale of living of ordinary citizens." Mr. Neelands told the commission. "Economy has been reasonably carried throughout the institution.

Recognized Need of Change.

"We recognized 18 months ago in the department that the staff in the institution needed reorganization. We transferred Mr. Oliver here from Burwash, but unfortunately he died some months later. We appointed Dr. Heaslip. It is one thing to say a staff should be reorganised and another to decide who will stay and who will go. It is our experience it takes a year or more for a new superintendent to know and organize his staff.

"A superintendent can suspend an officer, but the provincial secretary and the deputy minister decide in conference whether the guard shall be reinstated or let out. Sometimes guards are hired when they apply at Toronto and sometimes they are engaged when recommended by the superintendent who has interviewed them. The department has hired no guards for this institution, all applicants are referred to the superintendent who is given a free hand because we hold him responsible."

Nearly 440,000 foreigners have left France in the last few years.

LAKEFIELD

COUNCIL DECIDES TO PURCHASE RINK

Lakefield Ratepayers Will Be Asked To Endorse Buying Property

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 22.—The Council of the municipality of the village of Lakefield held a special meeting on Friday night, February 19, for the purpose of discussing the matter of the purchase by the Village of Lakefield of the Lakefield Rink Company's assets. The meeting was well attended ,a number of ratepayers being present to wait upon the council. The purchase of the rink was thoroughly discussed, many of the ratepayers voicing their opinions. The unanimous opinion was that it would be advisable to buy the property, and a resolution was passed by the council to the effect that the necessary legal proceedings in connection with the purchase of the rink property, gone ahead with.

The buying of the property will necessitate a vote by the ratepayers of the village. The date of the vote has not yet been set but it will take place at the earliest opportunity after the necessary time allowed for proper publication of the plebiscite has elapsed.

Providing the matter meets with the approval of the majority of the ratepayers, the property will be bought for the amount of the mortgage—approximately $1,800.

Trinity W.M.S. Meets.

Mrs. Elmer Sherwin offered her home to the members of Trinity United Women's Missionary Society for their February meeting which was held on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe presiding. The program was in charge of Mrs. H. M. Orr, leader of the White group, and was as follows:

A temperance reading given by Mrs. Alexander German; chapters from the study book given by Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe and Mrs. F. W. Newell; a conversational talk from the study book between Mrs. H. Edwards as a missionary doctor and Mrs. A. M. Brooks as an Indian woman; a solo, "Take Time to be Holy," by Miss Mildred Sherwin, with accompaniment by Mrs. W. Tate. Plans were made for a thimble tea to be held in the near future. The allocation for the year will be $76. Lunch was served by the members of the White group.

Personals.

Friends of R. Puffer will regret to hear he was rushed to Peterborough Hospital during the week where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Beamish, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Oliver and little son Lloyd spent Friday with Thomas Newcombe of Warkworth.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church is holding its Sunday School social in the basement of the church on Friday evening, February 26, with supper served from 6 to 8 p.m.

MARMORA LEGION DISCUSSES PLANS

Hope To See Vimy Pilgrimage Film Taken By Ross Hood

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 22.—Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion met in the Legion Room on Saturday evening with President T. Cousins in the chair.

Matters of minor importance having been dealt with, the secretary was instructed to write to Ross Hood of Peterborough with view to arranging a date for the showing of the Vimy Pilgrimage film as taken by Mr. Hood.

The branch took up the matter of a commemoration of King George VI's coronation. An invitation was received by St. Paul's Men's Club for the branch to attend their next meeting on March 3rd. this being accepted. Mention was made at the meeting of the fact that the name of Comrade Sergt. H. Osborne had been submitted for attendance with others of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment at the forthcoming coronation.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL.

EDMONTON. — Emil Chichnita, 40, died in hospital here to-day from multiple injuries suffered on Saturday when a gas explosion shook the Penn Coal Mine, 15 miles north of here, and injured five other miners.

scheduled to meet today, the special committee on farm implements which has been working since early last session and the marine and fisheries committee which last week finished a hearing on trap fishing along the Pacific coast.

Those who expected an optimistic budget next Thursday pointed to Mr. Dunning's estimate last year that $372,100,000 revenue would be collected by March 31. Already the revenue is above that figure. With two months of the fiscal year to go, the revenue report at the end of January showed collections of $373,538,000.

Mr. Dunning is expected to have a brighter picture to present to the country this year in view of improved business and expending revenues. Last year Mr. Dunning gave $372,100,000 as the total revenues of the fiscal year ended March 31, 1936. This year, with two months still to go, revenues have already exceeded that amount, reaching a total of $373,538,000.

In his speech last year, the Finance Minister forecast a deficit this fiscal year of less than $100,000,000. In view of the improvement in revenues, it was considered likely he would more than make good his promise. Last year's deficit was $162,191,000.

Consider Estimates.

The early part of the week will be devoted largely to the consideration of the estimates. Defeat on Friday night of the amendment by Mr. MacNeil to the motion to go into supply by the overwhelming vote of 191 to 17 was followed by a start on the defence estimates and they may be continued to-day.

Estimates of the Post Office and Pensions and National Health estimates will probably also be dealt with.

Finance Minister Dunning, who was leading the House at adjournment on Friday night, indicated some of the Government's legislation might also be dealt with to-day.

Accordingly third reading will probably be given the Bill to extend the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act. A resolution stands on the order paper preliminary to the measure to negative the cold clause in bonds. This will provide bonds payable in gold in New York, for instance, may be discharged by paying ordinary legal tender of the United States.

The Bill to establish a Combines Commissioner may be introduced and the measure prohibiting Canadian nationals from enlisting in foreign forces or on one side or the other of civil conflicts such as that in Spain stands for second reading.

Another Bill shortly to be introduced will provide benefits of the Old-Age Pensions Act will be given blind persons at an earlier age than the 70 years applying to others. At what age the blind will receive the pensions will not be disclosed until the Bill comes down.

Several names have been mentioned for the Royal Commission to carry out the inquiry announced last week into taxation and financial relations and Prime Minister Mackenzie King may be able to state this week who the Commissioner will be.

pants were moving furniture upstairs when a door was forced open by the pressure of the water.

Howard carried his wife and 12-year-old daughter through three feet of icy water to escape harm. James Gow, a neighbor of Howard, claimed the river there to be the highest in 55 years. Gow's house was flooded with several feet of water.

"It was only that row of cedar trees that saved the house," Howard said, pointing to a row along his back fence against which the ice was piled 10 feet high. "They creaked and groaned but they didn't give in," he said.

A horse trapped in a barn a considerable distance from the river was saved by several men. So quickly did the water rise the animal's plight went unnoticed until the lower part of the building was half full of water. At the Hamil livery barn two horses were removed when water flooded the cellar to a depth of three feet.

"Teddy," a collie dog owned by nine-year-old Jimmie Anderson, was saved from drowning when it was trapped in the flooded cellar of the Anderson home. "Red" Brown, Elora intermediate hockey goalkeeper, slid through a coal chute with several men holding his legs, and hauled the dog out.

At St. David Street Bridge the water rose 12 feet in less than an hour, flooding the boiler room of the Beatty Brothers' lower factory and extinguishing fires in two boilers. Backwash from a drain flooded the boiler room and paint shop of the Bissel firm, but no damage resulted.

Rapidly rising, the water overflowed two retaining walls and flooded the cellars of a half-dozen houses and the Elora Branch of the Canadian Legion club rooms. The flood damaged pumps and refrigerating equipment as well as putting out the fires in the club's furnace.

Ice caused considerable damage to the frame building housing the J. C. Mundell Company water wheel. The lower flat of the Elora Furniture Company plant was filled and a steam pipe broke and several belts stored there ruined by three feet of water.

Besides flooding the Grand River at Fergus, a small creek on Garafraxa Street went on the rampage transforming the district into a miniature river. Gardens and driveways were swept away by the water's force and the flood poured over the roadway and sidewalks to a considerable depth.

FINE PROGRAM FOR VALENTINE PARTY

Christian Endeavor Society Sponsors Enjoyable Event At Lily Lake

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LILY LAKE, Feb. 22.—Members of the Christian Endeavor Society and their friends enjoyed a jolly Valentine party on Monday evening, when there was a good attendance.

Trio, Elva and Jean Gray and Allen Boate, pupils of Miss Dorothy Rowland, who showed very careful training on the part of their teacher; recitation, Phyllis Rowland; little Shirley Fitzsimmons, of Peterborough, tap-danced her way into the hearts of her audience with her bright numbers, the Hawaiian guitar accompaniment being played by Dorothy Rowland, Jean and Elva Gray; vocal quartet, Mrs. Dick Bate, Helen Rowland, Enid Hancock and Dorothy Rowland; recitation, Jean Hancock; Hawaiian instrumental Gray sisters and Allen Boate; solo, Shirley Fitzsimmons; mouth organ and auto harp selection, Harold Thompson; Hawaiian quintet, Dorothy Rowland, Shirley Fitzsimmons, Elva and Jean Gray and Allen Boate. By special request, Shirley appeared again and was given considerable applause for her tap-dancing efforts.

Games and contests were in charge of Ray Hancock, followed by the Valentine Postoffice distributed by Everett Tully and Jack Ferguson.

The serving of refreshments concluded a pleasant evening's entertainment.

the military note was recurrent in every episode, in the Union Jack that covered his coffin and the Canadian Legion's poppy wreath above it; in the presence of many members of the Legion wearing the colored berets of their divisions and including some men of the Imperial Army corps; and again in the address by Captain, the Reverend George S. Easton.

The large assembly in Trinity Church included representatives of the city's municipal bodies, service clubs, men of business and of the professions, and Mr. Giffen's late associates of the Examiner. The city council was represented by Mayor Macdonald, Aldermen Sloan, Juby, Glover and Gordon; the Board of Education by Dr. A. Moir, Charles Shaw, Dr. C. M. Scott; Roland Denne of the Utilities Commission; Fred J. Overend, president of the Chamber of Commerce; nearly all the members of the Kiwanis Club of which Mr. Giffen was a member; many of the members of the Rotary; Kinsmen and Lions Clubs; Y.M.C.A.; younger men of the Peterborough Ski Club which Mr. Giffen had actively supported; heads of factories; bankers; J. J. Duffus, M.P., and many others.

Visiting Associates

Business associates from out of the city included: Walter Amos, Wilfred Campbell and Stanley Sainthill of the Toronto Star staff; W. A. Lydiatt, Toronto, publisher of "Marketing"; F. P. Kuhn of Western Weeklies; W. J. Coyle and Harry McCrum of the Kingston Whig-Standard; Arthur Partridge, manager of the Canadian Daily Newspapers' Association.

The pall bearers were: Harry B. Muir and Rupert Davies of Kingston; Al Sharpe, president of the Kiwanis Club; Ian Macdonald of Montreal; Frank Hughes of this city who was a friend of Mr. Giffen in Edmonton, and J. T. Hornsby.

Time a Tomb Builder

In his address Rev. Mr. Easton said that the death of Mr. Giffen was another reminder of the fact that time was just a tomb builder. Earthly cities have periods of progress and retrogression, or growth and decay, but one city that is constantly growing is the great and silent city of the dead.

"We all realize the inevitableness of death. From observation and experience we know that all the great processes of nature are secret and sudden, and it seems to be the plan of God to conceal Himself. Springtime steals on us silently and imperceptibly, and just as silently and imperceptibly spring gives place to summer, and summer to autumn. The little grain of seed falls on the ground. Silently and imperceptibly the forces of nature begin to work on it. The seed dies, and then it begins to grow, to bear flower and fruit. The forces of decay set in, and at length it dies. So death comes into the homes and the church, and into the community, calling this one or that.

There is no flock, however watched and tended
But one dead lamb is there!
There is no fireside, howso'er defended,
But has one vacant chair.

"We have come here today to pay our tribute of respect to the memory of this young man who has been taken from us in the midst of his administration of his trust, and at a time in his life of the greatest possibilities of service. We pay tribute to him as a citizen of Canada, and of the British Empire, to one in the days of war heard the call of his country and the Empire. At Hill 70 he was terribly wounded, and like many another soldier he returned from the war, and continued to suffer during the post war period until their going to premature graves. These men have given their lives as really as those who fell on the field of battle in the smoke and din of war. This tribute is inspired by love of country and patriotism as we stand united by the indissoluble bond of our common patriotism, and our gratitude is inspired by the knowledge that ungratefulness in a nation is a thing that will make it not to endure.

Reached High Place

"We pay tribute here, at least a great number of you, as business men to one who was associated with you in the great field of business endeavor; to one you came to know who by hard work and dogged persistence reached a high place of responsibility and influence in that field. We pay tribute to him as a fellow man whose interests extended far beyond local affairs and whose heart was behind every opportunity to assist humanity, who was ready to lend the help of an alert mind and keen intellect to all things that make for betterment in the realm of art and painting and music."

Rev. Mr. Easton recalled a personal interview on an occasion when he asked Mr. Giffen for his assistance in an undertaking connected with church work, and Mr. Giffen's reply was, "You can count on me." What a motto that was, Rev. Mr. Easton said, for every member of the church and of any other organization that called for men's co-operation. "As friends and brothers we pay a tribute of deep affection to the memory of his generous and kindly spirit which regarded human friendship as more precious than the external advantages of fortune."

His Poetic Mind

"Mr. Giffen was an alert business man, an attractive speaker, a keen thinker, a philosopher and a poet. In chats with him I could feel a certain indefinable charm about him. In his office before he went to the hospital for the last time he told me about his life on his father's farm in Nova Scotia. He told me that the watershed which separates the Atlantic Ocean from the Bay of Fundy runs through the farm, and on its crest stands a barn whose roof is parallel to that ridge; and that rain that falls on one side of the roof flows down to the Atlantic Ocean, and on the other side to the Bay of Fundy. Mr. Giffen added this remark, which reflected his poetic mind. He said 'how true it is of every one of us that any day something may turn the little stream of our frail lives into the great ocean of eternity'. Little did he realize how soon that was to come to him."

Rev. Mr. Easton spoke of the briefness and uncertainty of life, even when it reached three score years and ten or four score. Death would come again to some one in that congregation, but who and when and where was unknown. "All flesh is like grass which in the morning groweth up, and in the evening is cut down and withers."

Quality of Living

"If life is so frail and so easily turned into eternity I am comforted by the knowledge that God's meaning of life is not your way not mine. He judges us by what we are and what we give, not in what we have and what we get. The greatest life on this planet was that of our Lord Jesus Christ who said, 'I have come that you may have life', the more abundant life of higher ideals and better deeds. God measures life by the quality of our living.

"With the words of Mr. Giffen in our ears and setting a challenge to us 'You can count on me', let us remember that the great forest of trees is falling fast, and a sturdy young oak has fallen in our midst. May we in the church, in society, in the nation, worthily reforest our land by God's grace."

At the conclusion of the service in which members of the choir, with Miss Clarry at the organ, assisted, the bank of flowers which formed the background to the coffin was removed, baskets and wreaths being carried from the church by the men of the Legion, Kiwanis and other service clubs. At the cemetery the prayers as the coffin was lowered in the grave were recited by Rev. Mr. Easton, and further up the slope the military calls were sounded by Bandsman John Sage of the 57th Rangers.

Floral Tributes.

The following floral tributes were received: Kingston Whig-Standard; A. L. Elliott; Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Davies, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Muir, Kingston; Alfred and Jean Robinson, Halifax; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming, Owen Sound; Bedford Lodge; Peterborough Air Club; Mayor and Members of City Council; Peterborough Winter Sports Committee; Joe E. Swaying Branch Causes Short Circuit In System At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22.—The west side of the town was plunged into darkness for three-quarters of an hour on Sunday evening when the wires were shorted by the branch of a tree which was heavy with rain. Queen street residents enjoyed a thrilling spectacle as a strong wind caught the branch swinging it into the line causing a short which would light up the whole section with a bluish light.

Line men were soon on the scene and the current was shut off while the offending branch was removed.

A Face Covered With Pimples Causes Much Embarrassment

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

There is little doubt but that impure and impoverished blood is the soil on which those red, white, pus filled pimples develop and thrive, and that nothing short of a vigorous, persistent blood purifying treatment will eradicate them from the system.

Try a few bottles and be convinced.

"A CHEST COLD CAN BE DANGEROUS"

That's what doctors say. So treat a cold with the respect it deserves. At the first sign—use PENETRO

If your child has a cold treat it at once. Rub PENETRO on chest, throat and back. Quicker in action, easier to use, and better in result than the out-moded mustard-plaster, PENETRO quickly stimulates circulation and allays congestion with its modern medication. At the same time its aromatic vapours fumigate the nasal passages, soothing and healing the delicate tissues. The penetrating action of this great family remedy is due to its mutton-suet base (which melts at body temperature) to which is added scientific, quick-acting medicaments. Yet PENETRO cannot harm the tenderest skin.

Don't delay—don't let any cold get even a headstart. Have PENETRO in the house always. It's equally as effective for adults as it is for children. Clear, simple directions are in each package. 25c at any druggist.

UNION MEN AIM AT STEEL AND OIL INDUSTRIES NEXT

Lewis Group Also Concentrate On Swinging Chrysler Corporation In Line

STRIKES GRIP DETROIT

DETROIT, Feb. 22 (AP)—The avowed intention of the United Automobile Workers of America to become the sole bargaining agency for Chrysler Corporation employees shared attention today with announcements of impending drives to unionize the United States steel and oil industries.

An organizational director of the U.A.W.A., a unit of the committee for industrial organization, announced at a union mass meeting in Detroit last night the group would make overtures to Chrysler officials this week.

John Brophy, executive director of the C.I.O., said its 280 steel union lodges would soon discuss demands on officials of the steel industry.

A campaign to organize the oil fields, said Harvey C. Fremming, president of the International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers, will begin at Houston, Tex., about April 1 with C.I.O. support. There were reports that the C.I.O.'s rival, the American Federation of Labor, also would campaign to unionize the oil industry.

Factory Defies C.I.O.

The stalemate between some 80 sit-down strikers and officials of the Fansteel Metallurgical Corporation in North Chicago, Ill., persisted. The factory management said it would not negotiate with C.I.O. organizers. The strikers said they would not deal without them.

C.I.O. representatives in Newark, N.J., said they had made headway in New Jersey despite Governor Harold G. Hoffman's warning he would use every resource to bar sit-down strikes.

In Detroit Walter L. Frey, president of a seat cover manufacturing concern, remained in his office determined to "sit it out" as long as the group of strikers were on a sit-down in his factory.

Col. Albert H. Whitcomb, commanding the national guard in militia-ruled Anderson, Ind., intimated the troops would be recalled soon. The guardsmen took over the city after 10 persons were shot in a fight between unionists and anti-unionists.

Sit-down strikers said by strike leaders to number more than 2,000, held seven Detroit plants. Some 1,300 women were said to be involved in the disputes at four cigar plants.

WALTER HUSTON'S EX-WIFE PASSES

Was Vaudeville Partner Of Toronto-Born Actor For Many Years

As Bayonne Whipple, Mrs. Huston had been playing in vaudeville for many years when she met Huston, a vaudeville actor, in 1909, and entered upon a professional career with him under the team of Whipple and Huston. They were married at Little Rock, Ark., in 1915, and continued their vaudeville work until 1924, when Huston went on the legitimate stage.

Mrs. Huston obtained a divorce at Reno, Nev., in 1931, on the ground of desertion. She was so ill then that nurses were needed to assist her into the courtroom.

For Tuesday, February 23

Judging by the lunar transits, this may be a day of doubt and perplexity. Much depends on the exercise of wise judgment, sound decisions and a more than ordinary degree of vigilance against fraud, deception and misrepresentation.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of some impediments, postponements and rather devastating conditions, which may be attended by sudden journeys, removals or change, all of which should be managed with prudence and discretion, since there is a menace of fraud, misrepresentation and duplicity. Transactions with rings, combines or secret societies may prove profitable.

A child born on this day may be restless, nervous, unsettled, talkative and, in many cases, indiscreet, although it will be versatile and fond of explorations into untried fields of research and natural forces.

OPEN FORUM HEARS REV. DR. McLEAN

Sidelights On Philosophy, Science And Religion Are Given By Speaker

Sidelights on philosophy, science and religion were provided the Open Forum by Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean of St. Andrew's United Church Sunday afternoon.

Interesting were his definitions of the three. Philosophy, he said, was the "obstinate attempt of man to think clearly." He suggested science could be defined as man's attempt to discover the laws by which he lives and referred to religion as man's reaction to his environment.

The philosophy of the past century was so involved that it has fallen largely into disrepute in modern days, he continued. He said that clear thinking is a difficult thing in the present day due to chaotic conditions. Thinkers must be trained for the task just as professional men and athletes are trained for their tasks.

Dealing with science, Mr. McLean said the deeper study of science has revealed that the administration of the universe is completely indifferent to man. The further man studies science, the more deeply appreciative is he of his own insignificance. The study tends to destroy man's respect for himself, he said.

In his references to religion, the speaker said man must rise above his environment and overcome difficulties if civilization is to progress. Practical religion enables man to do that.

Vice-president Charles Elliott was in the chair.

ARCHAEOLOGIST WILL BE RETIRED

H. I. Smith Through March 25 After 25 Years In Dominion Service

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP).—Harlan I. Smith, Dominion archaeologist for the last quarter century, will be superannuated March 1, it was learned yesterday. The 65-year-old internationally-known scientist will retire in the 25th year of an educational movement he launched when he came here.

"The children's university" Smith called the winter lecture series he evolved for the museum in 1912 when he arrived from the American Museum of National History in New York. It started in a small way with a few children appearing Saturdays to hear a member of the museum staff talk about his work and show lantern slides.

Last year as many as 1,200 children appeared on Saturday's, necessitating three deliveries of the lectures and repeat showings of motion pictures which had been added during the years to the lecture illustrations.

Smith was a member of the Morris Ketchum Jessup North Pacific expeditions staffed by the American Museum in the late 1890's and did extensive work in British Columbia, on the coast, the plateau land of the interior and the Thompson River Valley.

He was on the coast with Professor Franz Boaz, now of Columbia University, in the days when the Potlach drums beat continously for two weeks, day and night, at a time when as many as 50 huge dugout canoes could be seen on the village beaches, drawn up in front of the long lines of totem poles.

ATTACK REBEL GUN POSTS.

MADRID, Feb. 22 (AP).—Government troops cut deep into the insurgents' line south-east of Madrid and fought their way up the slopes of Pinzarron Hill yesterday in an attempt to silence guns shelling the Valencia road.

The "see-saw" battle of the Jarama River coursed into another day as a section of Madrid's defenders dug into the slopes of the hill between San Martin de la Vega and Morata de la Tajuna, 20 miles from the city.

R.A.F. Plane To 'Bomb' Ground Troops

Co-operation between the British army and the Royal Air Force gained another link with the adoption of this scheme of supplying food and supplies to troops, from the air. The food is loaded in metal cylinders, one of which is shown in place here and flown over the spot where the ground troops are to pick it up when dropped. This photo was made at Hawkinge, Eng., during a test.

ATTENDANCE INCREASED.

Attendance at the Bethany Tabernacle Sunday School on Sunday was 82, an increase of five over the same Sunday a year ago.

INSPECTOR HERE.

Inspector Ecker of the Ontario Department of Public Welfare (Children's Shelter branch) was in the city on Thursday, Friday and Saturday last week.

W.E.A. IN PARAGON HALL.

The Workers' Educational Association meeting to-night will be held in Paragon Hall, an hour of social intercourse with refreshments being added to the weekly lecture.

MORE LUMBERING WORK.

Increased lumbering operations in the northern section of this district have improved employment with resultant decline in applications for relief, Fred McNeeley, departmental inspector, informed the Examiner to-day.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Receiving a report that smoke was pouring out rear windows of the J.J. Turner building on George street, the Fire Department sent a full detachment to the scene Sunday. A chimney fire was found to be the cause of the alarm and was quickly extinguished.

AGAINST DEFENSE PROGRAM

The Oshawa C.C.F. is planning to canvass every home in that city in an effort to secure signatures to a petition protesting against the proposed increase in Canadian expenditures on defense. It is probable that a similar campaign will be carried on in other cities.

NO ICE JAMS

The waters of Jackson Park creek swelled with threatening rapidity as a result of the week-end thaw and rainfall but all danger had passed today. A large volume of ice was to be seen moving down the creek as the flood reached its height but the ice was carried safely to Little Lake without jamming.

ADDRESSED SUPPER CLUB.

Dr. T. J. Meek, professor of Oriental Languages at the University of Toronto, was guest of honour at the Friday Night Supper Club meeting. He later addressed the regular extension lecture audience. The club decided to hold a religious service some Sunday afternoon. Jack Richardson was in the chair. Stan Northrop entertained at the piano.

TAX RATE MEETING.

Alderman Hamilton's finance committee will review the estimates Tuesday night for the purpose of striking the tax rate. The chairman and Mayor Macdonald have been consulting M. E. Shaver, city treasurer, almost daily in regard to his computations, and it is reported that the committee is ready "to get down to business' on the rate.

HAD ROUGH WEATHER.

Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart and Dr. G. Raymore Scott returned on Friday evening from a three weeks' trip to Hamilton, Bermuda. They report extremely rough weather on trips both ways. On the return journey the vessel was forced to come to a stop for several hours as giant waves were breaking over the bridge and no progress could be made.

SALESMAN CONVICTED.

On being convicted before His Honor Judge Sheldon L. Smoke in county judge's criminal court Saturday morning of a charge of obtaining wool for the purpose of manufacture by false pretences, Frank Penn of Toronto, described as a salesman, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment. After securing a conviction on first of four charges against the accused, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., withdrew the remaining three charges.

CAR CAUGHT FIRE

A backfire is blamed for setting afire a car belonging to F. Flagler near the corner of Aylmer and King streets Saturday. The aid of the Fire Department was requested and the blaze was checked before serious damage had been done. The Department attended a chimney fire at the home of E. Griffin on Bethune street on Sunday.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

Inebriates comprised the major part of the docket which was disposed of in short order by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this (Monday) morning. On pleading guilty to intoxication charges Cecil Valley, George Dwyer and Edward King were fined $10 and $4.50 costs with the option of 10 days "on the hill" in default, while Fred Hamilton, who pleaded guilty to theft of a windbreaker was sentenced to ten days.

PEDESTRIAN IS HURT.

Norman King, 50, 215 Lake street, sustained abrasions to his face and bruises to his right leg as the result of being struck down by a motor car when crossing George street at the intersection of Brock street at 9.30 p.m. Saturday. Melvin Andrews, 21, Norwood, alleged driver of the car involved, was travelling south on George street at the time of the accident. He claims that King hesitated when crossing the street, and that when the brakes of the car were applied the rear end swerved around and the hind bumper of the car struck the pedestrian.

ARE GOOD POTATOES

Maritime potatoes are supposed to rank among the finest on the continent but the Peterborough public does not like them, dealers report. Accustomed to local-grown potatoes, the public finds the difference in flavour resulting from the difference in the nature of the soil in which they are grown sharply defined, they say. Diminishing supplies of the local product have forced many housewifes to turn to the Maritime potatoes during the past several weeks.

WHAT AND WHERE IS MIND?

"Mind" was, the subject of the lesson-sermon for the Christian Science Churches on Sunday. The Golden Text was. "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding." (Proverbs 3:5). Selections from the Bible included the following from Job, 28: 15, 20: "It cannot be gotten for gold, neither shall silver be weighed for the price thereof. Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding? Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following from page 310 and 284 "Mind is God, and God is not seen by material sense, because Mind is Spirit, which material sense cannot discern. It is not rational to say that Mind is infinite, but dwells in finiteness,— in matter,—or that matter is infinite and the medium of Mind."

TOY PISTOL USED TO THREATEN MAN

Drunk Is Floored In Local Cafe When He Brandished Toy Gun

One man received a free meal and another was fined with the option of 15-days imprisonment on an intoxication charge as a result of a fracas in the Canton Cafe on Saturday evening in which a toy pistol was brandished to the consternation of the Chinese and restaurant patrons.

Giving the police version of the affair after John McIntosh of Ford avenue pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this (Monday) morning, Inspector James Reid declared: "This young man was in an intoxicated condition when he went into the restaurant with a toy pistol and tried to scare customers into giving him money."

Asked by His Worship for an explanation of his conduct, McIntosh claimed, "I don't remember taking the gun out of my pocket. It was a toy pistol which I bought for my younger brother."

When McIntosh brandished the gun, it was learned, a customer slugged him on the jaw after which he was placed under arrest by Constable John Deannard charged with being drunk. The man who is said to have hit McIntosh was given a free meal by the grateful restaurant proprietor.

OBITUARY

JAMES O'BRIEN, SR.

Succumbing to a short illness, James O'Brien, Sr., passed away at his home, 20 Aylmer street, today (Monday). He was in his 78th year.

Mr. O'Brien was born in Douro township, son of the late Michael O'Brien and Bridget Hourigan. He spent the greater part of his life in farming in his native township, coming to this city 18 years ago. A member of the Sacred Heart Church, he was active in the Holy Name and Altar Societies.

Surviving are two sons, Michael James and Thomas Joseph, both of this city; two daughters, Mrs. P. M. Young and Miss Loretta O'Brien, both of Toronto; and one sister, Mrs. Edward Carlo. His wife predeceased him 13 years ago.

The funeral will be held Wednesday from the home at 8.45 a.m. to the Sacred Heart Church for service at 9 a.m. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. C. M. WATSON.

A solemn final tribute was paid the late Mrs. Charles Watson as she was laid to rest in Little Lake Cemetery this afternoon. The large circle of friends she made as a worker of Knox United Church and in the ladies' branch of the local Liberal Association was represented in the group attending the service.

Rev. George S. Easton of Trinity United Church officiated at the service at the Nisbet Funeral Home and at the graveside. Pall-bearers were John Allen, R. Ross, J. Boyd, J. F. Morrison, H. J. McCannan and H. Trotter.

HENRY SANDY.

The death occurred in the Toronto General Hospital on Sunday, February 21 of a former resident of Manvers in the person of Henry Sandy, husband of Lucy Larmer. Mr. Sandy who was in his 88th year was widely known in this district and the news of his death will be a shock to many friends.

The remains are resting at Norman A. Craig's undertaking parlors, 1266 Queen street, Toronto until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning when the funeral will proceed by motor to Manvers for interment there.

MANY ENQUIRIES HOME LOAN PLAN BEING RECEIVED

Bright Promise Of Success Is In The Interest Being Taken By Home-owners

GROUP MEETINGS

A bright promise of success for the Home Improvement Plan in the Peterborough district was impressed upon Roland Denne, chairman of the general committee, by the number of enquiries from citizens and farmers on Friday and Saturday.

"We are not completely organized yet, but I have had a number of men in to see me about this plan already," Mr. Denne reported today. "Our first group meeting is Tuesday night when the contracting builders and the carpenters of the city are being invited to come together in the Chamber of Commerce at 7.30 o'clock for the purpose of appointing a representative to the general committee.

This invitation is made by the general committee, but we are simply co-operating with the provincial committee in carrying out this Home Improvement project of the federal government. The contractors and carpenters are as a matter of fact being asked to give their support to the Plan which we all believe will be a big factor in providing employment during the coming months.

What is being worked out in Peterborough is also going on all over the country, and I believe that the contractors and carpenters are going to start this week with a well attended meeting. That will be their contribution to the details of organization, and if we all get behind the Home Improvement Plan in the spirit that is reported from so many other sections of Canada it is bound to be a real success in Peterborough.

If the carpenters and builders start the week of organization as is expected they will be setting a fine example for the bricklayers, plasterers, cementmen and stonemasons on Wednesday night; the plumbers, steamfitters, tinsmiths and sheet-metal workers on Thursday night; and the painters and decorators Friday night. We want to get the ball rolling right at the start, and the general committee is putting it up to the contractors and carpenters to set the pace. After the general committee is completed by this week's meetings we should be in a position to enlarge our plans during the following week."

TWO ARE FOUND DEAD

Man Beats Daughter-in-Law to Death and Then Suicides.

DETROIT, Feb. 22 (A.P.). — Mills Janke, 64, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Anna Janke, 27, were found dead in their home to-day. Detective Lieutenant Earl A. Switzer said Janke apparently beat the woman to death, then killed himself.

Mrs. Janke was beaten with a wooden mallet and stabbed with a paring knife. Janke's body was found hanging in a closet.

MILLWALL WINS 3-1.

LONDON. — Millwall obtained a 3-1 verdict over Bristol City in a Southern Section, Third Division English football match played here to-day.

With the Boy Scouts

At Sacred Heart we met sixteen lively clubs under Akela Pete Dominic and his assistant Gerald Grady. Albert Hope and A. D. C. Lew Grant were visitors along with the troop committee. The youngsters put up some good singing and were told yarns by the story teller. Five new chums were accepted in Vince Duffus, Oscar Cheyne, Louis Corbin, Paul Reids and Clifton Hartwick.

Going north we found darkness in the "Pirates Lair," but hearc the strains of "O Canada," so sought out the squad of Scouts assembled there under Scouter Alex Chivas. Arnold Rhodes was invested into Scouting. Mr. Brown and Mr. Patterson dropped in and were in attendance at the first court of honour. D. Douglas is chairman of the Court of Honor, with Harold Morrow, secretary; and Ken Rose, treasurer. Good Scouting 11th.

At St. Peter's there were 15 cubs going strong in charge of J. Baldwin, assisted by Miss Creighton and Art Plumpton. John Wolfe and Bob McCarney were invested into the Pack. Meetings are now being held by this group in the Lyceum.

Eighteen young cubs were in action at St. James. We stayed there a short while and extended sympathy to Scouter and Mrs. Stan Leggett in the passing of Ronald Davis, a brother of Mrs. Leggett. The Cubs are in charge of Miss Palmer who has the aid of Miss Doig and C. Davis. Five new chums were accepted as follows: B. Woods, D. Woods, R. Harrison, G. Headwin and F. Cox, whilst Clayton Drury, Arnold Dogan, Leonard Watkins and Vernon Harkington were invested as cubs.

Travelling south we hit St. George's and lots of mud. Here Miss Langhorne with Miss Farr were holding seventeen clubs under control, and some job. Six Cubs received their first star. They were Andy Brown, Bob Moscrop, Doug Moscrop, Don Frick, Ken Hopkins, and Jack White.

Arriving at All Saints we found the Scouts in full swing with two troop committees on hand. Art Rose was squaring the triangle of first aid, while some of the boys were wagging their arms at signal practice in good style. Jack Carpenter a recent comer to the troop, has received advancement, and eight other new boys are in their probationary period.

At St. Andrew's Gerald Grady was pinch-hitting for Lionel Tompkins who was working. Two boys (former cubs) have joined the troop. They are Jack and Jim Ridyard.

At St. John's, the clubs were entertained by Allen Hooper with his movies. St. Paul's cubs invested Kenneth Doughty into the Pack and welcomed Gordon Wallace as a new chum.

All cub leaders and their assistants are asked to keep Tuesday, March 4 open as there is to be a sub leaders' meeting on that date in St. John's Parish Hall. All Cub leaders are requested to be on hand.

TOTTENHAM HOTSPURS WIN.

LONDON. — Tottenham Hotspurs defeated Everton 4-3 to-day at White Hart Lane in a replayed, fifth round English Football Cup match. The 'Spurs will now meet Preston North-End in London in the next round to be played March 6. Last Saturday Tottenham and Everton played to a 1-1 draw.

MOTOR CAR HITS MOVING FREIGHT TWO MEN UNHURT

Joseph Jones Of Hastings And Charles Clarke Have Close Call

CAR BADLY DAMAGED

When a motor car driven by Joseph Russell Jones, 23, of Hastings collided with a freight train at Downer's Corner crossing on the C.N.R. at 3.30 a.m. Sunday, the driver and his passenger Charles Clarke, 297 Park street miraculously escaped injury. The car was proceeding east on Highway 7 and the driver apparently failing to see the moving train until he was almost on top of it, turned his car sharply south in the same direction the train was travelling. The car was damaged about the left side. Unaware that an accident had occurred the crew did not bring the train to a halt but proceeded on their way to Belleville, while the driver and his passenger badly shaken-up extricated themselves from the damaged car little the worse for their alarming experience.

POWER CUT OFF FOR 20 MINUTES

Generator At Auburn Power House Failed For Some Undetermined Reason

The city was plunged into total darkness for a period of twenty minutes early this (Monday) morning when a generator failed for some undetermined reason at the Auburn power house. Power was off from 5 a.m. to 5.20 a.m., according to Utilities Commission officials.

Ross L. Dobbin, general manager of the Commission told a reporter that failure of the generator caused a short circuit in the system and resulted in a complete shut down for twenty minutes while a switch over was being made to another source of supply. The generator is still out of commission and has to undergo repairs.

OLD CHURCH DESTROYED

Church Built By Pioneer Missionaries 232 Years Ago, Destroyed By Fire.

MONTREAL, Feb. 22 (C.P.). — The ancient Roman Catholic Church at Pointe Aux Trembles, built by pioneer French missionaries 232 years ago, was destroyed by fire last night.

Loss in the destruction of the church, believed the oldest on Montreal Island, was set tentatively at $50,000. But this historic and sentimental value was far more than this intrinsic worth, for the structure was a religious link with the old days of French occupation in Canada.

It was built in 1706 by the Recollet Fathers, and was one of the few remaining survivals of the New France in the Montreal district.

KARL BAADSVIK WINS SKI MEET

Peterborough Skiers Take One Fourth And Two Sixth Places

ONTARIO CHAMPIONSHIPS

NORTH BAY, Feb. 22 (Special)—In spring-like weather, which made the track quite slow, 35 of Ontario's leading skiers, including former Olympic stars, competed here in the Ontario ski jumping championship under the auspices of the Laurentian Ski Club, North Bay.

Karl Baadsvik, Toronto Ski Club and 1936 Canadian Olympic representative, won the event. His first jump of 126 feet was the best of the afternoon.

In second place was Kurt Lovgren, youthful representative of the Temiskaming Ski Club, while Jacques Landry of the Norland Ski Club and member of the 1932 Canadian Olympic team placed third.

In an exhibition jump, Miss Elsie Richardson of Timmins leaped 66 feet.

Extremely mild weather has prevailed here for several days and only by great effort was the event made possible. Throughout Friday night workmen toiled putting snow on the take-off and landing hill.

The jumpers performed before one of the largest crowds to witness a sporting event in the history of North Bay.

TORONTO GIRLS BEAT WESTCLOX

Alerts Cop 16-14 Decision In Tight Tilt With Close Checking

In an exhibition girls' basketball game Saturday night in the Y.M.C.A. gym, with a good-sized crowd looking on, Toronto Alerts copped a 16-14 decision over the local Westclox. It was a tight tilt all through with checking fairly close and good and bad play mixed up. The count at half-time was 6-4 for the Toronto team and they played on even terms through the last chapter. The winners capitalized on six out of 11 free throws while Westclox got two out of four. Thelma McRae with seven and Irene McGee with six points led the victors in scoring; while Barb Blade collected six and Gladys Mortimer four for the Clockmakers. The teams:

Westclox: Madeline Blade, Gladys Mortimer, Barb Blade, Goldie Hunter, Leona Magee, Marie Ferguson, C. Whatman, Marg Snowden.

Referee, Ed Shortt; umpire, Jack Dundas.

CURLING
By HERB MARTIN

Our ice took one sweet trimming from Thursday night until early this morning...Looking over the situation Sunday it was hard to figure out if there was more water inside the rink or outside.

Right now it is beginning to dry up a little but you can't do much with only a couple of degrees of frost.

We don't know if the ice will be in condition for curling tonight, or not. we'll just have to wait and see how cold it gets during the day.

Our lady curlers are back from the Seigniory Club...But just how they made out we don't know... Coming into town along about four a.m. is just a little early to pick up news...Maybe during the day we may get some information.

The ladies expect to commence play in the Sturgeon Trophy in a day or two.

ALLAN CUP FINALS.

EDMONTON, Feb. 22 (C.P.)—Allan Cup hockey finals will be played in Calgary, starting April 6, Dr. W. G. Hardy, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced here last night.

15,000 Thrill To Sonja's Skating Brilliance

With graceful leaps, whirls, twists and glides, the former Olympic fancy skating champion, Sonja Henie of Norway, thrilled some 15,000 fans in New York during a professional exhibition. Miss Henie, now a professional, is also a film star of the first magnitude. During her short professional career she has made in the vicinity of $250,000. The graceful expert of the blades is pictured here in two striking poses taken during her New York appearance.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

A LITTLE diamond dust from the Kingston column: "All is quiet on the Eastern baseball front, except for rumors which indicate some important changes in the Central Ontario senior league. Although it is several months before the amateur ball season starts the Spring weather has apparently promoted talk, if not action. According to Bouncer Holway, who is in Kingston to referee a few hockey games, Belleville will not have a team this year, but his statement is denied by the report that the Nationals will be re-organized with Peeney Mills in charge. If Belleville does not operate there is a chance that Trenton R.C.A.F. might organize a team with plenty of diamond material on the staff at the airport. Most of the Trenton hockey team are also good ball players and might form a formidable team or strengthen the Belleville squad for a good combined club.

"PETERBOROUGH IS not wasting any time and has already held an organization meeting to consider next summer's prospects. Oshawa no doubt is ready while Napanee, with Ernie Gibbard always ready to gossip about baseball, generally keeps up diamond interest all year. Napanee will have to find another catcher with Hugh Brennan leaving for the North Country; while several other Eastern Ontario stars may be missing when the players report. Kingston may have a much stronger team than last season with prospects for at least two more players, who are now attending Queen's and may remain here for the summer. One is a catcher and the other a shortstop but, until something definite is decided, baseball officials here do not wish their names announced." Yeah, the Ponies are generally right in there.

WORD FROM the O.H.A. is that our junior Colts will go to Kingston on Wednesday and play the return tilt here Friday in the first round playdowns. Several of the Colts journeyed to Whitby last Friday to take a peek at the Red Indians of Kingston, and they say the Limestone City lads look pretty fair. But not too hot, they add. One mighty smart forward line, but the rest of the setup is only so-so. Some of the boys figured the defence and goalie looked a trifle weak. We imagine the two teams will be well-matched and make it a close series. And the team that wins ought to go quite a distance toward the "B" title.

THIS IS a fine hockey town as far as rooters at games go, but they don't usually have much to yodel about. At least not in recent years. The fans flock to the games here, even the tussles that don't shape up as being so hot. But, alas, screwy groupings, tough luck, lack of artificial ice or something or other keeps the customers from seeing much good hockey in Peterborough during the winter. Only four or five real good games all winter as a rule. The fans will even go out of town to see the Petes or Colts play, quite a few motoring to Belleville, and maybe even Kingston. And look at the way they pile on excursions. They deserve a better break.

DON'T FORGET the Senior City Hockey League triple-header at the Brock St. arena this evening. Outboard Marines meet Bewdley at seven, Mayfairs and Millbrook tangle at eight, and Westclox clashes with Lakefield at nine. All these Blood and Thunder Loop tussles should be good, especially the windup fracas. This circuit should wind up its schedule this week and commence playoffs. Three of the six teams will be in the money serial, so they're all battling hard yet before elimination sets in. We haven't heard any more of the league's affiliation as intermediate "B" with the O.H.A., but expect it'll be okay and probably the local winner will be matched against Norwood Combines first in playdowns. Tonight's games rate a crowd.

AT THE annual meeting of the O.R.F.U. in Toronto the other day, Lou Brooks of Peterborough was again appointed to the executive, Bill Fry of Belleville being the other appointee from this section. The whole slate of 1936 officers was returned and a couple of honorary gents added. A good suggestion was made by Coach Alex Ponton of Balmy Beach and will be passed on to the C.R.U. It is that the starting kickoff be made on the attacking team's 40-yard line, instead of at midfield, in order to give the other side a better chance of working the ball out of their area early. And he would do away with the second-half kickoff, saying it penalizes a team that might have had the ball in scoring position at the halftime whistle.

IN ORDER to give more grid squads some reward for finishing well it was decided to have "A" and "B" sections in both the intermediate and junior series. The first-place teams would be rated "A" and would meet in playdowns, while the second-place teams would go on into "B" playdowns. In this way, for example, the winner of our intermediate O.R.F.U. group last fall, Lindsay, would have ambled into "A" playdowns 'gainst Toronto or Western Ontario group winners; whereas the local Onfuns, who finished in second place, would have proceeded into a bunch of "B" playdowns. Since the short rugby schedule generally eliminates chances of group playoffs, this gives two squads in each group something to shoot at. A good idea.

THREE CAGE contests were run off Saturday eve at the "Y" before a good crowd. St. Paul's beat P.C.I. 21-15 and Dominion Life nosed out a 14-13 nod in Senior City League fixtures, while Toronto Alerts copped a 16-14 decision over Westclox in an exhibition gal's game. We couldn't see where the Alerts' had anything on the local lasses at all and it was only a so-so struggle, but then maybe we've been spoiled for girls' basketball after seeing the world's champion Edmonton Grads in action with their machine- like passing and deadly shooting. Both men's games were good. Dope on 'em and the volleyball staged up at the Y.M.C.A. that day is in tonight.

WINDSOR CAGERS BEATEN IN OPENER

Drop First Of Three Games 40-31 To Los Angeles All-Stars

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 22.—(CP)—If Professor Julius Goldman of Detroit Institute of Technology can do anything about it, Windsor Fords will even their best-of-three series with Los Angeles All-Stars for the amateur basketball championship of the world in the second game tonight. Professor Goldman, perhaps the greatest guard ever to perform for a Windsor team, didn't play in the opening battle Saturday, won by the Californians 40-31.

Goldman didn't play in the 1936 Olympic finals between the two teams either, when the Americans emerged with the Olympic laurel wreath, because, as an American citizen he wasn't eligible to represent Canada. He's back in town after a weekend business trip and is anxious to get a crack at his American brothers. Fords figure they have a much better chance with Goldman back to look after the elongated enemy snipers although they'll enter the fray as definite underdogs.

A packed gymnasium of 2,300 persons Saturday watched the Los Angeles team, towering over Fords with an average height of six feet, three inches, baffle their opponents in the first half to lead 22-9 at the rest period. The winners were never headed from the time Frank Lubin, six and half feet centre, counted the first basket after two minutes of play. Lubin scored 15 points, 11 of them in the first half.

Find Key In Second.

The Canadian cagers began to solve the winners' clever plays and tricky, lightning-fast overhand passes in the second half and outscored their rivals. Near the end of the match Fords were within six points of the invaders but the final rally was nipped when the Americans ran in two baskets.

The second-half Ford drive was aided greatly by Willie Rogin, Windsor Assumption College all-round athlete and generally regarded as without peer in Canuck cage circles. Rogin obtained permission from the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association to play with Fords for this series. His work of checking Lubin the last half while scoring five points himself earned him the plaudits of the roaring crowd.

Slim Jack Hupp, another giant in height at six feet, five inches, was second high scorer of the match with five baskets for a total of 10 points. Ian Allison, Ford forward, was his team's top scorer with four field goals and two foul shots for 10 points.

ARSENAL TO MEET WEST BROMWICH

Famous Londoners Will Play Away From Home In Sixth Round

LONDON, Feb. 22—(CP Cable)—Arsenal, English cup-holder and strong favorite to win the soccer trophy for the second successive year, will again play away from home in the sixth round of the competition, March 6. The draw, made today, pits the gunners against West Bromwich Albion, low-placed major league club.

In the present campaign the famous Londoners have won two of their three contests on "foreign soil." Against Chesterfield in the third round, when first and second division teams made their initial appearance in the contest, Arsenal won 5-1. On February 6 they trounced Manchester United 5-0 in London and Saturday out-played Burnley 7-1 at Turf Moor.

Millwall, third division representatives who have registered outstanding victories over Chelsea and Derby county, entertain Manchester City, and Tottenham Hotspurs are at home to Preston North End. In the remaining encounter Sunderland will visit either Grimsby Town or Wolverhampton Wanderers.

The draw:

Grimsby Town or Wolverhampton Wanderers vs. Sunderland.

West Bromwich Albion vs. Arsenal.

Millwall vs. Manchester City.

Tottenham Hotspurs vs. Preston North End.

Toronto Rink Wins At Seigniory Club

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Feb. 22—(CP)—Mrs. T. J. Agar's rink from Toronto won the Seigniory club's annual women's curling bonspiel last night with a 10-8 victory in the finals over a Montreal St. Lawrence Club group skipped by Mrs. O. G. Thompson.

In the earlier rounds Mrs. R. H. Turner's Peterborough rink was eliminated 8-7 by a Smith's Falls quartet, skipped by Mrs. W. H. Kerfoot.

Less than half the people of Britain attend the movies, according to a recent census.

CAP CORNELIUS TO VISIT CITY

To Come Here Under Auspices Of Peterborough Fish And Game Association

TO ADDRESS BOYS

Captain J. R. Cornelius, former Olympic coach, and widely known across this continent as coach of the Hamilton Olympic Club and Central Collegiate track teams, will visit Peterborough on March 19 to address a large gathering of boys of the city and district under auspices of Peterborough Game and Fisheries Association.

"Cap," as he is affectionately called by hundreds of boys with whom the veteran coach has come in contact, is recognized as one of the outstanding authorities in this Dominion in boys' work in its various phases. As coach of the Central Collegiate track team, he brought international fame to Hamilton when year after year his athletes swept to victory at the national high school championships at the Pennsylvania relay carnivals, at the Marquette university games in Milwaukee, and in many other United States' cities. In Dominion track circles, his teams have in recent years surpassed all opponents.

In addition to training athletes, "Cap" has organized and conducted a seventy-five piece school orchestra which won the Dominion title on more than one occasion. He formed a mixed choir of fifty voices which won acclaim from one end of the Dominion to the other. Perhaps his widest fame came as a result of his rifle team, which he has conducted many years. On at least two occasions members of the team, led by Captain Cornelius, journeyed to the British Empire shoot at Bisley where they topped all entries from English universities and stood high in open competition.

ST. PAUL'S LEADING BY BEATING P.C.I.

Last Half Offensive Place Presbyterians In The Lead 21 To 15

St. Paul's climbed into first place in the Senior City Basketball League standing Saturday night in the "Y" gym by notching a 21-15 triumph over P.C.I. before a good crowd of fans. A last-half offensive in a close-checking lively game gave the Presbyterians the win after they were down 11-8 at the halfway mark. Fouls were frequent as the rivals hung onto their checks, Sedgewick, Thorburn and Pulkinghorn of the winners; and Galley of the other side drawing four personals each. St. Paul's cashed in on nine free tosses to three for the other crew. Thorburn and Galley were the main scorers for the rival outfits. The teams:

St. Paul's: McIntyre, Ascott, Morrow, Sedgewick, Weir, Thorburn, Pulkinghorn.

Referee, J. C. McClenaghan; scorer, Don Charlton.

C.G.E. CAGERS LOSE TO DOMINION LIFE

Hard-Fought But Fast, Close-Checking Game Ended 14-13

Senior City Basketball League standing:

Team	Won	Lost
St. Paul's	4	1
C. G. E.	3	2
P. C. I.	3	2
Neill's	1	3
Dominion Life	1	4

Dominion Life squeezed out a 14-13 verdict over C.G.E. in a smart scrap at the Y.M.C. on Saturday night. It was a hard-fought, fast but close-checking affair every minute with the score being knotted at 6-6 at halftime. Though personal fouls were frequent all players stayed in the game. C.G.E. collected seven out of 17 free tries while the winners had 15 and made sure of six. Crowe with six points and Hunter with five led the losers in tallying; while none of the Dominions had more than two points. The teams:

C.G.E.: Richardson, Holmes, Hunter, Palmer, Crowe, Magee, Cameron, Williams.

Umpire: Hugh Dickie.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS
Ski-ing
By Charles Schaer

Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

49—THE STEM TURN

The stem turn produces a slow change in the direction of travel and is used only when running at slow or moderate speeds. It is a turn which never fails and its mastery is a most important part of ski technique. On steep slopes it may be used to join alternate right and left traverses. It can be successfully accomplished in either light or heavy snow. Either the half or low crouch position must be taken for its proper execution and the ankles are held normal unless the slope is so gentle that the braking effect of the edging prevents motion. Under this condition the skis may be somewhat flattened.

On a gentle slope start a traversing run in the half crouch position keeping the weight well forward, figure 1. Take all the weight on the downhill or "inside" ski and place the uphill or "outside" ski in the single stem position, preferably by lifting it, figure 2. This will change your course to a more downhill direction. When you have turned directly downhill transfer weight to the outside (stemming) ski by a screwing motion of the body, figure 3, as described in the snowplow turn. This will cause the outside ski to skid around in the direction of the turn. At this stage special attention should be paid to leaning the body outward from the slope, keeping the knees thrust well forward and the heels down. Hold the skis convergent until the turn is completed when the inside, now unweighted, ski is brought parallel and close to the outside ski, figure 4, and the run continued in the half crouch running position.

Important points to be watched are: Weight well forward before taking stem position; start from pure single stem not double stem, (snowplow) position; weight not to be transferred toward outside ski until turn has reached straight downhill direction; skis are not brought parallel until turn is completed.

LEAFS TROUNCE AMERKS BY 4 TO 3 SATURDAY BATTLE

Toronto Comes From Behind Twice Before Gaining Victory

APPS GOES GREAT GUNS

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—The desperate Amerks did plenty of solid "punching" at Maple Leaf Gardens on Saturday night, but the determined Leafs got in the extra jab and skated away with a thrilling 4 to 3 verdict.

In a real rip-snorter of a fight, dashing Jimmy Fowler, blond Toronto defense star, delivered the knockout blow to "Red" Dutton's warriors and their play-off aspirations. And it was the second decision of the night for Fowler, who had previously floored Les Cunningham with a one-two punch in a scuffle that earned major penalties for both.

Close to 11,000 fans saw the Leafs and Americans stage one of the most entertaining battles of the season. It was seesaw struggling as the Leafs surrendered an early lead and were forced twice to come from behind before finally capturing victory.

The game provided something of everything for the highly excited gathering. Sustained speed and action was the order for the most part, and there was plenty of hard bumping thrown in. Then to cap all, Fowler and Cunningham staged their fistic encounter.

Fowler's effort for the deciding thrust, coming at 12.39 of the third period, was a spectacular one. Taking a pass from Sylvanus Apps Jimmy darted in and, as he got his shot away, was tumbled over by defenseman Jerwa.

Fowler did not stop there, however. Slumped over on the ice, he slapped at his own rebound as Alfie Moore flopped to smother, and the puck went sailing into the open cage.

Centre star Sylvanus Apps established himself as a distinct threat for league-scoring honors as he netted one Toronto goal and assisted in two others to boost his total for the season to 36 points. Right wing mate Gordie Drillon tacked on a pair of points with assists.

In desperation, Dutton yanked Goaler Moore with one minute remaining to complete the game but "Hap" Emms, Sweeney Schriner, Art Chapman, Jerwa and Eddie Wiseman—the six attackers—failed to get a shot on Broda. Apps had one drive at the Amerk cage, but Chapman was on the mark to save with his skate.

Toronto — Goal, Broda; defense, Day and Hamilton; centre, Thoms; wings, Boll and Finnigan; alternates, Apps, Drillon, Parsons, Metz, Davidson, Shill ,Kendall, Fowler and Horner.

PEACE IN CHINA?

Central Executive And Communists Agree On United Front.

NANKING, Feb. 22 (CP-Havas)—Agreement was reached here today on terms for a "united front" between the Kuomintang and the Communist party, which would bring to an end the virtual civil war that has raged in China for nine years. The conditions will be formally approved at the next meeting of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee plenary session, now underway here.

Hagen Explodes

Noted golfer Walter Hagen shows good form in this explosion shot out of a bunker, or would you say he lifted his head too much? At any rate, the ball bounced into the air as the camera shows—and settled at Hagen's feet, still in the sand. Hagen is now on a world tour with other prominent divot diggers.

Baer Punching The Bag

Proving that his hands, particularly that injured right, are in fine shape, Max Baer (ABOVE), whangs the big bag in a gymnasium at San Francisco Calif. They stand the pressure—when the bandages are off the large lump that formerly had been there is gone. Baer plans to take on Bob Pastor in New York March 19, if the New York boxing commission will O.K. it, as the first step in his comeback to regain the heavyweight title.

MAROONS DEFEAT HAWKS EASILY, 6-1

Victors Retain Early Lead For Sixth Consecutive Victory

MONTREAL, Feb. 22 (CP).—Montreal Maroons wouldn't have a worry in the world if all their National Hockey League opponents were as easy as Chicago Black Hawks. Maroons ran up their sixth consecutive win of the season Saturday night against the team from Chicago, winning 6-1 before a crowd of 7,000.

Holding a wide margin in play most of the time, Maroons punched home a goal in the first period, added two more in the middle session and then outscored Hawks 3 to 1 in the last period to settle themselves comfortably in second place in the league's Canadian division.

Fleet Bob Gracie, centreman of Maroons' third line, led the attack with two goals, while Baldy Northcott, Gus Marker, Paul Runge and Stew Evans accounted for a goal apiece. The lone Chicago marker was scored by Defenceman Earl Seibert.

Officials—Stewart and Smith.

First Period.

1—Maroons, Evans 6.15

PARTRIDGE INCREASE

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—It is believed the number of Hungarian partridge on Prince Edward Island is rapidly increasing. Arthur White, Murray Harbor, stated he saw a flock of 18 at Machon Point. He said they were quite tame and came to the house and barns.

AMERICANS TAKE LEAFS DOWN 3 TO 1 IN NEW YORK ARENA

Second Game Of Weekend Marked By Free-For-All As Lamb And Horner "Mix It"

14,000 FANS TURN OUT

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (CP).—In a torrid game, marked by a free-for-all fight, match penalties and wide-open play, New York Americans came from behind to defeat Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1, before 14,000 spectators here last night and retain a mathematical chance to qualify for the National Hockey League playoffs.

The game started at a fast, rough pace, and was climaxed by the rousing brawl in the second frame, when Joe Lamb, New York wingman, took a swipe with his stick at Red Horner, towering Leaf defenceman. The Toronto hockeyist turned on Lamb, and the pair swung fists savagely. Players dashed from both benches, and several fights were instantly in full sway. Police finally went to the assistance of the officials and broke up the Donnybrook. Horner and Lamb were given match fouls, which meant automatic suspension from the game. No substitutes were allowed in their places until twenty minutes expired.

Happy Emms tied the score by blazing a shot past the Leaf netminder early in the second period when the New Yorkers were awarded a penalty shot after Jim Fowler tripped Nels Stewart in front of the Toronto cage. It was just before this successful shot that the fist fireworks broke out. Eddie Wiseman sent the Americans into the lead three minutes later and Schriner clinched the victory by scoring in the final minute of play after breaking away from a Toronto power-play with Joe Jerwa.

Officials—Mickey Ion and Johnny Mitchell.

Apps slipped a smooth relay to Drillon, who coasted in on Moore, but the latter made a fine diving save. Jerwa, Hamilton and Day tangled on the boards in front of the Leaf bench. They were separated after some threatening gestures.

First Period.

1—Toronto, Drillon (Apps) 4.23
Penalty—Stewart (ten minutes misconduct).
Stops—Broda, 8; Moore, 3.

Second Period.

2—Americans, Emms 4.20
3—Americans, Wiseman (Carr). 7.43
Penalties—Fowler, Horner (match), Lamb (match).
Stops: Broda, 9; Moore, 9.

Third Period.

4—Americans, Schriner (Jerwa) 19.25
Penalties—None.

FREER SUB USE URGED IN SOCCER

National League Would Permit Player Once Out To Return To Game

MONTREAL, Feb. 22 (C.P.). — Freer use of substitutes was favored on Saturday by the National Soccer League at its annual meeting here.

To get the present rule changed so a player might return to the game after substitution, the league decided to petition the Dominion Football Association and try to enlist support of the Province of Quebec, Ontario, Toronto and District, and Hamilton and District Associations.

In his annual address to the meeting, President Maurice Searle of Toronto raised the question of splitting the Dominion Association into Eastern and Western groups. Under the present system, he said, control was too remote and two sections could operate more efficiently and at less expense.

Westwood Gains Lead In E.P. Rural Loop

Wal Mortlock's Westwood Maroons jumped a point ahead of Elgin in the East Peterborough Rural Hockey League Saturday night, by taking a 3-1 verdict from Trent River, and thereby regaining the lead which they have held all season.

Play opened fast in the first period, and right from the face-off Bruce Graham opened the scoring, bulging the twine on a pass from Sandy Ross, to make the count 1-0 at the end of the first period.

The pace slackened a little in the second period, as the ice began to cut up, and the game developed into more or less shinny, with Trent River having a slight edge. However, Westwood increased their lead to two goals when B. Mortlock and J. Chaplin combined on a smart play, with the former skating right in on the goaltender, after taking a perfect pass from Chaplin, to lift the rubber into the net to make it 2-0. Trent River came right back after the face-off with a strong ganging attack, and succeeded in cutting down the lead, when Brown batted in the rebound in a scramble around the Maroon goal, with the second period ending 2-1 for Westwood.

Trent River carried the play in the last period, but found themselves two goals down again when another smart play by Chaplin and Mortlock resulted in Chaplin scoring on a pass from Mortlock to make the score 3-1.

Chaplin, B. Mortlock and E. Morris looked good for the Maroons, with Ruttan, Lane and T. Chaplin looking the best for Trent River. The line-up:

Westwood — Goal, Spencer; defence, W. Mortlock and W. Graham; right wing, B. Graham; centre, Sandy Ross; left wing, E. Morris; alternates: A. Steele, J. Graham, B. Mortlock, J. Chaplin.

Scoring Summary.

1st Period—Maroons, B. Graham (E. Morris, S. Ross).
2nd Period—Maroons, B. Mortlock (J. Chaplin); Trent River, Brown.
3rd Period—Maroons, Jerry Chaplin (Bert Mortlock).
Referee—Gord. Puffer.

HALL IS BEATEN BY FINAL STONE SEIBERLING TROPHY

Outstanding Kitchener Rink Loses To MacInnes' High Parks 11-10

SARNIA GETS CUP

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—(CP).—Curlers and officials who attended last week's annual Ontario bonspiel here were unanimous to-day in their sentiments regarding the meet's leading rink, Bert C. Hall's Kitchener four which showed evidences of its power in the Tankard January and looked even more finished as the bonspiel opened, walked off with a lion's share of the 'spiel's spoils.

When the Hall rink was beaten 11-10 Saturday in the Seiberling Trophy final by E. D. MacInnes and his Toronto High Park rink, the loss was only the second recorded against the Kitchener men. Previously, they had won the grand aggregate and the Royal York Trophy.

MacInnes' victory was thrilling enough. He was leading 11-9 as the last end opened and when he prepared to heave his last rock Hall was lying four shots, more than enough to take the end and the cup. MacInnes' draw swept the house and he lay second shot, giving Hall only one more point.

The result of the climx deprived Western Ontario of an even break in laurels with the rest of the province. Alex Gardiner, Sarnia, victor over Ross Harstone of Hamilton Thistles, in the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie final, was the only other skip from Hall's section to win a cup. Hall won the Royal York by beating H. H. Chisholm's Toronto 14-2. Gardiner's margin over Harstone in the Birks was 10-8.

On Friday R. Harry Howard's Toronto Granites won the North American Life; Ed Young's Toronto Royal Canadians took the Seagram trophy and Percy Skitch's Lindsay rink won the Canada Dry Trophy.

Port Hope Club Wins Badminton Tourney

PORT HOPE, Feb. 22.—In the first invitation badminton tournament of the season between the Peterborough Market and the Port Hope Garrison teams at the armories here the local net enthusiasts defeated the visitors in 20 of the 24 sets played.

Port Hope triumphed in four of the six ladies' doubles. The six sets of men's doubles were won by the Garrison team. Peterborough won two of the 12 mixed doubles.

Results: Ladies' doubles — Miss Davidson and Miss McBride, Port Hope, were defeated by Mrs. Rishor and Mrs. G. Hall; Miss Fox and Miss McBride triumphed over Peterborough's Miss L. Hall and Miss M. Mulholland; Misses E. and A. Armstrong of Port Hope defeated Miss M. Hatton and Miss Scott; Mrs. Wynn and Miss Staples beat Mrs. B. Hall and Miss E. Mulholland of the Market team; Mrs. Clarke and Miss Kay Oke of the Garrison, defeated Mrs. B. Collins and Miss B. Bradburn; Miss Harcourt and Miss Johnson were defeated by Mrs. B. Rishor and Mrs. B. Hall of Peterborough.

Men's doubles—Harrison and Harvey, Port Hope, defeated Hewett and Rishor; Long and Moore, Port Hope, defeated Toole and Ross; Southby and Wynn defeated B. D. Hall and J. Hall; H. M. Ryan and H. R. S. Ryan defeated Bradburn and Falkner; Walden and Fitzsimmons defeated Perks and Murphy; Bonneville and Brackenbury defeated Collins and Hedley.

Mixed doubles—Davidson and Harrison, Port Hope, defeated Mrs. G. Hall and Hewett; Fox and Harvey, defeated Mr. and Mrs. B. Rishor; Miss A. Armstrong and T. Long, defeated Miss M. Mulholland and H. Toole; Miss E. Armstrong and Southby defeated Hatton and Ross; Fox and H. M. Ryan defeated Scott and Perks; Mrs. Wynn and Fitzsimmons defeated Miss E. Mulholland and Falkner; Mrs. B. Bradburn and H. Bradburn, Peterborough, defeated Miss Staples and H. R. S. Ryan; Mrs. Clarke and E. M. Wynn defeated Mrs. B. Collins and C. Collins; Miss Johnson and W. E. Bonneville were defeated by Mrs. Hall and J. Murphy; Miss Harcourt and G. Brackenbury defeated Miss L. Hall and J. Hedley.

After the games a midnight supper was served to the teams and visitors. Mrs. Robert Clarke poured coffee while Miss Kay Oke and Mrs. Allan McCarthy assisted.

IN MEMORIAM

INGRAM.—In loving memory of a dear Mother and Grandmother, Minnie Ingram, who passed peacefully away, February 21, 1930.

A faithful mother, we watched you suffer day by day;
And could not help in any way;
But just stood by and saw you pass
Into the Saviour's arms at last.
—Sadly missed by Daughter and Grandson.

MILLIKEN.—In loving memory of Fred. Milliken, who passed away February 21, 1936.

His charming ways and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
—Ever remembered by Son, William Milliken.

MAHOOD.—Memory's loving tribute to a dearly beloved Father, Alexander Mahood who passed away three years ago to-day, February 22, 1934.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered; since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear Father,
That we do not think of you.
To those who have a father,
Treasure him with care;
You will never know his value
Till you see his vacant chair.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter, Mabel, and sons, Wilmot and Bert.

MARMORA'S FAIR GROUPS APPOINTED

Propose To Have Prize-List Printed Earlier This Year

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 22. — Officers and directors of the Marmora Agricultural Society held a meeting in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening at which the president, W. A. Sanderson, named committees to look after various phases of the year's work and to have plans made whereby an earlier printing of the prize lists may be effected this year. The committees named were as follows:

Grounds—G. Wellman, chairman, Irwin McCoy, S. A. Lowe, Dan Shannon.

Live Stock—T. J. Bateman, chairman, W. J. Park, Ray Bouter, John Doyle.

Poultry—J. E. Gehan, chairman, Everett Barrons.

Dairy, Roots and Vegetables—John A. Bell, chairman, T. E. Neal, W. Billings, S. A. Stephens.

Finance—W. A. Sanderson, chairman, H. W. Sabine, Irwin McCoy, John A. Bell.

Dance Easter Monday.

It was also decided in course of the meeting to hold the annual old-time dance on Easter Monday. Some special features are to be arranged to attract a record crowd. Various plans to attract another monster crowd for the annual fall fair are already being discussed and it is hoped to make 1937 the most successful year in the history of the Society.

Lunch was served at the close of the meeting and an enjoyable social hour was spent.

ANGLO-IRISH PACT GOOD FOR PEACE

Free State Minister Thinks It Would Have Good Influence In Europe

DUBLIN, Feb. 22—(CP Cable)—An Anglo-Irish rapprochment might have an important effect on the European situation in the interest of peace, Sean McEntee, Minister of Finance, declared in an address at a dinner of the Institute of Bankers here.

He said the present apparent prosperity was based on prolific expenditure for armaments while the demands of civilized communities were taking second place. No steel was available for bridges and railroads, but all for bombs and battleships. Soon, he said, all cement would go for dugouts rather than for houses and streets.

"There is one thing that might be done to stay the catastrophe," McEntee said. "That is the establishment of close and friendly relations between the two peoples on either side of the Irish sea."

That, if accomplished, he added, would have important reactions in the European situation and those who accomplished it would have saved not only themselves but humanity.

Speaking of Northern Ireland, the Finance Minister said "maybe there are political differences difficult of adjustment and we shall have to leave them to time for a settlement, but surely outside this field there is a wide expanse of common ground on which Irishmen of both north and south can meet in cooperation."

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

In Hollywood following an ingenious maneuver on the part of his young wife, Janet, Joel Paynter, second-rate Broadway actor, begins work under a short term contract. Meanwhile Janet makes a point of cultivating the right people, joins a tennis club and meets Vernon Chester, and important director. Chester asks her to play tennis and have lunch with him. Chester likes Janet and learns inadvertently that she and Joel have been reading a best-seller about to be screened by Chester. Chester selects Joel for an important character role in his new picture and Janet virtually dictates the terms of an attractive new contract and option. Joel makes screen history in "The Dance Was Long" and the Paynters find fame and fortune at their feet within eight months.

NO GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 17

Janet looked up from the letter she was reading. The view that spread itself before her eyes was less entrancing than the one the letter brought to her mind. The rolling lawns where Toki was running an electric lawnmower faded from her view. The colorful flowers had too long been colorful in the unending bright light of the sun. That same sun drenched the terrace with its wicker furniture and boxed hedges as it had done day in and day out.

The leaves were beginning to turn. Martha had written. Janet saw the peaceful countryside of the New England village of Chester. She saw the riot of red and yellow and last-turning green. She thought she smelled the pungent odor of burning leaves sending a feathery plume high, to dissolve against a graying sky.

There would be the smell of late asters and the cidery scent of apples on the air. There would be wood smoke rising from the chimneys of the little white houses. And within there would be good things simmering on the stove—peppery chili and jellies and jams.

Janet wondered if she still remembered how to pickle grapes. She thought if she drove through the market that day she would buy some and try her old recipe.

Then she sighed, lying there in her expensive pajamas on a chaise lounge. Cook wouldn't like it if she mussed up the kitchen.

She could, of course, muss it up all she pleased. But it really wouldn't be any fun because she didn't feel that the kitchen belonged to her anyway and cook would probably leave. Cooks were always leaving and taking the serving maid with them.

"Now a butler would really run the place," Joel had said when she had protested that it was ridiculous for them to have a butler.

"But I want to run it," she had said, rather pathetically.

Joel had laughed. "Why, you goose? Just keep yourself pretty for me and help me do my entertaining. You ought to be glad we aren't living back on the west side in New York."

"But I have nothing to do," she had persisted.

"You are a lily of the field now," he answered and that was that.

Another day Lucien Doyle's wife—Dot was another lily of the field, in fact so were the other two girls at Janet's table at the charity bridge—said, "Janet, don't you ever get bored with Hollywood? I think this is a ghastly place for a girl without a job. We never have anything to talk about. I've been here so long I've forgotten what the girls used to talk about back home."

Linda Appleby said, "Instead of talking about what picture so-and-so is making, they talk about the new dress they saw or what Mrs. You-know-who said at the forum meeting last week and whose husband got drunk at the country club party on Saturday night."

Grace Tucker sighed, "Our husbands can't even get drunk because it's against the rules! Sometimes I think it would be a good idea if we could talk about those things but new dresses are no novelty in our lives. What do you say, Janet?"

Janet said, "I don't really know, girls, about wives back east, but I guess wives are the same everywhere. They want to talk about their husbands and children and I guess it could be just as dull to talk about the coal business or Wall Street."

"Who's talking about Wall Street?" Harriet Casey said as she strolled toward their table. Harriet was a newspaper woman, west coast representative of a string of newspapers.

"Oh, we're just talking about our husband, and children for a change," Dot Doyle said.

"Well, well, girls!" Harriet exclaimed brightly. "Do I scent news? Who has any children here?"

"Well, if we haven't, we're going to have," Janet said idly. "Who bid three hearts?"

Janet was dummy. She was glad she didn't have to concentrate. The conversation had somehow made her feel depressed. She thought of the busy, stimulating years when she had had a job. And she had had one when she and Joel first came to Hollywood. Joel had been her job and she had done it well, but now he had no further need of those service he hadn't even known about.

Harriet Casey leaned over to her and whispered, "I want to talk to you, Mrs. Paynter. Did you mean what you said?"

Janet said, "Excuse me, Linda, but didn't you play a club on that last trick? You did have a heart in your hand...." she turned back to Harriet who had said something to her. "Yes," she answered not remembering what the question had been.

Someone called to Harriet then and she left giving Janet a little pat on the back. Janet said, "This gives us the rubber, partner."

She thought no more about the conversation.

The next afternoon Joel had asked her to meet him at his tailor's. They were going from there straight to dinner at a restaurant and to view a picture at one of the smaller houses.

Janet liked those "dates." Joel had made a little game of calling her on the phone and asking her, if she didn't have a date, if he could have one with her.

Those were the little things about Joel that delighted Janet. He was her "beau" and she was his "best girl."

"But beaux don't give their girls ermine capes. At least, not in Chester, darling," she had said on that occasion and Joel had gotten in the car and driven to a dusty drug store where he had bought her a large box of stale chocolates which he presented to her with a flourish. "I'm not to be outdone by the beaux in Chester," he said.

He made a wonderful beau and a very good husband, she thought, even if she had never felt like a wife. What was that Martha had said to her years ago about the "good, quiet years"? She knew well enough and she hoped that some day they would come even though she couldn't put her finger on what was wrong with their marriage.

"There is nothing wrong with our marriage!" She protested stoutly and thought that the only thing that was wrong with it was that she wasn't contented. And because she wasn't contented, she was an ungrateful girl. There was Joel to give her the moon if she asked for it.

And therein was the trouble. She didn't want the moon. She wanted a little home. She wanted to go to market in the morning and chatter with other women. She wanted to know what was in her ice box. She actually wanted to clean out that ice box.

Sometimes, seeing other girls like—and yet not like—herself in the market, she thought: Marriage is an estate and that is what I haven't got. It's a nameless feeling of being enclosed in that state. That's why it is called an estate. It's something that you don't see but you feel it when you are building something with another person. It's the feeling of being Mrs. to somebody's Mr. It's a feeling of being part of a man's life. I know—oh, I know I am part of Joel's but I'm not necessary to him or to anyone else."

To do Janet justice, it must be said that she did not think these things too often. She wasn't thinking of anything unhappy or disquieting when her chauffeur drew up before the English Tailoring

Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S NEW TIRES

Mrs. Longears looked at the automobile. Then she looked at her rabbit gentleman husband. Then she said:

"No, Wiggy, my dear. No! No!"

"You aren't going to sing that song, 'No, No, A Thousand Times No,' are you, my love?" asked Mr. Longears sort of sarcastic like yet at the same time kind and gentlemanly.

Mrs. Longears laughed, showing most of her teeth as rabbit ladies do. Then she said:

"I mean, Wiggy, I'm not going riding with you in the auto until you get some new tires on it. The ones you have are a disgrace."

"They are sort of shot," admitted Mr. Longears kicking one tire after another with his left hind paw. "But they still hold air," he said, twinkling his pink nose.

"Yes, but no telling how long they will," said Mrs. Longears. "You go get some new tires for the car, Wiggy, darling, and I'll go riding with you."

Makes a Joke

"All RIDE," chuckled Mr. Longears, who would have his joke.

When his wife hopped back into the hollow stump bungalow the rabbit gentleman took another look at the auto tires.

"They are sort of fuzzy," he said to himself. "And no wonder."

Small wonder, indeed. Jackie and

"What, those puppy dogs eat rubber tires?" I hear you asking.

Well, you see it is this way. The tires on Uncle Wiggily's auto, as I have told you before, were made of big, fat, jolly bologna sausages. And when ever Mr. Longears wanted his auto to go fast he sprinkled black pepper on the sausage tires. If he wanted to go extra fast he would sprinkle on red pepper.

Often Jackie and Peetie, and sometimes Mr. Bow Wow himself would see Uncle Wiggily's auto parked in the woods while the rabbit gentleman was away looking for an adventure. Then the puppies or their father would take bites from the bologna sausage tires. It was very good bologna.

Then Uncle Wiggily would have to buy perhaps a bit of salami or liverwurst or maybe even Summer bologna in the Winter to patch his tires. In this way they came to look quite "shot," as the rabbit gentleman himself admitted.

Look Like New

"But I'll get a new set of tires, all around, for my car," said Mr. Longears when his wife had hopped into the bungalow. "It will then look almost as if it had a new paint job on it and we'll be quite stylish."

Making sure all the bologna sausage tires had air in them in spite of the pieces of salami and liverwurst that had been vulcanized on, the rabbit gentleman started off to get new tires.

"I wonder," he said to himself as he reached for the red pepper sprinkler to go a bit faster, "I wonder how it would do to get a new kind of auto tires? These bologna sausage ones are so often eaten by Jackie and Peetie. Now and then, too, the Bob Cat or the Wolf takes a nibble out of them. I think I'll get a new kind of tires."

As Uncle Wiggily reached forward to sprinkle on the pepper at the same time calling "Giddap!" as if his car were a horse, he heard a noise. "Oh, golly! Here's trouble!" exclaimed the rabbit gentleman.

And if the bed pillows don't cry out "Honk! Honk!" in the night because of the goose feathers in them, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's hot time.

VILLAGE INCENSED AT WIFE-TRADING

Two Brazilians Lose Jobs Over Climax To Carnival-Time Dare

BELLO HORIZONTE, Brazil, Feb. 22—(AP)—It was carnival time—anything goes—when Antonio and Domingos swapped wives.

But now that the ball is over, the rustic village of Vianno-Polis is up in arms over the trade. Antonio and Domingos have lost their jobs.

"But," said Antonio Eleuterio de Silva with a shrug, "we are all the happier the new way."

Antonio took Mrs. Domingos Vieira do Amaral home with him after the carnival ball while his wife went home with Domingos.

"You know how people drink, play around and make jokes," said Antonio. "Anna, that's the wife of Domingos, said 'you two men are always joking about swapping, but you never do it.'

"Well, at the ball we did it."

ARTHUR BRETHEN IS PUTTING HIS HERD ON AUCTION BLOCK

Thirty-Five Head Of Cattle Are Being Offered At Coliseum In Toronto

FIFTEEN CATTLE ADDED

G. Arthur Brethen of Norwood is putting his Hill-Crest herd of Holstein cattle on the auction block in a dispereal sale at the Coliseum, Toronto, Thursday Feburuary 25.

Thirty-five head of pure bred, Record of Performance, Holsteins are being offered to buyers of the province, including fifteen animals selected by Robert T. Holby of Port Perry to augment Mr. Brethen's herd. This group of breeders to be presented at the Hill-Crest sale is composed of J. D. Brown, Orono; R. Norman Hogg, Uxbridge; Herman Walker, Port Perry; F. C. Eligh, Finch.

An attractive and exceptionally informative catalogue of the animals that are to be sold has been prepared by Mr. Brethen, indicating the family records of the entire thirty-five animals.

Arthur Brethen is not only one of the outstanding breeders of Holstein cattle in this country, but he is also a good showman, as is suggested by his decision to hold this sale at the Royal Coliseum at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds, Toronto. He has demonstrated that talent in many a show ring, and also on that occasion of a similar dispersal sale in 1918.

Averaged $787 In 1918

The following excerpt from the catalogue recalls that notable event; "War time conditions made it necessary that we reduce our Holstein activities and on March 28, 1918, we sold our entire Hill-Crest herd with the exception of our two old foundation cows and some baby heifer calves retained for the nucleus of another herd. This sale made history. With practically every animal offered being bred, raised and developed at "Hill Crest", the 33 head, including young calves, made an average of $787 each, a Canadian record we believe for a sale of home-bred animals.

A pleasing feature of this sale is the fact that several of these cattle, in other hands, went on to become Canadian champions, and the young bulls then sold have sired cattle that have made Holstein history in this county. Noteworthy among these was "King Pontiac Susie" the young son of "Hill Crest Pontiac Susie" by a son of "Rauwerd" that sired that outstanding Canadian cow " Jean Abberkerk Pontiac" recently reported with a lifetime (9 lactations) production of 186,745 pounds of milk and 7,088 pounds of butter fat, a record second only in Canada to that of that world's life-time producer "Springbank Snow Countess," and pronounced unequalled by any other cow in the world on strictly two and three times a day milking.

Most of the cattle in the Hill-Crest herd of today are the direct offspring of our great cows of other years.

15 Cattle Added

To make a sale of attractive numbers we asked R. M. Holtby, that well-known judge and Eastern Ontario Holstein field man, to get us 15 head of young, clean typey cattle of attractive breeding and R.O.P. testing that would fit into a sale of this quality. We are pleased with the result. Mr. Holtby knows where to find the good cattle, and a study of the offerings of Messrs. Brown, Hogg, Walker and Eligh will prove that the cattle Mr. Holtby persuaded these breeders to release for the Hill-Crest Sale are the kind that should prove very attractive in any auction to "the breeder who cares."

Mr. Brethen has engaged L. E. Franklin, Toronto, to conduct the selling with A. B. Brubacher, Bridgeport, in the ring. The sale begins at 1 p.m.

Selling Herd Sire

The first animal listed in the catalogue of the sale is appropriately the Hill-Crest herd sire "Sir Sylvus Pabst Posch" 94028, with Dewdrop and Rag Apple blood in his veins. Enumeration of the other animals comprising the complete offering for the sale is probably of interest only to breeders who may obtain copies of the catalogue from Mr. Brethen.

In a recent letter to the Examiner reporting his success at the 1936 fairs and exhibitions, Mr. Brethen closes with an "au revoir."

"The Hill-Crest herd is being dispersed. Every animal is selling and Hill-Crest Holsteins that during the last thirty years have made many enviable records in official production and in the show ring will be but a memory. In taking this step while regretting that as a herd they cannot be kept intact we trust the individual members may go into hands where the good work at Hill-Crest will be appreciated and extended."

70 First Prizes

Mr. Brethen's farm of fifty acres is north of Norwood and includes with the Hill-Crest Holsteins a flock of more than 1,000 White Leghorn layers. From the herd of twenty cattle he selected ten head and exhibited them at ten of the leading fall fairs of the district last year from Lindsay on the west to Ottawa on the east, meeting in competition the best herds of the breed in this area and sometimes individual entries that showed successfully at Ottawa, the C.N.E. and the Royal Winter Fair.

"Our little herd won a total of 70 first prizes besides seconds and specials," Mr. Brethen has informed the Examiner. "Our herd bull "Sir Sylvius Pabst Posch" topped his class at every show except Peterborough and Ottawa, placing second in Peterborough to the Joe Tully and Matchett Brothers' many times Toronto Winner "Hays Supreme."

"The winner at Ottawa Winter Fair was a Quebec bull that stood high at many of the major shows in Ontario and Quebec. Two of our aged cows stood first and second at practically every show where they were entered, in some cases being beaten only by Toronto winners.

"'Rauwerd Pretty Vale' our dry two year old heifer won her class at nearly every show in the circuit, including the Winter Fair at Ottawa, while "Hill-Crest Pluto Susie" our champion senior calf at Peterborough in 135 over all dairy breeds placed first and second as a senior yearling at each of the ten shows. We were particularly well pleased with the standing of our graded herd. Headed by our senior sire, with one cow three years or over, a two year old heifer, a yearling and one heifer calf, our herd placed first at seven shows, second at Lindsay and second at the Ottawa Winter Fair to a Quebec herd that showed successfully at the Royal the week following.

"Where inter-breed specials were given our graded herd was given the call as the best dairy herd on exhibition with but one exception."

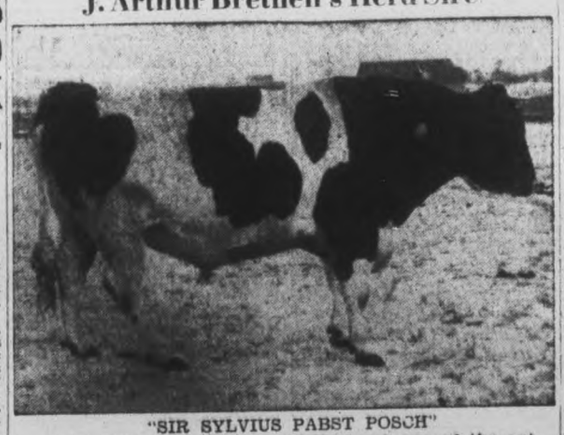
J. Arthur Brethen's Herd Sire



"SIR SYLVIUS PABST POSCH"

The Hill-Crest Holsteins of Norwood, one of the outstanding herds in this province, will be sold by auction in the Coliseum at the C.N.E. grounds, Toronto, Thursday, February 25. Mr. Brethen announces that he is dispersing his well known herd. Fifteen other selected Holsteins from four Central Ontario herds have been added to the sale list which totals 35 pure bred thoroughly tested and accredited cattle.

TRENT RIVER

AFTERNOON TEA FOR GROUP FUND

Mrs. James Longmuir Hostess For Quilting—Program Is Enjoyed

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 22.—Members of Trent River and Havelock Road Group of the Ladies' Aid with a number of other friends and neighbors met at the home of Mrs. James Longmuir, Wednesday afternoon to quilt two quilts for Mrs. Longmuir, one pattern of the "Swede Saw" and the other the "Bridal Wreath." The busy band of workers finished the quilts during the afternoon.

Mrs. M. T. Lean delighted the gathering by her rendering in sweet clear voice the vocal number "Love's Old Sweet Song," and received a hearty encore, Miss B. G. French played piano accompaniment. A vocal number by the quartette, Mrs. M. T. Lean, Misses Ferne Longmuir, Helen Brown and B. G. French, called for a hearty encore after which a delectable lunch was served by the hostess. Misses Ferne Longmuir and Helen Brown. The small fee of 10 cents was made for the lunch which realized over $3.00, together with $2.00 generously donated by Mrs. James Longmuir towards the Group fund for the Ladies' Aid, for the work on the quilts, making a total of over $5.00 for the Group's share. This Group is also sponsoring a play with talent from Peterborough, "The Wild Flower of the Hill," to be presented Friday night, February 26th, at the United Church. The following were in attendance at the quilting and tea, Mrs. R. W. Umphrey, Mrs. Earl Greenly, Mrs. Ann Greenly, Mrs. W. C. Inkster, Mrs. Thos. J. Brown, Mrs. M. T. Cook, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Wooler, Mrs. Bruce Longmuir, Havelock, Mrs. Roy Longmuir, Old Havelock, Miss Helen Brown, Miss B. G. French.

Home and School Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Home and School Association of Old Havelock was held recently, with the vice-president, Miss Gena McNeely in charge. A most interesting feature of the programme was a talk on the "Vimy Ridge Pilgrimage," by Gordon Young of Havelock; violin selections, Mrs. Lorne McKay with organ accompaniment played by Miss Blanche Johnston; reading, "The Perfect Wonder," Miss Margaret Johnston; recitation, "First Name Friends," Miss Iva Huble; dialogue, "No Women Wanted," with Elton Huble and Ralph Buchanan taking the part of two old bachelors; a balloon contest was in charge of Mrs. Roy Longmuir.

The next meeting will be held March 10th, when plans will be made to hold a progressive crokinole party to be held in the near future. The committee in charge to be the Misses Blanche Johnston, Iva Huble, Ralph Buchanan, and Elton Huble.

JANETVILLE Y.P.U. STAGE MOCK TRIAL

Action Provides Plenty Of Laughter—Skating Follows Enjoyable Play

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Feb. 22.—An extra large crowd attended the regular meeting of the Young People's Union in the United Church on Monday evening when the citizenship convenors presented as a special feature a "Mock Trial."

A divorce suit was entered by Miss Izable Marshall (Mrs. Brown) against her husband, Guy McGill (Mr. Brown). Rev. H. C. Wolfrain in a long, flowing black gown was the august judge. Jack Wiles a fiery but capable young lawyer, appeared on behalf of his client, the young beautiful, neglected bride of one year, Mrs. Brown; while Mr. P. Hamilton very ably defended the defendant, the ruthless, Mr. Brown.

The trial concluded after a lengthy session with the judge granting Mrs. Brown a divorce to become effective in six months.

Witnesses for the Plaintiff were Carson Howe and Cecil Armstrong, and for the defendant, Miss Bessie Howe (a maid at the Browns) and Ford Parsons. Miss Bernice Stinson was Court Clerk.

After the usual closing exercises, skating was enjoyed on the rink, and weiners were sold in the interests of the Y.P.U. funds.

Driven Car For Years With Ten P.C. Vision

Detroit, Feb. 22 (CP)

BLIND in one eye and with only 10 per cent vision in the other, Frank Stevens, 53, Detroit, drove an automobile 20 years without having an accident.

Haled into court on a charge of reckless driving, Stevens was called "luckiest driver in the state" by Judge George Murphy.

Stevens said he never drove at night because "I can't see a thing then."

He will not be allowed to drive for a year and in the meantime Judge Murphy will ask that the license be revoked for all time.

MILLBROOK

CORONATION TEA PLANNED BY W.M.S.

Grace Church Organization To Sponsor Event During Month Of May

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 22.—The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Grace Presbyterian Church was held Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. S. E. Eakins, Anne street, a goodly number of members in attendance.

Opening with the singing of the hymn, "Breath on me breath of God," the devotional period was led by the president, Mrs. Eakins, assisted by Mrs. H. Ball and Miss A. Johnston.

Mrs. J. R. Thompson rendered a pleasing vocal solo, "Somebody's praying for you."

Mrs. Z. Seaton addressed the gathering in an interesting manner when she contributed a splendid report of the twelfth World Sunday School Convention held last year in Oslo, Norway, at which sessions Mrs. Seaton attended with thousands of other delegates. Synopsis of some of the leading speakers were disclosed in brief. Other items of ipterest were the achievements of the Youth Council held in conjunction with the Sunday School convention. A similar event is being planned for 1940 when it will be held in South Africa, the city and exact date to be chosen by the North American Administrative Committee. The speaker also related visits to the foreign churches and told of the mannerisms of some of the congregations.

During the month of May, the society intends sponsoring a Coronation Tea and home baking sale. Detailed arrangements will be made at a later meeting.

TRAINER GIVES HIS TEAM KRUSCHEN

"Daily Dose" For Footballers

Read what one professional trainer does to keep his team in tip-top condition:—

"I am a professional trainer, at present with a first-class football team, and have been for the past fourteen years. Kruschen Salts has been very beneficial, both as a laxative and in keeping the men free from staleness. Each morning I see that every man under me takes a small amount of Kruschen Salts to assist the liver and kidneys. I have used Kruschen with all types of athletes, and also extensively among my private patients, for cases of loss of vitality, rheumatism and neuritis."—J. J. J. (Certified Masseur).

The "little daily dose" of Kruschen Salts helps to keep the internal organs functioning regularly in their daily duties. Liver, kidneys and bowels are stimulated to healthy, vigorous activity, thus assisting them to eliminate waste products and poisons that endanger the health.

COTTESLOE Y.P.S. HAS BASKET SOCIAL

Enjoyable Program Provided At Annual Event By Young People

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COTTESLOE, Feb. 22.—The annual basket social of the Y.P.S. was held on Wednesday evening in the school house. In the absence of the minister, who was called away on Presbyterial business, Mr. E. N. MacDonald occupied the chair for the following program:

Musical selections were given by Hector Thompson, Gordon Pond, Ivan Hendren, Reg. Turner, Auryl and Beryl Clysdale; Miss Ada Clements gave a recitation and Percy Gollober a recitation and a mouth organ selection; Dr. Munro made a splendid address, speaking from writings of Thackeray, he described especially the character known as snobs, showing the very disagreeable characteristics of such persons and asked the children and young people to build so that they might have a character such as that described by those great writers, Charles Dickens and Robert Burns.

Quilt is Sold

The young ladies of the Y.P.S. had made a quilt which they offered for sale along with the baskets. Mr. Johnston Blakely was the buyer of the quilt for $5.00 along with a basket. This being the highest price on any bid Mr. Blakely also received a box of chocolates. Mr. Hector Thompson bought the first basket and also received a prize of a box of chocolates.

IS A LOAN THE WAY OUT OF FAMILY FINANCIAL JAMS?

Should a family borrow when it gets in a financial jam? We say, "No," unless the loan is made part of a constructive plan to prevent the need of borrowing in the future. If that is done, borrowing can prove helpful—especially to families dogged by creditors or faced with emergencies.

Counsel in Money Management

At Central Finance we promote and encourage Home Money Management and Better Buymanship. In this work we provide borrowers with tested ways to make their dollars buy more—to stretch their current income. We aim to help people to get out of debt and stay out.

Central Finance has helped thousands of families to substitute one bill they could pay for many they couldn't. If you feel you must borrow, investigate Central Finance service.

7 advantages of the CENTRAL FINANCE LOAN PLAN

1—If you can make regular monthly payments you can borrow from Central Finance.

2—Small monthly payments. For example: $15 a month repays a note of $180 in 12 months.

3—No co-makers or endorsers required.

4—Quick action, no waiting.

5—Recently reduced charges on all loans over $120.

6—Charges rebated for payment ahead of schedule.

7—No embarrassing inquiries of employer, friends or relatives.

STORK DERBY IS VALID APPEAL COURT DECIDES

DENIED PAROLE PRISONERS TELL TRAGIC TALES

Charge Repeaters Make It Every Time While First-Timers Refused

SERVE EXTRA TIME

One Startles Judge By Suggesting Guards Get More Money

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 23.—(CP)—Tragic stories were unfolded today to the Ontario reformatory inquiry as the Madden Commission heard prisoners puzzled as to why they had been refused paroles at the end of their definite sentences.

"It has been a rest for me," said a man of 55, father of seven children, aged three to 16 years, "but I want parole. My family wants me and I'd like to be home with my family."

He declared his sentence of 12 months definite and 12 months indefinite resulted from the first trouble he had ever had in his life. He has served nine months of his definite sentence and been refused parole usually granted at the end of a definite sentence. He could hazard no guess as to reason for refusal.

A prisoner of 22 was afraid he will lose his young wife because he was refused parole, he told the inquiry. He had never previously been in trouble, was sentenced in the fall to three months definite and six months indefinite.

"I have promised that if I am not working and supporting my wife by April I would separate from her and help get a divorce," he said. "I married her under age and there were hard feelings with her parents."

Suspects Mother-in-Law.

"My mother-in-law wrote a letter to the parole board saying I was no good, and that's the only reason I can guess as to why my parole was refused. The magistrate said I would be out in three months but it looks as though I'll serve the nine months. The provincial constable who arrested me was here last week, said I should have been out long ago."

"I think a lot of us get a raw deal," said a young first offender of 22, refused parole at the end of his three-month definite sentence and starting now on his six-month indefinite sentence.

"Lots of repeaters in here three and four times make parole every time and others up for the first time can't get it," he declared. "The magistrate told me I would be out in three months. I have a good job to go to if I can get out."

Thinks King's Evidence Helped.

A quiet, well-mannered blond youth of 19 had been refused parole on his sentence of 12 months definite and six months indefinite although his "partner" in the crime has been released. "The only reason I can think of is that my partner turned king's evidence and I didn't," he said. "We both got the same sentence.

New Trade Treaty Will Be Tabled In Ottawa House Thursday

OTTAWA, Feb. 23 (CP) — New trade agreement between Canada and the United Kingdom was signed here today in the office of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Sir Francis Floud, British High Commissioner, signed the treaty on behalf of the United Kingdom and Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Finance Minister Dunning on behalf of Canada.

The agreement will be tabled in the House of Commons here Thursday when the budget is brought down by Mr. Dunning.

Last Minute News Flashes

EDMONTON.— Investigation of the financial position of Alberta will be made by the Bank of Canada, it was announced here to-day by Premier William Aberhart, following a wire from Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

WASHINGTON—Richard C. Travis, United Automobile Workers organizer, charged to-day that "the Flint alliance and Flint police" started a riot during the recent General Motors strike "to cause trouble and blame it on the union."

BOSTON.—Hugh P. Ford, British Consul General, to-day cabled the British Board of Trade for instructions after the crew of the British freighter Linaria had demanded they be relieved of transporting nitrates to Fascist forces in Spain.

WASHINGTON.—Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) termed the United States Administration's reciprocal law "unconstitutional" to-day in opening Senate opposition to a three-year extension of the Act.

CHICAGO.— Samuel Insull, Sr., former utilities magnate, told interviewers to-day he was "an American citizen and intends to remain one," and said reports he planned to establish permanent residence in England were unfounded. Insull said he and his wife might go abroad during the summer for a visit.

Bid Sent Selassie Is Shock To Rome

Rome, Feb. 23 (AP)

THE British government's invitation to Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia to send a representative to King George's coronation provoked a stir of surprise in Italian circles today.

Semi-official quarters in Rome predicted Ethiopia, now under Italian domination, will be pronounced Italian territory by the League of Nations at its April session. Thus, these sources said, the invitation will apply to the negus only in his capacity of a private individual.

Official quarters indicated there was no change in plans to send a royal representative to the London ceremonies.

Would Give Government Time To Draft More Permanent Solution

CAUCUS OPENS TODAY

Twenty-Five Bills Will Likely Be Submitted In Critical Session

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

EDMONTON, Feb. 23. —(CP).— The pre-session caucus of Social Credit members of the Alberta Legislature opened here to-day while rumors floated about that the Aberhart government intend to proclaim a temporary moratorium on private debts.

The debt holiday would prevent wholesale foreclosures in the light of the Alberta Supreme Court decision outlawing the reduction and settlement of debts act. It also would give the government and the caucus time to draft a more permanent solution to the debt problem of the province.

The government was expected to submit a legislative program of 25 bills to the caucus, including two or three to implement the Social Credit principles outlined in the report of the Cabinet Planning committee.

The caucus will last until Thursday when the regular session of the Legislature will open.

ALL BINGO GAMES OUTSIDE THE LAW ROEBUCK STATES

Decides Exemption For Raffles With Limited Prizes Do Not Cover Present Craze

UP TO CROWN TO ACT

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (C.P.). — Attorney-General Arthur W. Roebuck said to-day bingo games were illegal in Ontario regardless of whether the proceeds were used for charitable purposes. It was up to Crown-Attorneys to take action if the bingo craze was to be stopped, he added.

"The Criminal Code prohibits the disposing of property by any means of chance whatsoever," he said, commenting on a raid staged last night by Toronto police who seized goods offered as prizes for bingo players at the Winchester Social Club.

The raid, first of its kind by Toronto authorities, opened a drive against scores of bingo games held in churches and halls here nightly. Majority of players whose names were taken were women. Charges against three operators of the game have not yet been laid.

Common Gaming Houses.

Mr. Roebuck said operation of bingo games where admission is charged and a whole or part of the money is returned to the players either in cash or merchandise makes the place where the games are operated in common gaming houses.

"The Criminal Code prohibits the disposing of property by any means of chance whatsoever," he said. There is an exemption of raffles for charitable purposes where the prizes do not exceed a certain value but this exemption could not be construed as applying to bingo games, said Mr. Roebuck.

"So far there has been very little protest, but I don't know but what it is starting to come in now," he said.

Mr. Roebuck said his interpretation of the Criminal Code would make the prohibitory sections apply to churches or any other place where merchandise is given away in games of chance. Bingo games were not raffles, he said.

CITY OF DOUGLAS BURNS IN ALASKA

Salmon Cannery And Famous Treadwell Mines Main Industries

SEATTLE, Feb. 23—(A.P.)—The United States Coastguard cutter Tallapoosa wirelessed here to-day that fire broke out to-day and virtually destroyed the city of Douglas, Alaska.

The cause was not determined, Coastguard division headquarters here reported.

The Tallapoosa reported she had sent a working party ashore, and was "assisting in every possible way."

Douglas, on the island of same name in Southeastern Alaska, opposite Juneau at the north end of the Alexander archipelago, has a population of about 600.

A southeast wind of gale force was reported whipping the flames.

Douglas is on level ground, an unusual characteristic for a settlement on Alaska's rugged coastline. It has depended largely upon a salmon cannery and the famous Treadwell mines, from which more than $66,000,000 of gold was taken.

The other four died of a number of causes, including neglect and cannibalistic instincts on the part of their prima donna mother

Ice Covers Highways After Floods Subside

After the Grand river in the Fergus area of Central Ontario had risen to its highest levels in fifteen years, flooding adjacent highways and farmlands, this piled up mass of ice was left on the provincial highway between Guelph and Elmira, effectively halting traffic. Farmers in the district rushed their stock to higher ground as an ice jam in the Grand river threatened to send flood waters into their barns and basements. Flood waters carried huge blocks of ice into farmyards, fields and highways and left them in heaps as the water subsided.

COMMONS PASSES NEARLY 17 MILLION DEFENCE BUDGET

13 Liberals, All C.C.F., Some Social Crediters Opposed In Five Divisions

MAKE SUPPLIES IN CANADA

OTTAWA, Feb. 23 (C.P.). — Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, faces a critical group of Liberal, C.C.F., and Social Credit members in the House of Commons again to-day as he seeks approval for his increased appropriations for the Royal Canadian Navy.

Yesterday the Minister, despite five divisions in the Committee of Supply, obtained approval for the whole appropriation of $17,000,000 odd for Militia services, cadets, stores, engineering, non-permanent and permanent Militia and Royal Military College.

About half the opposition to the defence estimates came from Liberals and half from the C.C.F. and Social Credit groups combined. The largest adverse vote was 26, and at one time or another 13 Liberals, 12 from Quebec and one from Manitoba, voted against the Government's program.

Several members pressed Mr. Mackenzie to say whether similar or larger estimates would be required another year and suggested Canada was just making a start on expensive war preparations which would run on through the years.

Future defence plans would be determined by conditions then prevailing, Mr. Mackenzie said. He assured the House no plans had been made beyond the year beginning April 1.

By a vote of 90 to 23 the House, in Committee of Supply, rejected a motion to reduce an item of $2,816,950 for engineeer services and works to $949,100, the amount voted for the same purpose last year.

DUPLESSIS LOSES HON. OSCAR DROUIN

Minister Of Lands And Forests Quits When Cabinet Fails To Share Views

QUEBEC, Feb. 23.—(CP).— Hon. Oscar Drouin, Member of the Quebec Legislature for Quebec East, announced to-day he has resigned as Minister of Lands and Forests in the Union Nationale Cabinet of Premier Maurice Duplessis.

The barrister and former newspaperman handed reporters a brief statement saying he had resigned his cabinet position and that of chief organizer for the party which grew from a union of Conservatives and insurgent Liberals who opposed the old regime of the now resigned Louis A. Taschereau.

"I pressed the government to set up a Hydro Electric Power Commission in this province, but the cabinet did not share my views," the retiring minister told The Canadian Press shortly after his resignation was formally announced.

"There were many other questions on which policies of the cabinet were divergent to mine," said Mr. Drouin. He refused to discuss whether he would sit on the Government side of the House when the Legislature re-opens to-morrow, or whether he would bolt to the Liberal Opposition.

Premier Maurice Duplessis and his cabinet discussed the Drouin resignation at a meeting to-day. it was understood, but appointment of a successor was expected to be deferred several days.

Pliers Lost 2 Years Found Inside Horse

Brooks, Alta., Feb. 23 (CP)

J. D. Wheller lost a pair of pliers more than two years ago.

He found them a few days ago in a horse's stomach when it was examined to determine the cause of death.

The pliers disappeared when Wheller was doing some dental work on the horse in October, 1934.

COUNCIL STRIKE IS THREATENING

OVER 1937 BUDGET

PEMBROKE, Ont., Feb. 23.—(CP). —Councillor C. E. Campbell last night threatened a "sit down strike" in town council unless Supervisor R. J. Moore of Toronto returns to Pembroke and meets the council. Moore was here last week to deal with the 1937 budget and met only Mayor A. E. Cockburn and not the other councillors.

"I will take no further part in the council affairs until he comes," Campbell said. "I will not resign, but I will just sit here and do nothing."

Several other councillors voiced resentment over Moore's action, the majority feeling the council as a body had been slighted, particularly since it had requested the supervisor to come.

Mayor Cockburn said Moore had told him he was anxious to complete his work here as soon as possible and did not wish to meet council. For that reason the Mayor had not invited the members to be present. The Mayor admitted that while Moore had not time to meet council he did have time to go fishing before he left.

Mayor Cockburn advised members he understood the budget approved by the supervisor could be revised by the council and the situation became less tense.

BRIDGE COLLAPSES NEAR KITCHENER

75-Foot Span Gives Way As Flood Sweeps Through West Montrose

KITCHENER, Ont., Feb. 23—(C.P.).—Damaged by yesterday's rushing flood a 75-foot bridge on the Conestog at West Montrose collapsed, it became known to-day. One of the abutments near the end of the 75-foot span was undermined and permitted the bridge to sag into the water.

Water levels generally were back to nearly normal to-day, although the stream spanned by the bridge was still running too fast to permit workers to strengthen it.

A CHARLES DICKENS

Great-great-grandson of Famous Writer Born in London.

LONDON, Feb. 23 (A.P.). — Birth of another Charles Dickens, great-great-grandson of the famous writer, was announced to-day, four months after the death of the infant's father.

The baby is the son of Mrs. Joy Dickens, widow of Lieut. Charles Dickens, who died on November 17.

GERMAN SPYING ON ARMS PROGRAM AROUSES BRITAIN

Special "Watchdog Sections" Formed In Army, Navy, Air Force

NAZI PROPAGANDA SPREADS

LONDON, Feb. 23 (C.P.-Havas).— The Admiralty and the War and Air Ministries have created "special watchdog sections" to combat an alarming increase of espionage and propaganda on behalf of Germany, The Daily Herald said to-day.

"A sudden increase in German espionage and Nazi propaganda in this country has resulted in steps being taken by the Government to counter the activities of agents who are anxious to sell Germany, and possibly other countries, details of Britain's rearmament plans," the newspaper said. "Special watchdog sections of the Army, Navy and Air Ministries have taken the necessary steps doubly to safeguard rearmament secrets.

"In the propaganda field a watch is being kept on certain people in this country who are especially free with money when it comes to persuading others to sing the praises of the Nazis. The authorities also have noticed how a large number of invitations are being given to Britons to visit Germany.

"If a Briton is reasonably distinguished he is allowed to see Hitler, who tells him the reasons behind Germany's claim for restoration of her colonies. The aim of this increasing propaganda is to persuade Britain that Germany is a peaceful and well-governed nation."

Rules Out Any Claims Seeking Illegitimate Children Be Counted

Both Decisions Uphold Judgment Given By Mr. Justice Middleton

DIMS MRS. CLARKE'S HOPES

Executors To Get Costs Out Of Estate—Next-Of-Kin To Pay Own

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (C.P.).—The Ontario Court of Appeal ruled today the "stork derby" clause of Charles Vance Millar's will was valid, but held in a judgment delivered at Osgoode Hall that illegitimate children of mothers claiming the $500,000 estate should not be counted.

On both counts the Appeal Court decision upheld the judgment of Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton of the Ontario Supreme Court who handed down the first decision on the clause's validity and later will determine the baby derby winner.

The disputed clause bequeathed the residue of Millar's estate to the Toronto mother registering the most births in the 10-year period following his death. The maternity race ended October 31, 1936, with a dozen mothers, claiming between seven and 13 eligible children, in the running.

Next-of-kin to the wealthy Toronto lawyer asked that the clause be upset on the ground it was against public policy.

Mrs. Pauline Clarke, red-haired mother of nine children, appealed the Middleton judgment that illegitimate children were ineligible. Five of her children were born after Mrs. Clarke separated from her husband.

Judge Within His Right.

Announcing the judgment of the court, Chief Justice Newton W. Rowell said it was the tribunal's opinion Mr. Justice Middleton had jurisdiction to determine the question of validity and that he was right in refusing to receive affidavits offered on behalf of Millar next-of-kin dealing with the question of public policy.

"It appears that the question of public policy is one for the court," commented the Chief Justice. "Evidence may not be received as to public policy although it might be received as to the facts upon which the question is based.

"Counsel for Pauline Mae Clarke asked that the appeal be delayed to permit a reference of the case back for a decision as to who would be entitled if the clause were valid," he continued. "The court is of the opinion that the learned Jude exercised a wise discretion in determining the question of validity first and reserving the question of who should be entitled.

Question of Illegitimacy.

"Coming to the question of validity, the first question is does the word 'children' in the paragraph of the will include illegitimate children. The court is of the opinion that the learned judge was right in holding that the word did not include illegitimate children. The word 'children,' prima facie, means legitimate children. It was argued that because the gift was to mothers this rule did not apply. The court is of the opinion that it does apply."

The appeal court also upheld Mr. Justice Middleton's refusal to grant the next-of-kin costs of the hearing out of the Millar estate. Executors and those appointed to represent other interests in the case should receive their costs out of the estate it was ruled.

Flood Takes Piano But Brings Another

Charleston, Mo., Feb. 23 (AP)

THE Ohio River flood took Finley Johnson's piano away—but it brought him another just as good.

Finley's home is in the Birds Point-New Madrid floodway. When the basin was inundated last month, his piano started floating around and spreading general havoc, so "I opened the doors, shoved the piano out and saw it float away," he said today.

"When I returned to my home, I found another piano had floated in through the open doors during the flood."

PETER ROBERTSON HAS RECOVERED DEGREE OF SIGHT

Every Day When Bandage Is Removed Can See More He Declares

LEAVES HOSPITAL

"I can see more now than I have been able to see at any time in the past twelve years," Peter Robertson declared jubilantly as he prepared to leave his bed in Nicholls Hospital and return to his farm in Otonabee township yesterday. And thus the stage was made ready for a happy ending to one of life's little dramas which has been in progress during the past month.

"Every day when the bandage is removed I can see more," the elderly farmer reported. "I feel certain I am going to have good enough vision that it will be a great help to me."

His spirits undampened by the fact the degree of sight he is to have is still uncertain, the elderly man was driven back to the little farm near Keene which he has worked in blindness for years by his neighbor, Wilian Stewart, last night. And to-day he was back to his chores with the hope that he had abandoned when, in 1924, an eye specialist told him his case was hopeless, returned to him.

"Everybody has been very kind to me," he said, reflecting on the series of events which have led to his new hope.

See Surgeon's Hand.

An early hope for success of the operation was raised when the patient reported he could see the surgeon's hand before his face during the operation. Almost daily since the operation, he has reported the eye more sensitive to light upon removal of the protecting bandage. Yesterday he revealed he could distinguish the sash in the hospital window fifteen feet from his bed.

His doctor reported the recovery from the operation has been satisfactory and gives the patient a fair chance for recovering a useful measure of his sight.

Peter Robertson is anticipating eagerly a second operation for removal of the cataract on his left eye if the operation on the right eye proves a success. He is under instructions to take it easy around his farm home for the next week or so while recovery is being completed. The neighbors who have tending his farm during his absence in the hospital have volunteered readily to continue with the heavier chores.

FIRING SQUADS BUSY

All Ethiopians Found With Arms in Homes Are Shot

ROME, Feb. 23—(A.P.). — The Italian conquerors of Ethiopia announced in a terse official communique to-day that firing squads had "liquidated" all Ethiopians found with arms in their homes—a grim sequel to an attempt to assassinate Viceroy Rodolfo Graziani in Addis Ababa.

Although the communique did not say how many Ethiopians had been executed it was announced that of 2,000 suspects arrested, some hundreds had been freed, with possibly 100 shot.

VICTIM OF RARE DISEASE.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 23.—(CP).—A case of leuchaemia, rare disease of the blood, ended yesterday in the death of Doreen Alice, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lord.

The child's condition was first noticed by a school nurse, Dr. S. Snideman, who attended the patient, said.

Listening To Others Troubles Makes Girl Excellent Living

Finds Loneliness Outranks Love As Problem Among Manhattan Dwellers

GETS $3 AN HOUR

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—The bright young woman who is making a living simply by being a good listener has found that love and loneliness are the public's biggest worries.

Miss Ulric Kay—she blazed a new trail in Gotham by listening, when everybody else wants to talk—decided today that loneliness outranks love as a problem on Manhattan Island.

But next comes romance — the stenographers who fall hopelessly in love with the boss, and the man who decides his best friend's wife is the girl of his dreams.

They come to Miss Kay, and unburden their woe. She doesn't do anything about it. She just listens.

You pay your money ($3 for an hour, $2 for a half hour), take your choice of the troubles that beset you, and get them off your chest to a willing ear.

Miss Kay calls herself "a professional listener." She is a tall, cheerful young woman from Chicago. When she "hung out her shingle" six weeks ago she expected women to be her clientele; but men come too.

Some of the men talk about the stock market, and seem deeply grateful because she doesn't interrupt. Her clients range from 20 to 72, but are mainly middle-aged.

Miss Kay said her job isn't as easy as it sounds—that listening takes a lot of energy. The "professional listener" never asks the names of her callers, and keeps no records. They come by appointment to her little apartment.

The idea, she said, was her brother's, adding:

"The nice thing about it is that it pays. There seems to be a real need for a listener."

Thieves Steal Hens But Farmer Is Happy

WANTS BETTER MULES

Better Horses And Mules In Ohio Is Aim Of Bill.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23 (CP).— Better horses and better mules were the aim of Rep. Floyd C. Kerns' bill in the Ohio Legislature.

Among 18 diseases and transmissible unsoundnesses he would curb are: "Moon blindness," "roaring and whistling," "heaves," "crampiness," "stringhalt," and "bog spavin."

Passengers Carry Water To Keep Locomotive Going

Lindsay To Bancroft Train Gets Into Trouble—Boiler Of Engine Goes Dry

SIX HOURS LATE

LINDSAY, Feb. 23 (CP)—As long as there are plenty of passengers with plenty of cream cans and buckets and farmers' wells don't run dry, trains of the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa line will make the grade all right.

They mightn't always be on schedule, but they get there. At least they did yesterday, about six hours overdue on a memorable run from Lindsay to Bancroft.

When the train reached a point near Wilberforce, about forty-five miles north of Lindsay, the engine coughed, spluttered and quit. The passengers were told: "Something has gone haywire with the engine and all the water from the boiler has been lost."

Jovially, the passengers grabbed cream cans, buckets and other improvised water-carrying devices. They attempted to replenish the supply from near-by Dark Lake. The train managed to struggle along for a couple of miles, but it quit cold again.

The passengers flocked to a farmer's well and pumped it dry. Still there wasn't enough water and word was sent back to Lindsay for a second engine.

The train pulled into Tory Hill at 5 p.m., six hours late.

97, Weds 18th Bride, Keeping Him Young

Brcka, Jugoslavia, Feb. 23 (UP)

She was Maria Zoro, a widow who at 37 is a comparative "child bride."

Vedra claims he is the most married monogamist in the world. He has been twice a widower and fifteen times divorced. He boasts 36 children and scores of grandchildren.

REBELS SWING THEIR ATTACK UPON VALENCIA

Fighting Around Viver 35 Miles From Port City Is Closely Censored

DEADLOCK AT MADRID

New Drive Aimed To Cut Government Seat From Catalonian Officials

MADRID, Feb. 23 (A.P.). — An insurgent force, presumably the spearhead of a drive from Lower Aragon toward the sea, thrust today at a village only 35 miles from Valencia, temporary seat of the Spanish Government.

Insurgent capture of the village of Viver on the Teruel-Sagunto highroad, north-west of Valencia, would place a salient of General Franco's line about 20 miles from the Mediterranean.

Government troops, opposing insurgents in the Jarama River valley to the south-east of Madrid, consolidated small gains west of Morata de Tajuna and north-east of San Martin de la Vega, close by the disputed Valencia highway.

They withstood insurgent attacks yesterday in the north-west suburb, University City, and at Perales del Rio, south of the city on the Jarama front.

The city's defenders were reported to have driven insurgents from a section of the vital Valencia highway after a short-lived occupation of it.

LAKEFIELD

WITHOUT POWER FOR HALF AN HOUR

Considerable Damage Done By Sunday's Storm—Trees Blown Down

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23. — Considerable damage was done in Lakefield on Sunday evening by a storm which passed over the village between 5 and 8 p.m. Rev. and Mrs. Creighton, Queen Street, were disturbed at tea on Sunday evening by a terrific crash which occurred when a large fir tree which stands just a few feet from their front verandah was torn off about 4 or 5 feet from the ground, and fell with a crash on to a telephone cable, where it lay, supported by the cable until repair men removed it early on Monday morning. The fir tree measured about ten inches in diameter. Fortunately it fell away from the house or more serious damage might have resulted.

The village was in darkness for a short period between 6.15 p.m. and 6.45 p.m., while a Hydro line over the Otonabee River was being repaired. The wire, a fairly long stretch across the river, which apparently received the full force of the storm as it blew up the stream, was torn in two and fell into the waters of the raceway.

D. H. Charlton, manager of the Lakefield Rink, was astonished to find a thick coating of dust on the surface of the skating ice when he went to work on Monday. The only way he can account for the dust is that it blew in through the windows of the rink during Sunday's storm. "We will have to freeze over it," he said. "It will take a little time to do this." The dust was black in color.

MAY CLOSE RELIEF STORE

Conditions Have Greatly Improved in Sault Ste. Marie

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 23.—(C.P.)—Closing of the Sault relief store by midsummer if reduction of the relief list continued at its present rate was predicted in a report submitted to city council last night by Alderman Earl Dinsmore, chairman of the relief committee. It was decided to send Relief Officer Max Soulliere and some other city official to Massey to investigate circumstances in connection with the return to the city of a group of Sault relief men without going to work in pulp camps to which they had been sent.

ONTARIO ADVANCES WEALTH TAX BILL

Leduc Would Limit To 60 Days Time Between Staking Claim, Registering It

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn will resume the throne speech debate in the Ontario legislature today. He spoke 20 minutes Thursday and will take two hours or more today. He was expected to devote much time to answering George S. Henry's charges about the administration of the liquor control act.

The legislature yesterday sat for only half an hour. Premier Hepburn asked Mr. Henry, Conservative House leader, if he wanter the public accounts committee called. The answer was yes and the premier set next Tuesday as the day for calling it.

It was understood the opposition has prepared many questions about road work in Northern Ontario.

Without debate yesterday, the legislature passed second reading of the government bill to make heavier the income taxes on those who incorporate personal corporations outside Canada. Hon. Paul Leduc, mines minister, sponsoring the bill, said wealthy men had transferred wealth out of the country to avoid taxation. When the bill becomes law, the exemption from provincial taxation now applying on the amoutn of tax paid the federal government will be removed.

Of interest to Northern Ontario was the bill introduced yesterday by Hon. Paul Leduc, minister of mines, to limit to 60 days the time between staking of a claim and registering it. In the past, he said, claims have been staked and not registered for several months.

Another bill, sponsored by Mr. Leduc, would allow six months for the removal of machinery and buildings from abandoned mining claims. At the end of this time such buildings and machinery will become the property of the government. The six months may be extended by a judge, the bill provided.

FIXED ASSESSMENT

Vote of Dresden Ratepayers Is 222 to None.

DRESDEN, Ont., Feb. 23 (C.P.).—Municipal history was written here yesterday as ratepayers, without a dissenting vote, granted a fixed assessment to Canadian Canners, Limited. The final count was 222 to none. The canning company will be given a 10-year fixed assessment of $5,250, exemption from business tax for the years 1937-38-39, and a reduction in water rates.

The company's Dresden plant has been closed for several years. Some time ago the Council launched a plan to have it opened again, and to-day's vote was the outcome.

BINDWEED GROWS GREATER MENACE YEARLY TO FARMER

Known As Creeping Jenny Or Charlie, European Or Wild Morning Glory, Pea Vine

IMPORTED 30 YEARS AGO

By Paul D. Shoemaker
(Associated Press Farm Editor.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. — (AP) — Spread of Bindweed, with its bell-shaped blossoms on twining vines that choke crops to death, was recognized today as a serious menace to agriculture in half a dozen United States western states.

The weed, known also as Creeping Jenny, Creeping Charlie, European or Wild Morning Glory and Pea Vine, has been found in 30 other states. Farmers were apprehensive over its virility and resistance to control.

Leonard W. Kephart, senior agronomist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, said, "it already has infested about 2,000,000 acres of cultivated land west of the Mississippi river so badly that the farms have been practically abandoned. The weed is spreading so fast that unless something is done to control it we can't tell what the final outcome will be."

Kephart said he had seen places in Nebraska, Minnesota, Kansas and South Dakota where "a man can cross an entire county and walk on the weed at every step."

Came from Europe.

The weed was native to Europe, he said, and probably was imported with barley and oat seed 30 or 40 years ago. Kephart estimated several million dollars in federal relief funds and state appropriations already have been spent in combatting it. It spread extensively during the drought years.

Dr. R. H. Porter, plant pathologist at Iowa State College, said one successful eradication method was to fallow the land through out the summer for about three years. Planting rye or wheat in the fall of each year. In the spring the rye, in particular, can be pastured until about the middle of May after which it may be allowed to mature and be harvested for grain. This method, he pointed out gives some return from the land while weeds are being destroyed.

GROUP LEADERS PLAN FOR QUILTING

Patchwork Quilts To Be Used For Relief When Finished

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SELWYN, Feb 23—On Saturday last, the leaders of the two groups of the W. A. of Selwyn United Church along with some of the members, met at the home of Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald, when they sewed together and got ready for quilting the two patch-work quilts which have been pieced by the members of the W. A. and are to be used for relief purposes. These quilts are the crazy patch-work design, and are of good warm material.

Mrs. Seymour Sweeting has very kindly offered her home for the quilting of the same on Wednesday of this week.

On Thursday at regular meeting of the Young People's Society there will be presented in the church some interesting lantern slides on the country of Palestine. All adults in the community are cordially invited.

LEARNING ABOUT GAS

British Doctors Being Trained at Rate of 2,000 Month.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(CP).—Doctors are being trained in treatment of gas cases at the rate of 2,000 monthly, according to Geoffrey Lloyd, Under Secertary of the Home Office.

Replying to questions in the House of Commons by D. Sandys, Lloyd said up to the end of January more than 1,500 medical practitioners had completed courses of anti-gas training given by Home Office medical instructors. Sixteen of these instructors are now at work.

FIRST CANADIAN COLLEGE MENTOR PAID 200 POUNDS

Nova Scotia Archives Documents Reveal Salaries Of First Professors

OLDEST COLLEGE

By Harold E. Freeman
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

HALIFAX, Feb. 23—(C.P.)—The first college president in Canada received £200 a year for his services, and his mathematics and English professor collected £100, documents in possession of the Nova Scotia Archives here reveal.

William Inglis, first president of King's Academy of Windsor, N.S., the forerunner of King's College, received £200 in 1788, the year the institution was founded, by orders drawn on the treasurer of the province under authority of the Lieutenant-Governor. John Van Norden was paid half that amount for being "Teacher of mathematics and Master of the English School."

The ancient parchment marking the first quarterly payment, one of a series covering years now in the Archives, is dated November 21, 1788, and reads:

"John Parr, Esq., Lieutenant-Governor and Commander-in-Chief over His Majesty's Province of Nova Scotia and its dependencies.

"To Benjamin Green, Esq., Treasurer of the Province:

"You are hereby directed to pay unto the Reverend William Archibald Payne Inglis, president of the Academy ,the sum of fifty pounds, being his salary for one quarter commencing October 1 last. By order of the Lieutenant-Governor."

The Academy became a College two years later. Meanwhile, Halifax Academy had been founded in 1789 under the name of the Halifax Grammar School and William Cochran was receiving £150 for being principal. The following year he became president of King's when it became Canada's first college.

Indications the finances of the newly-formed Halifax Grammar School were not all they might have been in those days are seen in the salary receipts of Mr. Cochran for that year. Instead of receiving a full pay of £37 10c each quarter, it was split up into three accounts of £10, £10, and £17 10s.

It must have been a busy year for Mr. Cochran. In addition to being first principal of the Academy, he also founded the "Nova Scotia Magazine and Comprehensive Review of Literature, Politics and News," a Halifax publication which was among the first in Canada. It ran for three years, under the guidance of John Howe, father of Joseph Howe, a leader in Nova Scotia's swing to responsible government.

OVIEDO BOASTS IT IS INVINCIBLE

Rebels Claim Attackers Have Lost 4,000 Men In Recent Charges

House-to-house fighting raged in the centre of the Biscayan provincial capital, said a government radio report.

President Juan Antonio Aguirre, of the Basque national regime, said 10,000 government troops were closing in on Colonel Miguel Aranda's insurgent force, bottled up in the city for three months.

Insurgent officials estimated the attackers' losses at 4,000 men.

"Oviedo is invincible," declared broadcaster at the new insurgent radio station at Oviedo.

"We have not retreated a single step and the enemy, after suffering heavy losses, has seen all attacks broken."

The Oviedo barracks and surrounding buildings—targets of artillery and planes—were smoking ruins. The bull ring bristled with the guns of government attackers. City reservoir and an asylum were destroyed.

MODEL DISTRICT IS OBJECTIVE OF NEW COMMUNITY GROUP

Associations Plan To Aid Unemployed Find Market For Farmers

BEAUTIFY TOWN

INVERNESS, N.S., Feb. 23 (CP)—If plans of the eight-months-old Community Development Association materialize, this Cape Breton Island mining town of 3,000 inhabitants will be the model town of the island in more ways than one.

Less than a year ago the people of Inverness and the surrounding district met to discuss social and economic problems that beset them. Progress had been at a standstill for years. The employment outlook was gloomy. Industries were languishing.

Out of the meeting came a study club and then the development association. To take advantage of nearby timber resources and at the same time to provide employment for younger men, wood-working machinery valued at nearly $2,000 was obtained. Members decided to enlist the services of an instructor who would teach wood-working crafts.

An essay contest conducted in the schools brought scores of suggestions for beautifying the town. Paved streets, home improvements, a seaside beach, planting of trees and flowers, playgrounds and stimulation of sports were decided upon.

A consumers' co-operative is planned to enable farmers to market their produce. A plea has been forwarded the federal department of public works asking the harbor be dredged. Lobster factories and canneries then could ship by water, it was urged.

Members themselves don't expect all these things at once. But, they will assure any inquirer, "just come and see Inverness in a few years time."

CHINESE GENERAL SAVED BY STORM

Sure Death For Chiang Kai-Shek Averted When Airplane Grounded

EDMONTON, Feb. 23—(C.P.).—Only a sudden storm saved the life of Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese generalissimo, while he was held prisoner by the rebellious Chang Hseu-Liang at Sian-Fu, it was asserted here by Dr. Chen Han-Seng, Nanking agrarian agent, a visitor.

The eminent Chinese scholar, his country's delegate to the Yosemite conference on Pacific affairs, said in an interview that during Chiang's enforced stay at Sian Fu a pro-Japanese group in Nanking used their influence to launch a "punitive expedition" of aerial bombers.

"If it had not been for a sudden storm which interfered with bombing plans as the airplanes approached Sian-Fu, Chiang's life would have been wiped out by friends of Japan," Dr. Chen added. He stated the daring kidnapping of Chiang was engineered by a hot-headed clique who demanded armed action against Japanese invasion.

Dr. Chen, homeward-bound after an extended tour of the United States and Canada, voiced the opinion a nationalist movement with a strong central government over a federation of autonomous provinces might be the combination that would thwart Japanese ambitions on the mainland.

He was enthusiastic about Edmonton's brisk, cold winter weather. "Ah, your weather here! The air is so dry and comfortable—much better than the chilly dampness of Shanghai or the moist heat of south China."

LAID OFF FROM WORK BY CONSTIPATION

"For four years I suffered from constipation. I had gotten so weak I had to lay off from work. My doctor told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since then, my grocery list has never been complete without it."—Mr. A. W. Murphy (address on request).

This delicious cereal will give you the same, sure relief. Laboratory tests prove it's safe. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the intestines. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B which tones the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Serve as a cereal or cook into appetizing recipes. Isn't this natural food better than pills and drugs?

When you're at the grocery store today, get a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Try it a week, and see if you don't feel worlds better. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

CANADA BIG INFLUENCE

Canadians Urged to Exert Their Influence in Right Direction.

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.—(CP). — Canada wields a powerful influence on Great Britain's foreign policy, but it should be exerted in the right direction, Sir George Paish, British economist, said in an interview last night.

"You made a powerful contribution toward influencing the Empire in the wrong direction once," he declared. "You can do it again, but this time I hope it will be toward a realization that it is suicidal to attempt to build an exclusive barrier around such an empire as this."

'HARD' PETROLEUM PLENTIFUL IN WEST

Engineers Report However It Must Be Squeezed Out Of Sands

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP).—An actual mine of "hard" petroleum in northwestern Canada, containing four times as much oil as all the oil reserves of the world, was reported yesterday to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

This oil is not solid, but is too viscous to flow. It can be squeezed out of its sand, like water out of a sponge. Some of this sand is 25 per cent oil.

To reach the treasure, said Max W. Ball of Edmonton, will require regular mining operations. Shafts will have to be sunk 800 to 1,280 feet.

But he said squeezing operations already tried show that the oil can be extracted successfully. It contains compounds good for high class anti-knock gasoline.

The hard oil deposit covers an area which he estimated from 10,000 to 50,000 square miles. It lies in the McMurray district of northern Alberta, along the Athabasca River.

"C. S. Ellis, Dominion government authority," said Mr. Ball, "estimated at least 100,000,000,000 barrels of oil there. C. P. Bowie of the United States Bureau of Mines put the estimate of 250,000,000,000 barrels, which would be equivalent to four times the United States geological survey's estimate of known petroleum reserves in the world."

Some of the oil sand has been eroded to the surface along the Athabasca. There Ball said he is setting up a mill to squeeze oil from some of the top sands.

Old Telegraph Line To Yukon Has Been Silenced By Radio

Too Expensive To Retain Line Through Rough Lonely Country

SAW OVERLAND LINE

VANCOUVER, Feb. 23.—"Thirty" has clicked out over the most romantic telegraph line in America. Through the British Columbia wilderness north of Hazelton and over the treacherous Nass mountains, a single strand of wire is "dead." For 400 miles, between Hazelton, B. C., and Telegraph Creek the Yukon telegraph line is broken and will probably remain unrepaired. Poles are rotting. Drooping and dangling wires make smudges of rust on the deep snow. Bridges and sections of the historic linemen's trail have vanished before disastrous floods and slides.

Now short-wave radio speeds messages over the mountainous stretch toward Dawson. The Dominion government, officials say, has found operation too costly, so the line that was originally intended to tap London, England, via Siberia, has lost another link. Operators, many of whom have patrolled the wilderness trail for 25 and 30 years, have been called "out." Their lonely cabins have been abandoned to the wilds of the north.

Its history is a vivid chapter from the story of man's titanic struggle to bridge the void between New York and London. In 1857 Cyrus W. Field attempted to lay the first Atlantic telegraph cable. Many of the foremost men in telegraphy believed the feat impossible; that he would fail. He did. Again in 1858 he tried. Life in the cable this time died after a few messages had been sent. Undaunted, he tried again in 1865 and once more the results were disappointing.

Saw Overland Line.

But the growing cities of New York and London still cried for a connecting link. At this time, Perry McDonough Collins proposed a line from New York through British Columbia, Russian America (Alaska), and Siberia to connect with existing lines in Russia. His dream was immediately accepted as feasible.

The line followed the famous Cariboo Road, built by the Royal Engineers in 1862 to Quesnel. From Quesnel it cut off through the wilderness northwesterly to Hazelton. North of Hazelton it traversed some of the wildest and roughest country in Western Canada. Eight miles of line over the Nass Mountains were above the timber line. Snow here, varies from 10 to 20 feet and slides are not infrequent. Eventually, Telegraph Creek was reached.....and disappointment.

As the little band of men gathered around their isolated log telegraph station, the battered Morse sounder inside began to pound against its brass points.

The messages of dots and dashes proved to be orders — their final orders. Cyrus W. Field had finally been successful in laying the Atlantic cable. The 12,000-mile Western Union "Russian Extension" Telegraph was no longer needed. New York had reached London via the Atlantic!

Fortunately the great gold mining activities at Barkerville and throughout the Cariboo district saved the line as far as Quesnel. Miners had plenty of money to spend....and they spent it. While the rate from the coast to-day is eighty-five cents for a ten-word day letter to Quesnel, in 1866 it was $8.

Yukon Gold Found.

When the line beyond Quesnel was abandoned, no one dreamed that it would ever again function. But someone discovered gold in the Yukon and when thousands climbed Chilkoot Pass, its need soon became apparent. Dawson, now a city of 35,000 souls, cried for connections with the world. The old "Russian Extension," however, after rusting and rotting for 35 years, was of no use. A new line would have to be built, so the Dominion government tackled the project.

The herculean task was started in 1899 and finished in three years. Up over the treacherous mountains a single strand of wire was again strung. Poles were packed in on the backs of mules to some spots. With the Klondike pleading for communication at any price, the route was surveyed in haste. Seasoned operators smilingly say the surveyers chose the most difficult route.

"They must have got lost," comments John J. Dore, present superintendent of the government telegraphs for British Columbia and the Yukon, and a former operator on the Yukon line north of Hazelton.

When the line to Bennett, Dawson and Atlin was first opened business was brisk—at 25 cents a word. To the "outside" came news of vast fortunes being made. Back over the single wire sped news that Jack Johnson had stopped Tommy Burns in a world heavyweight tilt and that police had stopped them both. Through the wilderness flew news of the death of Edward VII and the succession of George V. The gold rush though, died, and a cable was laid between the United States and Alaska. Operators played checkers with other brasspounders up and down the line.

"But the main idea of the government telegraph is not to make money," explains Superintendent Dore. "Government telegraphs only operate where private companies find it unprofitable to operate. Although we like to show a profit the main objective of the government lines is social service. Those people out there in the hinterland must have some contact with the rest of the world."

Misses Struggle.

Last spring floods ravaged the north. Along the Yukon line miles of pole, wire, trail and bridges were swept away. In the summer preparations were made to send in repair gangs. The season was to be a short one, but that 400 miles of vital line with the north had to to set-up before the snow flew. Then, as pack trains in Hazelton were being loaded for the trip, official word came from headquarters that the repair work was cancelled. The isolated operators were called in. Radio, would now conquer the vast stretches toward Dawson.

Superintendent John Dore, though he proudly tells of the government's radio ventures, it is quite evident he misses every winter's battle to keep the line open. He, like his fellow workers, considered the annual struggle a challenge. This spring will mark his 25th year in the Yukon line's service. He now has a warm office, but most of that 25 years was spent on the lonely trail to the north.

"I've seen myself out troubleshooting in the dead of winter for weeks at a time, never meetin' a soul," he says, surveying Vancouver's busy waterfront from his office atop Vancouver's new government building. Outside its snowing a young blizzard.

"I like that snow," he beams. "It reminds me of the north. Most of us never get it out of our blood."

MASSEY ON PEACE

Must Prevail If Britain, U.S. Join Hands.

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 23 (AP)—Denton Massey of Toronto, Conservative member of the Canadian parliament, declared here last night that if the United States and the British Empire "join hands for peace, peace will prevail."

Massey, leader of the York Bible Class of Toronto, largest men's bible class in the world, was speaker at the annual Washington's birthday dinner of the 13 class, men's Bible class of a Portland church.

The Canadian extended the greetings of Prime Minister William L. Mackenzie King to Governor Lewis Barrows, a guest at the dinner.

HAVELOCK HOTEL DAMAGED IN GALE

Front Porch And Sun-Room Is Hurled Into Highway

HAVELOCK, Feb. 23.— Terrific twisting winds and deluges of rain were experienced Sunday evening in this district, with the most serious damage occurring at the Armstrong hotel, where the front porch and sunroom was literally torn from the main building and hurled on to No. 7 highway. All electric power was cut off from the building for some hours.

A large maple tree, a short distance from the hotel, on the property of Mrs. A. Anderson, also fell prey to the storm, cracking down the middle and falling heavily against the house, but causing no serious damage.

Once Stationed In Lonely Cabin On Yukon Line

ROTARY SPEAKER STRESSES CROWN'S PLACE IN EMPIRE

Is Focal Point of British Commonwealth, Rev. S. G. Pinnock Says

INSPIRING ADDRESS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23. — "The focal point of the British Empire is the Crown. Even President de Valera of the Irish Free State has allowed the King to act in all matters pertaining to a foreign state," Rev. S. G. Pinnock, who spent 35 years of his life in East Africa and other parts of the Empire, told Rotarians at their luncheon held in the St. Lawrence Hotel yesterday.

Speaking of the part of the British Commonwealth of Nations, he explained that it was a liberal autonomy which welded together the parts of the Empire.

He began his address by stating that if radio had been invented at the time of the American Revolution there would probably never have been a United States of America to-day, since almost before the first guns were fired following the famous Boston Tea Party the British Parliament had repealed the tax on tea which the colonists had refused to pay until they had representation in the British Parliament.

Giving as an example of how British statesmanship prevailed, the speaker told of how three years after General Smutts had subdued the Boers an army from the same rebellious state had captured German East Africa for the British during the Great War.

Touching briefly on the history of India from the time of Clive, the speaker compared the situation there where there were 150 different tribes and many different languages with the situation in the American - controlled Philippine Islands. It would be generations before the Indians would be ready for self-government.

The Russian Situation

Referring to Russia the speaker stated that it was difficult to obtain a correct view of the situation since most visitors saw only what they were allowed to see under well-directed guidance. Rev. Pinnock told of how the Russians were trying to drive out from the minds of the younger generation any thoughts of God, and of how mothers in countless thousands worked in factories, leaving their children to be cared for in day nurseries. Russia, he explained, had greatness of bulk, but lacked in greatness of soul, hence he could not conceive of its ever becoming a truly great nation until these young Russians were allowed to possess their souls.

In Germany, as in Italy, the ruler was deified and in neither instance did the ruler use his power for beneficial purposes, and in both countries were thousands of political prisoners who had been whisked away when they had said something against the state.

In conclusion, the speaker attested that the genius of the British for government was so great that if you asked any of the natives in South Africa what European nation they would like to have rule over them, they will practically without exception reply "Englishee."

Mr. Earl Bell moved the thanks of the club to the speaker for his very interesting address.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 23.—(CP).—Judge Jesse Wood asked a witness in Fulton County Criminal Court if his truck was damaged while in possession of the defendant.

"Then what?"

"It caught fire and burned up."

WOMEN GET JOBS IN WHITEHALL

Five Are Appointed To Responsible Offices In British Civil Service

LONDON, Feb. 23. —(CP)— Five women have been appointed to administrative posts in Whitehall.

They are Miss Jenifer Williams, appointed to the home office; Miss Katharine Kennedy, to the board of education; Miss Mildred Riddelsdell to the ministry of labor; Miss Elizabeth Stenson to the inland revenue department and Miss Denise King to the board of agriculture.

For years women have failed to win responsible posts in the civil service. The showing this year is welcomed in government circles, where it is felt women will be especially useful in departments concerned with women and children.

BLOMBERG LINKS ARMY TO NAZIISM

States One Cannot Be Good Soldier Without Being Good Nazi

BERLIN, Feb. 23—(A.P.).—Field-Marshal Werner von Blomberg, Minister of War, placed Germany's newly recreated war machine squarely behind Chancellor Hitler and the ideals of the Nazi party today.

The War Minister, prominently displaying the gold button of the party as he spoke at the State Opera House yesterday on the Memorial Day to the German war dead, definitely committed the army, navy and air force to unswerving allegiance to a Nazi Germany.

"The Reich's armed force and the Nazi party are indissolubly bound together," the Marshal declared. "One cannot be a good soldier without being a good Nazi."

Blomberg's unusual emphasis upon this inter-relationship was believed to have been prompted by two circumstances:

1. Certain generals are known still to hold their oath of allegiance binds them to Hitler personally as commander-in-chief but that the Nazi party can be a matter of indifference to a soldier.

2. Many Germans who have declined to accept Nazism have clung tenaciously to the hope that Germany's most powerful body — her armed force — in taking into its hands all young men for universal military training, would rear them in a spirit opposed to Naziism.

WAR HISTORIAN BRIG.-GEN. EDMONDS CHAMPIONS HAIG

Reveals Commander's Fight To Retain General Sir Hubert Gough

D. L. G. ON NEW BOOK

By Edwin Johnson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP Cable).—Douglas Haig, accused by David Lloyd George in his memoirs of having caused the removal of General Sir Hubert Gough after the rout of the fifth army on the Somme in 1918, today found a new defender in Brigadier-General Sir James Edmonds, official historian of the Great War.

Writing in the February issue of the Journal of the Royal United Services Institution, Edmonds says: "There was agitation for General Gough's recall months before the Somme retreat; Haig was adamant in retaining him and threatened his resignation if his hand was forced; Sir Henry Wilson, when chief of the imperial general staff, determined 'Gough must go.'"

Fragmentary though conclusive evidence now proves, Sir James says, that in the autumn of 1917—several months before the retreat—it was suggested to General Haig from several quarters that he "should get rid of Gough," and that Haig very strongly opposed such action.

Edmonds says the movement for Gough's recall was revived when Wilson became chief of the general staff and appointed Sir Henry Rawlinson as British military representative on the supreme war council at Versailles.

Preferred Junior Officer.

"It was obvious," writes Edmonds, "that the new chief of the imperial general staff did not want a strong man at Versailles. He preferred a comparatively junior officer. On March 25, the day before the Doulens conference at which Marshal Foch was placed in control, Wilson was seen walking up and down near the G.H.Q. offices at Montreuil muttering so all might hear: 'Gough must go; Gough must go.'"

The next day, Sir James says, Lord Milner and Wilson again tackled Haig about Gough's removal, declaring public opinion at home was adverse towards Gough and that Foch considered he had done badly. Haig had resisted the overture, saying:

"No matter what Foch might have said, I consider Gough dealt with a most difficult situation very well. He has never lost his head, has always been cheery and has fought hard."

After Gough's removal, Edmonds says, Haig took the opportunity to champion Gough's cause before the prime minister, Lloyd George had replied: "Gough neither held nor destroyed the Somme bridges and he must not be employed again."

Haig Offers to Resign

Replying to a letter from the Earl of Derby, then Secretary of State, approving the Prime Minister's decision and further criticizing Gough, Haig wrote: "I have more than once said to you and to others of the government that the moment they feel they would prefer someone else to command in France I am prepared to place my resignation in your hands."

Returning from a holiday in Jamaica Wednesday, Lloyd George said of Gough: "Whether his dismissal was due to me or Haig is immaterial. The only thing that matters is that right and justice should be done to a very gallant soldier who was not in the least responsible for the disaster of March, 1918, for which he was practically dismissed."

Lloyd George said his new book on the Versailles Peace Conference would be quite as frank as his war memoirs. "I shall tell the truth as I know it quite fearlessly and without reference to what anyone might say,' the war-time Premier said. "I am going to tell the truth about German guilt."

On January 25 Prime Minister Baldwin was interviewed by all-party deputation and undertook to consider the question of Gough's vindication.

TOWNSEND TRIAL GETS UNDER WAY

Elderly California Physician Is Charged With Contempt Of U. S. House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(AP).—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, founder of the 200-a-month old age pension move, came to trial in Federal court to-day on charges of contempt of the United States House of Representatives.

The elderly California physician, whose pension proposal thrust him for a time into the foreground of the 1936 Presidential campaign, was indicted after he walked out on a special House committee investigating his organization and refused to testify further.

Two former regional directors—Dr. Clinton B. Wunder of New York and John B. Kiefer of Chicago—pleaded guilty to similar charges two weeks ago and were given suspended sentences and were placed on probation. Townsend, however, pleaded innocent the next day.

Justice Peyton Gordon said he had decided to be lenient with Wunder and Kiefer, as both had 'shown their contrition' in letters of apology to the House.

Here's the Modern Way to Help

END A COLD Quicker

The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warmed cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages of the nose, throat and chest. This combined poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—helps break congestion.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets

This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

Now White—Stainless

Thanks to a new process, VapoRub now comes to you in white stainless form. Only the color is removed; it is the same VapoRub—the same formula and the same effective double action.

Founded On Service

Peterborough Rotarians with their comrades all over the world have been celebrating the thirty-second anniversary of the founding of Rotary, a movement that seems to us to answer effectively the argument of those who sigh for the good old days and complain that the world is growing worse. When from the desire of a lonely Chicago lawyer to find companionship an organization springs into being that in a little over three decades firmly plants itself on the soil of practically every country on the map with a roll call of 4000 clubs and a membership of 175,000 and that for the one reason that it appeals to the unselfish side of humanity by its call to service then there does not seem to be anything particularly wrong with the world.

Here in Peterborough we have a chance to see something of the working out of the Rotary spirit in what has been accomplished for crippled children, in the camp for boys at Clear Lake and in the other community activities that the Peterborough club has fostered.

When these concrete results are multiplied by 4000 and to the product is added the contribution that Rotary has made to international good will by breaking down racial and geographical barriers and establishing a better understanding among peoples everywhere the world picture of this unique movement comes clearly into view. The mere social side of Rotary, the meeting together around the luncheon table every week, could not have produced such a record; had there been nothing beyond that the spirit of Rotary would not have gone far outside of the city in which it originated. It is built on something much more enduring of course, the ideal of service, and there is found the explanation of how quickly the movement spread from Chicago to other cities in the United States, flowed over the boundary line into Canada and then crossed the seven seas to demonstrate itself in hundreds of clubs the world over.

Dr. Best's Inauguration

Dr. E. M. Best, former resident of Peterborough has been inaugurated as president of the International Y.M.C.A. College at Springfield, Mass., and The Examiner congratulates him on behalf of his host of friends here, upon the distinction he has gained in being chosen for such a responsible position.

We do so most happily not only because one of our ex-citizens has been signally honored but because we realize that Dr. Best has in rich abundance qualities that will enable him to make a most valuable contribution to youth training. He brings to his great task the experience that has made him a tower of strength to the national council of the Y.M.C.A. in Canada, years of training that will stand him in good stead, but he brings more than that. He brings a warm and understanding heart that will readily enable him to understand the problems of youth with which he will have to deal and an enthusiasm and zeal for his duties that cannot fail to provide inspirational leadership for the great Y.M.C.A. institution over which he is now the head.

Canada has made many noteworthy contributions to many fields of achievement and endeavor in the United States and in the long list the name of Ernest M. Best should have an honored place. He has done much for the boys and young men of Canada by his work on this side of the boundary line in behalf of the Y.M.C.A. and now that service is to be complemented in a new field outside of the Dominion. The best wishes of his former neighbors are with Dr. Best as he assumes the responsibilities of his important post.

A Community Asset

In deciding to give the ratepayers of the village a chance to say whether or not they favor the purchase by the municipality of the skating and curling rink the Lakefield council has shown a proper appreciation of the value of the place as a community centre during the winter months. While it is difficult to estimate that value in terms of dollars and cents there does not seem to be much doubt that the figure, if based only on the benefit in health gained by the participants in winter sports, would greatly exceed the $1,800 required to retain the property as a municipal asset. On top of that of course is the pleasure that is gained by those who like to sit on the side-lines and watch and who would find the winter a long and dreary period if it were not for the interlude provided by seasonable sports.

It is a question for the ratepayers of Lakefield to decide for themselves but no harm can be done in pointing out to them that a community rink has a place in the scheme of things too important to be ignored and that in the absence of such an opportunity for wholesome recreation, young folk are apt to drift off to other sources of recreation often not so wholesome or so innocent. If that drift can be prevented by the acquisition of the rink by the municipality the investment of $1,800 would pay a very handsome dividend and from that viewpoint alone support of the purchase would be entirely justified.

Canadian Legionaires residing in Massachusetts and Rhode Island have passed a resolution which they propose forwarding to the Canadian government asking for a gratuity based on the rate of $1.00 for every day of war service.

In making such a request these exservicemen who live outside of Canada show that they are completely out of touch with Canadian sentiment on this question. It is to the credit of organizations of returned men in this country that they have steadfastly refused to lend their support to any movement to secure a war bonus for Canadian veterans, feeling that their efforts should be devoted toward securing a fair deal for those who were broken in body as a result of their war experiences.

The Minister of Pensions, himself a veteran of the Great War, said only a few weeks ago that the principle of a war bonus was not sound and that opinion is shared by the majority of his comrades so that outside altogether of the fact that the cost of yielding to the request of these Legionaires would represent an almost impossible burden upon the national treasury, any chance of that request receiving much consideration at Ottawa would seem to be battering itself against the solid wall of Canadian feeling that a war bonus in this country is out of the question.

Havelock's Woodpile

Havelock has inaugurated the policy of requiring every transient who applies for a night's lodging to cut a certain amount of wood and the authorities have found that since the municipal wood pile was established the applicants have been reduced by two-thirds. It does not take news of that kind long to travel round by the grapevine telegraph in use among transients and not a second longer for the knights of the road to decide to give Havelock a wide berth come bedtime so that it is not surprising to find that the railway village has profited by its wood pile experiment.

What would happen of course if every centre in this part of the province adopted a similar policy is by no means clear. If the transient knew that no matter where he applied for shelter for the night he would be required to do some axe and saw work then the thing would probably boil down to a question of which municipality provided the best lodging and how much wood each insisted upon having cut and which had the easiest wood to saw. In fact the whole thing would become so complicated that perhaps the majority of the jobless wanderers would decide that the game was no longer worth the candle and they would go looking for a permanent job somewhere. If such a consummation as that could be reached it surely would pay every municipality to take a leaf out of the Havelock book and set up a woodpile immediately. We are not so sure that it would not pay them to do so in every case. At the worst they could keep the municipal buildings provided with a supply of fuel and that is something even in a mild winter like this strange one of 1937.

Good Neighbors

There was a fire in Warkworth not long ago; a house was burned down and the family lost all its belongings. Naturally there was much sympathy among the people of the district for the folk to whom fate had dealt this crushing blow, but the thing did not stop with everybody saying how sorry they were.

There was action that proved it, for in a short time a community concert was arranged, folk who could sing or recite or play a musical instrument gladly offered their services, the reeve took the chair and the cash and goods that were collected as a result of this fine effort gave the burned-out family a chance to get started again. The people of Warkworth proved in short that they were good neighbors, just as other communities all over the country have demonstrated when a similar occasion arose.

It is a comforting thought that when misfortune comes the men and women who live round about us can usually be counted upon to extend a helping hand; they may seem indifferent to our existence when things are going along smoothly but in a time of need there are warm hearts to appreciate the necessity of action and a neighborly desire to bring aid to the stricken and the afflicted.

Education Week

This is Education Week, sponsored by the Canadian Teachers' Federation who should have little difficulty in making out a good case for their movement in view of the fact that nearly twenty-five per cent of the whole population of Canada attends school either as pupils or teachers. We have a lot of weeks of this kind every year and sometimes we are forced to confess that they do not accomplish a great deal. It would be a pity indeed if a similar verdict had to be recorded of anything that should be so important as this campaign on behalf of a closer study of the manifold problems of education. Particularly would it be unfortunate if the week were allowed to slip by without any real effort to consider the question that the Teachers' Federation is particularly stressing, that is what can be done to help the clever student of limited means who is prevented from taking full advantage of his mental equipment because the resources to send him further along the educational field are lacking. It is true of course that many a youth has failed to allow such a handicap to hold him back; he has paid for his education by the sweat of his brow in any kind of menial occupation that offered him employment and has gone through and triumphed gloriously.

A community should make a better use of its finest minds than that, however, by providing machinery by which it would be possible for clever young people to advance their educational equipment, possibly, as a contemporary points out, by a more general adoption in Canada of the scholarship plan which other countries of the Empire have found effectual in opening the door of opportunity to the clever but poor. We are far behind other British countries in that aspect of the educational question and Education Week could be devoted to no more helpful purpose than to a study of this scholarship method.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Six hundred warning tags have been handed out to jay-walking pedestrians in Indianapolis. That is much to be preferred to being tagged by motor drivers.

In answer to the members of the Glengarry Presbytery who object to radio advertising on Sunday it may be pointed out that the folk who go to church miss most of the blurbs.

Nearly 400 Montrealers who like to bet on the horse races have been fined $50 each for being "found in." It looks as if the magistrate must have received a hot tip.

Miss Agnes Mcphail's suggestion that the bag-pipes be used to frighten enemies away from Canada would seem to indicate that the woman member is indifferent to the Scots' vote.

A Brooklyn school teacher has been awarded six cents damages for the loss of her husband's affections. Never having seen the husband it is difficult to properly appraise the result.

A six-hour day for housewives is recommended by a woman member of an American college faculty. Most of them under such a system would probably try to work three six-hour shifts a day.

According to a French specialist talking makes women live longer. It also makes life seem longer to those who have to listen to them, our cynical bachelor friend points out.

Mrs. Brickenden of London has attended 240 amateur plays in the last five years. The only thing Major Bowes has on this patient Londoner is the salary he gets.

The Nazi government has barred the humorous United States publication "Judge" until further notice. Perhaps the authorities feel there are enough things for folk to laugh at in Germany without outside help.

We are working round to the season of the year when someone will want to start a branch of the S.S.A.S. in Peterborough. The initials of course stand for the 'Society for the Suppression of Automobile Splashers."

In Los Angeles, the stomach of a seven-year-old boy was found to contain two safety pins, a screw nail, three one-inch nails, two tacks and a tin whistle. About all he lacked to start a hardware store was a cash register.

Berlin paper is opposing the proposed construction of special apartments for unmarried men, saying that bachelors should not have extra comforts. It probably considers being single is luxury enough.

Alton, Ill., has a nineteen-year-old youth who is eight feet six inches tall and growing at the rate of two inches a year. By the time he is old enough to vote he will not be able to get into the polling booth.

Stories from Ottawa continue to warn us not to expect much taxation relief from the coming budget. Outside of those who have been relying upon pre-election speeches this warning would seem to be entirely unnecessary.

THE WIND

Wind in the reeds, and wind crooning wailfully over
Deep river water and spray,
Muting to languor the wavering cry of a plover,
Sweeping the sands and the desolate
rifts of his way,
Searching the shingle and shale, the driftwood and stone;

Wind in the pines, and wind in the wild-cherry bushes.
Rustling and rolling and warm,
Rubbing the resinous boughs through the quick forest hushes;
This is the voice of the godling, the Indians' charm;
Voice of the open-air godling—whose mood is your own.

When a Strike Becomes Siege

(From the Ottawa Citizen)

RAILWAY union officials in Montreal are reported to have stated that a "peaceful walk-out" of 117,000 Canadian railway workers is being planned. The organized railwaymen are to decide by ballot whether they are to resort to this strike weapon.

Hitherto there has been no doubt about the steady character of railway union officials. They represent organized Canadian workers of a high order. They could undoubtedly endeavor to follow the policy of a "peaceful walk-out" avoiding any individual acts of violence. Just the same, a railway strike in Canada would be in effect an act of industrial war against the nation. It would operate to reduce the Canadian people to a state of seige, just as much as though Canada were beseiged by an external enemy, or even more so. The senior workers on Canadian railways are doubtless fully aware of the possible consequences. It is hardly likely under the circumstances that they will be so entirely agreed on precipitating the siege conditions.

Experience in recent times has demonstrated that the strike weapon is tending to become less effective. It is especially dubious when it has the effect of being directed against the people in common. British trade unions in the general strike of 1926 made this discovery at heavy cost. The strongest British unions, railway workers, transport workers, coal mines, made the general strike as complete as it could possibly be throughout the United Kingdom. It brought out virtually every organized worker. Even the newspapers were closed down. It had the effect, however, of mobilizing the nation on an emergency basis to a remarkable degree, to carry on until the strike collapsed. It probably did more to set back the position of British organized labor than any strike in the history of trade unionism.

There should be public support for a general increase in the level of Canadian wages. The board of conciliation's recommendation in this direction would be widely endorsed, even though the comment is heard that, compared with wages in many other Canadian industries, the railway workers are well paid. There is, however, a widespread feeling throughout Canada that the first step up in the railway industry should be toward an increase in the number of workers, rather than toward higher pay. Many of the senior workers who have avoided the severity of prolonged unemployment in recent years may possibly be inclined to take this view also; it is almost certain that an enforced increase in wages would operate to retard the employment of more of the men at present in the reserve of labor.

The Citizen has never believed in the policy of forcing down wages. From the beginning of the period of deflation in Canada, the reactionary consequences of cutting down on purchasing power have been pointed out. Belt-tightening as the leading authorities advocated it, has imposed much needless suffering on the Canadian people. But striking to force up wages is no remedy. It is as anti-social as the belt tightening policy. A better way can be found.

MIGHT BE DIFFERENT.

(St. Catharines Standard)

C. E. JOHNSTON, Social Credit member for Bow River, would restrict profits in war time to $1.10 or less, the amount received by Canadian soldiers in the last war. Speaking in the House of Commons, he said:

"The hon. member for Fort William (Mr. McIvor) referred to the fact that our soldiers are paid $1.10 per day while fighting in the trenches. That is all they receive for taking the chance of being blown to pieces. I do not think a manufacture of munitions, boots and shoes, tunics or farm products, or the developer of our natural resources, should get one penny more than the man in the trenches. Possibly he should not get as much. I think the word 'profiteer' would have a better expression.'

Should there ever be another war, which Heaven forbid, there is no doubt that there will be the strictest government limitation and control of private profit consonant with adequate production. But if the farmers of Bow River have a chance to sell their wheat at $2 or better per bushel, will the M.P. for that big wheat district say his place then in quite the same way?

WOMEN INTERESTED.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

WOMEN in various parts of Canada are showing interest in the home improvement loans sponsored by the federal government and that may do more to make the project a success than any other factor yet revealed.

Women have to spend probably seventy per cent. of their time in the home, and they naturally are particularly conscious of the defects that have become noticeable in the half dozen years of sacrifice compelled by depression. The heating plants in many houses are worn out, much of the equipment in kitchens has become obsolete, floors are defective and permit basement dust to rise into living rooms, painting is required outside and inside, plumbing is in a low state of repair. All these defects weigh heavily on the housewife and work to overcome such dilapidation has been deferred because it required all the income available to cover the routine expenses.

A Bit of Nonsense

Blaming Teddy

Little Hilda, with her Teddybear and her Grannie, was about to set out for the morning walk. Hilda is devoted to her Grannie, but sometimes has qualms about the old lady's taste in dress. So she thus compromised: "Grannie, Teddie says if you are going out in that hat, he thinks he would rather walk on the other side of the street!"

HE HAS A COMPLAINT

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Please allow me space in your valuable paper to inquire who is the hog who wants the whole Buckhorn road. Is it the truck driver or the man who did the job or the overseers who gave the order to spread gravel on the hills from shoulder to shoulder clear across the road. Now the farmer who wishes to draw a load of hay or any other load is beat. It would not be so bad if the road was not wide enough for both truck and sleigh, it is as little as they could do is to give us half. And then if things were done right there need be no gravel at all. There has been money enough squandered to cut every hill on the Buckhorn road to a natural grade. If our road bosses were cutting hills instead of digging ditches to upset people in it would look like common sense. So here is hoping we sleigh men will soon get a square deal and thanking you Mr. Editor for your space, I will sign myself

OBSERVER

COMMENDS KIRMA'S RESTRAINT

Editor Examiner:

Sir: One could not but notice the restraint and moderation of tone in the letter recently inserted by one "Kirma" in contrast to the wild threats of dire forebodings contained in the one which attacked the "black magic" of this same "Kirma."

Truly sometimes we wonder if this is really an enlightened twentieth century or whether we are back in the middle ages when "witch burnings" were a popular diversion.

One can picture these zealous fanatics relentlessly following out the advice "Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live." I did not think anyone took magicians or "black magic" seriously these days. To picture as loved to do the ancient Hebrews a Jehovah of wrath and fire and vengeance lending calamity and destruction to our little city as a result of Kirma's visit is to me the heighth of absurdity and entirely a wrong conception of the Great Father of us all, without whom "not a sparrow falleth to the ground" unnoticed. To say the beer parlors or gambling places are not as harmful as these harmless entertainments of Kirma's is indeed a very sweeping assertion. One has only to observe young women being assisted home in intoxicated condition to observe their actions and talk and the disgusting signs of illness even on our public streets as a result of that condition. We read every day of drunken drivers snuffing out the lives of innocent children and others and maiming others for life, yet all this is not so repulsive to some as the amusing questions and answers and other exhibitions, some of which may not have been in the best of taste and repugnant to the more fastidious.

But, to my God, there are no foreigners. Does Mr. Chambers realize that to people of other nations he is a foreigner, but none the less one of God's children? My God does not send wanton destruction to break the hearts of poor frail mankind and serve no useful purpose. His approval is not always to the one who cries loudest "Lord, Lord," and think by wild outcries and hysterical writhings and disorderly actions to prove their saintliness. I much prefer to hear His voice in the quiet of the eve, to see Him in the glory of the Heavens and His handiwork all about us. Not as one who is continually watching for us to make a mis-step so He can send us to eternal fire, we His creatures whom He loved enough to die for. I hear Him say "Come unto Me all ye that weary and are heavy laden, I will give you rest."

Yours truly

G. M.

LIKES THE CHANGE

Editor Examiner:

Sir: For the past number of years the citizens of this city and country have been looking to those responsible for the management of our public affairs, to reduce the cost of such to the general public.

The recent amalgamation by the Utilities Commission of the Gas and Light bills is an example of what can be accomplished in this direction, for I understand that a saving of about $2,500.00 is thus affected annually, which must ultimately be reflected in lower costs to the consumer.

Apart from this, the saving in time is also quite a consideration, for only one trip to the Commission's office is now necessary in place of three such visits formerly.

The members of the Utilities Commission are to be congratulated on this, as a step in the right direction.

Comment on Examiner' Loss.

(Papers Pay Tribute to Perry J. Giffen.)

End Promising Career

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

THE death of Perry Giffen, managing director of the Peterborough Examiner since October, 1935, has brought an untimely end to a promising career. A comparatively young man, the late Mr. Giffen had had a wide and successful experience in the newspaper field of Canada. Starting newspaper work in Halifax after his return from the war in 1919, he had served on the staffs of newspapers in Hamilton, Toronto and Edmonton, whence he had returned east to assume his late position with the Peterborough Examiner. He was possessed of a keen spirit of public service, and his passing will be mourned by many friends outside as well as within journalistic circles.

Fine Qualities

(Belleville Intelligencer)

THE death of Perry J. Giffen, business manager of the Peterborough Examiner for the past eighteen months, came as a shock to friends in all parts of Canada. He was well known and respected for his fine personal qualities and his business gifts were acknowledged by all with whom he had come in contact.

His decease at an early age makes the work he achieved during his life all the more remarkable. The formative years of his life were spent in active service with the C.E.F. and it was on service he suffered the wounds which ultimately led to his death. After he had somewhat recovered from his wounds he joined the Intelligence Service staff. His rise in the newspaper field after his return from the war was steady and was the proof of his abilities, particularly in advertising and business management.

He came to the Peterborough newspaper with the experience of years in the newspaper field and was making a marked success of the Examiner. Personally he had a host of friends who deeply regret the passing of such a genial, kindly man and will long hold him in memory.

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

NOW and again we are wrenched backward to the days of the Great War. Such an unhappy reminder came to us yesterday when there ticked over the wire an announcement of the untimely death of Perry J. Giffen, managing director of the Peterborough Examiner.

Mr. Giffen was seriously wounded in the right shoulder at Hill 70 in August of 1917, while serving with the Canadian forces. For twenty years a partially disabled and sometimes paining arm was a war burden borne without a grumble by Perry Giffen. Indeed, we feel that many of his acquaintances were unaware of his handicap. Light-hearted, enterprising, thorough and generously endowed with social gifts, Perry Giffen contributed his talents in many spheres of community service wherever he made his home and he had been a valued newspaper man in several Candian cities.

Mr. Giffen went to Peterborough from Edmonton about eighteen months ago to take the position of managing director of the Examiner. At the same time A. R. Kennedy, then editor of this newspaper, was appointed managing editor of the Peterborough daily.

Last fall newspaper men from all over Ontario gathered in Peterborough to participate in the ceremonies attending the opening of the Examiner's new building. A few days later Mr. Giffen became seriously ill as a result of inflammation of his war wound, a condition probably induced by strenuous work, and he never regained his usual health.

Peterborough has lost a new citizen of real worth in Perry Giffen, and newspaper men mourn the passing of a good friend.

A BIG CIRCULATION.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

ABOUT 25 years ago Max Aitken—William Maxwell Aitken to be exact—quit his native Canada after making a fortune in cement in order to see if he could conquer new fields in the British Isles. He won a seat in Parliament, then bought a struggling newspaper, the Daily Express and subsequently was awarded a peerage. No commoner can reach higher than the House of Lords. Having developed his newspaper to the position of the greatest circulation in the world, Lord Beaverbrook is probably satisfied that he has achieved the ambitions of his life. Figures issued by the Daily Express for the year 1936 shows that the average daily circulation was 2,091,239—the highest of any newspaper in any country.

Outs and Ins

"Are your father and mother in?" asked the visitor of the small boy who opened the door.

"They was in," said the child, "but they is out."

"They was in. They is out. Where's your grammar?"

"She's gone upstairs," said the boy, "for a lay down."

WOMAN'S WORK.

(Detroit Free Press)

THE question has been asked, and hotly debated, whether a woman can make a home, at the same time that she is earning wages outside the home.

Without venturing an opinion as to whether she can do the two things as well as she might do either one of them alone, we may point out that in more than 3,000,000 cases in this country she is doing both of them.

A recent report by the Women's Bureau in Washington shows that more than a third of the 11,000,000 employed women in the United States carry the full responsibility for homemaking in their families, as well as holding paid jobs.

Assuming, as many do, that woman's place is in the home, and not outside earning a living, those figures give some idea of the task it would be to put the American woman back in the kitchen and keep her there all the time.

THEY NEED HELP.

(Niagara Falls Review.)

FORTUNATELY, in Niagara Falls, there are many organizations which are seeking out young fellows and trying to give them new interests in life. All such efforts are worth while for they prevent much lawlessness and wild living, noticeable elsewhere. One of the most unfortunate effects of the depression has been the fact that many young fellows, who normally would be learning trades or businesses, have found themselves at loose ends and have fallen prey to temptations, particularly strong when time hangs heavy on their hands.

It would be better if the government would provide apprenticeships for such young fellows than to have to provide quarters for them in reformatories, too often the case. Not only would that be better for the young men themselves, but also for the state. It would tend to make them better citizens than their present situation, without jobs and living on their parents or on relief.

RELIEF SPONGERS.

(Smiths Falls Record)

SMITHS FALLS must be considered a "sucker town," to outsiders, in its dispensing of relief. Town Councillors learned at Monday night's meeting that a family who could boast a $500 bank saving account and ownership of a farm assessed at $1,800, recently moved into town and applied for relief. Was it nerve or ignorance? Undoubtedly this family can boast greater material assets than a lot of local taxpayers who are compelled to pay relief costs.

We feel confident that with the new local relief administrator relief spongers will soon be eliminated from the list. It is such families as the aforementioned that make relief assistance a racket, with the result that innocent and those worthy of receiving assistance are made to suffer.

PROVIDING JOBS.

(Chatham News)

THE city council is pledged to a policy of providing as much work as possible during the coming Spring, summer and fall seasons—and work will be far more acceptable than relief orders to the vast majority of men now jobless.

There is another way in which many householders may assist—by taking advantage of the Federal Home Improvement plan. Repairs and renovations to residences will provide a great amount of work, and added revenues in many departments of activity; and when money for such work may be so easily obtained at such reasonable rates from the banks, householders should not hesitate to complete this Spring and Summer all repair jobs necessary around their homes.

LODGE MEMBER 55 YEARS.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 23.—(CP).—A member of Argyll Lodge No. 212, I.O.O.F., Napanee, for about 55 years is a record of which any Odd Fellow should be proud and this record has been attained by Sidney E. Scott, of Napanee. Mr. Scott was initiated in the year 1882 and has been a continuous member since that time.

Prior to the year 1878 there was only one Odd Fellows' Lodge in Napanee, but on October 18 of that year another lodge was formed.

ST. PAUL'S TROOP HOLDS BANQUET

Most Successful Evening Is Held By 7th Peterborough Troop

The second annual banquet of 7th Peterborough (St. Paul's) Scout Troop was held on Monday evening in the Sunday school hall, and proved to be a most successful event.

Tables were decorated by the boys and supper was provided and served by the troop while O. M. Steer presided in the chair and congratulated the Scouts on their progress.

Included among the speakers were: Dr. J. J. Craig, Dr. G. Murray Fraser, E. Wolfe, assistant district Scout commissioner; Lew Grant, assistant district Cub commissioner; and the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Church.

Dr. Barr spoke to the toast to the Chief Scout whose birthday was observed yesterday, while District Scout Commissioner John T. Hornsby introduced E. T. Jones, field secretary of the provincial Scout Association for Eastern Ontario as guest speaker.

Mr. Jones referred at the outset to the happy knack boys have of nicknaming people or things, and said that the Chief Scout had been nicknamed "bathing towel." He was clever at school and in his profession as a soldier. He could write and paint at one and the same time, and was a real leader in the art of Scouting, and was devoted to the outdoor life even at his present stage in life.

Mr. Jones said that of a world membership of 2,000,000 Scouts, 32,000 Scouts and leaders were to be found in Ontario alone. In Peterborough there are twelve Scout groups.

Dealing with Scouting and what it means to boys, he referred to it as a character-building institution and urged progress in the work. Success could best be attained, he believed by a strict adherence to detail in everything. He also stressed the need of an objective and the cultivation of a deeper reverence for God and the church.

All these attributes, Mr. Jones said, helped to build character and made good Scouts. Dads were encouraged to help their boys and gain their confidence. Thus only could they be good leaders, he said.

Irvine Fraser presented banjo and harmonica selections, while community singing was enjoyed by the gathering with Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., at the piano.

Rev. Dr. Barr presented two-year service stars to eight of the original troop members in the persons of: W. Ferguson, R. Ferguson, J. Ferguson, J. Turner, D. Wilson, D. Flett, J. Clyde, P. Meiklejohn. Applause greeted the boys on their attainment.

Among the Scouts present were members of 12th Peterborough Troop from the south-end Sunday school in connection with St. Paul's, under Scoutmaster Albert Sturrock and Cubmaster Bill Anderson.

Votes of thanks to Mr. Jones and all who helped with the success of the banquet were tendered by the Rev. Dr. Barr and Mr. Hartshorn. The Troop committee is comprised of O. M. Steer, chairman; William Lyburn and John Anderson.

Lamb offerings were mostly bucks and sold from $7 to $8, while common sheep went at $3 with good handyweights at $5.

Bacon hogs, fed and watered, sold at $8.60 while selects sold at the usual $1 premium. Butchers and heavies went at $8.10, with extra heavies and lights at $7.60. Sows sold from $6.25 to $7.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23. — It required only light offerings to shake down values on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Withdrawal of moderate support in the early stages and lack of export demand pared early gains to bring about an irregular close.

Trading throughout the session was devoid of feature, due principally to observance of Washington's birthday in the United States and closing of American markets. No figure was placed on exports, believed small. The close was ¼ cent lower to ¼ cent higher.

Liverpool reacted to a better demand in the United Kingdom for late wheat. Prices weakened in the final hour, however, to finish 1¼d to 1¼d lower. Buenos Aires also reflected the lower trend with a loss of ⅞c at the noon hour period.

Cash wheat and coarse grains trade followed the trend in the major market with spreads generally unchanged.

TO DEMONSTRATE FRENCH COOKERY

Parisian Touches To Be Shown At Cooking School in Collegiate Auditorium

It is a long distance from the Peterborough Collegiate to Rumpelmayer's famous patisserie in Paris, but the distance will be bridged on Friday evening when Mrs. Aitken, at the Canada Starch Company Cooking School, will demonstrate to her audience some of the ideas in food prepartion and decoration which she picked up on her last visit there. This noted dietitian has travelled widely both on this continent and in Europe, and everywhere she has gone she has made a point of interviewing the leading chefs and finding out the secrets of their art.

The demonstration will take the form of the preparation, cooking and serving of a luncheon for two tables of bridge, and as is usual at these Cooking Schools, all the good things will be distributed to various members of the audience, chosen by means of "lucky number" programs. The same method will be used to select the recipients of the many other prizes, including the Grand Prize of an attractive Silver Plate Tea Service.

From the interest being shown since it was first announced that this famous Cooking School was coming here, the ladies of Peter Robinson Chapter, I. O. D. E., are expecting an attendance that will tax the capacity of the Collegiate Auditorium. All the proceeds of the small admission fee go to assist the work of the Chapter. The School starts at 8 o'clock on Friday evening, and the doors will be open half an hour before that time.

his parents for so long he doesn't know whether they are still living. His record in the reformatory lists them as dead. He was a transient when sentenced for theft on his first offence, and has been refused parole although his "partner," given the same sentence, has been released.

A young married man of 25 declared the parole board told him it would do him "good" to serve his entire term of four months definite and four months indefinite. He does not know why his parole was refused.

Some Suggestions.

Prisoners in dormitories plan fresh crimes, and nearly all intend to do them alone as the "lone wolf," said 40 year old prisoner who appeared with a long sheaf of notes he had prepared.

"The dormitories are overrun with cockroaches," he said. "Personally I don't mind them. They breed in the place and there are lots of little ones. We catch them at night."

He suggested that guards be paid more money, and the recommendation surprised Judge James Madden.

"Are these your own suggestions or is someone prompting you?" asked the Judge.

"Oh they are all my own," was the reply. "I was a newspaper reporter on the outside and have a weakness for observing things and taking notes. The other prisoners know this weakness and give me information. But the recommendations are my own.

"We had better make sure you got all that information yourself," remarked Gordon Gilianders, commission counsel as he and Judge Madden smiled at the press table.

The prisoner suggested that parole officers in various towns are "psychologically unfitted" for their work, that one cake of soap be given each prisoner weekly, that there are not enough eating utensils for prisoners and that prisoners working outdoors be given more meat than others.

"I doubt if it is politics for me to mention the only little grievance I have," he said. "It was only a case of a guard flying off the handle."

Reeve Norman Sinclair and George A. Richardson of Guelph township declared that a former school teacher who testified Saturday had told a story different to the one he had circulated in the district. "That undermines confidence in the institution," said Reeve Sinclair. Both witnesses declared the reformatory bought a large quantity of packing house "scraps" to make corned beef.

Three prisoners served time for one crime, were paroled, and all rearrested later for another crime, one of the trio told the inquiry. He protested because he had been charged with breaking parole while his companions had not.

"You better get hold of one of the lawyers serving time here," suggested Ralph Bone, assistant counsel.

Denies Using Bat

Guard Stewart denied he had hit a prisoner with a baseball bat as charged by a former witness.

An under-sized youth of 18 has been four times sentenced to serve "not exceeding the time when he shall attain the age of 21" the inquiry learned to-day. He has been in custody almost continuously for seven years. Three of his sentences were to Guelph Reformatory, which he first entered two years ago when 16 years of age.

ALL BINGO GAMES OUTSIDE THE LAW

WILL TAKE ACTION.

Commenting on the pronouncement of the Attorney-General who has declared bingo games to be illegal, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., remarked he had heard that bingo had developed into a regular craze in certain parts of the province and had made drastic action imperative, but he added: "I do not think such a situation exists in any part of Peterborough City or County. At least, I have not heard of any games of bingo that are being operated.' Asked if he proposed to clamp down on any bingo games that might spring up in the city in connection with the churches or other organizations, Mr. McElderry replied in the affirmative.

Home and School Association News

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL.

The Founders' Day program of the Prince of Wales' Home and School Association was held on Monday evening in the kindergarten room with a large attendance, and the president, Mrs. H. Darling, in the chair.

The reading of the Home and School Creed made an impressive opening to the program, which included reports of various types presented by the secretary, Mrs. P. J. Frape, the treasurer Mrs. W. Casey, the representative on the Home and School Council, Mrs. C. Gertley, and convenors of committee: Mrs. C. Gardner (Flowers), Mrs. R. Gurney, Social; Mrs. G. Worboy, Membership and Telephone, Miss Ethel Huffman (Welfare), Mrs. C. Harrison (Health).

The Room Mothers' report was given by Mrs. S. Shields and Mrs. G. Penhall. This is a new departure whereby mothers from different rooms go about visiting women and interesting them in the work of the association.

A paper on "Women of Achievement" was given by Miss Cathleen McCarthy, and the music of the evening included violin selections by George Gatfield and Nancy Spring, accompanied respectively by Mrs. G. A. Spicer and N. Noftall, a reading by Betty Adlam, and English concertina music played by Mr. Newbie, who invited the ladies to join with him in singing popular numbers to his sweetly played music.

The banner for the month went to Miss Miriam Richardson's room. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served, in charge of the Social convenor, Mrs. R. Gurney.

In her paper, Miss McCarthy outlined briefly some of the highlights in the lives of women of different ages who have achieved success through difficulty and suffering, referring to famous women in the field of poetry, art, science, literature and adventure.

PROBE WHIPPING BROADCAST.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 23 (CP).—G. A. Wheable, public school administrator, was instructed today to investigate the broadcast of a whipping administered to two students of St. George's School and make a full report at the regular Board of Education meeting Thursday.

TAXI-DRIVER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (CP).—Police today halted a search for Taxi-driver Norman Johnstone, into which telegraph and telephone had been brought in play when he communicated with his headquarters to say he was still on duty. Johnstone's wife had reported him missing when he failed to go home last night.

TORONTO AUDIENCE HIGHLY PLEASED WITH MADRIGALS

Dorothy Allan Park's Choir In Program With Chamber Orchestra

SPLENDID SINGING

(By Augustus Bridle)

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—From Peterborough on Saturday came the Madrigal Singers for a concert with Hersenhoren's Chamber Orchestra in Eaton's Auditorium. They returned by bus after the concert, arriving early Sunday morning in the city of famous canoes, just as they have done many a time before; the only chorus anywhere that regularly journeys to this choral city. And they got back to their homes in the silent city these singers had vivid memories of a brilliant program, a fine performance and a charmed audience.

Half the joy in recalling the event; most of all the numbers sung with orchestra and organ—for in these the peculiar vibrancy of women's voices had its supreme thrill. One of these was "We Love the Place Where Thine Honor Dwells," arranged by Ivor Atkins for women's voices, from Brahms' Requiem. The organ so deftly played by Dr. Charles Peaker somewhat made up for the lack of basses and tenors in this wonderful chorus. The orchestra gave the extra color. But the voices were the emotional instrument—falling only in the climaxes; where also more organ tone was needed for drama. The voices were beautifully blended, lyrical, devout and altogether lovely. The real majesty of this women's chorus, with organ and orchestra, was in the unison declamation of Shubert's lofty "Omnipotence". Here the positive masculine vigor of these climaxes was a real thrill against the dynamic strings, reeds and pipes.

The singers did exceptionally good work on an Italian group with orchestra only; Durant's "Danza", Caccini's "Amarilli" and a love song by Scarlatti. These were all in Italian, which few choruses outside of opera ever attempt; lyric Italian too—as clear as the English diction of these exceptionally trained singers in several old English choruses, of which the first three were rather sluggish, though tonally quite beautiful; the "Maying" one by Pearsall full of fine rhythmic ecstacy; and of the final three, "The Oak and the Ash", rare old English song, was most beautiful in harmonic texture, and the last on "The High Road (Scottish) zipping with lyric energy.

Even the high art of the singers did not obscure the splendid virtuosity of the little orchestra—in the sonorous old "Concerto Grosso" by Geminiani, of which these players once gave a private performance in The Star Building.

MILLION ITALIAN RESERVES WARNED

Men Of 33-37 Must Be Ready To Answer Fascist Call To Arms Within 2 Months

ROME, Feb. 23 (AP).—A terse one-sentence communique today warned the 1,000,000 Italians of the conscript classes from 1900 to 1904 to be ready to answer a Fascist call to arms within the next few months.

The reserves affected by the partial mobilization order are men from 33 to 37 who are pasaing their prime as war material. Premier Mussolini was considered in informed quarters to have called out these particular classes to emphasize that men of all ages must be ready to fight.

The mobilization was described as a routine post-war training measure. Throughout Italy, more than 1,500,000 soldiers will be on duty during the short time the conscript classes are kept under arms.

Moncrief read the minutes of last meeting also a letter of thanks from the Poast family. Mrs. Rev. F. G. MacTavish gave a reading and Mrs. Art Stinson favored with a piano solo. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Rea and Mrs. Morcombe and a social hour spent.

CACHE BAY FLOODED.

CACHE BAY. — Residents of lower town to-day had to use rowboats, pressed into service, to leave their homes which were surrounded by flood waters during the night. With no boat on hand one family was marooned in their home.

Heavy rains on Sunday flooded Cache Bay flats and water poured down around about 40 lower town houses. Water flowing a hill collected in the streets inundating the pavement.

An All Request Program Of Inexpensive Menus

Economy Suggestions Are In Big Demand By Most Modern Cooks

FOUR DINNER MENUS

THE LETTER we print herewith is quoted direct and was received in this week's batch of question-letters:—

"Dear Mary Moore: I am wondering if you could give us some more of those "one-family economy week" dinners. You had them once or twice before and all my friends exclaimed on how delightful and economical they are.

"I tried them myself and was surprised to see how far I could go on 25 cents for dinner. So please don't disappoint your many friends and give us some more Miss Moore.

"I would also like to know the right way to make 'Pate de foie Gras.' Thanking you and wishing you the best of success. (Sgd.) (Miss) L.P."

That letter was balm to the soul of this "Pore Wolking Gal" who is trying to get along with all the housewives—rich, poor, and comfortably financed, who read this page.

Since there is no doubt in anyone's mind that by far the great majority of us have to dole out the dollars to the baker, butcher, grocer, and milkman with ever-watchful eyes, I know the ladies who read this page snap up economy suggestions. But a cookery page editor supposed to be aware of the economical conditions of her native land and try to help out? — "No" says one inhumane (but highly prized) critic of mine. "Folks don't want to read how to make things cheaply; they know all those dodges. They want to read from you how to make nifty new things to spring on their guests."

So — this beleaguered ever-anxious-to-please-one tries to steer a middle course. This week we veer to the right—conservative and economical:

Sunday Dinner
Mock Duck with Gravy
Baked Potatoes
Shredded Carrots with Emem's Sauce
Open Face Raisin Pie
Coffee or Tea

The success of Mock Duck lies in the moisture that is not baked out of it.

Buy Flank Steak (it is cheaper than round—if you have an experienced carver to serve it, 2 lbs. can be made to serve 6 people), and have the butcher flatten it as much as possible by striking it all over with the flat of his cleaver. Make a moist dressing as follows: 2 cups fresh bread crumbs moistened with ¼ cup hot water or ½ cup stale crumbs moistened with ½ cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 tablespoons parsley, 1 tablespoon catsup, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 2 tablespoon finely chopped celery, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon fresh black pepper. Mix this well and spread over the flank steak and roll it up tightly and tie. Put in greased baking dish with about ¼ inch of water and bake covered for 2½ hours, then uncover and brown. This should be basted frequently. Make gravy from juice remaining in dish and serve over the Mock Duck before taking it to table.

Shredded Carrots With Emem's Sauce

Shred raw old carrots on second size grater of Wonder Shredder,—you will need four firmly packed cups for 6 people. Boil in just barely enough water to cover until tender with a little salt. In another dish melt 2 tablespoons butter and to it add 2 tablespoons flour and stir until blended, then pour on the liquid from the cooked carrots, and stir until it thickens. Add grated rind and juice from half a lemon, and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

If you will watch the bargain sales you can sometimes buy raisins at 10 cents per pound.

Soak ½ lb. of the raisins overnight, and when ready to use heat in water in which they were soaked (it should just barely cover them) and to them add the grated rind from the half lemon left over from making the sauce for the carrots. Mix 2 tablespoons flour with ¾ cup sugar to make smooth mixture, then stir into the raisins until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and add juice from remaining half lemon and pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake with criss-cross strips of pastry over top at 425 deg. Fahr.

DINNER No. 2
Curried Eggs on Bed of Rice
Diced Buttered Beets
Chopped Cabbage and Caraway Seed Salad
Halved Prunes in Lemon Jello
Coffee

When buying for economy another thing must be kept in the front of our minds—the nourishment of our families. We are not trying to deceive ourselves—we want the best food that a litle money can buy. With this in mind ask for unpolished rice, it is usually 1 cent cheaper, and contains more nourishment than rice that has been polished.

Hard cook 1 egg for each person to be served. Boil ¾ cup rice in 1½ quarts water and 2 teaspoons salt until it is tender and flaky. Save the liquid for soup next day. Arrange the rice on a very hot platter. Slice the eggs very thinly with an egg slicer (to be purchased at Woolworth's for 16 cents and worth their weight in gold because eggs appear to go so much farther) and arrange the neat rows of slices side by side on the rice. Cover with curry Sauce: Mix 1 teaspoon fresh curry powder with 3 tablespoons flour, and stir into 3 tablespoons melted butter, then stir in 1 cup milk and ½ cup boiling water and stir until it thickens. Add ½ teaspoon salt. Pour this boiling hot sauce over the sliced eggs, and sprinkle lightly on top with curry.

NOTE: Never attempt to economize on butter—it is one of the best items of good nourishing foods we eat. Each person should have 1 lb. per week.

DINNER No. 3
Chili con Carne
Grated Cabbage and Carrot Salad
Compote of Apples with Cookies
Coffee
Chili con Carne

Since part of the steak for the chili is to be used for the following night's dinner, order 1½ lbs. ground stewing beef. Saute one lb. of the ground meat in 3 tablespoons drippings, with 1 cup chopped onion until all are seared and delicately browned. Then add 1 No. 2 can of tomatoes, and 1 No. 2 can of kidney beans (or home-cooked navy beans) and a little more water to make it moist enough to simmer. Two teaspoons salt should be added during last ½ hour of cooking. One hour is usually long enough for the whole process. Just before serving add 1 black pepper and cayenne pepper to taste—chili powder may be bought for seasoning purposes. Chopped green peppers may be added with the onion if you have them on hand.

Compote of Apples

Make a sugar syrup of 1 cup sugar and 1½ cup water and boil for 5 minutes, then add peeled, cored and halved apples and simmer gently until tender, turning them over once without breaking. Serve cold.

DINNER No. 4
Meat Souffle
Creamed Potatoes
Head Lettuce Salad with Mayonnaise
Quick Apple Dumplings Coffee
Meat Souffle

The souffle requires 2 egg whites—the dressing for the salad needs 2 egg yolks.

Beat the whites of 2 eggs until stiff and peaky, to them add ½ cup fine cracker crumbs, the remainder of the ground meat bought for the Chili Con Carne—about ½ lb., ½ cup tomator pulp, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Mix this as little as possible so the air will remain in the eggs. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake at about 350 deg Fahr. for 25 minutes. This gives small portions for four people.

Quick Apple Dumplings

Sift together 1 cup each flour and sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt. Add one-third cup sweet milk and 1 cup unsweetened apple sauce (or raisins—when you would need ½ cup milk). Combine and drop into dish containing syrup made of 1 cup brown sugar, 2 cups boiling water, 1 tablespoon butter. Put into oven of 375 deg. Fahr. and bake 30 to 35 minutes. This is quick and flavor is good. Enough syrup remains around pudding to serve over it.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by
Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question: Would you kindly send me recipe for "Sunday Morning Coffee Cake."

This recipe appeared on your page three or four years ago, maybe more. I had the recipe in my possession until two months ago and at present cannot find it. As it is a splendid recipe I would greatly appreciate you sending it. It contains two eggs beaten separately and as for the quantities of other ingredients I have forgotten. Thanking you—E.W.

Answer: Thank you for writing to us.

I have so many coffee cake recipes, I am not sure that the following is exactly the same as the one you had—however I do know it is good.

Sunday Morning Coffee Cake

One pint scalded milk, ½ cup butter, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 6 cups flour, 2 eggs, 1 yeast cake, grated rind ½ lemon. Warm bowl and flour. Crumble the yeast in a cup with a teaspoon of sugar and ½ cup scalded milk cooled to lukewarm. Let stand in a warm place to rise. To the rest of the scalded milk add the butter, sugar, salt, a little freshly grated nutmeg and when lukewarm the eggs beaten well. Stir in the yeast and about half the flour, and only enough more to knead the dough, and knead until smooth and elastic and dough creaks. Cover closely and let rise to double its bulk. Cut dough, roll and put in buttered large pan to rise again. Cover with Top Mixture:

One-half cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon butter. Cream the butter and blend the remaining ingredients into it. Spread evenly over cake before baking.

Question: I have had some very good recipes out of your page and I would like very much if you would publish a recipe for me on how to make soda biscits like the ones you buy. Thanking you, for past help.—Mrs. R.Q.

Answer: The recipe we have for crackers is not exactly like one ones you buy although the ingredients are prooably about the same. Their methods of mixing in large batches and huge controlled ovens make it impossible to exactly copy them in a household.

Butter Crackers

Rub 4 oz. butter into 1 lb. bread flour sifted with 1 teaspoon baking powder. When well mixed add barely enough cold water to dampen and add 1 teaspoon salt. Beat with rolling pin to flatten it and smooth it well, then roll 1-8 inch thick cut out shapes and chill thoroughly. When very cold put in oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for 5 minutes, then reduce heat to 300 to finish them which will take about 8 minutes baking in all. Do not put in air-tight container to store or they will become soft.

Question: I want to tell you how much I enjoy your cooking page, which is eagerly awaited for every week.

Several years ago I remember reading in the columns hints on how to remove cod liver oil stains from infants clothes, so I am asking for these removal hints again as I did not save same, not being interested at the time. I would be ever so grateful to you if you could help me and many thanks.—Mrs. I.L.K.

Answer: Thank you for such a long memory of us.

Cod liver oil stains that have been boiled are very stubborn. Some laundry experts say it is impossible to remove them,—but some of the strong bleaches such as chlorinated lime have been used successfully, but on fine fabrics such as babies' dresses it must be used with extreme care — leaving the stained garments in the solution for only a short time,—use one tablespoon of chlorinated lime to one quart of water; then rinse the little clothes through about five rinse waters. This is the methods the laundries use and sometimes it is not successful if the previous boilings have been too thorough. I hope you have success though and that we can be of surer help to you in the future.

At the Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL
"The Garden of Allah"

This is a marvellously beautiful production. It is entirely in technicolor and the result brings the desert and the African scenes very close to the onlooker. It is almost as if the sand drifted through the air of the theatre, while the plaintive tone of the music which echoes through the picture adds to the impression of reality.

Studio gossip had it that the alluring Dietrich created jealous scenes over Charles Boyers' prominence in several episodes. (Perhaps that is why he looks relieved when he discovers that he is going back to the monastery.

This story of Robert Hichens remains a classic in the section devoted to tragic romance. And a great deal of credit is due the producers of the picture for the manner in which they have remembered the sacrifical attitude demanded of the lovers in the book. There is no attempt to gloss over the sin (and his realization of it) when Boris Petrofsky (Charles Boyer), leaves the Trappist monastery and proves a renegade to his sacred vows. Nor does Domini Enfilden (Marlene Dietrich), attempt to keep him from that really tragic return to the grim stone building.

Curiously enough, she portrays a realistic emotion at the finale of the picture in that leave-taking, which is tragically real in its silent anguish. One wonders if she could not be a fine actress if she could forget herself for just a minute. But the impression of artificial allure persists at all other times. The lady flirts even with the French captain, lost in the desert, when she invites him to dinner!

It is a fascinating picture, with its African setting and sorrowful, sudden romance. It has a fine cast, including the always-good C. Aubrey Smith and Basil Rathbone, the latter portraying a younger man than the Count Antioni of the book, and one whom we suspect of having more than religion at heart when he tells the lady of her husband's error. And then there are the Ouled Nail dancers and Tilly Losch (that is "some" dance).

The comedy of the program gives the inimitable Leon Errol lots of scope and guarantees plenty of laughs, just as does the ventriloquial doll in "Not Guilty."

Dansk Gulas (Danish Goulash) With Phyfe Potatoes.

Be prepared to spend some time at your chopping board for 2 lbs. of round steak, sliced ¼ inch thick (you must instruct your butcher to slice it this thin) has to be cut into ¼-inch cubes. And four medium-sized onions have to be sliced so thinly that when they are finished cooking the actual substance of them is indiscernible — merely their savory flavor is left.

Melt the butter gently, ¼ cup of it, and to it add the cubed steak and 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Stir these about in the butter until all sides of the meat are coated with it. Add the onion shavings and stir all about until they are golden and slightly tinged with brown. Then add 3 cups cold water, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 3 bay leaves, and cover closely and simmer gently for 1 hour or a little more. Remove bay leaves and stir 4 tablespoons of flour into 6 tablespoons water until they make a smooth paste, then stir this into the goulash until it thickens smoothly. This is to be served in the centre of a ring of mashed potatoes made as follows:

Phyfe Potatoes.

Pare and cook about 9 potatoes in boiling salted water until tender, then drain and shake over low heat to dry them out. Mash well. Melt 2 tablespoons butter and to it add 1 tablespoon olive oil, and to them add ½ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, ½ teaspoon celery seed, and 1 clove of garlic; let these stand for 2 minutes at back of stove, then remove garlic and add potatoes, and ½ cup light cream or top milk which has been preheated. Beat all very thoroughly to make as light as possible and arrange in border on hot chop platter, and pour the Goulash (above) in the centre of the ring. Serve very hot.

Friends of Mrs. Donald Macdonald of Cobourg (formerly Miss Kerr) will be interested in the following item from the Toronto press:

"Interesting letters just received from Holland, describing the recent marriage of Princess Juliana, mention that at the Royal wedding three cousins of Jonkheer Adrian Roell, son-in-law of Mrs. Donald Macdonald of Cobourg, who is spending the winter in Toronto, were officiating. One was a bridesmaid, another an usher, and the third, Lieut.-Gen. Roell, head of the Dutch Army, rode by the Queen's carriage. Because there were so many Roells in the wedding group a joke went the rounds there in French which, translated into English, was 'There is no one more Roellist (Royalist) than the Queen!'

Broadcast For Cooking School.

Mrs. Harold Baker of Toronto (formerly Miss Ethel Cooper of Peterborough), is to take part in an interesting broadcast on Thursday morning of this week, from Station CFRB, Toronto.

The occasion has to do with the Cooking School to be held here on Friday evening by Mrs. H. M. Aitkin of the Canada Starch Company, Toronto, and sponsored by the Peter Robinson Chapter of the I.O.D.E. The station is naming Thursday as "Peterborough Day," and at 10.15 in the morning, the broadcast will take place, when Mrs. Aitkin will ask questions to be answered by Mrs. Baker, who was treasurer of the Peter Robinson Chapter for many years prior to her marriage. The work of the chapter and the Cooking School will form the subject of the dialogue, which should be of much interest to local listeners-in.

At the Cooking School, in addition to sixty good prizes for those attending, a door prize will be presented, in a floor lamp.

Here's a princess that will help very definitely in a brighter house movement.

Just a few yards of a gay cotton print and you're ready to start.

This slim line princess is an honest-to-goodness practical dress besides being so smart. The partial sash arrangement is particularly kind to the waistline.

It opens out almost flat for ironing. Cut in one-piece from shoulder to hem makes it simple to sew. It will take you no time at all to cut it out and stitch it up on the sewing machine.

In some materials, as sports weight linen-like cottons, it's very attractive without the sash and sleeve frills.

Style No. 3117 is designed for sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 34, 36, 38 40, 42 and 44-inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 35-inch contrasting and ¾ yard of 1-inch ribbon for bow.

Just Between Us Women

SOME relaxation is necessary to people of every degree; the head that thinks and the hand that labors, must have some little time to recruit their diminished powers.—Gilpin.

Dear Friends:

I think that a great deal of the friction in life is because some of us do not get enough fun. We work and work, we may if we keep house, go out and do the shopping, but there is no fun in trying to spin out the dollars, wondering if we can afford this, and deciding not to get the other because it is too dear, or will not go far enough among our family and their appetites.

What we need is some rousing good fun. Something to make us forget the daily round, to help push our troubles into the background for awhile, and when we have that, we come back to these things refreshed in body and mind.

Even a lifeless thing like an engine, must have a rest now and then, if we are to get much use out of it. It must be tuned up and all the loose worn parts fixed, but the human body is supposed to go on day after day without any adjustment of laughter, any renewal of the worn parts of our nature by something different from what we have all the time, any change from the daily grind.

When we do not seek relaxation, there is the friction of worn nerves to contend with. No new thoughts to take the place of those we always have, and thoughts get worn out like anything else, no new ideas as to how our friends live, and the more we live like that, the more hopeless life becomes.

All work and no fun, dulls you down, gives you a one-sided view of things, a narrow outlook, and stunts the growth of your mind. Haven't you ever been somewhere, and someone told nice funny jokes at which you laughed heartily, and next day you felt your spirits much lighter because you had something new to think about.

All women know that the more you stay at home, the less desire you have to go anywhere, and it doesn't only stop at that. It makes you more self-conscious when you do go, it makes you think your troubles are bigger and heavier than anyone else's.

It gives you an inferior idea of your own powers of attraction, gets you into a rut and tends to keep you there. Don't you remember when you used to go visiting and how much you enjoyed yourself, and how much your friends enjoyed having you. Have you forgotten how merry you could be when you let yourself go?

Then, don your best dress and go sallying out and see your friends again, and renew the regard there was between you. Don't say you haven't time, or that there is too much work to be done. It'll all wait until you come back, and you will be a nicer person to live with, a more entertaining companion to those around you.

Don't be self-conscious about it, or doubt whether you will be welcome or not. Maybe your friend has been wishing you would do that very thing in coming to see her. Maybe she can exchange a pattern or a recipe with you, and tell you how she overcome some habits her children have got over, and yours have just started with.

You might even discuss the last book you read, or the last play or movie you saw. At any rate get out and give yourself a change. Like myself, you need it. You will be amazed at the difference, so let's go!

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

ROBERTA' SMAIL

Dear "Oriole":

Thank you for such a nice letter. Am so pleased to know that I have been of so much help with your problems. We all have them, don't we? And they are all so much alike, that we should indeed have much more sympathy with each other. Hope your friend will soon be well again. Sickness is no joke, and especially a draggy sickness when you have to wait and wait before you see any results. But keep your chin up. One with the courage you have shown, will need more than that to get them down. I shall be wishing for you, that there will be a let up, so that you will get a breathing spell. Best wishes, and do write again.—ROBERTA.

Dear "Florence":

It was so kind of you to let me know that all you sick people up there enjoyed my articles so much, and that I had helped to put hope and encouragement into so many of you. You can write to me with perfect freedom as no one sees your letters but myself and many I destroy, because of the personal things written me. Yours will also be destroyed immediately after writing this. To tell you the truth I was almost at one time, in the same sort of place so I know a little about how you feel. But keep your heart light, you will soon get accustomed to it, once you get over this fit of rebellion. It is so hard for an active person to think of weeks and maybe months going by, and then not working. But read all you can, newspapers, magazines, books, and history. My time lasted two years, but I rebelled so much, that I didn't go, and have been sorry ever since. God bless you, and all the others, and do feel free to write, each and all of you. I shan't be bored, and shall try to write every so often, if you give me proper address and name. God bless you and make you well soon.—ROBERTA.

Dear "Alice":

I think we have another Alice who writes me, but you can choose another pen-name when you write again. Yours is truly a deep sorrow and heartache. We can never know why they go wrong, nor why they will not listen. No, I fully understand that you were not trying to live his life, but only trying to guide him. You have done all you can, now leave the rest with God. He can do what we never can do, no matter how we try. When he comes home again, I am sure you will see quite a change. I shall certainly pray with you, and do not think it is a bother. My heart goes out to you in deep sympathy, and try to live just the one day at a time. Don't shut yourself away from your friends. You need them more than ever now, and for one who will sneer, there will be more that will sympathize, for they never know when some of their own will go the same path. Do write again as I shall be interested. May God comfort you, and bring happier days to you.—ROBERTA.

Dear "L.G.":

Thank you for letting me know all these nice things that are said of me. The whole idea is to try and help. Now you will have to do one thing or another. Either put up with this, or put your foot down firmly and refuse to submit to it. After all these years, do not give up what you have striven for to anyone. As for the other, sometimes a little ridicule if not carried too far, will do the trick, when all the reasoning has no effect at all. When this is all over, he will be the same as he has always been. I have seen lots of cases like yours in my work as a psychologist, and ninety-nine out of a hundred came out alright when the woman use a little judgment. Be thankful he hasn't the bottle habit also, as that seems the hardest thing to fight of all. I have deep sympathy for you. Say your prayers. Let nothing keep you from that. It isn't God who has done this to you, and He is the only one who can bring it to a swift finish. Let me know how you make out.—ROBERTA.

Dear "Colleen":

What a rollicking nice letter to send me, and I needed something like that as I have had the 'flu quite badly, but am on the mend, only very shaky yet. I should have certainly liked to be with you on that trip. What fun you had, and what pleasant memories you will have. Like you, I think we should take every little bit as it comes along, because sometimes we do not get the chance again. Thank all your friends when you write for letting me know how much they enjoy my articles. Some of them have been written in bits this last month, but I'll get into my stride again. Best regards, and do write again.—ROBERTA.

To all of you who sent messages both in writing and over the phone, I say "thank you," and am glad to say I am on the mend, and would have been better sooner had I given in earlier.

To those who requested special articles, look for them at an early date. All private letters have been destroyed. To "A.B.C." I hope the article will clarify things for you. And to those who did not want a reply, or their letters printed, I will say thank you for such lovely letters.

And to those who spoke of their appreciation of our Examiner, why not write the Editor and tell him just what you do like. My mail is private, and lots of it comes to my home, so naturally he would not know what you do like. How can he know if you do not tell him? Go on and write.—ROBERTA.

To "Margaret" of Havelock:

I was wondering where you had gone to. Yes, you were the first one to write me, and how many have followed your example. Am sorry if you haven't been so well, and hope you will soon be better. Thank you for the poem, and I may use it later, and I am glad to know that you get as much pleasure as you did at first. Do look after that gift of rhyme as we need poetry in our lives. Your letter would have been answered sooner, but I was sick too. Tell all those who said they liked my articles so much, that it is pleasant to know about it. Best wishes, and do not be so long in writing again.—ROBERTA.

To "Elsie":

Yes I think you would be quite safe in doing that, but never run after any man. They are the hunters, and if you do the hunting, you cheapen yourself, and lose the very thing you want. Thank you for your lovely comments. Do not hesitate to write again. I am interested. Letter destroyed.—ROBERTA.

To "Pete" and "Joe" and "Art":

You wouldn't fool me would you, Misters? If you have anything to ask that I can help you with, come right out and ask. From the specimen of your handwriting, I am old enough to be your mother, and if I were I'd spank each one of you.—ROBERTA.

Labors Among Chinese Across Canada Are Described At Meeting

A surprise feature of the program of the meeting on Friday afternoon of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was a brief sketch entitled "The Triumph of Faith." Mrs. James Dutton took the role of "Mrs. Auxiliary," who, triumphantly recounting the successes of the past year, is interrupted by a visitor, "Mrs. Doubt" (Miss Olive Cullen), who questions the success of the work and hopes for the future. Just as "Mrs. Auxiliary's" spirits are at a low ebb, "Miss Faith" (Miss Elizabeth Walker) appears to spread comfort and cheer and cause the sudden disappearance of "Mrs. Doubt."

This year's program of the W.M.S. includes six studies on the society's work in Canada. The first of the series dealt with work in Quebec and among the Chinese in various cities.

On Friday afternoon, Mrs. F. D. Weir described the work being done for the Chinese in Victoria, Vancouver, Montreal and Toronto.

There are kindergartens, Girl Guides and Sunday Schools for the children and meetings for women. The most important feature is the training of young Chinese who, returning later to their own country, will become leaders among their own people. Quite a number of young Chinese are at present studying in Canadian universities. Cooke's Church, Toronto, has sent eleven students to become teachers, doctors or missionaries.

In Saskatchewan, the Chinese are in scattered territories, so that literature is sent to them, and at Christmas time, entertainments are arranged by many of the women.

Mrs. Weir also read Mrs. John's paper telling of the work in Quebec, a province where there are two great needs; for leaders who will speak in French to people who will listen to no other language, and for literature written in French.

If you made TEA from CHERRY LEAVES you'd choose them young and tender

CHERRY LEAVES have a lesson for tea makers. You're not going to use cherry leaves for tea—but if you did, certainly you would want the tender, fragrant, YOUNG leaves picked in the spring—not the weather-beaten, coarse leaves picked in the fall.

When you buy tea, you're getting the LEAVES of the tea plant. In a package of Tender Leaf Tea, only the CHOICE, YOUNG leaves are included—leaves picked at the height of fragrance and flavor! No coarse, heavy leaves are included for bulk.

Recently, the amount of aroma in 14 leading brands of tea was measured by a new scientific method. These teas cost up to $1.75 for 16 ounces. The tests showed modestly priced Tender Leaf Tea to be at the top in aroma—with as much as 6 times more than some of the other brands. Choice, young leaves give you aroma—FLAVOR.

Your grocer has TENDER LEAF TEA in two convenient sizes. Try it—the name suggests how good it is. You'll want it every day!

ALL BRITAIN ASTIR SHAPING FEATURES FOR CORONATION

Every Village, Hamlet Plans Sports, Bells Being Retuned, Special Plays Written

GREAT REGATTAS PLANNED

By I. Norman Smith
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 23 — (C.P.). — Activities supplementary to the Coronation are noted in ever-widening circles. Preparations for May 12 are infinitely greater than the tasks immediately relative to the ceremony and attendant celebrations.

The theatre and musical worlds are aware of the Coronation sentiment in the air; publishing houses and the movies will pick up the theme.

Plans are being made for Coronation regattas, sports days and festivals. In every town, village and hamlet, the local council is contemplating "something different, something genuine."

Covent Garden's prospectus for the Coronation opera season, of unusual duration, includes eight new productions. Variety and high quality casts are the keynotes of the scheme. Subscriptions for the season range up to £2,500 for a grand tier box.

No Rest for Actors

Theatre managers are not bothering greatly about new plays, but plan elaborate stunts to capitalize on the throng of visitors that will be in London for the summer. There will be no let-up when summer skies beckon weary actors to the seaside.

Publishers have advanced their spring season to get a number of works out before the actual Coronation about which, to a greater or less degree, many of them turn. Several hark back to Victoria's Coronation.

Another notable one traces origin of symbols and orders relative to the Coronation. The ceremony is explained in books for children with varying degrees of seriousness. More than 100 books are already announced dealing with royalty of the past and a number on the Empire and its history.

John Drinkwater has written a Coronation film, "The King's People," which will be completed in time for presentation in May. It is a pageant of Empire with special sections produced for each Dominion. Drinkwater says, "The idea is to present the spirit of the Empire through actual pictures and dramatic dialogue. It will not be a history in the accepted sense."

Bells Being Retuned

At Croydon there is much activity restoring and retuning bells from all over the country. The biggest job is the recasting of 10 bells from Birmingham Cathedral, one of which was made in 1760 and bears the inscription:

"At proper times my voice I'll raise;
And sound to my subscribers' praise."

The King and Queen have approved a design for Coronation mugs and beakers made by the British Pottery Manufacturers' Federation. Twelve colors are used, the central feature being an oval containing the portraits of the King and Queen. About 5,000,000 will be made.

Railways are spending huge amounts in improving their holiday resorts, and the special arrangements to transport the multitudes in May are probably the most complicated of their kind ever attempted.

An International Coronation Regatta is planned for Torbay in June. C. R. Fairey, Commodore of the Royal London Yacht Club, has sent invitations to yachtsmen all over the world, on behalf of the International Regatta Committee of Great Britain. The craft will compete for prizes totalling £15,000, as well as many cups. The regatta will be the biggest yatching event ever organized in the British Isles. British regattas having arranged their dates so as not to interfere.

Judges Uses Plane But Prefers Train

Ottawa, Feb. 23 (CP)

MR. Justice C. D. Macaulay, the Yukon's only judicial officer, might claim the title of "The Flying Judge."

In Ottawa consulting the Department of Justice, his Lordship frequently uses the airplane in his judicial rounds, but he prefers ground travel.

He said he did not dislike flying. "But I have responsibilities," he explained, "Besides I'm getting to be an old man."

He has been on the Bench in the Yukon since 1902. He holds Court at White Horse, Mayo, Keno and Dawson City. Once he called a session at White Crown, near the Arctic Ocean.

sponsored the motion, supported by members of the C.C.F. and a few Social Crediters as well as the 12 Liberals, 11 from Quebec and one from Manitoba. Conservatives joined with the majority of Liberals to vote the motion down.

Liberal Opponents.

Supporters of the Rauthier motion among the Liberals were: Wilfrid Gariepy, Three Rivers; Lucien Dubois, Nicolet-Yamaka; Armand Sylvestre, Lake St. John-Roberval; J. A. Crete, St. Maurice-Lafleche; J. E. Sonillot, Temiscouata; Liguori Lacombe, Laval-Two Mountains; H. E. Brunelle, Champlain; Wilfrid Lacroix, Quebec-Montmorency; C. E. Parent, Quebec West and South; Maxime Raymond, Beauharnois-Laprairie; and Joseph Thorson, Selkirk.

An allotment of almost $900,000 for Pacific Coast defences, however, represented, he stated, works which would not be completed in the year. This sum was included in the vote for engineer services and works and was to provide for construction of gun emplacements near Esquimalt, Victoria, Vancouver, Prince Rupert and off Johnson Strait.

Plans are also under way to provide for manufacture within Canada of as many of Canada's armament supplies as possible. Much of the munitions will be manufactured in government-owned plants at Valcartier and Quebec and surveys are under way to determine how Canadian industry may be utilized in an emergency for the production of war materials, the minister said.

The government's policy is to cooperate with private industry where it is not feasible to manufacture in government plants. Where competition is not available to provide assurance against profiteering strict supervision will be exercised to protect the public interest, he declared.

The Minister also told the House amendments to the Customs Act would be introduced this session to give the government a greater measure of control over the export of munitions to other countries.

The vote for cadet training encountered the usual opposition from C. C. F. members who suggested grants for physical training would be better. Miss Agnes Macphail (U.F.O.-Labor, Grey Bruce) moved to reduce it from 140,000 to $1 but the motion was defeated.

Urge Reopening Lindsay Plant

Re-opening of the government's wartime munitions plant at Lindsay, Ont., "in the present emergency" was urged by Bruce McNevin (Lib., Victoria, Ont.).

Operation of the plant would be a guarantee against profiteering in munitions manufacture, he suggested.

F. E. Lennard (Cons. Wentworth) reminded Defence Minister Mackenzie that in Dundas, Ont., was a steel mill which served usefully in the Great War.

Defence Minister Mackenzie told Mr. McNevin he had inspected the Lindsay plant thoroughly last year. He noted that the government had a substantial interest in it, having invested $900,000 in land and $900,000 in buildings.

M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F. Rosetown-Biggar) asked what provision the department was contemplating as protection against gas and incendiary bombs.

The only defence against air attack was retaliation, Grant MacNeil (C.C.F. Vancouver North) said.

That was generally recognised. But what was planned for the protection of women and children, in the way of gas proof and bomb-proof shelters, he asked, "or is this defence plan only for the defence of those manning guns on the coast."

"Every cent of this could be spent for the protection of women and children," said Mr. Mackenzie. "But the attitude of my friends (C.C.F.) is not very helpful."

Some Guns Ordered.

Mr. Mackenzie, after a series of questions from all parts of the House, said some orders for anti-aircraft guns and heavy guns had already been placed in England with the war office. These orders had augmented similar orders placed by the former government, he said.

Opposition Leader Bennet asked if Canada was capable of making all the small arms ammunition it might need for itself. The minister answered there were some such facilities in Canada, but provision was included in the estimates for augmenting the productive capacity for small arms ammunition.

The minister explained shell cases could be made at the government arsenal at Quebec and were being made now for the British government by a Hamilton firm.

An increase of $230,640 was provided in the $2,578,740 vote for the non-permanent active militia.

Mr. MacNeil moved to reduce the non-permanent active militia vote by the amount of the increase, $220,640. He said it was apparent the government was building up a mobile force suitable for an expeditionary force abroad and that no steps had been taken to correct the obsolete methods in use in the militia.

The amendment was defeated 92 to 36 on a standing vote.

Urges Staff Clean-up.

Mr. Poulliot announced he would oppose the next item, $5,848,039 for the permanent force (an increase of $234,719) because a substantial proportion of the departmental staff was not born in Canada. He urged a "clean-up" of the department.

"Who's going to do it?" a member asked amid laughter.

"The Minister is a good Canadian by adoption or predilection," said Mr. Poulliot. He wanted a good army, he said, but wanted it run by Canadians and without red tape. He asked if any members of the Defence Council had not served within 20 miles of a front line for more than one week, but the Minister said he had not this information.

Most of the increase for the permanent force was for additions to personnel of 22 officers and 173 other ranks, a few of whom had previously been attached to the civil aviation branch, Mr. Mackenzie said.

Part of the increase in estimates had been blamed on Communists, said Mr. Poulliot. A direct provocation to Communists was paying huge salaries to people not qualified for their positions such as Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, President of the National Research Council.

He objected to member of the Defence Department; keeping one foot in that Department and one in another. In June 1935 Major-General McNaughton had been entitled to a $4,800 pension, but he was placed on loan to the Department of Trade and Commerce to head the National Research Council at $15,000 a year, and would be entitled to $9,000 pension from the Defence Department.

It was "shameful provocation" to people in want, Mr. Poulliot declared amid loud desk thumping from Liberal benches.

"A Fine Trio."

He accused Opposition Leader Bennett of playing his personal favorites in appointing General McNaughton, in appointing Col. Arthur Steele to the former Radio Commission and Major General J. H. MacBrien to the head of the Mounted Police. "A fine trio," snorted Mr. Poulliot.

Mr. Macneil moved an amendment to strike out the increase for the permanent force. He objected, he said, to preparations for sending forces overseas without full disclosure of government policy.

The amendment was lost 22 to 183.

The appropriation for the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., was raised $8,800 to $377,200.

The tuition fee was $100 for the year, Mr. Mackenzie said.

"A good scheme for those who can get their children in, practically kept by the state," complained Miss Macphail. "Part of the whole miserable scheme of preparing always for war."

She suggested the $377,200 might better be distributed in scholarships to brilliant students throughout Canada who had not the means of furthering their education.

Mr. Coldwell contended that the old grant of $368,400 should be sufficient in view of the fact that only 200 students were admitted.

Paul Martin (Lib. Essex East) suggested that some provision should be made to extend the privilige of Royal Military College to boys lacking financial resources, so the "stigma of aristocracy or exclusiveness" might be removed from the institution. Mr. Mackenzie replied that was a question of "government policy," so he could give no specific answer.

CAMPBELLFORD

INDIGNANT PARENT CLAIMS HER CHILD WAS HIT ON HEAD

Mrs. Hollings Invades Meeting Of School Board To Complain Of Teacher

A LIVELY SESSION

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23—Mrs. A. Hollings vented her wrath on the School Board at its meeting held in the Public Library Monday night in no uncertain terms when she told the Board that teachers had no right to hit children on the head.

The trouble arose over the fact that one of the complainant's children, who is attending Public School was allegedly struck on the head with a scribbler by the teacher because she would not sit up straight in her seat despite continued requests of the teacher who apparently found that a slovenly manner was a characteristic of a number of the students of that particular room.

At the request of the chairman of the Board, W. R. Loucks, Principal C. S. Haig attempted to explain, despite frequent interruptions by Mrs. Hollings, just what had happened saying that he felt that the child had exaggerated the force of the blow as the teacher ,who has been on the staff for a number of years had never been previously subjected to any criticism of her manner of handling the children.

Threatens a March

The irate citizen told the Board that she would march up to the school at the head of an army of citizens in protest against this method of handling the children whereby they were struck on the head by the teacher. Alluding to a previous instance when an older daughter had allegedly received what she maintained was a permanent injury due to a blow on the head inflicted by a teacher some years ago, Mrs. Hollings informed the Board that she had instructed her children to leave the school if they were struck above the shoulders by a teacher.

Trustee Joe Kelleher suggested that she should not listen so willingly to the stories brought home by the children about teacher.

"You're all a bunch of poppycocks. All you do, the whole bunch of you, is sit around and talk, and there's not one of you who goes up to the school to see what is going on," Mrs. Hollings said as she left the chambers.

Claims Damages.

Following this episode a communication was read from Arthur Graham, who was requesting damages on behalf of young Donald Graham, who was hit in the mouth by a hockey puck shortly before the school resumed its afternoon session, and as a result had two of his front teeth knocked out. The board endeavored to ascertain whether or not the lad was in the school yard when the accident occurred, and the matter was then referred to the insurance company.

A communication from the Secretary of the Ontario Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association which outlined a number of resolutions to be presented to the Government with regard to the betterment of education, was read.

F. C. Bonnycastle, chairman of the Property Committee, reported that he had made an inspection of the Public School, and had found that there was a considerable amount of loose plaster in the halls of the building, and also that there was a manhole in the yard which had heaved up allowing the cinders to be washed down into it with the possible result that the sewer would be plugged. He also reported that new blinds were necessary for several of the rooms and that the present lighting system was inadequate.

The Board adopted these recommendations with the exception of the lighting, which it was felt should be left over for further discussion in the fall.

Following the passing of the accounts the meeting was adjourned.

MILLBROOK

EXECUTIVE MEETS TO HEAR REPORTS

Officers Of Young People's Union Entertained At Miss Burnham's Home

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 22.—A goodly representation of officers of the executive of the Young People's Union of the Peterborough Presbyterial, held a joint social and business meeting at the home of the secretary, Miss Jean Burnham, Millbrook.

Bruce B. Dawson, Millbrook, president, occupied the chair and the opening devotional period was conducted by Miss Jennie Butcher, Peterborough Missionary convenor. Eleven reports were handed in by the various conveners and the financial statement was telephoned to the meeting by the treasurer, Walter Thorne, Stewart Hall, who was unable to be present. Havelock, Norwood and Lakefield were not represented at the gathering.

Discussion centred on the dramatic contest, sponsored annually by the Presbytery and consisting of both comedy acts and sacred drama. Only two of the Unions are entering the comedy section, that of Springville and Millbrook, and it is expected their representatives will hold a competition at Millbrook on or about March 5th.

The sacred drama section will not be judged until after the Easter period and each entry is expected to have first had a presentation in their local church before entering the competition.

Easter Convention

Plans were made for the Easter Convention which will be held in one of the Peterborough churches April 24.

Following the lengthy business period, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. Guests arriving at the tea hour included Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Siscoe and Mrs. Bruce B. Dawson. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Borland, Misses Jennie Butcher and Esther Thornton, Messrs. M. Latimer, C. Huffman, and D. Charlton, Peterborough, Miss Ruth Dawson, Bailieboro, Messrs. Fred Barnard, Bailieboro and Bruce Dawson, Millbrook.

Literary Society Meets

Orville Wainman presided at an interesting meeting of the Literary Society of the Millbrook Continuation School, which met last week in the assembly hall and enjoyed a brief, but pleasing program, consisting of a French play presented by the members of the Third Form French classes, who presented the acts following its translation into English, and musical numbers including piano duets by Misses Mary Eakins and Edna McKnight and vocal selections by Messrs. Kenneth Kidd, Orville Wainman and Jack Arundel with piano accompaniment by Kenneth Kidd. A lively edition of the school paper was read by Jack Arundel.

POPULAR MUSIC IS DISTORTION OF ALL RHYTHM

Dr. Charles Peaker Gives Address On Ladies' Night At Rotary Club

PRAISES MADRIGALS

In an informal talk on music, which was well described by Alderman James Dutton who proposed the vote of thanks as having been "instructive, amusing and entertaining," Dr. Charles Peaker on Monday evening attacked modern popular music on the grounds that it embodies a violent distortion of rhythm. The blaring saxophones of the jazz band were suggestive to him of the love life of the baboon, he said.

Dr. Peaker, formerly organist at Knox Church here and now organist and choirmaster at Walmer Road Baptist Church in Toronto, was introduced by Fred Reed at the Rotary Club "Ladies' Night" and dinner held in observance of the thirty-second anniversary of the founding of Rotary International, as a man who has made an outstanding success in the world of music.

In taking his diploma as Associate of the Royal College of Organists Dr. Peaker won the Sawyer prize in 1927 and two years later became a Fellow of the College. He is conductor of the Hart House Glee Club at University of Toronto and of the Junior League Ladies' Choir, and is vice-chairman of the Toronto centre, Canadian College of Organists and a teacher and examiner on the staff of Toronto Conservatory of Music.

In acknowledging the introduction of himself, Dr. Peaker paid a nice tribute to his wife who was present at the function by declaring the biographical sketch had omitted reference to what he considered the most successful phase of his whole career, and that he said was his marriage to Mrs. Peaker at St. Catharines.

Compliments Madrigals

He also paid high compliment to Mrs. Dorothy Allen Park and her Madrigal Singers who he assisted at their concert in the Eaton auditorium last Saturday night at the consol of the organ. "They looked divine and sang divinely" he remarked with obvious sincerity.

Subsequently Dr. Peaker called on Mrs. Park to sing a group of representative songs. Among the numbers she sang to the accompaniment of Dr. Peaker at the piano and to the evident enjoyment of the large gathering were: "Jesous Ahatonhia" the first carol sung in Ontario in 1642 which was taught to the Indians by the Jesuit priests; "Hark Hark the Echoing Air—Henry Purcell"; "Ah Love But a Day—Mrs. H. A. Beach"; "The Disappointed Seranader—Brahms."

With reference to his previous remark that "music has to be understood to be appreciated," Dr. Peaker declared in acknowledging Mrs. Park's singing, "she has expressed more in song than I could ever hope to interpret to you in words."

In his talk on music, the speaker, offered some examples from history to exemplify the power of music in the past and made a brief inquiry into the root of music, which he said had developed from rhythm, melody and harmony and a combination of all three elements.

Distorion of Rhythm

While he criticized modern popular music on the ground that it is a violent distortion of rhythm, he referred to the old Viennese waltzes as being compositions of people of taste and culture, and analyzing the tune "Swanee River" declared it was a melody that had proper balance and which demonstrated the principle underlying the construction of the world's famous symphonies. There is music wherever there is harmony, tone and proportion, he said.

While he agreed that all the best music comes from the heart, Dr. Peaker said it was equally true it mostly also come through the head. Music, he declared, embraces all the emotions in the scale of human experience and can fit in with every mood to which human nature is subject.

He commended the works of Sir Percy Buck and Percy Scholes to all who wish to obtain a better understanding of music. The works he said were written for "the man on the street" and had done more to popularize music than anything he knew of.

Moves Vote of Thanks

Moving a vote of thanks which extended to Dr. Peaker and to Mrs. Park by President Chris Graham who presided, Alderman Dutton said he was delighted to feel that in this materialistic age people are getting back once again to a deeper appreciation of the great masters of music. He hoped that appreciation would deepen.

On behalf of the club he congratulated Dr. Peaker on his high attainment in the realm of music and also extended congratulations to Mrs. Park and her Madrigal Choir on the successes that have come to them.

During the dinner hour a classical program of music was presented by the Northrop string trio composed of Messrs. Harry Northrop, Stanley Northrop and Tom Smith, while prior to the introduction of the guest speaker a sing-song was led by Rotarian Jack Smith with George Nicholls at the piano. Little Lenore Gordon a protege of the Rotary Club offered a pleasing song and tap dance number.

Was First President

Fred L. Roy outlined the growth of Rotary International since its formation in Chicago thirty-two years ago, declaring that the organization now has over 4,120 clubs over the surface of the globe with a membership of 175,000.

As first president and charter member of the local club, Mr. Roy recalled it was organized here under sponsorship of Belleville Rotary Club sixteen years ago and he liked to think that Peterborough is a better city for having such a club.

Past President W. R. Morris called on the charter members present to stand up. Those present as original members including himself were: Mr. Roy, Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, J. W. McDermid, and Robert Abbott.

Booster prizes were drawn for by Ross L. Dobbin and Ross Hood and were won by Mrs. J. W. McDermid and Mrs. Jack Smith. Special prizes were presented to Mrs. Peaker and to Mrs. Park.

Twenty-One Children In 26 Years

Twenty-one children in 26 years, the latest only a few days old, is the record established by Mr. and Mrs. James Masse, who operate a 380-acre farm near Drysdale, Ont. There has been only one set of twins in the list and each of the children is alive and healthy. Five of the older children have left home, the other 16 still living on the farm with their parents. This picture shows 15 of the family along with the father, James Masse. Only Mrs. Masse and her youngest babe, of the group that make up the present farm family, are absent.

KEYNOTE MEETING TONIGHT FOR HOME BUILDING PLAN

Building Contractors And Carpenters Assure R. Denne Of Support

WEEK OF MEETINGS

By telephone and personal calls building contractors and carpenters have informed Roland Denne, chairman of the local advisory committee for the Home Improvement Plan, that they will be present at tonight's group meeting in the Chamber of Commerce at 7.30 o'clock.

"A real meeting tonight will set the pace for the other groups this week," Mr. Denne remarked to the Examiner. "The main object right now is to get the representatives of these groups appointed to the general committee so we can get down to the real business of making the Home Improvement Plan known to the citizens; in plain words, 'putting it across.'

"All we need is the spirit of co-operation that has done things in the past to make the Plan a success, and that means providing employment this season, thereby getting a lot of men off relief and on to pay rolls. If we can reduce the city's relief bill it will be all the better for the taxpayers. That is briefly the government's objective, and it is simply up to us to do our part. They have been holding meetings in Belleville and Kingston, and Peterborough can do as well, if not better, than those cities."

Alderman McIntyre said he would attend tonight's meeting, but the finance committee of the council is preparing the 1937 budget.

"I hope there is a good attendance," Ald. McIntyre said. "Every citizen is anxious to see more work started and to get rid of as much relief as possible."

Wednesday night the bricklayers, cementmen, plasterers and stonemasons are billed for a meeting at 7.30 in the Chamber of Commerce; Thursday night the plumbers, steamfitters, sheetmetal men, tinsmiths and also the electricians; and Friday night the painters and decorators.

With the appointment of representatives of the various trades, a meeting of the general committee will likely be called for next Tuesday night.

OBITUARY

ARCHIBALD FOWLER

A veteran of the British Imperial forces who saw action through the greater part of the Great War was taken in the passing of Archibald Cook Fowler, 510 Wolfe street, at St. Joseph's Hospital today (Tuesday). In his 48th year, he succumbed after an illness of ten days.

He served as a corporal in the Royal Garrison Artillery and was wounded in action. Born in Crail, Scotland, he was son of the late David Fowler and Christina Cook. Five years ago he came to this city from Windsor, Ontario, and has been employed as a mechanic with the Peterborough Bus Lines. He was a member of Trinity United Church.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Helen Hexton, two sons, David and Andrew, two sisters, Mrs. R. Whittington of Detroit and Mrs. J. Fowler of Windsor, and one brother, Alexander, of Karkcaldy, Scotland.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from the Nisbett Funeral Home to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. George S. Easton of Trinity United Church officiating.

DR. C. HOWSON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Feb. 23.—Dr. C. Howson of Weaverville, California, passed away at Wilson Hospital recently following one month's sickness. Pneumonia developed from a cold was the cause of death.

Dr. Howson was born in Otonabee 63 years ago, and graduated from Trinity College, University of Toronto.

Surviving are his widow; one son, Christopher J. of Oakland, Calif., and two daughters, Margaret and Alice of Calgary, Alberta; one sisters, Mrs. Muncelette of Gusworth, Sask., and four brothers, Wesley and George of Monaghan, and Gilbert and Edward of Keene.

JAMES O'BRIEN, SR.

Through an error, the report of the death of James O'Brien, Sr., indicated interment would take place in Little Lake Cemetery. Burial will be made at St. Peter's Cemetery following a service at the Sacred Heart Church on Wednesday morning at 9 a.m.

CRICKET MATCH DRAWN.

MELBOURNE, Australia. — The match between the touring Marylebone Cricket Club team and Victoria was drawn today with the state eleven ahead on the first innings by 105 runs. Victoria made 292, the visitors totals being 187 and 132 for three wickets. Rain prevented play yesterday.

FAIR BOARD MEETING

Tom Brown informed the Examiner today that the Peterborough Exhibition Board meeting Wednesday evening will receive progress reports from committees and discuss general business.

ROOF OF HOUSE DAMAGED

Minor damage was done when a flying spark set afire the roof of a house at 608 Bethune street this afternoon. The blaze was put out immediately by the Fire Department. Damage was estimated at $10.

COLORED LIGHTS REMOVED

Last vestiges of another Christmas season disappeared today with removal of the strings of coloured lights from over Peterborough's main streets by Utilities workmen. The lights were put up early last December.

MASONIC PICNIC

Teams have been lined up and arrangements completed for the Masonic picnic at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday evening. Members of the local lodges will compete against each other in volleyball, bowling, billiards and bridge. G. H. Roper of the Y.M.C.A. has had charge of program arrangements.

TORONTO TEAM COMING

A team of volleyball players from the Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. will play a match with business men of the Peterborough "Y" here Saturday evening. The Peterborough men will be hostess to the visitors at a supper before the game.

HORTICULTURAL MEETING

An open meeting of the Peterborough Horticultural Society will be held Thursday evening in the office of A. D. Runions, representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. John A. Smith, this year's president of the society, is appealing to the members to make Coronation Year a special effort, and urges a larger attendance for Thursday night.

SPEAKS AT CONFERENCE

A. E. Chalmers, Peterborough county engineer was one of the speakers at the conference of county and township road superintendents held in Toronto yesterday under the sponsorship of the Ontario Department of Highways. Mr. Chalmers discussed the snow removal problem.

LOOK FOR BUSY SEASON

Local roofers, carpenters and general construction jobbers are anticipating the busiest season in many years past this Spring and summer. Jobs are already appearing although the winter is still officially on. Citizens have more money this year to take care of the repairs and reconstructions which have been postponed during the depression and, further, the home improvement loan facilities provided by the Government will have a definite tonic effect on the trade, contractors report.

DEPUTATION TO OTTAWA

A deputation from the council will interview the Hon. P. A. Cardin, Minister of Public Works in Ottawa on Thursday in regard to conversations relating to a proposed federal building in Peterborough. Mayor Macdonald, Alderman Hamilton, Alderman Sloan and City Engineer Parsons will represent the city. The engagement was arranged by J. J. Duffus, M.P., and implements Alderman Gordon's suggestion in January that renewed talk of a combined customs and postal office for this city should be taken be discussed with the Hon. Mr. Cardin.

DISCUSSED TRADE UNIONS.

The Workers' Educational Association transferred their meeting Monday night to the Paragon Hall and after Gordon Price's lecture on trade unions and their effect on wages, followed by a topical discussion, the usual routine was diverted to a social hour. It included a musical program, several songs by Eddie Rowe, a piano duet by Edna Rae Borland and vocal solo by Miss Edna Borland, accompanied by Mrs. George Wallace. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant hour spent. The course continues for two more meetings and the season will be concluded with the annual meeting and election of officers.

Proposed Same Toast For Past 15 Years

Dubbed by President Chris Graham as "one of the city's most eligible bachelors," Ross L. Dobbin was called on to propose a toast to "The Ladies" at the annual Ladies' Night and dinner held by the Rotary Club on Monday in observance of the thirty-second anniversary of the founding of Rotary International.

Although he has been called on annually for the past fifteen years to perform a similar duty, Mr. Dobbin feigned complete surprise. Graciously acknowledging that any embarrassment he might feel in such circumstances was overcome to some extent by the chance the occasion afforded him of meeting a few nice ladies, he was pleased to observe however, that the ladies were accompanied by their husbands so that he felt comparatively safe.

Mrs. W. R. Morris replied in similar vein on behalf of the ladies. With reference to some observations made by Dr. Charles Peaker as guest speaker in an entertaining address on music, Mrs. Morris commended a canoe in the moonlight to all bachelors.

NEW EXTENSION STOCKS BAKERY TO COST $35,000

New Proving Room With Capacity Of 20,000 Loaves To Be Built

TWO NEW OVENS

James Dutton, manager of Stocks Bread Limited today announced an extensive construction program at the local plant involving a total estimated expenditure of $35,000. Building permits have been issued through the city engineer's office and work has started.

The program involves a one-storey brick and steel frame addition to the proving room, measuring 30 feet by 130 feet; installation of two new oil-burning bake ovens of improved type; a new 40-horse power boiler and proving ovens, at the north-east end of the existing building.

At the south-east end a further one-storey brick and steel frame addition having dimensions of 200-feet by 150 feet is to be erected. It will provide extra warehouse accommodation and will include new offices for the administrative staff.

Mr. Dutton said the general contract is in the hands of H. W. Rule and Son of Toronto who are working in conjunction with the company's engineers. So far as possible, he stressed, local labor will be employed and materials will be purchased locally.

Additions to the proving room, it is expected, will be completed by May 1, and will provide facilities for an additional weekly capacity of at least 20,000 loaves of bread and will possibly lessen the number of hours per week of the employees.

Under government regulations, Mr. Dutton explained, the bakery trade is allowed a 56-hour week and the firm is very anxious to keep within the provisions of the law in this important respect.

Mr. Dutton also indicated that his company is contemplating the erection of a distributing centre at Lindsay, but plans in this connection have not yet assumed definite shape.

Putting In New Boiler

The first of the work now under way will include the removal of the existing 25 horse-power boiler and its replacement with a new 40-horse power boiler. The new boiler and the two additional ovens to be installed will all be equipped with oil burners. Formerly coke has been used at the bakery.

On the second extension which is planned, no additional stabling accommodation is being provided as Mr. Dutton feels that the horse is still continuing to be displaced by motorized equipment.

GRAND LEVEL DROPS

BRANTFORD, Ont., Feb. 23—(C.P.)—Danger from floods in Brantford district was reported at a minimum to-day after a drop in temperature overnight, acted as a check on the Grand River, causing the water to drop from high heights yesterday.

Although no damage has been recorded in the vicinity, debris carried by the stream gave evidence of damage to fences and small buildings in the upper reaches of the river.

British Seaplanes Collide

Boats from the British destroyer Crusader are shown searching the waters of the Mediterranean off Alexandria, Egypt, a few moments after two naval planes, engaged in a manoeuvre, had collided in the air. One plane plunged into the sea, killing two occupants. The other is shown (arrow) being hoisted aboard the Crusader. The fatality occurred during war games of the home fleet.

POWER FIGURES DECLARED WRONG

Hon. G. N. Gordon Says Chairman Of Utilities Commission Gave Wrong Figures

The Hon. G. N. Gordon issued a statement to The Examiner to-day about the power at the Waterworks dam. The statement is as follows:

"The figures Gordon Matthews, the chairman of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, gave were altogether wrong when he said there was only 400 horse-power at the Waterworks dam. The fact is that there is approximately 800 horse-power and he had the record of the waterflow.

"The power that the Canadian General Electric Company is getting is worth, at the present time, at what we are paying for power, in Peterborough, $30.00 per horse-power or $24,000.00 a year.

"If this renewed lease for twenty years to the Canadian General Electric is cancelled it would mean that the Peterborough street lights would not cost the city a cent, or, if we paid for the street lights, we could reduce the rates for water, electricity and gas to the amount of approximately $24,000 per year."

HIGH AWARDS WON IN OSHAWA BY LOCAL DOGS

HUMANE SOCIETY SHOW

2nd Front—ePterborough Dogs . .

At Oshawa Matinee Dog Show held under auspices of the Humane Society in the "Motor City" one hundred dogs were entered, including 13 Peterborough entries, which all placed first. The largest entry in any one breed was in Beagles.

Mrs. R. B. Smith, president of Oshawa Humane Society, expressed appreciation for the co-operation of Peterborough dog fanciers in helping to make the first dog show ever held in Oshawa such a success. She hoped the Oshawa dog fanciers would be able to show their appreciation in a tangible way by assisting at the next dog show held in Peterborough.

The highlight of the show was the award to Norman Manley, 24 Brown street, this city, of the judge's prize (a cup donated by Oshawa Dairy) as the best dog handler under 16 years of age. He won it for his handling of William Thompson's female beagle, "Cutie."

Judges were: R. P. Sparks, J. D. Strachan, Alfred Roberts, Jack Latham, and Bert Swan, all of Toronto.

Beagles: Browntown Kennels, William Thompson, owner. First and second male, ribbons. First and second female, ribbons. Best Beagle in show; cup, ribbon and special prize.

Fox Terrier, Wire: W. E. Leybourne. First male, ribbon.

Yorkshire Terrier: H. Smith. First female, ribbon.

ENGLAND, CANADA TO MEET IN FINALS LONDON TOURNEY

Both Add Shutouts By Beating Poland 11-0, Germany 5-0

FRANCE, HUNGARY OUT

LONDON, Feb. 23 (C.P.). — A merry battle of goal-tending is going on here as Canada and England near their decisive game for the world's amateur hockey championship.

Jimmy Foster, goalie of Moncton Hawks when they won the Allan Cup two years in succession, and goalie for England in their upset win in last year's Winter Olympic Games, has scored five shutouts in five games of the current tournament.

Kenny Campbell, of Kimberley Dynamiters, 1936 Allan Cup winners, has been scored on twice in five games, both by Poland in the first round.

The two added to their shutout records last night as Kimberley, representing Canada, defeated Germany 5-0 and England trounced Poland 11-0. In other games Czechoslovakia won from France 8-1 and Switzerland defeated Hungary 4-2.

These results made it certain that Canada and England will enter the final pool to-morrow night when four teams will continue in the fight. Four will be dropped after to-night's games.

France and Hungary are certain of elimination while the two vacant places will be settled to-night when Germany meets Czechoslovakia and Poland plays Switzerland. Favored to continue were Germany and Poland.

In the final round each team will meet the three other teams once with the championship going to the squad making the best showing, goals to count if the points are tied.

Short two men, Gustav Jaenecke and Rudi Ball, the Germans put up a gallant fight against Canada and held the fast Allan Cup squad scoreless for a period. Then experience told. "Puffy" Kemp scored twice and Gordon Wilson, Paul Kozack, and Ralph Redding added single goals.

Kemp took over scoring leadership of the Canadians with eight goals in five games. Bill Burchett, Redding, and Fred Botterill each has six, and Wilson five.

Canada has scored 37 goals and England 38.

DEER LODGE RINK RANK FAVORITES

Macdonald Brier Tankard Competition However Will Produce An Upset

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Jimmy Welsh and his youthful Winnipeg Deer Lodge curlers were favored today to take back to Manitoba that province's eighth Dominion curling championship when the Macdonald's Brier Tankard finals open here next week.

Jimmy's feat of winning 34 of 35 games in Manitoba's recent bonspiel, putting to rout some of Canada's noted wielders of the besom and stone, made him an able defender of the crown Ken Watson and his Strathcona club rink won last year.

But a notable lineup of curling greats were ready to "make it tough" for the Deer Lodgers. Only Quebec remained to name its representative in the Brier competition, competed for nationally since 1928. That province's championship rink was expected to be known by Thursday.

Cliff Manahan of Edmonton, who won the title for Alberta in 1933, promised to give the Winnipeg curlers a close battle. Rolly David of Vancouver has been here before, too, and the British Columbia titlists were expected to make a good showing in the Toronto 'spiel.

Dunker for Ontario.

To A. E. Dunker of Kitchener Falls the honor of representing Ontario, with Alberta the only other province to loosen the grasp Manitoba curlers have held on the tankard since 1928. Gordon Campbell's Hamilton Thistles won the title in 1935.

Emmett Smith of Haileybury hoped his third appearance in the Dominion-wide event would be his lucky year. Winner of a play-off with E. A. Fitchett of Sudbury for the right to represent Northern Ontario, Smith this year skips the north country's entry for the third time. He first competed in 1927.

BRUIN GETS DATES MIXED

PRAIRIE RIVER, Sask. (C.P.).—A yearling bear was shot and killed here when it wandered into town on the coldest day of the winter. Apparently it got its dates mixed and awakened early in its hibernating den.

Remember When—

The two-referee system was inaugurated in the National Hockey League by President Frank Calder 14 years ago to-day. In those days the professional circuit was a four-team affair, composed of Toronto St. Patricks, Montreal Canadiens, Ottawa and Hamilton. Harvey Pulford and Dr. Jerry Laflamme paired off in one game the day after the change was made. The other was in charge of Cooper Smeaton and Percy Lesueur.

APPS IS LEADING CANADIAN SECTION WITH 37 POINTS

Only Three Points Behind Aurie Of Detroit, Who Leads American Section

MONTREAL, Feb. 23 (C.P.).—If young Syl Apps goes on this way, you'll probably find a lot of National Hockey Leaguers taking up pole vaulting. Because, as a glance at the Toronto rookie's point standing would indicate, it hasn't done Sylvanus any harm at all around those nets. The former Olympic vaulter is leading the N.H.L.'s statistics section. Official league staatistics give him 37, his four points of the last week having put him two up on Sweeney Schriner of the New York Americans.

The Maple Leafs took over another honor during the week. A match penalty boosted Red Horner's penalty total to 102 minutes, and he displaced Allan Shields of Boston Bruins, who now trails him by 17 minutes.

DRUNKEN DRIVER IS GIVEN 30 DAYS

Verulam Man In Lindsay Jail—Six Deer Seen On Farm At Burnt River

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Feb. 23.—H. Atkister, a resident of Verulam Township, was given a thirty-day sentence in jail yesterday by Magistrate Gee on the charge of driving a car while intoxicated. Provincial Traffic Officer Massingham laid the charge, and it was disclosed in court that the accused ditched his car and damaged it.

Hope is waning for the recovery of five-year-old Ivan Gilson. The tot is suffering in the Ross Hospital from concussion of the brain and facial lacerations. A flower box fell off the verandah at his home on Saturday morning, striking him on the head.

Six fine big deer are roaming at large on farms near Burnt River. Charles Hodgson, of that village, came upon the herd, and when they were disturbed, they dashed into the bush land. It is believed they came out from their haunts in search of food.

The community was shocked at noon yesterday as a result of the announcement that Miss Margaret Tangney, prominent in the business life of the community, had died suddenly at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Tangney, Lindsay Street. The deceased was associated with the Tangney furniture store and undertaking parlors, and was at her place of business on Saturday. Besides her parents, she is survived by four sisters and three brothers. She was a member of St. Mary's Church.

A resident of Sheridan Street, Peterborough, will face a charge of reckless driving, laid by Traffic Officer Massingham, as a result of an accident on the Fenelon highway early Sunday morning. It is alleged that his car struck another car driven by a Lindsay resident who was driving to Fenelon Falls to bring home members of the local hockey team.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

SOUTH AFRICA and June are both quite a piece away from here and now but Chief Glimblett has just informed us that a South African lawn bowling party of 30 men and 15 ladies will visit Peterborough about June 22nd for matches. The Chief is chairman of District 14 which includes Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Port Hope, Cobourg, Peterborough, Lindsay, Cannington, Port Perry and Beaverton. The bowlers from the Dark Continent are touring Canada, arriving at Montreal and then going to Ottawa, Kingston, Peterboorough, Toronto and probably west. Three or four local rinks and the rest from the district will probably compete against 'em.

ACCORDING TO the Ontario Intelligencer's intelligent (sometimes) sports pillar, the Fliers-Pontiacs' tussle the other eve was something of a nautical affair. There was water on the ice, and the Petes—who lost to the R.C.A.F. gang in several inches of aqua pura—can sympathize with the Toronto team. The Chiefs failed to bring their war canoes but then the Fliers left their hydroplanes at home, too, so it was all even there. The latter proved too good and should just about cop intermediate "A" honors. Many of the Fliers' fans saw the series, going to Belleville loaded with beer—wait a second, now—loaded for bear and there was much rejoicing around the airport ere dawn arrove. The Chiefs were chiefly glum.

A GUY writes in with two questions: (a) Is Jack Adams' home in Napanee? and (b) what is a "dead man's hand" in poker? The Red Wings' pilot did live in Napanee but we understand he has moved this winter to Detroit and has taken out citizenship papers. A "dead man's hand" in poker is a hand containg a pair of aces and a pair of eights—so called because that was the hand held by Wild Bill Hickok when he was shot in the back.

OUR COLTS are all set to journey to Kingston tomorrow for the first game of their O.H.A. junior "B" playdown series. This is the Kingston lineup: Goal, Bridgen; defence, Smith and Crawford; centre, Partis; wings, Carr-Harris and Belwa; alternates, Evans, Knott, Younger-Lowis, McColm and Hagen. We notice two of 'em have hyphenated names. We do not like pucksters with hyphenated names, especially if they are on defence, as they are hard to split. However, the Red Indians haven't got Goldup and Catlin, their two aces who were mainly responsible for eliminating our juniors last winter.

TWO JUNIOR City Hockey League games are listed for tonight in the Brock St. rink, Monarchs and All Saints tangling at eight and St. Peter's playing Canucks at nine. Both should be good and they're quite important as playoffs will be started next week. Tomorrow (Wednesday) p.m. at eight o'clock in the Brock, an exhibition game has been arranged between the O.H.A. juvenile squad of Campbellford and Canucks of our Junior City Loop. These teams dished up a fine squabble in the Hydro Town a week or so back and this return fixture should be worth seeing. Admission is 15 cents for adults and a nickel for kids. Canucks at present lead the local league.

LOTS OF heated action last gloaming on the Rue Brock as three Blood and Thunder Loop tussles were torn off. Bewdley surprised everyone with a 7-4 nod over Outboard Marines, Mayfairs 5-2'd Millbrook, and Westclox just wiggled through with a 4-3 nod over Lakefield. Standing is in tonight and shows the situation facing the teams as they meet this Thursday e'en here in final scheduled games as follows: Outboard Marines vs. Mayfairs at seven, Bewdley vs. Westclox at eight, and Millbrook vs. Lakefield at nine. Next week sees three of these crews tangling in loop playoffs.

LOCAL KADUNKS will defend the Felt Trophy in the Lindsay puck tournament which is on for March 3rd, 4th and 5th. Meantime, Lindsay will be staging the Hughes Cup tourney this week likely. We must mitt the Scugog intermediates for making a fine showing against the Oshawa GM-men in the Fenelon Falls' tourney last week. Oshawa won out but just defeated Lindsay by a 2-0 schnozzle in the final fracas. Those watches the Motor Citizens won may have been a 5lt cosly as the GM-men last night were eliminated in the Toronto Mercantile League by Goodyears, 3-1. Covert had an assist on the lone losers' tally. That knocks two Oshawa outfits out of competition for this winter, leaving only their intermediate "B" squad in group playoffs with Whitby and an all-star City League gang to enter junior "B" playdowns.

* * * * * * *

NORWOOD COMBINES swing into action in O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns tonight in Belleville and back in Norwood on Friday, goals counting on the two-game serial. The Redmen of the Quinte town figure they have a soft touch, Skipper Thomas being noted as a gent who picks his spots, but they may get something of a jolt. Alex Kempt always ices a scrappy gang of pucksters. We had hoped that our Senior City League winner would meet Norwood, but they may be drawn against the Belleville-Norwood victor, if the local loop gets its affiliation in to the O.H.A. Had it not been for the Kingston-Colts' junior playoff here Friday, quite a few local fans would probably have journeyed to Norwood to see that tilt.

HITHER AND yawn: Some Scout Hockey League dope is in tonight . . . . Campbellford, Peterborough, Omemee and Toronto Coplands are expected in that Felt Tourney in Lindsay next week . . . . Loops should hustle puck playoffs along as you can't depend on ice from now on . . . . Sloan for Bewdley is the best goalie in the Blood and Thunder Loop this year; he's having a fine season.

THREE COUNTRIES WILL HAVE TEAMS IN AMATEUR 'ROBIN'

England, Canada And U.S. To Be Represented At Toronto In April

AMATEUR HOCKEY CROWN

TORONTO, Feb. 23—(CP)—Teams representing three countries will compete in a round-robin series for the world's amateur hockey crown at Maple Leaf Gardens here in April. England, Canada and United States will send their best organizations to the series.

In announcing the championship tournament last night, W. A. Hewitt, registrar of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said a team would be chosen to represent Ontario if a provincial aggregation failed to win the Allan Cup. If an Ontario team did capture the cup, a second Ontario team would be chosen to represent the province.

Slated to start about April 15, the series will see the four teams meeting in the first tournament of its kind ever conducted. United States will send the victors of the Eastern League which include Hershey B'ars, Atlantic City Seagulls, New York Rovers, Pittsburgh and Baltimore, all of which still have a chance to come out on top.

Mr. Hewitt said Cecil Duncan, president of the C.A.H.A., arranged for the visit of the English National Hockey League champions during a visit to England this month. Wembley Lions or Harringway Racers, fighting for the English title, will make the ocean jaunt, it is expected.

Canada's Allan Cup winners and the Ontario team will attempt to carry off the laurels for the Dominion. Most of the players they will have for opponents are Canadians and Mr. Hewitt expects the series to produce "a real world's champion."

Scout Hockey League Ready For Playoffs

Scout Hockey League standing:—

Team:	W.	L.	T.	Pts.

St. Andrew's	0	3	2	2

Games of Feb. 13 and 20 were not played, due to lack of ice. A rule at the start of the season was that any game not played due to no ice would count a point apiece for the teams involved.

Playoffs will commence as soon as possible, with Immaculate Conception and St. James meeting for first place, the loser to play St. Peter's for second place, and the finalists then to tangle for the league title.

Italy will spend $300,000,000 on armed forces in the next year.

Ski-ing

Christiania Swing

50—Change of Direction, Swings

As stated in our previous articles on "Change of Direction — Turns" the chrisitiania and telemark are classified as swings and may be made at any speed. For changing direction at high speed swings are always used.

The factors necessary for the execution of pure swings are (a) rotary action of the skis, (b) stemming action. The same four elements enter into the generation of rotary action for swings as are used for turns, namely: Body muscular effort, body momentum, body weight and steering effect of the skis. Their individual importance varies with different types of swings. Another factor which might be mentioned is the rapid unweighting and weighting of the skis by an up and down movement of the body. Body muscular effort is usually more vigorous than in turns and body momentum and steering effect are more pronounced due to the higher speed. When vigorous body muscular effort is the predominating element in producing rotary action, the swing is said to be "jerked." If body momentum predominates it is said to be "unforced" or supple and in either case the curve of the swing may be either sharp or gradual. When steering action is principally used the swing is said to be "steered." No swing, however, depends solely on any one element for the production of rotary action.

The so-called stemming action in pure swings is really more of a side-slipping action than a stemming action. It is not always caused by a deliberate stemming position of the skis, as in turns, but is usually the result of the partially broadside on position of the skis due to rotary action.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The committee has asked us to try and run the remaining schedule games off as quickly as possible. The idea is to make room for the vice-skips' 'spiel' and the "leads and seconds" bonspiel.

In order to do this we ask the co-operation of all skips and the players of their rinks.

The draw for to-night is:

J. T. Braund vs. C. Giroux.
G. Matthews vs. A. Gates.
R. Bacon vs. W. Harvey
R. Adams vs. B. Scott.
T. Donaldson vs. E. R. Shirley.
A. Kay vs. W. Pratten.
R. Downey vs. J. Sedgewick.

Southend Puck Finals

First game of the Southend Hockey League bantam finals will be held to-night at six at the Sacred Heart rink between King Edward and St. Peter's; first of the midget semi-finals is to-night at seven between King Edward and Canucks; and two scheduled juvenile tilts will be run off there this evening, with Aces meeting Canucks at eight and St. Peter's playing P.C.I. at nine.

LONDON TO HAVE PROBE

Illegal Gambling And Betting To Be Subject of Probe.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 23 (C.P.). — City Council last night endorsed a recommendation from the Finance Committee for a police probe of "illegal gambling and betting" in London.

Council's resolution said complaints had been received concerning "illegal gambling" and requested a survey of the municipality. Police visited several places on Friday but no prosecutions followed.

Former Utility Head Will Go To England to Reside.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (C.P.). — Samuel Insull, former utility head, plans to return to his native England to pass his remaining years, it was reported here to-day.

"The Herald and Examiner" last night quoted Insull as saying: "Mrs. Insull and I have made no decision," but it was said close friends had disclosed that Insull would leave Chicago in June.

LOS ANGELES WINS WORLD CAGE CUP

Californians Take Windsor Fords 28-19 In Second Straight Win

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 23.—(CP)—Perhaps the tallest, and certainly the most clever team ever to invade this border city, Los Angeles All-Stars, a band of giants who seem to have little difficulty winning games anywhere held highest honors in the realm of the cage game today. They're newly-crowned amateur basketball champions of the world and proud retainers of the Jacob France trophy, symbolic of the title.

Showing an advantage in height as well as experience, the Californians defeated Windsor Fords, Canadian champions, 28-19 last night in the second game of their best-of-three series for world honors. The invaders from out of the west also won the first game Saturday 40-31.

Representing the United States in a fight for the France trophy which has not been played for since 1932 when Tulsa Oilers turned back a Winnipeg Toilers threat, Los Angeles appeared to have the edge at all times. The series—first of its kind played in Canada—attracted capacity crowds of 2,300 for each game. An exhibition tilt will be played between the two teams tonight preceded by an exhibition affair between Windsor Alumnae, girl basket ball champions of Canada, and Tulsa, Okla. Stenos, U.S. national titlists.

Met In Berlin Last Year.

The France trophy rivals are no strangers to each other. They splashed about on a rain-soaked outdoor court in Berlin last summer with the American team winning 19-8 and taking the Olympic championship.

One of their famous drives which brought 15 points in the final period, gave Los Angeles the match last night. Tied 13-13 at halftime because of the tenacious checking of the fighting Fords, the Americans rallied and held their opponents to six-points while tallying more than twice that many themselves.

Captain Jimmy Stewart, Ford forward, was high scorer of the match with 10 points, many of them made on long shots. Frank Lubin, six and a half feet centre for the Californians who made 15 points in the first game, was closely watched throughout and notched but six points.

OSHAWA WINS CARNIVAL CUP FENELON FALLS

Lindsay Squad Secures Citizens' Trophy As Runners-up

HOLD ICE BASEBALL

FENELON FALLS, Feb. 23.—Oshawa General Motors won the hockey tournament in connection with the Fenelon Falls winter sports carnival when they defeated Lindsay Legionnaires 2 to 0 in the final game Saturday night. Three games were played on the final night, and although the ice was soft the large crowd was treated to a splendid evening's entertainment. All three games were close, the ice condition preventing much in the way of combination.

The winners took the L. F. Winchell Trophy and 11 wrist watches as their permanent possession, also the James Daniels Challenge Trophy, to be returned next year. To the Lindsay squad went the Fenelon Falls Citizens' Trophy and 11 windbreakers, as runners-up, and another beautiful cup for the best team in Victoria and Haliburton counties. Woodville juveniles won the A. E. Tiers Trophy for the best junior team in Victoria and Haliburton counties.

In the first game Lindsay handed a 2 to 1 defeat to Bobcaygeon, Heatle and Parkin scoring for the winners and Wright netting the losers' one tally. General Motors defeated Reinhardts 3 to 1 in the second game. Smith tallied twice for Oshawa while Barnes netted the third. Cooper and Chisholm dented the wine in the final game, to give Oshawa the victory over the Lindsay squad.

Hold Ice Baseball

Following the games the trophies and prizes were presented by Bruce McNevin, M.P., and William Newman, M.P.P.

During the afternoon a large crowd gathered on the ice at Cameron Lake for the ice baseball game and skijoring. Bobcaygeon handed a 7 to 3 defeat to Fenelon Falls in the ice baseball game. This is a sport which is believed to have originated in Fenelon Falls and the citizens have become quite expert in the intricacies of mushball on the frozen surface of the lake.

The teams:

Bobcaygeon—Conway, J. Nichols, H. Nichols, P. Nichols, A. Nichols, Jack Junkin, Jim Junkin, Gordon, R. Nichols.

Skijoring, with cars instead of horses providing the motive power, is probably one of the fastest sports imaginable. Children who did not possess skis pressed their toboggans into use, and, hanging on to a rope attached to the rear of a car, roared across the ice at sixty miles an hour. Another sport which seemed to be quite popular with car drivers was driving across the ice at a furious pace, then suddenly jamming on the brakes, with the result that the car goes seven or eight circles.

Golf on Ice

Ice golf was another novel sport in which the enthusiasts indulged. A full nine-hole course was marked out and the game was played in the same manner as on a regular land course.

Teams

Bobcaygeon—Goal, Junkin; defense, Wright, Gordon; centre, H. Nichols; wings, I. Nichols, E. Nichols; subs, Conway, J. Nichols, P. Nichols.

Referee—Mac Aldous, Fenelon Falls.

Brooklyn Dodgers Let Lindstrom Out

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (CP)—Freddy Lindstrom, third baseman of Brooklyn Dodgers in the National Baseball League, joined the growing army of ex-Dodgers today.

Secretary John Gorman announced the Brooklyn club had given Lindstrom his unconditional release. Two weeks ago Lindstrom said he wanted his release if a satisfactory contract was not forthcoming, because he had offers to sign with another club.

In the National League since 1924, Lindstrom played also with New York Giants, Pittsburgh and Chicago clubs.

MAYFAIRS WIN 5-2 TO GAIN PLAYOFFS

Defeat Millbrook In Lively Senior City Loop Puck Contest With Big Second Frame

Mayfairs clinched a playoff berth in the Senior City Hockey League last night at the Block Street Rink by pulling out a 5-2 verdict over Millbrook. It was a lively game all through, fast and clean with good and bad hockey shown. The count was 1-0 for the Cafe Kids at the end of the first inning and 4-1 for them going into the third.

Despite the count, Millbrook made it an interesting battle and deserved several more scores. Both goalies played a good game to rob their opponents of counters at close range. The winners' defence looked a trifle stronger, but none of the rearguardsmen stood on defensively. All the forwards battled hard. Mowry, Courneyea, and Hill shone for the winners, and the alternates were almost as effective. For Millbrook, Spencely, Wainman and Skitch turned in a bangup game, while the rest were nearly as good.

Mayfairs Get First.

O'Leary scored the first goal for the locals in the initial frame on a solo attempt. Spencely notched one early in the second to tie it up. Mowry came back with one for Mayfairs on Driscoll's assist. Meyette broke through for another and then Mowry took Gardner's pass in close to make it 4-1 at the bell. Currie muffed Skitch's long shot to start the third, but Courneyea got it back later in the frame to end the scoring at 5-2.

The teams:

Millbrook — Goal, Ferguson; defence, Parnall and Spencely; centre, Edmonds; wings, Cathcart and Skitch; alternates, Wainman, McCarthy and Sloan.

Mayfairs — Goal, Currie; defence, Gardiner and Mowry; centre, O'Leary; wings, Courneyea and Hill; alternates, Driscoll, Meyette and Vitarelli.

Referee—Herb. Payne.

PICKING AMATEUR HOCKEY FINALISTS STILL IMPOSSIBLE

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (C.P.).—Picking and choosing among the amateur hockey teams of Eastern Canada is as hard as ever, experts agree, but some of the things leading clubs are doing to opponents stamp them as outstanding contenders for Dominion honors. Even in playoff time some mighty convincing scores are being hung up.

For instance, there was that 11-0 whipping Moncton Maroons handed Fredericton Capitals last night to win the Southern New Brunswick championship. Moncton carried the Maritimes' challenge in Allan Cup playdowns last year and has evidently gathered power for its 1937 drive.

Then the remarkable record of McGill University must be considered. The Redmen won the international intercollegiate title last night. Victory in college competition means nothing so far as the Redmen's Allan Cup possibilities are concerned, but the fact McGill has now gone for 21 senior and college games without a defeat must be convincing. The team has lost only two games all season in the Montreal senior group.

Cornwall Outstanding.

The Ottawa senior group has not been one-sided by any stretch of the imagination but Cornwall's entry finished the schedule with 15 wins against seven losses and rules favorite as playoffs start.

Again in Northern Ontario there is a high-ranking challenger, for Frood Mine has lost only one game all season. Awaiting a rival in play-offs, the Sudbury team is rated favorite to represent the Northern Ontario Hockey Association in senior playdowns.

With elimination of Oshawa from the Toronto and York Mercantile League last night, three Toronto teams are left to battle for the Ontario Hockey Association senior championship. Goodyears, who carry a galaxy of wel-known stars, finished the schedule in first place and will be met in finals by either Dominions or Consols.

Port Colborne, only senior B team in the province must eliminate the Intermediate A champions in order to get a crack at the Senior A survivor. Point Edward, Brantford, Trenton Air Force and Gananoque—all possessors of good records—will start OHA. Intermediate A semi-finals to-night.

The Junior Line-up.

Junior series in the East have also produced some lopsided activity. After being pressed for two games, St. Michael's College of Toronto stepped out and drubbed Toronto Young Rangers 12-4 last week, qualifying to meet Toronto Consols in group finals. Stratford Midgets concluded their schedule last night by lacing Kitchener Greenshirts 7-0 and they and St. Mike's are looked upon as likely O.H.A. finalists.

A couple of other Ontario junior teams have not had the same chances to show their wares, but when they have appeared they have usually given supporters cause for Memorial Cup hopes. Pembroke Little Lumber Kings earned the right to represent their group again when they overwhelmed Barry's Bay 23-3 in a two-game round. They gave West Toronto Nationals a lot of trouble last season before bowing out in Eastern Canada finals.

Copper Cliff Redmen have been playing Senior Northern Ontario aggregations all winter and may win the Dominion championship that Sudbury Wolves took for the North in 1932.

Amherst came out of Nova Scotia a dark horse sextet last year and no one has been tossing it much this season. But Amherst has nearly the same club as in 1936, when it forced Pembroke to three games before yielding.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Max Baer swaggers into town and claims he's chastened....Same night he toddles down to sing with Abe Lyman's Band and is embarrassed when a tipsy woman reels up and says: "Hiya, Max. I bet on you lash summer and won fi'ty bucks."....Baer is speechless for a minute until the woman's escort drags her off explaining, "That's Max Baer, not Max Schmeling."....Incidentally, Baer is well heeled regardless of the outcome of his comeback campaign....He gets a monthly income of $1,000 for life come his 35th birthday.

Dizzy Dean went from Little Rock to Miami for Bill Klem's birthday party....Wht about that, Mr. Frick?....Fraternizing with the umpires?

Honus Wagner will be 64 to-morrow....The Reds have a pitcher named Lee Grissom....He's a big, powerful left-hander with ambition and an idolatrous idea of Lefty Grove....Around Cincinnati they tell about the time Grove had two teeth taken out and Grissom had the same two yanked out just so they'd be alike.

If and when that Gehrig-Ruppert feud is settled, Yankee Business Manager Ed Barrow probably will do the settling....Gehrig lives in New Rochelle, Barrow a couple of miles away in adjoining Larchmont, and more than likely Gehrig, bewildered by the Colonel's definite stand, will go to Barrow for a compromise....Men who really know Hank Leiber will tell you he wanted to be traded by the Giants to the Cubs....At that, he's holding out not for money, but for assurance that Manager Bill Terry has taken him out of the dog house.

TWEED WALLOP MARMORA 11-3

Nine Goals Are Scored In Final Canto As Both Squads Open Up

INTERMEDIATE FIXTURE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 23.—In a wild effort to stay in the playoffs the Tweed Intermediates went to town and soundly trounced the Marmora team 11 to 3, on Monday evening. In the first period, which was rather scrambly and resembled shinny, Marmora went into a one-goal lead when Neil scored the only goal of the period in the last few minutes of the canto. For tripping Courneyea as he rushed towards the goal in the last few seconds of the period, Smith received the only penalty for the first canto. Both sides played poor hockey, although the visitors were rather unlucky that they did not run up a better score, as they had Thompson at their mercy several times only to have him make spectacular saves.

With defeat staring them in the face and also elimination from the playoff chances, the home forces tightened down and rapped in four goals. Courneyea opened the scoring when he took a pass from Maguire to tie the count. Maguire then took a pass from Leal and Courneyea to put the home forces one up. Elsbury then combined with Marsh, who passed from the corner and "Skunk" banged home the third counter of the period. Courneyea then made a rush down the full length of the rink to tally a lone goal on one of the prettiest plays of the game. Kouri went to the bench twice for Marmora, while Courneya and Maguire each received the gate for the home forces.

Nine goals Scored

In the last period both teams went to town with nine goals being tallied in this period. The home forces opened the scoring in this frame when Baldy Leal took a pass from Courneyea. Courneyea tallied twice in this period on lone rushes; Maguire scored once; Elsbury twice and Long from Elsbury to tally the local team's points; while Smith and Leonard tallied the visitors' goals. Neal of Marmora received the only penalty of the period.

As a result of this game, Tweed gained four points, the game counting as a double header ,and if they are successful in winning one out of the remaining two games, they are in the playoffs.

Both teams played brilliant hockey in the last two frames of the game, with Kouri, Neal, and Smith the standouts for the visitors, while Courneyea with four goals, Elsbury with two, and Poke-checker Baldy Leal were the best for the home forces. The passing and checking of both teams, although close, was such that the game was in doubt until the end of the game, as goals seemed to be scored at random, with Tweed being more on the scoring at random than Marmora. Thompson had many nice saves, while at times, Callory was sensational as he had many spectacular saves to make.

Jerry Quinn handled the game.

Amerks Futile Bombardment of Cude

With the end of the regular N.H.L. schedule in sight and points as precious as diamonds to teams hoping for playoff positions, New York Americans staged a back-to-the-wall duel in New York before bowing to Montreal Canadiens in the game pictured above. Amerk forwards are bombarding Wilfie Cude in the Canuck goal and the puck is actually in the twine but, though the red light blinked, the goal was disallowed. The referee ruled that the rubber bounced into the nets off a Canadian player's chest.

GORDON DRILLON IN THE LIMELIGHT FOR BING TROPHY

Career Reads Like Book Since Moncton Lad Started In Amateur Hockey

NOW LEAF REGULAR

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (CP).—When they're deciding on a rightful holder for the Lady Bing sportsmanship trophy at the close of the National Hockey League season, Gordon Drillon will not be overlooked unless he turns badman overnight. The Toronto Maple Leafs right-winger, well up with the league's leading scorers, has not been penalized this season.

Also a contender for outstanding rookie honors, the 22-year-old Moncton, N.B., boy appears to be in a class by himself for Lady Byng Trophy consideration at the present time. A fast skating, aggressive player, the clean-cut youngster has 23 scoring points to his credit, made up of 14 goals and 14 assists.

Drillon's hockey career reads almost like a story book, and when Conny Smythe picked him out of amateur ranks, it was another feather in the cap of the crafty Toronto manager. Coming from Moncton, Gordon played junior in Toronto, and in 1935-36 led the United States Senior Amateur League in scoring, while a member of the Pittsburgh Club.

Smythe followed Drillon's play since he first saw him in Toronto junior hockey, and when Maple Leafs made a western exhibition tour with Chicago Black Hawks last spring, he persuaded the Maritimer to turn professional. Drillon started this season with Syracuse Stars, Leafs' farm team in the International League, but was soon brought up to the majors.

On Front Line String.

Drillon has been so impressive that he has earned a regular right-wing berth on Leafs' first string forward line with Syl. Apps and Harvey Jackson. He'll be at his regular post as Leafs tackle Rangers in New York tonight, despite the fact Charlie Conacher will return to the team's lineup.

Conacher was slated to do right-wing chores with the No. 1 line this season, but a pre-season wrist injury has kept Chuck out of all but a few games. He was slated to get into action in Montreal next Thursday when Leafs play Canadiens, but Smythe changed his mind and instructed the big bomber to leave Toronto last night.

With defeat staring them in the face and also elimination from the playoff chances, the home forces tightened down and rapped in four goals. Courneyea opened the scoring when he took a pass from Maguire to tie the count. Maguire then took a pass from Leal and Courneyea to put the home forces one up. Elsbury then combined with Marsh, who passed from the corner and "Skunk" banged home the third counter of the period. Courneyea then made a rush down the full length of the rink to tally a lone goal on one of the prettiest plays of the game. Kouri went to the bench twice for Marmora, while Courneya and Maguire each received the gate for the home forces.

Nine goals Scored

In the last period both teams went to town with nine goals being tallied in this period. The home forces opened the scoring in this frame when Baldy Leal took a pass from Courneyea. Courneyea tallied twice in this period on lone rushes; Maguire scored once; Elsbury twice and Long from Elsbury to tally the local team's points; while Smith and Leonard tallied the visitors' goals. Neal of Marmora received the only penalty of the period.

As a result of this game, Tweed gained four points, the game counting as a double header ,and if they are successful in winning one out of the remaining two games, they are in the playoffs.

Both teams played brilliant hockey in the last two frames of the game, with Kouri, Neal, and Smith the standouts for the visitors, while Courneyea with four goals, Elsbury with two, and Poke-checker Baldy Leal were the best for the home forces. WESTCLOX WINS OVER LAKEFIELD

Pull Out 4-3 Decision In Exciting Tussle Before Slim Crowd Here Last Night

Senior City Hockey League Standing

Westclox	9	8	1	0
Mayfairs	9	5	2	2
Marines	9	3	3	3
Lakefield	8	3	4	1
Bewdley	8	2	5	1
Millbrook	9	1	7	1

Westclox copped a 4-3 win over Lakefield in an exciting contest last night at the Brock. It was a hammer-and-tongs affair all through with the fans in constant uproar. The count was 1-1 in the first and 2-1 for the winners going into the third. Play was even, hot and fairly clean all the way. Both goalies stood out and Whatley, Field and Padgett went extra good for Westclox; while the Chittick-Blewett-Jewell line shone for the other side.

Score One Apiece.

Chappell and Whatley got the lone counters of the first stanza. Field scored two on nice efforts for the Clockmakers in the middle chukker, while Jewell kept Lakefield in there with a marker. In the third Chittick sewed up the count on Jewell's assist, but O'Leary notched one in a close-in scramble late in the heat to end it, and Westclox played defensive hockey the final few minutes.

The teams:

Lakefield — Goal, Junkin; defence, Sabatino and I. Charlton; centre, Chittick; wings, Blewett and Jewell; alternates, Deeth, Lennox, Chappell, and R. Charlton.

Westclox — Goal, Tharby; defence, Whatley and White; centre, Field; wings, Dinesen and Williams; alternates, Padgett and O'Leary.

Referee—Herb. Payne.

MARINES BEATEN BY BEWDLEY 7-4

Rice Lake Squad Upsets Dope In Blood And Thunder Loop By Trimming Outboard Craw

Bewley upset the dope in the Senior City Hockey League last night at the Brock St. rink by yanking out a 7-4 decision over Outboard Marines before a small crowd. Turning in a bangup battling performance, the Redshirts from Rice Lake earned the verdict all the way. They had a big middle chapter to take a 5-2 edge after a 1-1 draw in the first frame; and each side tallied once in the third.

Play was fast, clean and open all the way with plenty of scoring and no penalties drawn. The winners were clicking better while the losers fought hard but could not get going properly. Beavis had a bad evening in the Marines' net whereas Sloan turned in a fine effort in the opposite cage. He, Walker and Watson were outstanding, but the whole team looked good. For the Outboard outfit, Cripps, Courneyea and Archibald were best.

Marines Start It

Archibald scored in the first on assists from Payne and Courneyea. Walker got it back, his shot slipping through Beavis. In the second, P. Sidey got one for the visitors with Watson shooting in two, Morton one and J. Mercer another. Archibald and Courneyea each counted late in the frame for the homesters. In the third, Reeves rapped in a pass from Courneyea while Morton broke away from a ganging Johnson gang to score the final marker. The teams:

Bewdley: Goal, Sloan; defence, Walker and D. Sidey; centre, Watson; wings, P. Sidey and Jewison; alternates, Morton, L. Mercer, J. Mercer and Watt.

Outboard Marines: Goal, Beavis; defence, Lebarr and Cripps; centre, Payne; wings, Courneyea and Archibald; alternates, Maudsley, Reeves and Courney.

Referee—Herb Payne.

McGILL REDMEN CAPTURE COLLEGE HOCKEY LAURELS

Defeat Of Harvard 7-2 Gives Montrealers 21st Straight Victory

TIGERS 4, BULLDOGS 2

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—(CP).—McGill University's trophy derrick reached out to-day to scoop up the International Intercollegiate hockey championship, dumping it beside the Eastern Canadian College title.

The end of a perfect season among the student teams came for the racing Redmen last night as they turned back Harvard's powerful crimson for their 10th straight and final "double int" victory, 7-2.

It was Harvard's first loss in 21 games, stretched over two seasons, and McGill's 21st straight undefeated game in college and league competition this year. Few had conceded Harvard much of a chance against a McGill squad that is rated one of the finest turned out from the Montreal University.

More than 12,000 fans were drawn to Montreal's forums by the clash. They saw McGill race into an early lead and hold it against a hard-hitting offensive that petered out repeatedly when inside the blueline.

Princeton Beats Yale.

While the Montrealers were taking the championship, Princeton Tigers, cellar occupants, pulled off their first victory of the season, defeating Yale Bulldogs 4-2 on two goals by Cochrane and singles by Jack Bissell and Miller.

Two first period goals by Russ McConnell gave McGill all it needed to force Harvard into the open. Both counters came in the first 15 minutes of the game when the Crimson was outplayed thoroughly. They improved from then on and the first of Track Hicks' two goals ended the period at 2-1.

Showing their noted speed in well-timed bursts, McGill ran the margin to 4-1 in the second period as Gord Crutchfield and Paul Pidcock whipped shots past Harvard's brilliant goaler bespectacled George Mahoney who alone stood between McGill and a rout in the early minutes.

Hicks cut the lead again to open the third-period scoring. Then, with Harvard Defenceman Russ Allen watching from the penalty box, Bing Crosby and Rollie Lamb shot goals in the space of two minutes to "salt" the game for the Redmen. Their counters came on two long shots that Mahoney never saw, so blocked was his view by piled up players.

BETHANY W.A. HAS ENJOYABLE RALLY

Regular Meeting Held At Parsonage Marked By Good Program

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Feb. 23.—The Women's Association of the United Church held their regular monthly meeting at the church parsonage on Tuesday afternoon.

There were fifteen members, the pastor and one visitor present. Letters of appreciation were read from Mrs. Driver, Mrs. Johnston and Miss M. Thompson, for boxes of fruit sent them during recent illness.

The topic was chosen from "Humility".

Mrs. Herb Fallis invited the ladies to meet at her home for the March meeting, which was gratefully accepted.

The following program was then rendered, which had been previously arranged by the committee in charge: Reading by Mrs. Kennedy, entitled "The courage to go on."; reading by Mrs. Jackson, "The humble washer woman"; a quartette, "Beautiful Golden Gate," Mrs. H. Ryley, Mrs. A. B. Ryley, Miss E. Richardson and Miss Evelyn McKinnon, which all enjoyed; reading by Mrs. Rowland, "Snoring in Church"; reading by Mrs. Rev. Ferguson, "A New version of the Ten Commandments".

The hostesses, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Fallis, Mrs. Driver and Mrs. Grim, served a most enjoyable supper and a social half hour spent together.

Mrs. H. Payne tendered a vote of thanks, which was suitably acknowledged by Mrs. George Foster.

Personals

Mrs. Rev. A. R. Holden returned home on Saturday after a week's visit with friends at Toronto and her daughter, Mrs. George Webb, at Wallaceburg.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ryley and small son Harry, spent Friday with friends at Peterborough.

Mr. Harry Reynolds was a business visitor to Lindsay on Thursday.

Rev. A. R. Holden accompanied Mr. Tom Morton on a motor trip to Deloro on Friday. Miss Laura Morton of the teaching staff there, accompanied them home to spend the week-end at her home here.

Scott Bros. of Brunswick are having wood sales delivered by truck this week to prevent the cutting up of private lawns and roadways.

Fallis Bros. have been busily engaged hauling home ice for several stores and Driver's Dairy.

WARKWORTH

COMMUNITY AIDS VICTIMS OF FIRE

Warkworth Folk Come To Assistance Of Mr. And Mrs. Clarence Potter

WARKWORTH, Feb. 23. — The community shower held on Friday evening in the town hall for Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Potter, who had the misfortune to lose their home and practically all its contents by fire, was largely attended.

Reeve Ray Mallory opened the evening's program with a short address expressing the sympathy of the entire community in their great loss.

Mr. Ben Buchanan was also called upon to give a speech, after which the musical program was given by local talent.

Vocal duet, May Grant and Frances Bowen; violin and guitar duet, Kenneth Killenbeck and Sammie Black; vocal duet, Grace Zufelt and Clara Malloy. The orchestra, composed of Grace Wilson, pianist, Bruce Sweet, accordion and Don Massey, guitar, contributed some fine selections; trio, Sammie Black, Grace Zufelt and Helen Black. All these numbers were heartily encored and enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter appreciate the generous gifts, which included a purse of money, fruit, vegetables, bedding, kitchen wear and many other articles too numerous to mention.

The Potter family have lived in this vicinity all their lives and are highly respected citizens, and the public are pleased to be of some aid in their great loss

Lunch was served and a social time was spent together.

Personals.

Miss Annie Grant and Miss Opal Shaw of the Peterborough Normal school, spent the week-end with their parents here.

The friends of Mrs. Clara Richards are sorry to hear of her recent illness. Miss Butler is caring for her.

Mr. Everett Maycock of Seymour, is spending the week-end at the parental home.

TRENT RIVER.

Mrs. Thomas Sedgewick, who has been suffering from a flu attack, is making a good recovery.

The Misses Helen Brown and Ferne Longmuir spent Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gardiner and family of Norwood.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TAXES.

TORONTO. — Bell Telephone Company to-day was placed on Ontario's Public School tax list by a ruling of Judge Ian Macdonnell, in the Special Corporation Appeal Court.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

In Hollywood following an ingenious maneuver on the part of his young wife, Janet, Joel Paynter, second-rate Broadway actor, begins work under a short term contract. Meanwhile Janet makes a point of cultivating the right people. Joins a tennis club and meets Vernon Chester, an important director. Chester asks her to play tennis and have lunch with him. Chester likes Janet and learns inadvertently that she and Joel have been reading a best-seller about to be screened by Chester. Chester selects Joel for an important character role in his new picture and Janet virtually dictates the terms of an attractive new contract and option. Joel makes screen history in "The Dance Was Long" and the Paynters find fame and fortune at their feet within eight months. Janet has everything that money can buy yet happiness eludes her because she finds she has nothing more to do. Then Joel confronts her with an item he has read in a Hollywood gossip column.

CHAPTER 18

THE NEWSPAPER that Joel handed to his wife was folded so that Harriet Casey's gossip column was face up. She read nonchalantly.

"Oh, the Tracys have bought Nell's house," she said, reading down the column.

"Go on," Joel said.

She read that Joe Clinker, the comedian, has presented his baby-faced leading lady with a diamond ring. And that Myrnita Deland was planing east for the opening of her picture.

Then she saw the item.

"The Joel Paynters are going to have a baby! We heard the news from Janet at the charity bridge held yesterday at the home of Christine Doolittle."

Janet had to reread the item three times before she was sure of what she read.

"I'll be darned," she said incredulously.

"You'll be darned? What about me?"

Janet didn't answer him immediately; she was trying to remember something. Harriet Casey did not often make mistakes and she certainly didn't manufacture her news items. Something was beginning to buzz around in the back of Janet's mind. What was is that she had been saying when Harriet came over to the table? She remembered Harriet asking her a question rather breathlessly when she was playing her last hand.

She had a guilty feeling that she had said something that might have lead Harriet to her surmise but when she looked up to tell Joel about it, she had time only to whisper, "It isn't true, darling."

She might have said more and she might have spared herself the pain she felt stab her quickly when she saw the relief on Joel's face.

It was the entrance of Tony Menone and Larry Kelton, two of Joel's cronies, that interrupted anything else she might have said.

She and Joel were not alone again until late that night. Tony insisted on taking them along to a little movie theater twelve miles out of Hollywood where his latest picture was having a sneak preview—that is the preview to see how the public likes the picture before it is released.

After that they had to stop at somebody's house for a night-cap and after that Joel had forgotten the incident once his fears had been dispelled.

But Janet had not forgotten, and in her breast her heart beat with things it had stirred up. Later a cold fury, a sick disappointment and a deep resentment was to cause her to rebel but never to speak, for Janet had learned to school herself against anything that would threaten her happiness and the smooth continuity of her life with Joel. She meant that continuity to continue in spite of all odds against her. All of her chances were based on the one slim thing that was Joel's love for her.

She sat there in the darkened movie theater with her eyes on the screen watching the antics of Tony Menone which convulsed the audience, but she couldn't have told you a single thing she saw.

She was thinking. If I were going to have a baby, I would be so happy that nothing in the world would be real to me but that one thing.

All of her senses responded to the desire that filled her. She thought of the indescribably delicate texture of a little baby's hand, and her fingers tingled. She thought of the sweet smell of a baby's body and her throat ached with longing. She heard the sigh of a baby and it was a sound so soft it might have been the rustle of an angel's wing that she alone heard.

There in that darkened theater she experienced things she had never known. Little things that time had passed on to her from generations she had never known. They were memories that had been born in Felicity Burns and in every woman because every woman was once the baby of another woman. Memories that make a woman catch her breath as she looks at a sleeping baby because that baby is far away from her, so close to the infinity from which it came. In them there was tenderness, oh, the kind of tenderness that be she a poet she can never put in words. And there was fear and the ultimate in fulfillment. There was wonder at the past, at her part in the present, and the timeless hope of the future.

Janet thought of the things she had seen in the children's shops. The tiny, tiny garments, the soft flannels, the coats and bonnets too beautiful for a doll, but never quite good enough for the miracle a woman's own baby is.

In those passing few minutes she had furnished a nursery in blue. It would be in blue because, of course, her baby would be a boy. He would look exactly like Joel. He'd have long legs for a baby because Joel had long legs. He'd have a play yard and none of those with too low fences because nothing must ever happen to him. He would have no dangerous toys. Oh, dear babyhood loomed as a difficult time!

Then, when he was big enough to ride a horse, he'd have a little riding habit like Joel's. He'd swim and play tennis. Probably he'd play football when he went to college. Joel would want him to go to college in the east. She and Joel must save their money because there might be another depression and she wasn't going to have her son experience the lean years as her Joel had.

Supposing there were a depression and young Joel had a wife? And Janet and Joel were not there to help them?

Janet had herself an orgy of thinking there in the theater.

In a briefer time than it took to show the Menone picture, Janet had lived the babyhood, childhood and youth of a son she didn't have. A child who wasn't yet, one who had appeared merely in the gossip column of a newspaper.

She was worrying over the childhood ills and dangers of a baby she wasn't even having.

She laughed a little. Out loud, dryly.

She whispered back, "It was a very funny gag, Tony, but I don't think your audience would appreciate it."

That night, for the first time in the two and a half years of her marriage, Janet was thinking of what she wanted and not what was best for Joel. She couldn't remember when she had first considered her wants. Every move, every party, every cultivated friendship in the picture colony—and even back in those six months in New York—had been made for Joel's comfort and Joel's advancement.

He hadn't been selfish accepting them. In his way, and his way had been sweet, he had repaid her over and over again with his immediate acceptance of whatever she suggested with his little devotions and his expensive gifts.

Joel would not now deny her what she wanted more than anything else in the world.

"Darling," she said. "I think I remember now where Harriet got the idea. I did say something about all of us—the girls I mean—having children some day. I didn't mean that I was, but I want to. Please Joel, let's have a baby! We can afford it now!"

Joel flung his collar and tie on her chaise longue.

"That's what you think! We can't! Wertsen sent for me as soon as I got in this morning and flung that column in my face. He laid down the law. No babies for the time being! He's grooming me for the biggest box office draw in picture history. Your husband, Mrs. Paynter, is the popular American lover. No domestic notes at this time, please!"

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HOT TIME

Uncle Wiggily pushed on the auto brakes so hard he nearly went through the windshield in coming to a stop when he heard the trouble noise.

"That's a blowout, sure!" said the rabbit gentleman as he got ready to hop out and look to see which bologna sausage tire had gone bad on him. "I guess I used too much red pepper that time."

Uncle Wiggily, as I told you last night, had started to get new tires for his auto to replace the shot ones of bologna sausage that had been patched many times with bits of liverwurst and salami. He was speeding, by sprinkling red pepper on his tires, when something happened.

"Oh, dear!" said the rabbit gentleman to himself as he walked around his stalled car. "It's the left front tire. I told that garage dog he didn't put in a good piece of liverwurst the last time he patched that tire. Now I'm stuck, for my spare hasn't a bit of air in it."

Or Softer

He went around to the rear, hoping there might be a little air left in the spare, but it was as soft as a marshmallow candy.

"Anyhow," said Mr. Longears, it's more patched with pieces of Swiss cheese than any of the other tires. I couldn't get half way through the woods and over the fields with that. What am I to do? Guess I'll have to hop to the nearest garage and ask to be towed in."

He was looking again at the tire which had the blowout—the one that had made the trouble noise—when, all of a sudden, he heard another noise.

It was a biting, chewing, champing guzzling sort of noise. Then the rabbit gentleman heard a voice say:

"Take another bite, Bobbie. They're good! And there's nobody here to stop us. We can eat all we want. Bite again!"

"You're right, Foxie," said a second voice. "This is Uncle Wiggily's auto. I know it well. I see some of my teeth marks in this right rear tire where I took a bite last month."

"Yes, it's Uncle Wiggily's auto," said the Fox. "But where is he?"

"I don't know and I don't care," mewed the Bob Cat. "I'm too busy having a good time."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the Fox, taking another bite of the bologna sausage tire at a place where it was patched with liverwurst. "We are having good times. And won't Uncle Wiggily be surprised!"

What To Do?

"Ha! Maybe you'll be surprised, too," said the rabbit gentleman to himself. He was standing near the front of his car holding the can of red pepper in one paw. "Two Bad chaps—the Fox and the Bob Cat!" whispered Mr. Longears. "What am I to do?"

"Speaking of good times," went on the Fox, "do you remember, Bobbie, the old song "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight?' Ah, that was a song!"

"It was, indeed," mewed the Bob Cat. "A little slangy, perhaps, and one not to be sung in the best society, but a jolly tune. I'd sing it for you now if I didn't have my mouth full of Wiggy's sausage tires, which aren't half bad! Ha! Ha!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the Fox. "As soon as we finish eating we'll sing about a hot time."

"You needn't wait!" suddenly shouted Uncle Wiggily running to the back of the car with the red pepper. "You can start singing now or maybe you'd better howl! There! There! There!" He sprinkled red pepper in the faces, the eyes, the noses and the mouths of the Bad Chaps. The Fox howled. The Bob Cat howled. Then they both ran away, sneezing.

And if the umbrella will grow up so it doesn't have to be carried out every time it rains, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's clever trick.

DRIVE TO START ON FISH PIRATES

Extra Patrol Boats To Be Brought Into Lake Ontario

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 23 (A.P.). —Game Protector Charles B. Sandway said to-day an intensive drive would be started soon against "fish pirates" in Lake Ontario bays and the finger lakes district.

Sandway said illegal netting of fish for sale in the New York City markets has become "a major problem" in this section.

"As soon as spring brings favorable conditions," he announced, "night patrols will be increased and new boat equipment will be provided. A 22-foot motor sea skiff will be transferred here from the Albany district and at least half a dozen smaller boats will be assigned to the job."

Inspector Sandway explained that "fish pirates" may make as much as $300 from a single night's illegal haul of whitefish, pike, trout, lunge, perch or sturgeon.

He said no estimate of the actual number of market fishermen operating without licenses is available, but the illegal traffic takes "a sizeable toll" of game fish.

KATHERINE MINES EXPECTED SOON TO BEGIN OPERATING

Lead Proposition In Hastings County Regarded As Offering Good Prospects

MUCH WORK DONE

(Examiner Correspondence)

TWEED, Feb. 23.—With the production of lead and zinc falling behind and the experts of the same from Canada at a high level and the price of these commodities rising, the Katherine Lead Mines, of the Township of Lake, County of Hastings, situated about four and a half miles west of Millbridge station on the Canadian National Railways, promises to become an operating mine in the near future. The property consists of approximately 138.89 acres.

The ore is chiefly of galena in veins of calcite, with widths from one to twelve feet between walls of diorite, striking N 15 °W and a dip of 80 °E.

The shaft is located towards the north-east section of the property and an open trench of some 20 feet wide, with a depth of 20 to 40 feet, runs from 100 feet north of the shaft to about 150 feet in a southerly direction. At this point a trench was cut at right angles east and west for some 100 feet and on the east side a pit was sunk 15 feet x 15 feet to a depth of 14 feet. At a later date some twenty-three 1000 feet south of the shaft in a south-easterly direction for some 75 feet and another northerly for some 200 feet was also done and in all cases calcite can be seen.

Vein of Calcite

The vein of calcite on which the shaft was sunk can be traced in a south-easterly direction, for 1,500 feet and in the north-east and north-west direction, the vein, from outcroppings shown a feature. A vein three-quarters of a mile from the shaft can be seen from outcroppings for some 2,000 feet, but owing to the snow covering the property, it is not possible at the present time to say if this is the same vein of a parallel one. On this vein a pit was sunk some 18 x 12 feet to a depth of 16 feet and exposed twelve small veins of calcite running north and south and a vein some ten feet in width running at right angles east and west. This vein is also heavily mineralized. Samples of galena removed from the walls of pit weighing 8 to 10 pounds and over full width of veins would show about 15% galena. This galena assayed from 65% lead and a trace of silver.

After diamond-drilling was completed on the property the underground workings were inspected and samples were taken as follows:

The shaft was sunk on the first mentioned trench starting at a station about 120 feet on an incline of 60° easterly. At the 100 foot station drifts were made in a northerly direction for 100 feet, and in a southerly direction for 70 feet. The shaft was timbered or cribbed vertically from the 47-foot station to the surface level and backfilled around with loose rock from the shaft cut.

Two Compartments

The shaft has two compartments 7 x 7 feet to the 47-foot level and then the northerly compartment with the laddervay veers over to a width of three feet to station 86.5 feet and continues to bottom as one compartment about 7 x 12 feet and for the last twelve feet widens to the south to a total width of 17 feet. The drifts were started about 18 feet eastern of the centre line of the base of shaft.

Twelve feet along the northerly drift on the westerly side a stope of 30 feet long, 14 feet wide, and 33 feet high was cut and a short cross cut started on the 85-foot level from the back of the stope running in a westerly direction some 20 feet, from which a large block of galena was removed, traces still showing on side walls. In both drifts the vein of calcite was followed. The face of the drift walls still show large blocks of galena imbedded in a coarse calcite and left unscaled. Some of these samples were removed weighing from 40 to 85 lbs. At the north end of the northerly drift the calcite vein is about 12 inches in width while at the south end of the southerly drift the calcite vein is about 28 inches wide and very heavily mineralized.

Encouraging Samples

On the east wall some samples taken at this point were very large in area, one piece weighing 168 lbs., about 36 inches in width and having a thickness of 9 inches at base to 3 inches at the top. Both the top and the bottom of the slab continued into the ceiling and the floor and a much large block could have been removed. Samples taken across the full width of the vein about 28 inches at the end of the south drift show 26% galena. This sampling did not include any of the heavy shabbing of solid galena on east wall. Assayed galena 85% lead.

To date very little zinc blende is showing and no samples were taken. One sample of calcite containing about 41% galena showed a trace of silver and 63% lead. Other samples now undergoing assay with the Canada Metal Company Limited will be ready in the near future. There is a small amount of track left in on the northerly drift, the south drift having track to within the last 10 feet. Most of the timbering was removed from the north drift and used to timber the south drift where work was in progress at the time the mine was closed down. The timbering throughout is very poorly constructed and all new work would be required. The wall and ceiling of the drifts are in good solid condition. The shaft is not timbered below the 47-foot station.

Great Possibilities

An inspection of both surface and underground sections of the property show great possibilities with ore body at the end of the south drift indicating the best showing for immediate working and should produce at least 15 to 20 tons of cobbed galena per day and the later drifting on a larger scale should produce a much larger tonnage per day. Although a considerable tonnage of high grade ore has already been removed very little work on the ore body above the drift level has been done and a good tonnage from this source is in sight.

The property undoubtedly warrants the present expenditures being made and it is hoped that this mine will go into production in the near future.

With the addition of this mine as a producer would greatly improve the status of this county as a diversified mining country with the numerous mines at present in operation, including slate, talc and gold mining being carried on in the central part of Hastings County.

Windsor Controller Opposes Coronation

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 23

CONTROLLER Olive Jane Whyte at a board of control meeting today said she would be "quite satisfied" if no money was spent on a civic celebration to mark the coronation of King George VI May 12.

"And you a loyal subject," Mayor E. S. Wigle said. "You might never see another coronation."

"I hope I don't," Miss Whyte said.

PROTECTION NETS MONTREAL GANGS $1,250,000 YEAR

Wholesale Stealing Of Elections Is One Of Major Clean-Up Goals

SPECIAL CRIME SQUAD

MONTREAL, Feb. 23 — (C.P.) — Racket-ridden Montreal had it from J. J. Penverne to-day that this city's criminals work within the bulwark of a $1,250,000-a-year protection fund and that Mayor J. Adhemar Raynault is out to clean them up.

Grimly determined to "let the chips fall where they may," the Mayor will send his forthcoming rackets and vice inquiry into every form of organized crime, Penverne said last night as he came back from a Raynault-ordered survey of the noted Dewey probe in New York.

Montreal's war on the racketeers and vice overlords is to be waged on the model laid down by Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey, Penverne indicated. A staff of special investigators, probably under Penverne himself, will first go after gambling, disorderly houses, alcohol-runners, and what the lawyer calls "wholesale stealing of elections."

The election "steals," according to Penverne, are delivered by criminals as one of their services for protection.

Many Other Forms.

Other forms of crime to be investigated include a variety from social welfare frauds to loan sharks and other business crooks.

Penverne has estimated that, apart from the $1,250,000 protection money figure, these and other rackets are milking Montreal's 1,000,000 people at the rate of around $200,000,000 a year.

"And it will get worse if we don't get at the start," he declared. It was proposed, he said, to send specialists after specialized crime with a force that would be somewhat distinct from the police and "wholly separated from politics."

The lawyer will report this week to Mayor Raynault on his New York visit, and it is expected the investigation will be launched in a month or so.

CHEESEMAKERS PLANNING FAIR

Belleville Association Arranges List For Second Annual Exhibition

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 23.—With the idea of making Belleville a Dominion cheese exhibiting centre, members of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers Association decided on Saturday to make its second annual exhibition next December bigger and better in all ways. The first exhibition was staged in the City Hall here last December and attracted much favorable comment, and entries from all parts of Ontario.

The exhibition will be held on December 7 and 8 and it was decided to allow entries from any part of the Dominion. A prize list of more than $1,200 will be competed for.

"We are hoping to establish Belleville firmly as a leading Dominion cheese centre," J. L. Irwin, Dominion dairy grade, said, "and the association hopes to make the exhibition an annual event. Cheesemakers from the entire Dominion will be invited to attend, to get more uniform ideas regarding cheesemaking. The exhibition will also give the general public more information about the cheese industry.

"Another important objective," Mr. Irwin stated, "is to create in the United Kingdom the impression that efforts are being made in Canada to produce better products."

J. M. Wilkinson, of Tweed, presided over the meeting on Saturday. Co-operation of Belleville officials was commended by the members of the association in staging the event last year.

SIDNEY E. BUDGE DIES IN PORT HOPE

Merchant's Death Takes Place Suddenly Shortly After Closing Up

PORT HOPE, Feb. 23.—Sidney S. Budge was the victim of a heart attack early Sunday just after he had returned after closing his men's wear store on Walton St.

About six weeks ago Mrs. Alfred Budge, a sister-in-law of the deceased, died in Regina and was brought to Port Hope for burial. A month ago, Victor, a brother, also died.

Six years ago another brother, Frederick, died under very much the same circumstances. He, too, had returned home after closing his store at the end of the day's business.

The funeral took place from St. Mark's Anglican church at 2.30 p.m. to-day. Interment was in Union cemetery.

Mr. Budge is survived by his widow and two sons, Read and Lloyd.

CONGREGATION IS DISBANDING

John Street Congregation, Belleville, Will Not Rebuild Edifice

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 23.—One of the oldest and most influential church congregations of the city held its last service Sunday morning with a large number attending. The congregation was that of John Street United Church. The service was held in St. Thomas Parish House.

The ninety-year-old church was almost totally destroyed by fire last October. Only recently did the congregation vote to disband, rather than undertake to rebuild the stone edifice.

A Presbyterian church before the union of churches, John Street Church exerted a great influence on the life of this community, and its passing is a source of deep regret.

Rev. Robert Hall was in charge of the concluding service, while in the afternoon Sunday school was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

OPENS SERVICE

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—(C.P.). — Service between Saint John and Japan on a monthly schedule was opened here by the M. V. Kano Maru.

MADOC

Mrs. C. N. Whytock has returned home from Toronto, where she attended the Agricultural Fairs Association convention held at the King Edward Hotel last week, as delegate from the Madoc Women's Institute.

Mrs. Ambrose Smith has returned home after spending two weeks in Belleville as the guest of her father, Mr. W. H. Brooks.

Mr. Miller Johnston, who was in Belleville General Hospital for an operation for appendicitis, has returned home and is able to walk down street, just one week later.

Death—Suddenly at his residence in Madoc village, on Thursday, February 17th, Clayton Ellis.

In Belleville on Saturday, February 13th, Mary Annetta Brown, widow of B. M. Richmond, aged 78 years, 5 months.

In Collingwood on Tuesday, February 16th, Miss Josephine Trotter.

COBOURG'S OLDEST CITIZEN IS DEAD

Sister Of Mr. Justice Riddell Dies In Her Ninety-Seventh Year

COBOURG, Feb. 23.—Mrs. Mary Ballagh, one of the town's oldest residents and a sister of Mr. Justice William Riddell, passed away at the home of her daughter here yesterday, following an illness of about a month. She would have been 97 this summer and had previously enjoyed good health. The funeral was held today with interment in Cobourg Union cemetery.

The late Mrs. Ballagh was born in Hamilton township, not far from Cobourg, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Riddell. She was married at Baltimore in 1869 by the late Rev. John Lang and lived in Port Hope with her husband until he died in 1877.

For many years she was a practical nurse in Cobourg and also took a keen interest in church work. She was a life member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. After church union, she became a member of Trinity United church W.M.S. and her zealous work accomplished much for that organization. In more recent years, she had been unable to take an active part in affairs and lived quietly with her daughter, Miss Esther Ballagh. Her hobby was embroidery.

She has two daughters, Mrs. L. Nesbitt of Bowden, Alta., and Miss Esther Ballagh at home and a son, Capt. Walter Ballagh, Vancouver. There are two brothers, Mr. Justice William Riddell, Toronto, and Dr. Walter Riddell, Vancouver.

COE HILL

Mr. George McCan is preparing his ice-cutter for movement to the city of Peterborough. He expects to cut an average of twelve hundred cakes per day.

Miss M. Harding returned recently from an extended visit to St. Catharines.

Miss Nellie Wicks has started work in a Stenburg grocery store.

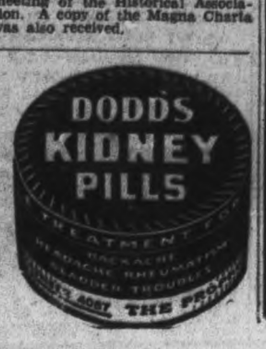
Mrs. George Mace visited Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parks who came from Owenbrook, for a brief visit.

The farewell service of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. R. Vatcher of the United Church was held on Sunday.

Mr. George Warrener is suffering a broken bone in his foot sustained when a log rolled on him. He is under the care of Dr. O. W. Anderson, Bancroft.

BICYCLE IN 1860

ANNAPOLIS ROYAL, N.S.—(CP) —A bicycle used in 1860 is one of the most recent acquisitions of the Fort Anne Museum, according to a report submitted at the quarterly meeting of the Historical Association. A copy of the Magna Charta was also received.



BANCROFT

SECOND CARNIVAL DRAWS BIG CROWD

Many Prizes Awarded In Colorful Event At Bancroft Rink

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Feb. 23—The second carnival of the season was held on the skating rink on Friday evening with a large crowd in attendance. A goodly number were in costume, either fancy or comic. Although the ice was soft and in poor condition for skating, the skaters seemingly spent an enjoyable evening.

The following prizes were awarded: Youngest girl on skates, Betty Brown; youngest boy on skates, Donald Shannick; best girl skater (under 16), Yvonne Watson; best boy skater, (under 16), Stewart Stringer; fancy couple, Alice McCormack and Yvonne Watson; comic couple, Marion Munroe and Marie McAlpine; best girl skater, Stella White; best boy skater, Cecil McAlpine; comic lady, Ruth Letts; obstacle race, 1, Jim McCaw; 2, Bill McAlpine; 3, Alan Joynt; fastest boy skater, 1, Cecil McAlpine; 2, Stewart Stringer; 3, Stanley Jeon.

The ladies of the W. I. of St. Paul's United Church held a very successful bean supper in the church basement on Friday. A dainty and delicious meal was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Jack Donaldson of Maynooth on Feb. 16th, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Millar of Bancroft held an auction sale of all their household effects on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Millar are moving to Northern Ontario in the near future.

Messrs. Earl Hawley and Lloyd Price returned from Toronto on Wednesday with a 1937 Plymouth automobile.

Mr. Ross Johnson of Wilberforce spent the week-end in Bancroft the guest of Mr. Donald Hatchard.

Miss Daly, of the teaching staff of Bancroft Public School, is absent from her duties, suffering an attack of influenza.

It is expected that about two hundred and fifty men will be employed in three camps in March for the completion of the "Faulkner" Belleville-Bancroft Highway.

Representatives of a Toronto syndicate recently secured options on marble deposits in Bancroft and surrounding districts, with a view to erecting a crushing plant in the village. If such an operation should go into effect, labor would be provided for a great number of men.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jones motored to Toronto on Sunday.

Howard Vance, who suffered a fractured leg some time ago, is able to be out a little now with the aid of crutches.

Mr. Wm. McCaw purchased a new Ford transport truck in Toronto, returning home with it on Wednesday.

Mr. Milton Brough is having a well driven on his property in the village at present.

Mrs. James Coe spent a few days last week in Bancroft the guest of her daughter, Mrs. James Coghlin.

Mrs. E. E. O'Neill returned last week from a month's visit with her sister, Miss Gladys Kennedy, R.N., in Toronto.

EXPLOSION ANNIVERSARY

SPRINGHILL, N.S.—(C.P.).—The 57th anniversary of Springhill's worst mining disaster in which 125 were killed, fell on Sunday, February 21. A monument in memory of the disaster in No. 1 colliery has been erected on Main street.

YOUNG'S POINT

Miss Matilda Moore, who is attending Business College in Lindsay, spent the week-end at her home in the village.

Mrs. Charlie Merrill was called to Oshawa on Thursday owing to the illness of her mother, Mrs. Smith.

Miss Margaret Young of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Young, at her home near the village.

Miss Edith Windrem, also Miss Norma Honey, both of Lindsay, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wilson, over the week-end.

Mr. Frank Walsh is able to be out again, after being laid up for some time owing to an accident from a fall on the ice.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave. Darling were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Young on Saturday evening.

LEASE DATED 1700

CHARLOTTETOWN — (C.P.). — W. B. McNeill has in his possession a deed dated 1803. He also possesses a lease of 240 acres dated 1700 when Prince Edward Island was known as the Island of St. John.

CHURCHES ENTERED BY THIEVES SUNDAY

Take Clothing And Cash While Belleville Citizens Worship

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 23.—Sneak thieves entered two Belleville churches during services Sunday morning, taking several articles of clothing.

At Tabernacle United church, thieves stole a pair of gloves from the pocket of an overcoat owned by Rev. I. B. Naylor, minister; a white silk scarf, property of Grant Maidens, Victoria St.; a brown overcoat and a pair of brown kid gloves of J. E. Kerr, Bleeker Ave.

At Bridge Street United church thieves went through the purses of several women, taking $9 from the purse of Mrs. Dr. G. P. Stoble, and a gray [illegible] coat. Police Sergt. Arthur Harman is investigating.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK by R. J. SCOTT

Research worker using apparatus for determining gas content of metals.

An eye to the future

Had telephone research ceased thirty years ago, the streets of our cities would today be literally darkened by a maze of telephone wires.

Had telephone invention and discovery been stopped twenty years ago, today's Dominion-wide telephone service would be only an inspiration.

Had telephone development ended ten years ago, international, world-wide telephone service would probably be only a dream.

Recent developments in equipment and methods have gone far toward ending the old "hang up and wait" long distance service. It is now "Hold the line, please" on nearly all calls, whether within the province or across the country.

Scores of other improvements, inventions, discoveries have come—are still coming—out of the laboratory and staff organizations of the Bell System. Without fanfare of trumpets these betterments are introduced into your telephone system. As the system grows, its usefulness to every telephone subscriber is increased — the scope of the service is enlarged for all.

EDWARD TO ACCEPT PENSION FROM ROYAL FAMILY

COUNCIL AIMS AT 37 MILLS AS 1937 RATE

City Trust Commission Be Asked To Turn Over Earnings On Reserve

WOULD DEMAND $60,000

Several Aldermen Would Reduce Present Reserve Of Commission To $150,000

Peterborough's tax rate this year was definitely focussed at 37 mills, as compared with 37.4 mills in 1936, by the finance committee of the city council Tuesday night.

Recommendation of the new rate to the council for adoption at the regular meeting next Monday night was deferred until the final committee meetings of the month next Friday night, pending the possibility of receiving from the City Trust Commission the earnings on the Commission's accumulated reserve of $221,000 estimated at approximately $13,000.

Alderman Gordon had proposed that the City Trust Commission be asked to pay into the city treasury the sum of $60,000 which, he said, would reduce the tax rate by three mills. His resolution was seconded by Alderman Wilson, and supported by Alderman Malcolm McIntyre, but the majority of the committee, all of whose members were present with Alderman Hamilton presiding, refused to try to force the Commission's hand, preferring to apply for the annual interest on the reserves.

Mayor Macdonald said that he and Alderman Hamilton had asked the Commission for a contribution of $20,000 as a means of reducing this year's tax rate, but they obtained the promise of only $5,000.

Would Demand $60,000.

In introducing his idea Alderman Gordon contended that the City Trust Commission were the trustees of the ratepayers' money, that present conditions special consideration for the property owners in obtaining help from any accessible source, and that the Commission had accumulated a sufficient reserve to warrant the council asking for $60,000 this year. He said that the Commission acquired funds to meet the interest and sinking fund required for retiring the city's debentures. Alderman Gordon also declared that the report presented by the Commission relating to their operations was not sufficiently detailed to show how its monies were earned.

Alderman Hamilton remarked that this question of turning to the City Trust Commission for help had been taken up in other years without effect. One of the principal duties of the Commission was to take charge of the money received from the council annually to pay the interest of four per cent on debentures and also their principal when various debentures matured. The Commission had not been getting four per cent on the money in their hands which they had the right to invest, and they took the position that if their reserve was depleted they would have to call upon the council to provide the funds which, as a result of such depletion, might be needed to meet debenture obligations.

Advice of E. H. D. Hall.

It was also stated as an assumption that the Commission was acting upon the advice of their solicitor, E. H. D. Hall.

Referring to Alderman Gordon's proposal, Mayor Macdonald suggested the council might be able to get from the Commission the annual earnings from their invested reserves.

"We are going through a period of stringency," Alderman Gordon

C.P.R. WILL SPEND OVER 20 MILLIONS ON NEW EQUIPMENT

50 Locomotives, 30 Passenger And Express Cars And 3,600 Freight On List

CONTRACTS ALL LET

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—(CP)—Expenditure of more than $20,000,000 for equipment in 1937 was announced today by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The building program includes 50 locomotives, 30 passenger and express cars, and 3,600 freight carriers of various types.

Contracts already have been let for the equipment and actual work in some cases has started, the railway announced.

Twenty locomotives of the "Jubilee" type are being constructed by the Canadian Locomotive Company, Kingston, Ont., and the other 30, for heavy passenger and fast freight service, by the Montreal Locomotive works.

Hamilton Gets Order.

National Steel Car Corporation, Hamilton, Ont., has received orders for 1,700 freight car units, comprising 1,100 box cars, 300 hopper steel cars of 50 tons capacity, 100 steel gondolas and 200 steel-drop-bottom gondolas.

Canadian Car and Foundry Company, Montreal, will build 1,700 box cars and 200 automobile cars. All 2,800 box cars are being designed to permit easy conversion to automobile carriers.

Construction will require most of the year in the shops affected, the company believes and use of Canadian material as far as possible, is indicated. British Columbia lumber will be used in large measure in the box car construction.

Semi-streamlined passenger coaches will be completed at the company's Angus shops in Montreal. Twenty-two of these cars are planned. The cars will have turtleback roofs, thermostatically controlled vapor heat, and ice-activated air conditioning. They will be 24 tons lighter than the standard steel coach. Seating arrangements are said to allow more leg room for the passenger. The windows have thermal sash and are draft-proof.

Schuschnigg Seen Forced Behind Monarchy To Block Old Austro-German Union Threat

INNSBRUCK, Austria, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Archduke Otto, young claimant to the Hapsburg throne of Austria, was reported to have stood on the Swiss border today and looked longingly toward his native land.

Otto accompanied his sister, the Archruchess Adelaide, to the frontier city of Buchs where they separated. She left for the Tyrol while Otto planned to motor to Lichtenstein by way of Davos.

Germany's Finger In the Pie.

VIENNA, Feb. 24—(AP)—Restoration of the Hapsburgs to the Austrian throne, admitted by officials to be a pressing question, engaged the attention of the national today as a result of two days of negotiations between Germany and Austria.

A communique issued after the departure last night of Konstantin Von Neurath, German foreign minister, did not mention the restoration, but many close observers believed it to have played an important part in his conversations with Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg.

Several persons were injured in street rioting between Nazis and members of the government party, the Fatherland Front, as crowds surged through police lines near the decorated station where Von Neurather entrained for Berlin.

Thirty persons were reported arrested after they clashed with police.

Although German objections to seeing a Hapsburg once again ruling in Austria were thought to have been the basis for yesterday's discussions, the communique said only:

1. A decision was reached to establish a committee on Austro-German cultural relations.

2. Recognition of the accord signed last July 11 was made the basis for "trusting and successful cooperation."

3. Harmony was established on

Winter Road Clubs Keep Highways Open, $25 Mile

Villages In Morrisburg Area Organize, Citizens Paying Two-Fifths

COUNTY COUNCIL BALANCE

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (CP)—Nearly 200 miles of roads were kept open this winter by newly-formed "winter roads clubs" which supervised the work, Reeve A. Flynn of Morrisburg told the annual meeting of the Ontario Goods Roads Association today. The system of snow clearance was established last fall.

Clubs formed by citizens of villages were responsible for payment of approximately two-fifths of the cost, county councils bearing the balance, Reeve Flynn explained. Clubs bargain with the contractor, supervise the work, collect local contributions and pay the contractor.

He estimated the average cost of keeping roads clear at $25 a mile of which the club raised $10 and the county paid $15.

Organizers Satisfied

"Local residents who have organized these clubs are enthusiastic and fully satisfied with results," the reeve said. "They see to it that the trucker gets out and keeps the roads open after every storm. Taxpayers who do not drive their cars are pleased with results for they have good sleighing roads and feel that taxpayers do not have to carry the whole cost."

Col. E. A. Adams of Picton, president of the association, told delegates the organization's objectives have not changed since its formation in 1894. They still are to stimulate interest in the subject of good roads and to promote educational, legislative and other measures to bring about improvement.

"There are still many problems to be studied," he said. "Is there now an equitable division of costs as between the motorist and the property owner?"

TEN LEFT HOMELESS BY DELHI BLAZE

Elderly Couple, Father, Mother, Six Children Forced To Flee In Night Attire

DELHI, Ont., Feb. 24 (CP).—Ten persons fled a frame house here early today as flames swept the place and gutted it. In night attire, they were given shelter by neighbors.

Mr. Kelly was awakened by the smell of smoke, and he roused his family and went into the other half of the house to awake Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins, who are elderly.

FOODSTUFFS ARE HIGHER IN PRICE

Twenty Per Cent. Increase In Some Lines In Past Few Weeks

The sharp upward trend in the prices of foodstuffs and household commodities is attributed by the manager of the local branch of a large firm of wholesale grocers to a short crop that was generally experienced in Canada and the United States last year, and to an increased demand on the part of the consumers with a return of improved conditions.

Remarking on the fact that canned vegetables and fruits have taken a price jump of 20 per cent., he declared it was because an increased demand for this type of goods came on top of a poor market and when there was a short pack resulting from poor crop conditions.

Dry Summer.

Results of the prolonged period of drought experienced last summer are perhaps more graphically illustrated by the fact that white beans have increased in price from 100 per cent. to 150 per cent., owing to an almost complete failure of this crop in Western Ontario last year.

Dust and sand storms in the wheat belt are reflected in the increase in grain and grain products. Flour has advanced 25 per cent.; cereals of all classes are up 10 per cent.; with corresponding increases in the price of all classes of goods with a flour content, such as biscuits, which have increased 25 per cent.

Some of the other items affected, as enumerated by the wholesalers, are as follows: Laundry and toilet soaps, 10 per cent.: shortening and lard, 15 per cent.; starch and syrups, 10 per cent.; sugar, 5 per cent.; teas and coffees, 5 per cent.; rice, 10 per cent.

SIXTY-DAY DEBT HOLIDAY CALLED OVER ALBERTA

Will Give Government Time To Straighten Entire Problem

MAY CUT PRINCIPAL

Possible 50 Per Cent. Reduction Hinted As Most Likely Method

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

EDMONTON, Feb. 24 (CP)—A 60-day debt moratorium was scheduled to go into operation in Alberta today to give the Aberhart government time to formulate a permanent debt policy. It will apply to private debts contracted before Jan. 1, 1936, with a long list of exemptions.

Premier Aberhart announced the moratorium last night when it was approved by the cabinet and caucus of Social Credit members but it will not become operative until the order-in-council is signed today by Chief Justice Horace Harvey, acting Lieutenant-Governor.

The debt holiday was the direct result of an Alberta Supreme Court decision last Friday outlawing the reduction and settlement of debts act under which private debts were scaled down and interest either eliminated or reduced. The court found it unconstitutional because it invaded the field of interest, a federal prerogative under the British North America Act.

In a general way, the moratorium will apply to all debts affected by the reduction and settlement of debts act, the exemption under the act being transferred to the moratorium.

It was reported the government would introduce legislation at the session opening Thursday to make a permanent attack against the debt problem of Alberta. The most likely method, it was reported, would be a reduction of debt principal, possibly 50 per cent.

Protection Essential

The order-in-council approved last night said "it is essential that protection should be given to all debtors coming within the provisions of the (Reduction and Settlement of Debts) Act until such time as the effect of the judgment can be given due consideration and the whole question of the reduction and settlement of debts can be considered by the Government."

The moratorium was enlarged to bar from the courts of Alberta disputes about debts affected by it. For the 60-day period, debts affected by the moratorium will remain in a legal status quo.

The moratorium has been rumored ever since the Debt Act was outlawed. It was reported after Mr. Justice W. C. Ives outlawed the Provincial Securities Interest Act yesterday the moratorium might be extended to include public debts, but this proved erroneous.

The Ives judgment found the Securities Act, under which interest rates were cut on Alberta bonds, savings certificates and guaranteed securities, unconstitutional because, like the debt legislation, it invaded the legislative field of interest. It was the second court rebuff to the Government in less than a week, but drew no comment from Premier Aberhart or any minister. It was reported the Ives judgment would be appealed.

The Social Credit caucus spent most of the day yesterday considering party problems and did not touch the moratorium order-in-council until evening. To-day it will start review of the government's legislative program.

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 24 (CP) — The public drives through Ontario Reformatory property without restrictions at all hours of the day and night, Sergeant A. Maguire today told the Judge James Madden inquiry at its final sitting after having met for 19 days.

"As many as 50 have come as visitors at one time from the Ontario Agricultural College here and I have seen five bus loads of people, about 300 altogether, visit here in one place," said Sergeant Maguire, advocating that visitors be kept out after sunset and that fewer curiosity seekers be permitted.

The reformatory has been overcrowded since 1925, Sergeant Maguire said. "There were 810 prisoners here a few years ago and in addition 110 criminally-insane," he said. "We had to place beds out in corridors."

Sergeant Maguire locked three agitators in the tower, but released them when other prisoners continued shouting, during the Jan. 17 riot. He denied he had freed them because of prisoners' outcries and

Plan Is Reported To Baldwin By Moncton After Trip To Vienna

ABOUT $100,000 A YEAR

Queen Mary, King George, Princess Royal, Gloucester, Kent All To Help

LONDON, Feb. 4. —(CP)— The Havas News Agency reported today that Sir Walter Monckton, attorney general for the Duchy of Cornwall has informed Prime Minister Baldwin the Duke of Windsor has agreed to accept a yearly pension from his immediate family.

Under the plan Queen Mary, King George, and the former king's other brothers and Princess Mary would contribute to the pension in proportion as they benefitted from King George V's will. Havas said the exact amount of the annual pension has not been disclosed but authoritative reports fix it at about $100,000.

The agency also said Sir Walter is understood to have conveyed to Mr. Baldwin the Duke's intention of marrying Mrs. Wallis Simpson in an Anglican ceremony in Vienna. Sir Walter returned yesterday from a week-end visit to the Duke in Austria.

TORONTO OFFICIAL BINGO SUPPORTER

Mayor Thinks It "Dandy" — Three Crown Attorneys Refuse Comment

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—(CP).— Although Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck told the Ontario people just where the government stood on the Bingo question there are still some folk to-day who considered the game just the thing for a quiet evening.

After the Attorney General yesterday declared the game one of chance and illegal, a number of Crown Attorneys decided to remain silent on the big question, for the time being at least.

There was one man who came to bat for Bingo, however. He was Controller Fred Hamilton of Toronto, who revealed he indulged, and Mayor W. D. Robbins of Toronto, also was guilty of attending a Bingo party. The Controller plans to ask the Board of Control to-day for suspension of the police campaign against the game.

It was a raid on a Bingo game in Toronto which started the Attorney General's anti-Bingo campaign. Controler Hamilton found the game "a pleasant way of passing the evening." He wants the police to leave the players alone as long as the proceeds are going to churches, charitable and veterans' organizations.

Nothing Objectionable

"I have played the game several times and see nothing objectionable about it," said the controller. "It may technically violate the criminal code but it does not strike me as rambling, particularly as the games are conducted by churches and veterans' organizations."

The mayor told the controller he played the game at a church meeting and considered it "a dandy game."

No comment was forthcoming from three Crown Attorneys questioned. They were E. A. Tilley of North Bay; J. L. O'Flynn of Sault Ste. Marie and James Allan of Essex County. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., of Peterborough, however, said he hadn't heard of the game being played in his district. He knew it was the craze in other parts though.

"I do not think such a situation exists in any part of Peterborough city or county," he said. "At least, I have not heard of any games of bingo that are being operated," he promised to "clamp down" if they appeared.

Wouldn't Ask The Dominions Help Pay King Says Baldwin

House Applauds As Premier States He Does Not Think Idea Proper

MATTER FOR THEMSELVES

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 24 (C.P. Cable).—Prime Minister Baldwin does not think it proper that the Dominions should be approached to see whether they would welcome an opportunity of contributing to the Civil List, which makes financial provision for the Royal Family.

Captain Arthur Evans, Conservative, raised the point in the House of Commons this afternoon with the following question to the Prime Minister:

"If, in view of altered circumstances and the consequent new form of Coronation oath to be taken in conformity with the Statute of Westminster, the Government of the United Kingdom will consult with His Majesty's Governments in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa to ascertain whether they would welcome an opportunity of contributing to the Civil List, shortly to be considered by Parliament."

The Prime Minister: "No, sir. I should not regard it as proper that His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom should approach His Majesty's Governments in the Dominions in the manner suggested."

Applause greeted the reply. Evans put another question. Did the Prime Minister not feel, he asked, that each Dominion would welcome the opportunity of contributing. Further, he asked, had any conversations, formal or informal, taken place on this matter during the last two years.

"In regard to the second part of the question," Baldwin replied, "I should require notice. In regard to the first part, it is a matter for the Dominions, not for me."

Transatlantic Seaplane Base At New York, Cost $3,500,000

GROUND COSTS $1,500,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (CP)—An international seaplane base for the transatlantic air service to be established by Imperial Airways and Pan-American Airways will be constructed at North Beach Airport, Queens, Long Island, the New York Herald Tribune announced today.

The federal government has earmarked $3,500,00, the newspaper said for the extensive alternations necessary to convert the airport into one of the world's major air bases. Details of the scheme will be made public in a week, it said.

Negotiations have long been in progress between New York city and Pan-American, and the Tribune quoted city officials to the effect that the efforts of Mayor E. H. Laguardia have at last been successful. The city will provide $1,500,000 for purchase of the site, which it now rents from an aviation company.

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—East Hastings's boy mental patient who is so sorely "afflicted that he has to be chained to an apple tree in summer and to the leg of a table in winter" is to be admitted at last to an Ontario hospital for treatment.

More than two months have elapsed since the boy's case was made more or less of a local issue in the East Hastings by-election campaign, but it was only yesterday after much of the bitter feeling of the election had been revived momentarily on the floor of the Legislature—that adequate care for the child was assured.

"Will you give me your word that the boy will be taken care of, if Dr. Doyle (Government health clinic) makes out the necessary application?" asked Dr. Harold A. Welsh, Conservative, who won the East Hastings fight, who first revealed the deplorable condition of the child, and who then, and yesterday, was accused by Mr. Hepburn of "playing politics" at the expense of the youngster's affliction.

"Of course we'll take care of him," the Prime Minister shot back. "We would have admitted him a year ago, if you had made out the proper application, and had not waited to play politics with the case."

His First Battle.

The row—the first in which Dr. Welsh has figured since he came into the Provincial House, and a stiff one at that—developed during Mr. Hepburn's one-hour criticism of the 'discreditable tactics' employed by the Conservative party to win the by-election. Nothing had been more contemptible, said he, than Dr. Welsh's 'chained to an apple tree and table leg' charges. All Dr. Welsh had made them for he said, was to further his own political fortunes and to create at large the impression that the Government was not sympathetic in dealing with the sick and sickness. When, said he he had taken the trouble to get the Health Department files on Hastings County he had discovered that no application for hospital care of any kind had been made for the lad in question by Dr. Welsh or any other physician. "Why," said the Premier, "didn't the member for East Hastings do his duty instead of seek-

Printing Oratory Costs U.S. $173,000

Washington, Fib. 24 (AP)

MOST members of the United States Congress agreed today that Representative Sam Hobbs (D., Ala.) was asking altogether too much of them.

Hobbs proposed a drastic restriction upon the joy of seeing one's own oratory in free, official print.

Declaring there's too much buncombe in the bulky Congressional Record, he suggested it be closed to all extraneous matter, including speeches never delivered on the floor of either House.

Experts estimated the speech-printing privilege he wants to take away cost the Government $173,000 last year.

DUPLESSIS TAKES DROUIN PORTFOLIO

Premier Steps Into Breach After Land Ministers Eleventh Hour Split

QUEBEC, Feb. 23 (CP)—Its cabinet ranks closed after an 11th hour split, Quebec's Union Nationale Government goes before the legislature today for the second time in the history of the young administration that last year ended Liberalism's 39-year reign in this French province.

Opening of this 20th legislature's second session will see a full ministerial array to the right of the speaker. But for a time yesterday the cabinet was shy a man. The portfolio of lands and forests had become vacant by the resignation of Hon. Oscar Drouin in a cleavage over government policy.

His replacement by Premier Maurice Duplessis, already attorney-general, filled the breach within a few hours. It did not, though, settle the question of what side of the House the erstwhile ranking minister would sit on.

For up until last night, Drouin said, he was still undecided whether he would string along with the other 74 Union Nationale members or sit among his old Liberal political friends to Mr. Speaker's left. In the latter eventuality, he would be among 14 members, a scattering of the once-powerful party that Duplessis and his new group ousted from power last Aug. 17.

Drouin's break, largely over his conviction that the government should establish a state hydro-electric system, had been brewing for weeks. The situation came to a head Feb. 9 when he wrote the premier laying down the policies on which he wanted action, including steps to abolish the Upper House and prosecution of the "coal trust."

YOUTH REMANDED ON THEFT CHARGE

Caught In Lindsay Store With Allegedly Stolen Articles

LINDSAY, Feb. 24.—A Peterborough youth, named D. Peters, was remanded in the local police court yesterday on the charge of theft. It is alleged by the police that the accused visited Claxton's departmental store on Saturday and purchased a ten cent handkerchief. As the clerk turned away to get a sales coupon, which he later gave the customer, he noticed an article hanging from inside the youth's overcoat. On searching him it was found that he had four suits of pyjamas underneath the garment. A hole in the lining of the coat enabled him to hold the goods securely. It is understood that other goods has been missed from the store during the past week.

John Coles, of Galt, and who had been residing temporarily in Peterborough, will face a charge of criminal negligence before Magistrate Gee in the local court on Friday. This charge has been laid as a result of an accident on the Lindsay - Peterborough Highway, near Reaboro, on Friday, February 12, when a car containing a number of Lindsay curlers was forced into the ditch, it is alleged, when the car driven by the accused, crashed into the Lindsay car. Coles, it is claimed, was on the wrong side of the road.

The driver of a Bowmanville truck laden with ice, had a narrow escape from drowning on Lake Scugog a few evenings ago. The driver was in the act of driving off the lake with his load when the truck broke through. He jumped to safety, but the truck disappeared. A gang of men worked all night before the truck was raised, cutting a roadway sixty feet in length to allow the wrecking crew and derrick to raise the truck by cables and block and tackle.

WOUNDS TROUBLE POPE

Holy Father Said To Be Suffering Insomnia Again.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 24.—(AP).—Wounds on Pope Pius' leg, caused by the bursting of varicose veins during the early stage of his illness, were reported by informed Vatican sources to-day to be troubling the Pontiff.

These wounds have healed only superficially, these sources said, and at times show signs of re-opening.

The Holy Father was said to have suffered insomnia again last night.

CAMPBELLFORD

REV. S. C. PINNOCK IS GUEST SPEAKER

Tells St. John's Y.P.U. His Experiences In Africa As Missionary

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24.—"How to start off on an active missionary career" formed the subject of a very interesting address delivered before the Young People's Union of St. John's United Church at their weekly meeting on Monday night. Rev. S. C. Pinnock gave a very interesting account of his life and work in Africa during the 35 years he spent there as a missionary. Speaking of the customs of the natives, he explained that polygamy was the rule rather than the exception, and that he knew one native prince who had five hundred wives, some of whom were inherited like other chattels and others of his own choosing.

At the conclusion of the general business part of the meeting the social convenor, Miss Mazo Blake, took charge for the balance of the program, which consisted of a vocal solo by Mr. George Lucy; reading, Miss Nellie Hoover; piano duet, Misses May and Evelyn Stotts, and a reading from the League paper by Miss Mazo Blake.

A "short grand opera" formed the highlight of this portion of the program and formed a rather new innovation at the Young People's meeting. While Ruth Palliser read the story of the opera and Don Bennett, pianist, played the accompaniment, Eileen Hall, Don Holmes, Ron Hazel, Fred Palliser and Charles McKelvie did the vocalizing, which was much appreciated by the gathering.

Social Evening Held.

The weekly meeting of the St. Andrew's Young People's Society took the form of a social evening, which was arranged by the social convenor, Miss Reta Hutchinson. After the general business was discussed, the members played crokinole and entered in several very interesting contests, after which lunch was served.

The president, Frank Roe, reports that the progress of the play which the society is planning to present in the near future has been impeded due to illness of several of the members of the cast, who are down with the 'flu.

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Remedy at Home

Quick Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This well known recipe is used by many thousands of housewives, because they have found that it gives them a much more dependable remedy for distressing winter coughs. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its effect on throat membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of cough remedy, unusually quick-acting and dependable, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving quick, satisfying relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

How Amelia Earhart Plans To Fly Around World

Capt. Harry Manning — Map of proposed route of her westward flight

Amelia Earhart Putnam, tired of flying the Atlantic — she's done it twice — now plans to do something no one else has ever tried—to fly west around the world. According to her plans, she will start within a month from Oakland, Cal., and stop successively at Honolulu, Howland island, Lae in New Guinea, Darwin in North Australia, Dakar in Africa, Natal in Brazil and thence to Miami or through Mexico back to Oakland. Capt. Harry Manning, shown with Mrs. Putnam, inset ABOVE, will accompany the 'Lady Lindy' as navigator.

Ford Plans Model Community On Georgia's Ogeechee River

Building Manual Arts School, Car Parts Factory—Import No One

FINE FARMING AREA

WAYS, Ga., Feb. 24 (AP).—In this South Georgia community on the banks of the Ogeechee River, Henry Ford will carry to fruition his dream of an ideal industrial community surrounded by farms able to sustain it.

As part of his broad program for this little town 18 miles from Savannah, Georgia's chief seaport, the Detroit automobile manufacturer announced today an automobile parts factory will be erected.

"We'll have an industry here," he said. "A draftsman is at work now on preliminary plans. Automobile parts will be manufactured, but we haven't determined what kind. It all depends on what fits."

The plant will employ the people of this community which formerly knew farming, fishing and lumbering as its chief source of income, and will be closely affiliated with Ford's nearly completed manual arts school here.

"We will aim, as we do in our other plants, to have the proper proportion of people of all ages," said the manufacturer, whose winter home on nearby Richmond plantation was finished a few days ago.

"We don't have to import anybody either. Folks right here will have plenty of skill. Everybody will have a part in farming whether he owns a farm jointly or in his own name.

WILL LEAD CANADIANS

Col. Streight Named Commander of Contingent to Coronation.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24—(CP).—Col. J. E. L. Streight, Liberal House Member for West York, was nominated as the commander of Canada's contingent to the Coronation in May.

He was proposed by J. F. Poulliot (Lib., Temiscouta) who said the contingent should be headed by a member of the House of Commons who was in active service. Col. Streight's rank, his distinguished war record and his decorations commended him for the post, Mr. Poulliot said.

WINDSOR AND KENT MEET IN VIENNA

Have Long Intimate Chat "On Everything" In Hotel Lobby

VIENNA, Feb. 24 (A.P.). — The Duke of Windsor and his brother, the Duke of Kent, met to-day for the first time since Edward abdicated.

The young brother rushed up to the Duke of Windsor in the lobby of a hotel and grasped his hands affectionately. For a moment he held them in silence and then they withdrew for a long intimate chat.

"They touched on everything," an adjutant said afterward.

The Duke of Kent arrived alone, explaining his wife had already left Munich for London. He was in a hurry himself, he explained, and said he would probably remain only one day.

The Duke of Windsor had hurried back to Vienna after a visit to his old friends, Count and Countess Paul Muenster, at Noetsch in Carinthia.

G-MEN STEP INTO MURDER MYSTERY OF UNION LEADER

Suspect Killers Hired In West As Trail Leads To St. Louis

CHECK ON TWELVE GUNS

HACKENSACK, N.J., Feb. 24. — (AP).—G-men joined detectives of two States to-day in efforts to solve the murder of R. Norman Redwood, ""Sandhog" union leader, as one local investigator said new developments caused suspicion the killers were "hired out of the west."

"I would not be surprised if the killers were hired out of the west," said Peter J. Siccardi, Bergent county police chief, as the murder gun trail led to St. Louis.

A gun which County Prosecutor John J. Breslin said was one of at least two used in the murder was sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in an attempt to raise two filed-off digits in the serial number.

Only 12 guns, Siccardi said, could have fitted into the number combination and 11 had tentatively been determined to be 'in good hands." The 12th, he said, was traced to a St. Louis hardware dealer who sold it in 1931. He sent St. Louis police a request to question the dealer.

Two members of a private crime detection bureau at Elizabeth, N.J., treated the murder gun with acid to bring out numbers which led investigators to trace it to the late police chief, Carroll Potter of Demarest, near here.

Their report collapsed, Siccardi said, when a gun with the serial number they reported was found in the possession of a State trooper who brought it to the court house.

Paris has opened a special hospital for street accidents.

Frisky Sunday School Class Tamed With Detective Story

Lad Of 16 Solves Problem By Reading Chapter Each Week

BAFFLED MANY OTHERS

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 24 (C.P.). — When it comes to "bossing" unruly Sunday School classes, a small portion of detective fiction helps considerably.

Before the Middlesex Presbytery of the United Church yesterday, Roy Belford, circulation manager of The New Outlook, official church publication, told of a 16-year-old youth who took over a class in a Toronto church after many others had given up the task. Success marked his work from the outset. Discipline was restored and the attendance grew.

An Emmanuel College student, investigating the matter, found the young teacher always ended his duties by reading the latest chapter of a serial by a prominent writer of detective yarns.

LINDBERGHS IN BOMBAY

They left Jodhpur Monday after a week-end spent in sightseeing in the Indian City. At the time of their take-off their destination was believed to be Delhi.

Absence of reports of their whereabouts caused no official anxiety, as Lindbergh's dislike of publicity is well known and respected.

Australia Off Map To This Veteran

London, Feb. 24 (CP)

THE official who showed their Majesties a relief map of the world at the British Industries Fair was a Canadian war veteran who apparently remembered something of the rivalry between the Australian and Canadian forces in the Great War.

"Let us see the Empire," said the Queen.

The official complied.

"But where is Australia?" asked the King.

"Oh—that is around the corner—just off the map," replied the official.

HOUSE PASSES LAST OF DEFENCE 34 MILLION TOTAL

Government Not Being Swayed By C.C.F. Or Communists Says Lapointe

"QUINTS" BILL ADVANCES

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (C.P.) — Justice Minister Lapointe gave the Government's answer yesterday to critics of the 1937 defence appropriation of $34,000,000 when he declared that the administration would not be swayed from its purpose by what was said by members of the C.C.F. Party, "the Communist Party in Toronto, or some groups in my own province."

Shortly before the last item in the defence estimates had passed, over stubborn opposition led by members of the C.C.F. group and nearly a dozen French-Canadian members from Quebec, Mr. Lapointe entered the debate.

The fact that most of the amendments moved would leave the expenditure this year at the same level as last was admission that national defence was necessary. In that case, he asked, "Is it not proper that it should be at least a little efficient—a little effective?" The vote was around $13,000,000 greater than last year.

"On a question like this we cannot follow our own personal fancies," Mr. Lapointe said. "We have to take into account our responsibilities to our fellow-men in Canada. If, unfortunately, something happens in a certain emergency which my honorable friends say cannot happen, I could not justify myself to my conscience by saying that the honorable member for Winnipeg North Centre (J. S. Woodsworth) or the honorable member for Vancouver North (C. G. MacNeil) or the Communist Party of Toronto or some groups in my own province told me that we did not need it.

Doing Our Duty

"We would be responsible and we have to make provision and that is what we are doing at this time. We are doing our duty as members of the government and as members of parliament as God has given us the light to see it.

"I have heard somebody say 'these explanations are alright but my electors in the sixth range of some township will not understand that.' Mr. Chairman, we are not going to govern Canada on that basis. We are going to govern Canada in the straightforward, honest and fair way for the protection of our citizens."

Both Defence Minister Mackenzie and Mr. Lapointe took exception to what they described as the refusal of those opposing the defence estimates to accept the assurance of the Prime Minister and his colleagues that every cent of these estimates were to be spent in the defence of Canada within Canada and not for sending Canadian forces abroad. Mr. Mackenzie renewed that assurance.

When Mr. MacNeil and Mr. Woodsworth continued to suggest that the preparations outlined by the minister, including expenditures for such weapons as bombing planes indicated clearly that offensive warfare was contemplated, Mr. Lapointe created a storm when he declared 'honorable gentlemen say this when they know it is not true."

Debate Warms

Mr. Woodsworth demanded, on point of order, that the justice minister withdraw his charge. Deputy speaker Sanderson ruled there was no point of order and Mr. Woodsworth appealed from the ruling but refused to make his appeal in writing. While accusations and denials flew thick and fast across the floor of the House Mr. Lapointe settled the argument by assuring Mr. Woodsworth he was not "imputing motives." That satisfied the C.C.F. leader and the incident passed.

Some progress was made later in the evening with pensions estimates and during the hour devoted to private bills two important measures were dealt with. A bill to vest in the guardians of the Dionne quintuplets for trade-mark purposes the word "Quins," "Quints" and "Quintuplets" was given second reading and sent to the committee on private bills.

Ross Gray (Lib. Lambton West) sponsored the bill which will now be discussed in the committee on private bills.

Application had been received at the patents office from a United States firm for registration of these words as a trade mark for the manufacture of a wide variety of goods ranging from baby bloomers to gun, he said. It was apparent that the application would have to be granted unless some action was taken such as proposed in the bill.

If the measure passes the three words will be the sole property of the Dionne guardians for commercial purposes, with power to license the use of them.

B.C. Divorce Bill Passes

A measure introduced by Howard Green (Cons., Vancouver South) providing for an appeal to the British Columbia Appeal Court on divorce decisions passed all stages without debate.

The House passed the vote of $197,000 for the expenses of the composite contingent which will represent Canada at the coronation, with some objection from Mr. Woodsworth who objected to a military display when there was so much want in Canada.

Mr. Mackenzie said the contingent would be composed of 70 officers and 264 other ranks carefully selected from all parts of Canada and largely from the ranks of militia units. Mr. Mackenzie King told a questioner that within a week the government expected to be in possession with all details of the coronation plans, including the cost of seats that would be available to visitors along the line of the procession.

It was time the drab khaki uniform was cast into the discard, Ross MacDonald (Lib. Brantford) said. It was unattractive and inspired no enthusiasm in the youth of the country. The whole militia, including the non-permanent air force should be provided with attractive distinctive regimental uniforms. The only attractive service uniforms now in use were those of the kilted highland regiments.

Too little attention was paid to the men in the ranks in the militia, Mr. MacDonald believed. The officers had their mess quarters in every armory but the men had no place to gather with their friends after a parade. They should be provided with suitable quarters as well as attractive uniforms.

Fine Fliers in Brantford

In Brantford, Mr. MacDonald said, there was a fine group of young aviators who could be organized into a squadron of the non-permanent air force. He asked the minister to keep that city in mind when establishing new squadrons. He also said one of the city's two armories was dilapidated and unsuited for the purpose.

Col. D. G. Ross (Lib. Middlesex East), congratulated the minister on the manner in which he had presented the estimates and explained the reasons for increasing the vote. Offensive warfare had largely moved from the land and water to the air. That meant bombing from the air for which no successful defence had been found. The only useful defence was indirect. It was the fear of retaliation.

If a country knew that while its planes were away attacking an enemy city, its own cities were certain to come under air bombardment, there would be some measure of mutual defence or prevention, Col. Ross said. War preparations as at present carried out were likely to defeat their own purposes.

Challenges MacNeil.

Paul Martin (Lib., Essex East) declared Mr. MacNeil had made a "most serious charge" in view of the assurance given by the Prime Minister and his colleagues that all war-like preparations were solely for the protection of Canada. If the votes were for offensive purposes he would not support them. He challenged Mr. MacNeil to prove his charge. The Vancouver member said his opinion was based on the fact that the proposed expenditures were for offensive weapons.

N. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar) also saw offensive plans in the air force vote.

"Who," we asked, "is Canada preparing to attack? Who are we protecting ourselves from?"

"Who are you protecting yourself from when you lock your door?" asked Vincent Dupuis (Lib., Chambley-Rouville).

"From a robber who may be in that vicinity," Mr. Coldwell replied.

"Name him," came from several members.

Mr. Coldwell said he would like to know what "robber" the Department of National Defence was arming against.

R. J. Deachman (Lib., Huron North) said he would like to know what "robber" the Department of National Defence was arming against.

Mr. Coldwell said he would like to North) said the House should face realities and not listen to Mr. Coldwell's suggestion. The only defences Canada needed were gas masks, fire hose and bunk holes. At the outbreak of the last war in 1914 the German cruiser Emden broke loose and destroyed hundreds of tons of British shipping. There was nothing to prevent the Emden sailing into Vancouver and Victoria and destroying ports and ships, except a couple of Japanese warships which happened to be nearby.

The same thing might happen again, he said. Canadian ports should not be left without protection. The C.C.F. members voted for the same defence expenditures as last year. They were in favor of defence but opposed to efficient defence. They were in favor of fighting but of fighting with wooden guns.

Today will be devoted to private member resolutions and will be the last day of the session on which private members will have priority. The Prime Minister made the necessary motion, taking away entirely private member days for the balance of the session.

Dead 5 Minutes

Theodore Prinz of Aberdeen, Wash., knows what death is like. He "died"—but was revived by hypodermic injections of adrenalin. Prinz was injured in an automobile accident. Rushed to the hospital he "died" on the operating table. Physicians say he was "dead" more than five minutes before he was revived. Of death, Prinz says, "The shadow of the valley of death is a soft, dark place and a man floats in a calm and sweet contentment without fear or dread or regrets."

EMIGRATION TO CANADA?

LONDON. — Sir Patrick Hannon, Conservative, asked in the House of Commons yesterday whether any organized effort was being made in Central Europe to encourage emigration to the British Dominions.

Malcolm MacDonald, Dominions Secretary: "I am not aware that any government in Central Europe organizes emigration of its nationals to the British Dominions or provides a special subsidy for that purpose."

SAFETY SUBWAY.

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (C.P.)—Construction of a safety subway to eliminate an intersection north of Port Credit, 17 miles west of here, on the new Toronto-Niagara Falls Highway, will be started probably in May, R. M. Smith, Deputy-Minister of Highways, said to-day.

From 75 to 100 men will be employed on the subway job, Mr. Smith said.

ORANGE LODGE PROTESTS BAN

R. C. Darling Is Elected County Master Of Peterborough West Orange Lodge

RESOLUTION PASSED

In a resolution, copies of which have been forwarded to the Right Honorable William Lyon Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada; the Federal Minister of Transport; the managing director of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the press, the members of the Loyal Orange Lodge County of West Peterborough, make emphatic protest against alleged curtailment of the rights of free speech to clergymen of any religious beliefs, or others, who feel they have messages of religious instruction.

The resolution claims that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has exercised a rigid censorship of religious messages and has denied to the Protestant Radio League the same rights to freedom of speech that is generally accorded to religious denominations.

Passed at the recent annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge with Worshipful County Master R. C. Darling in the chair, the resolution was worded as follows:

"That whereas the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation have seen fit to deny to the Protestant Radio League, the same rights to freedom of speech as is generally accorded to religious denominations in this Dominion, and whereas, Rev. Morris Zeidman of the Protestant Radio League, has been forced to submit his address to the C.B.C. to be censored previous to giving them over the air, and whereas Freedom of Speech has always been looked upon as the inherent right of every British subject—Therefore it is resolved that:—We the members of the Loyal Orange County Lodge of West Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario, do most emphatically protest against the curtailment of the rights of Free Speech to clergymen of any religious beliefs, or others, who feel they have a message to convey to those, who in any measure rely upon the use of the radio as a medium of religious instruction, and we do hereby call upon the C.B.C. to lift the ban upon the broadcasting of religious messages without censorship at once, and we are further of opinion that if the C.B.C. are really in earnest in their desire to weld together the different races and creeds in this Dominion that the broadcasting of programmes in the French language over stations in English speaking provinces in this Dominion should also be withdrawn, and that programmes of a strictly British and Canadian flavor be used in their stead.

"We are further of the opinion that the few minutes set apart on Sunday evenings for a short discussion of international affairs by Dr. H. L. Stewart of Halifax should be advanced to a somewhat earlier hour if possible, rather than being set back to 6.45 p.m. as is announced for next Sunday, February 7th in order that Church-going citizens might avail themselves of this highly important and educative feature without having to miss the hour of evening worship."

Officers of the Lodge for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Worshipful County Master R. C. Darling; Deputy County Master M. Dunlop; Chaplain W. Butcher; Recording Secretary A. L. Pilling; Deputy Record Secretary M. Holden; County Marshal A. Millen; Treasurer F. Kitney; Financial Secretary Bert Lockington; First Lecturer S. Higgins; Deputy Lecturer J. Wilson.

The first cigarette NEWS for over 40 years . . . .

Here's news for all cigarette smokers! The famous du Maurier Virginia cigarettes, with the exclusive Filter Tip, are here! Originated in England . . . now acclaimed throughout the world as the greatest contribution ever made to smoking pleasure.

du Maurier Filter Tip Virginias are news . . . bringing to the world the pleasure of Filtered Smoke . . . the richness, mildness and mellowness of specially selected, ripe Virginia tobacco,—smoking refined to a new degree of delightfulness.

The du Maurier Filter Tip brings out new secrets of tobacco flavour and fragrance . . . because the Filter Tip stops all irritants before they reach your lips.

And the proof? Light a du Maurier . . . revel in the utter contentment there is in Filtered Smoke.

Lancet says:

"We have tested these cigarettes and find them to be cooler and less irritating than ordinary cigarettes of good quality without the Filter Tip."

Not The Original Plan

While there is much in the testimony of prisoners at Guelph that we would take only with the proverbial grain of salt we are inclined to believe the story of the inmate who told the probing judge the other day that young prisoners are being tutored in crime by the older offenders with whom they are thrown into contact in the reformatory.

That condition seems to be a glaring weakness of our whole penal system and by completely changing the character of the Bowmanville boys school the Hepburn government has brought into effect a sort of primary schooling in criminal ways that is carried on up through the reformatory until the final stages in the education of a crook are completed in the penitentiary.

The Bowmanville institution was established to take care of wayward boys before they had actually drifted into the criminal path, before they had reached the stage of juvenile delinquency and on that basis service clubs made generous contributions toward the cost of the institution. Today the whole atmosphere is changed. The Government closed its industrial school where juvenile delinquents had been confined and moved these young offenders into the Bowmanville school and there the boys who were merely wayward and a little hard to handle at home come under the influence of the other lads who have started out on a career of crime and the breaking-down process is well underway. We have begun to make criminals in the very place that was established to keep boys from a criminal career.

The Weak Spot In It

The City Council of London, Ont., passed a resolution, and its text was a living wage for all men engaged in industry. In the discussion it was urged that men who work should be able to earn more money than when on relief, and with that there can be no argument.

The feeling was that the resolution should be sent to Ottawa, but it is known that the Privy Council has already ruled that minimum wages cannot be dealt with by Ottawa. It is something to which the provinces must attend, so the London resolution must be sent to the Ontario government.

And right there is the weak spot. There are a good many lines in which the chief competition Ontario has to face is from the province of Quebec, and if Ontario passes a wage law in excess of that which Quebec might regard as a decent standard for wages then manufacturers in Ontario are going to face difficult competition from Quebec. The intention of the aldermen in London is commendable, but the ultimate accomplishment of the purpose they have in mind is not going to be readily realized.

The Fund Should Pay

Ontario Court of Appeal has given its verdict on the "stork derby" clause of the will of the late Charles Vance Millar. The decision is that the will is valid and the mother to whom most legitimate children were born in a ten-year period wins the $500,000 award.

And that of course brings the whole matter before the public gaze once more, a place which it has occupied too many times and at too great a tendency to voluminous nastiness.

The city of Toronto has a claim of some $30,000 which it seeks to collect from the fund provided by the will because it has spent that much granting relief to the contestants. We hope that claim is pressed to the limit because it is a just one. The province should also see to it that all the children born in this contest are provided for. There can be no equity in a final judgment which hands payment to one party either in a lump sum or by way of a trust fund and leaves the province or any of the municipalities liable for unknown future expenditure on behalf of the public charges which the contest may have placed on the relief list.

If it were the intent of the will to provide some sort of a marathon then the will should be taxed to pay the charges of the contest. They should never be bundled over to the province.

How Nature Protests

Again there has been a flood story coming from the district served by the Grand River. Fergus and Elora seem to have had the worst of it, and there have been and will be again times when one could quite readily wade or walk across the river in summer.

It is not necessary to tell the people living in the watershed of the Grand River that swamps and low lands have been rather thoroughly drained out in recent years. They know all that. There are few natural reservoirs left to hold back any of the surplus water which falls now. Let all the water rush away at once, and particularly at a season when the ice is breaking and going down the river at the same time, and there are the ingredients of a good deal of trouble.

Nature is going to force people to do things the way Nature wants them done. It is going to be necessary to again place many trees in the land and start at the more serious business of restoring swamps. People will do these things not particularly because they want to, but because they are going to be pressed and forced to take such action. Nature has certain laws, orders and habits over which we cannot ride with safety.

Forcing the Newspapers

Representative Phillips of Connecticut has introduced a bill at Washington which would require any U. S. publication which prints criticism of any government agency or of any government official to publish any reply made by the criticized agency or individual.

This proposed bill would go farther and forbid delection or abridgement of "any matter from a public statement or communication of any kind" without indicating the omission had been made deliberately. Maximum punishment would be a fine of $500 and six months' imprisonment.

The Examiner believes the average newspaper would be quick to publish a statement from any man or agency of government if the paper had previously printed anything which was not correct or from which injury might arise. It would do so because it would want to and from a motive of fairness and justice.

But when it comes to forcing a newspaper to publish statements sent to it by those on the outside with no deletions or changes, then the right of a newspaper to govern material which it prints is being taken from it. It would be the same as making it imperative for a speaker to say what he had been told to say. There are a good many people who prepare statements for publication who do not know what can or should be printed or left out and decision regarding that must be left with the responsible editor of the newspaper. He has not only to protect his paper but very often he is called upon to protect the person who has presented material for publication. In this latter case he protects that individual by using the blue pencil, and for exercising that form of protection he is apt to receive much more abuse than gratitude.

"I'm Not a Bum"

A man who is pretty much down and out does not like to be called a "bum." There was a transient in the office here yesterday and he said so. Like many others he had a story to spin . . . had been across the continent twice . . . had slept in most of the police stations in Ontario, and a good many outside of this province. He was wearing clothes which people here and there had given him; he was seeking the price of a meal. And yet he claimed and insisted he was not a bum.

From an inside pocket there came a number of much-worn letters and papers, and in there was a photograph of two men in the uniform of the Canadian army. A finger which was soiled and none too steady pointed at one of the faces and said "That was me when I enlisted." It was difficult at first to look at the face of the transient and agree that the man in uniform was the same person. At the time of enlistment the picture showed a fine-looking young man, well-cut face, clean eyes and a squared-up chin. The man who carried with him that picture today does not look like that. In the years between much has gone out of him; he has the appearance of the "road" stamped on him. And yet he says he is not a bum. He passed over another picture, one of those small snapshots, showing a woman standing in front of a white house. "That," he said, "is my mother in front of a place we used to call home. I don't know who's living there now. I wish you could see better what my mother looked like. It doesn't show good there." And again the soiled and rather shaky finger pointed at the little picture, and the man on the road stated: "As long as I carry that picture I can't be a bum. I look like one and people say I am one, but I'm not a bum."

The transient said he was a painter by trade, but could not find any work. Right now he was thinking of going to some place he had in mind and building a little shack. Why? "Because I want to belong some place. For four years I haven't belonged any place. Perhaps if I had a little shack the police would not chase me out after I have been in town a couple of days and I might pick up enough to do to keep me living. Perhaps then people would not call me a bum."

Often enough it has been said it is a waste of time bothering with transients. Yet there was a man who was big and strong and not far removed from being handsome when he enlisted; he put in a good many years overseas, and today his unsteady finger finds some satisfaction in pointing at that picture and saying "That's me." He's a transient all right, but it is hard to combat his argument that he is not a bum.

Experts Do Not Agree

When W. A. Gluesing of the General Electric laboratory at Schenectedy was in Peterborough a short time ago he told a local audience that television was not just around the corner, unless that corner was a long way off. Many difficult problems had to be solved, particularly that of transmitting pictures fast enough by radio, before the thing would be commercially feasible.

We notice that this opinion of an American expert is not shared in Great Britain. Not long ago J. L. Baird, head of the Baird Television Company was presented with a medal by the International Faculty of Sciences for his contributions to the science of television and he said some interesting things in reply. For one thing he told his hearers that Britain definitely led in the service of television. "The B.B.C. television service is the only one in the world," he said "and we are the only country to possess a cinema with a television screen."

Mr. Baird admitted that processes were difficult but he predicted that in a very short time the price of television receivers would be substantially reduced and that in "not too long a time" television sets would be just as popular and as cheap as ordinary radio is today and all moving picture screens would be equipped with television screens.

There seems to be quite a spread between the views of Mr. Gluesing and those of Mr. Baird.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Of course Lindsay does not favor war but it would like the Government to reopen the arsenal in the Scugog town just in case.

A Jugoslavian, 97 years old has just married his eighteenth wife. His whole life must have been filled with the scent of orange blossoms.

Austrian designers have developed a gas mask equipped with a whistle and from that stage, unfortunately it is only an easy jump to rigging the things out with saxaphones.

Fifty hunters staging a rabbit drive near Fort Erie succeeded in bagging only twenty. It is evident we will have to look in some other quarter for Bisley material.

Separate prisons for different types of crime have been advocated and at least there should be some place particularly drab and dark for the hit-and-run motor drivers.

Up to the time of going to press there had been no applause from Mussolini over the announcement that Haile Selassie had been invited to send a representative of Ethiopia to the coronation.

It costs $4.43 a day to maintain a prisoner in the Collins Bay prison. The inmates there must have an orchestra playing during their meals or perhaps a cover charge is collected.

Manitoba Conservatives have assured the Bracken government of support in every reasonable way to maintain stability and that seems a very reasonable way of sizing up the existing political situation.

Angling is to start early in Ontario this season. The Public Accounts committee of the Legislature is to be called during the session and that will allow the opposition a chance to do a little fishing.

Guards in Sing Sing prison have an average mentality of thirteen years while that of the convicts is six months older. It is a pity we are not informed as to the average mentality of those responsible for selecting the guards.

Hon. C. D. Howe says the Transport Bill is designed to avoid wasteful competition. It does not however eliminate that condition where it is seen at its worst, in the operation of Canada's railways.

THE FAST DRIVER

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Joe Step boasts much how he can drive, it's safe for him at sixty-five, he boasts to all the men; and if he's pressed for time he said, he likes to move and get ahead, why he'll do eighty then.

¶ I know how riding with him feels, he takes the corners on two wheels, I always feel a chill; Joe cuts in though he were a snake, when stuck will jam down on the brake, he says it's quite a thrill.

¶ Joe Step went down the highway fast, and every car he saw he passed, my how that boy could drive; he wound around the curves with skill, nor did he slacken on a hill, an even sixty-five.

¶ He sailed right through the village too, and cut a speckled hen in two, he likewise struck a pig; he knocked the leg clean off a calf, and cut a waddling duck in half, and dumped a farmer's rig.

¶ The village down the road got word, and folk therein were strangely stirred, and they were deep in thought; a ten-ton truck was there that day, they backed it straight across the way, and Joe was forced to stop.

¶ The man who lost the hen and duck, the man who's pig and calf were struck, they all were heard in turn; the bills were more than Joe could pay, and so they took his car away—yes, he had speed to burn.

Constitution Is A Living Thing

(From the Ottawa Journal)

CHANGES in the Coronation Oath to be taken by King George VI illustrate again the British capacity for change and compromise. Illus- also what a living thing is the British Constitution.

Up till the coronation of George V the Coronation Oath contained a quite otiose phrase. Besides their oaths to govern according to the law and to maintain the Protestant Reformed religion and the Church of England, British Sovereigns, ever since William and Mary, had been required to swear and subscribe to two declarations. One of these was to preserve the Presbyterian Church government in Scotland; and the other one ran: "The invocation or adoration of the Virgin Mary and the Sacrifice of the Mass as they are now used in the churches of Rome are superstitious and idolatrous."

Queen Victoria, who reserved her religious animosity for the Ritualists, was always scrupulous in what she said or did as regards Roman Catholis. But she was too young and inexperienced at the time of her accession to resist official words put into her mouth. King Edward, to whom it was agony to inflict hurt upon any of his subjects, and who detested any admixture of religion with politics, desired earnestly to delete the offending sentence from his pronouncement; but time was too short then to overcome difficulties which arose, and (according to Sir George Arthur, biographer of George V) he contented himself with uttering the words in so low a tone as to be quite inaudible.

With the first Parliament under George V, steps were taken by the Government to remove offence by pointing out that the Protestant Succession was triply fortified by the Bill of Rights, the Act of Settlement and the Coronation Oaths Act. King George was thus enabled to make the necessary Declaration in these terms:

"I do solemnly and sincerely in the presence of God, profess, testify and declare that I am a faithful member of the Protestant Reformed Church by law established in England, and I will, according to the true intent of the enactments which secure the Protestant Succession to the Throne of my Realm, uphold and maintain the said enactments, to the best of my powers, according to law."

Now, with the coronation of George VI the Coronation Oath is further amended. The portion dealing with religion will read:

"Will you to the utmost of your power maintain the laws of God and the true profession of the gospel? Will you to the utmost of your power maintain in the United Kingdom the Protestant Reformed Religion, established by law? And will you maintain and preserve inviolably the settlement of the Church of England and the doctrine, worship, discipline and government thereof as by law established in England, and will you preserve unto the bishops and clergy of England and to the churchmen there committed to their charge all such rights and privileges as by law do or shall appertain to them or any of them?"

In 1911 the words "in the United Kingdom" in the second sentence did not appear in the oath, nor was it made plain that the jurisdiction of the Church of England was limited. The intent of the changes is clearly to show that Protestantism is the State religion only in England, Scotland, Wales and North Ireland, and that the King's promise to "maintain" and "preserve" it has no application to Canada, Australia, South Africa, India and the Irish Free State.

Thus does the British Constitution, like liberty, broaden down "from precedent to precedent," demonstrate itself again as a living thing, adaptable to all changes and circumstances. It recalls Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech—one of the finest he ever made—in which he declared that "the British Constitution is not in any book or statute; it is in the history of England."

EMPTY ORPHANAGES.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

NOTICE was taken recently of what is quite an old story—the closing of many English prisons during the past 30 years and the part-empty state of many of those still in use. There is another social aspect of British life which is equally interesting. A social worker told a meeting in London the other day that there was very little need for orphanages now. Many had been done away with, and even some of the most heavily endowed are half empty.

Notwithstanding depression during the last seven or eight years the British working people are probably better off than they have ever been, and there are certainly more people at work than at any time since labor statistics were available. Another reason is the social services of the United Kingdom.

POLL TAX PLAN.

(Regina Leader-Post)

AN OLD plan of raising revenue the poll tax, is to receive consideration, by the Saskatchewan Legislature at the session getting under way. The report is that legislation will be introduced giving municipalities the right—if they care to use it—to levy an annual poll tax of $5 on all persons, male and female, on reaching the age of 21 who pay no other taxes.

The legislation, it is said, will confer the right to vote at municipal elections on those who pay the tax. Existing legislation gives cities the right to impose a $3 poll tax on males but carries no voting privileges with it.

A Bit of Nonsense

Philosophy

Livery Stable a Social Centre.

(From the Lethbridge Herald.)

IT'S A sad commentary on present-day prairie life to learn that Dr. Hunt, of Foremost, who ministers to the sick in the large "southeast" country, finds one of his greatest troubles in securing horses to carry him back and forth on his country calls. With roads all blocked and motor car transportation impossible there are not enough good driving teams in the country to furnish transportation. Shades of John Herron of Pincher Creek, who established the first horse ranch in South Alberta 50 years ago.

Time was when every small town had its livery stable almost before the town itself was established. It was the driving team and buckboard that showed more land seekers their new homes in South Alberta than all other means of transport combined. The livery stable in those days was a sort of social centre, immigration office and realty exchange. Those livery stables boasted real horses, teams that could trot at a fast clip for hours on end. That wasn't so very long ago, not much more than 20 years.

And now, in the middle of what was once the greatest horse ranching country in Canada, the country doctor cannot find a team of two to carry him about on his work. Perhaps we've been moving ahead just a bit too fast.

And may we here pay our tribute to men like Dr. Hunt who, in the face of almost insurmountable highway condition have labored day and night through the unprecedented storm period, using airplane sleighs and even the trusty saddle horse to make their calls and relieve the suffering of their patients. The country doctor deserves more than a mead of praise for his fine work this winter.

"Let Them All Come."

(From the Daily Overseas Mail.)

"LET 'Em All Come!" is what London is saying about the Coronation, which, by the way, is only three months off now.

Just hundreds of thousands of visitors are being prepared for. Five giant liners are due to arrive at Southampton from America alone during the three days before the ceremony. The Queen Mary (capable of carrying 2,000 people) and the Britannic (1,000) will reach England from New York on Sunday, May 9; the Berengaria (1,800) and the Bremen (2,000) are due on Monday, May 10; and the Paris (1,150), the very last liner to reach this country in time, will berth on Tuesday, May 11. The Coronation is on the 12th. These five liners—in which it is already difficult to get berths—will probable bring to London something like 7,500 passengers. To these add the arrival in the previous week of another batch of great ships, chief of them the Normandie, which is likely to bring at least another 2,000. Never in history have close on 10,000 people from the United States landed in Britain within a matter of ten days.

Although there may not be as much luxury accommodation as some people might have wished for the great week, London is well capable of accommodating all the people who will arrive.

Much work is being done already towards the flood-lighting of London. The display will be even more lavish than it was for the Jubilee. Westminister alone is preparted to spend £25,000 on its Coronatioin programme, including elaborate street decorating and lighting schemes. One of the main changes, as compared with the Jubilee time, will be the illumination of Trafalgar-square. It is almost certain that Nelson's Column will be brightly lit, and buildings such as Canada House and South Africa House are sure to be. One suggestion of which we shall hear details shortly is for a procession of lighted barges on the Thames.

And, as for seats, tiers and tiers and rows and rows of them are going up in the parks. Quite a number of them will be reserved for visitors from overseas. It is nice to know that Empire timber is being exclusively used for these seats—mostly Canadian pine. Every day 400 workmen are at the job.

Houses At $14.12 a Month.

(From the St. Thomas Times-Journal.)

THE most interesting revelation during the housing debates in the House of Commons this week was that under the last government's Housing Act plans had now been approved for a model home with living room kitchen, bathroom, three bedrooms, basement and central heating which would cost $2,700 and be financed for $14.12 per month. Few homes require more than three bedrooms, and if extra visitors come, one or two members of the family can be accommodated in the living room on a studio couch or small bed.

Such a house is not only cheap in itself and well within the reach of ordinary working people's means, but it has the added advantage of being easy on taxes. It would seem as if in the past too many large houses had been built generally three or four bedrooms, a dining room as well as a living room, and probably a "den" for dad and a sun porch. Many people want these things and can afford them, but far more cannot. People have been forced into taking larger homes than they needed, either renting or buying, with consequent higher tax obligations. In recent years it has been almost impossible to buy a house for less than $5,000, and many up to $7,500. One reason why the real estate market had been so draggy is the lack of small homes suitable to reduced incomes. The average value of homes built under the Act so far is $4,800, and that is too much. Canada wants thousands of cheaper homes, and at $3.50 a week no man who thinks he holds a steady job need hold back from venturing to become the owner of his own home.

Side by side with the housing question is taxation. Home owners have had to struggle with their home payments and taxes and have been prevented from making necessaory repairs and from making improvements. Every effort should be made to retrench so as to bring taxes down, and the public will note with great satisfaction that the Ontario government plans to bring in a bill next session—or rather when the adjourned session resumes—to exempt home improvements from increased taxation. When a man makes his house a better one he should not be penalized by the municipality for doing it.

GLORIFYING GOSSIP.

(Ottawa Journal)

THE investigation into the recent riot in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph is being made the occasion for an orgy of gossip. Prisoners, identified in the news reports by letters only, are given a free hand to exploit their grievances, real or imaginary, and the real issues before the inquiry are being buried under a mass of petty complaints about food, parole, guards, discipline, and so on.

It is not strange, but rather the expected thing, that such complaints should be made, that prisoners eagerly should seize the opportunity of telling the world how badly they are used. The strange thing would be a prisoner content with his lot, prepared to agree that he was treated rather better than he deserved, contrasting his position—and to his advantage—with the plight of thousands of honest men who do not eat so well or so regularly.

PUBLICITY PAYS.

(Chatham News)

AT A recent meeting of the city council, the suggestion was made that the outcry against slot machines in this district was largely due to newspaper propaganda.

Isn't it a peculiar thing that in the last two prosecutions against slot machines in the courts, the young men involved admitted that they had stolen money in order to play the machines? In fact the actions against the slot machine owners were started when it was discovered in two theft cases that the money was taken for the purpose of patronizing the machines.

The Crown Attorney practically stumbled across this evidence against the slot machines, in the course of cross-examining defendants in the theft cases—and he didn't hesitate to take action against the operators of the machines. The great trouble is it is not always easy to get sufficient evidence to bring about convictions against slot machines—even though everyone knows they are being used as gambling devices.

Is it not time that newspapers were campaigning against slot machines—as practically every Ontario newspaper is doing at the present time?

RATHER CHEAP.

(Ottawa Journal)

WHY all this insistence in Parliament that the defence measures we are taking are "solely" for Canada's defence? They would be used, of course, if Canada were attacked. But wouldn't we be prepared to use them, to whatever extent we could, if Britain were attacked?

These measures, after all, are not adequate for Canada's defence. Were we to be attacked by a major power (and who else could attack us?) they couldn't begin to defend us. Yet while we all realize this, and while we know in our hearts that, in the event of such attack, we would look to Britain to defend us, or to the United States, or to both, we keep insisting that we are only preparing to defend ourselves. Isn't it a bit cheap?

Finance Committee of the city council decides that the tax rate will be 36.5 mills.

Mrs. Robert Harstone, president of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, is attending the annual convention of the provincial branch of the organization in Toronto.

Dr. S. B. Sinclair, provincial inspector of auxiliary classes, addresses the Peterborough Kiwanis Club.

To The Editor

THE POOR TAXPAYER

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Will you allow me a space in your valuable paper. I read in the paper about the increase that is going to be added to our taxes. I think it is a crying shame to add more to the burden of the taxpayer. As regards the teachers' increase in salary, that could have been put off until things looked a bit brighter for the whole working community. Their salaries are not small by any means. The working man has not had his three 10 percent cuts given back to him, and food etc. is on the increase. The working man on a small salary is always willing to help if only in a small way to any charity, so why not give that same working man a chance as well as the big salaried man. We have to pay the same for our necessities of life as they do, but have not got the same amount to do it on. You take a teacher with over $50 a week and the working man who gets $15 a week. The city expects him to pay his taxes on time with the man who earns the $50. Where on earth is the justice? I really think the council should give a little more consideration to the mere working man when acceding to the wishes or demands of increased wages to the different bodies such as teachers, firemen, or any of them that get their wages through the taxes, also the relief. Instead of things getting any better I think they are getting worse, and Peterborough is going to have trouble if much more is piled on the taxpayer.

LIVE AND LET LIVE

Peterborough, Feb. 23.

THE RELIEF BURDEN.

(Windsor Star)

SIR EDWARD BEATTY suggests adoption of a definite form of taxation for the single purpose of relief.

The idea has merit. Although relief totals are known, the average man has little or no conception of what part relief pays in his own tax bill. Under the Beatty plan this would be available. And being known there would be more checking up by the taxpayers, aimed at eliminating waste in administration and the handing out of welfare money to undeserving persons.

No person with the right outlook on life begrudges the tax money spent on legitimate relief on assistance to people who really need it. But every taxpayer has a right to protest and should protest against the spending of a single dollar of relief money on persons who do not require it or who decline to work for their living when work is available.

STRIKE COSTS.

(Kitchener Record)

THE dreary task of computing the cost of the General Motors sit-down strike is still going on. Tangible figures are hard to get, because so much of the loss does not reduce readily to dollars and cents; but one of the most conservative estimates puts the cash loss at about $84,000,000, divided equally between workers and stockholders.

Add to that the losses suffered by other companies which had to close down or go on part-time operations because of the stoppage of General Motors orders, and you get a bill that must go well over $100,000,000.

Rather a high price to pay, is it not, for failing to devise some system of mediation that would have brought strikers and management together at the very start, instead of after two months of struggle?

SENATOR P. BURNS DIES IN CALGARY

bedside when he died, including John Burns, his nephew, head of the packing firm Senator Burns built up from a humble start here 40 years ago.

Others at the bedside were Mrs. C. Sparrow of Calgary, a niece; Mrs. John Burns, daughter-in-law, and R. J. Burns, a grandnephew. Last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were administered by Rev. Father J. S. Smith.

Son Dead Few Months.

The Senator's wife died some years ago and his only son Michael has been dead only a few months.

During the celebration of his 75th birthday, in 1931, which Western pioneers made a gala affair in Calgary, Senator Burns was appointed to the Senate. For the last two years, however, he had been unable to attend his parliamentary duties, and had been confined to his home here, a semi-invalid. Many years earlier he had refused the offer of a Senatorship and later to run for Parliament.

Third Senate Vacancy.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—(CP).— Death at Calgary to-day of Senator Patrick Burns raises to three the number of vacancies in the Senate. The standing now is: Liberals 35, Conservatives 58.

The vacancies were all caused by deaths of Conservative appointees: Senator Emile Fortin, Levis, Que., Horatio C. Hocken, Toronto, and Burns. The latter had been a Liberal, but was appointed by former Prime Minister Bennett.

Absence from two consecutive sessions of Parliament causes a Senator to lose his seat. Senator Burns' health had prevented his attendance in 1935 and 1936 and he had not been able to come to Ottawa this session, but as formal action to declare the seat vacant had not been taken he was still a member of the Upper House.

VIENNA RECEIVES ENVOY COOLLY

"certain European questions on which will rest their mutual foreign policies."

In Agreement?

ROME, Feb. 24 — (CP-Havas)—Austria and Germany are in full agreement on the Hapsburg issue, semi-official sources insisted here today.

It was denied that Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, went to Vienna for the purpose of checking Austrian plans for a restoration. Complete harmony exists, it was said, among Italy, Germany and Austria in all questions of mutual concern to the three countries.

Resent Cool Reception.

Berlin, Feb. 24—(CP-Havas)—The German press in its comments on Konstanton von Neurath's trip to Vienna today reproached the Austrian press and part of Austrian officialdom for giving so cool a welcome to the German foreign minister.

By calling out the police against the Nazis who demonstrated when Von Neurath arrived, the Austrians, said the Berliner Tageblatt, were "unconsciously" playing the game of the "Hapsburg - Moscow United Front."

The Hapsburg question, said the Hamburger Fremde Blatt, "introduces into European politics an element of trouble and of tension."

France Sees Crisis Brewing.

PARIS, Feb. 24 (C.P.-Havas). — The negative result of German Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath's trip to Vienna will accelerate the development of a crisis in Central European affairs, qualified observers said here to-day.

The situation was described here as being confused by two questions for which there are as yet no clear answers:

1—Why is Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg of Austria forcing Europe to face the problem of a Hapsburg restoration?

2—What is Italy's attitude?

The answer given to the first question by most observers is that von Schuschnigg, sensing an inability to resist Nazi pressure, is playing his last card in an attempt to force the hand of the European Powers.

"If you do not help me in a restoration," he is saying in effect, "you will actually be helping to bring about the Anschluss (Austro-German union)."

This was the view expressed today by Genevieve Tabouis, diplomatic correspondent of L'Oeuvre, who said von Schuschnigg is presenting Europe with clear alternatives: "Either the Anschluss or the monarchy." He hopes, she said, that "there are enough forces leagued against the Reich to unite them in support of a Hapsburg monarchy."

As for the second question, that of Italy's attitude, most diplomatic observers believed Premier Mussolini was backing von Schuschnigg. They consider von Schuschnigg could never have taken so firm an attitude toward von Neurath without assurances of Italian support.

THREE BLOCKS BURN

PICTOU, N.S., Feb. 24—(C.P.). — Fire raged through three blocks in the centre of Pictou's business section to-day causing loss of nearly $100,000. The entire section of the town, of wooden construction, was in danger until volunteer firefighters, led by Chief J. A. Adamson, brought the flames under control.

Fire broke out in the Water St. building owned by F. J. Tobin and spread in two directions, westward to a block owned by Ezra Henderson, and eastward to the warehouse of G. Logan & Company.

Sheep, 200; lambs active strong to slightly higher; good and choice ewes and wethers largely $11.35; medium and mixed grades, $10 to $10.85; aged ewes to $6.25.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 24. — Wheat was under pressure on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Improved growth conditions in winter wheat areas disturbed an even market trend, and brought price declines of 1⅜ to 2 cents at the close.

Coupled with better crop prospects was a lull in demand for Canadian wheat overseas. Weighty offerings in a market thinned of support brought a swift decline in the final hour. Export acceptances overnight and during the session were unestimated, but believed small.

Bulk of the selling was traced to Southern accounts, where United States markets followed the trend to lower levels. In contrast, the English market firmed on reports of over-abundance of rain in India.

Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅛d higher. Bullish factors were steady Argentine shippers' offers at prices three cents above re-sellers'. There was little demand for actual wheat, however, Buenos Aires closed ⅛c lower.

Cash wheat and coarse grains trading was dull, with spreads generally unchanged on odd-car lots for domestic account.

Weighty steers sold between $6 and $7, with a few choice heavies up to $7.50. Good butcher cattle were from $5.75 to $6 and common as low as $4.50. Butcher cows brought $3 to $4.50.

Medium to good fed calves ranged from $5.75 to $7.25, with a few choice reaching $8.

Choice calves were steady at $8.50 to $9. Majority of vealers traded between $6 to $8.50.

Indications were the hog division would close about steady. Previous close for off-truck bacons, $8.35 to $8.50.

One carload of Western lambs was priced at $9.75. Ontario feed-lot lambs sold between $7 and $9.50.

YORKSHIRE TOWN TRACED OUTBREAK TO MILK SUPPLY

180 FAMILIES AFFECTED

After reading a report in a recent issue of "The Yorkshire Post," which he receives regularly from his native shire, Alderman Walter Stocker, chairman of the local Board of Health, wrote to the public health offices at Doncaster and has received the following report bearing on the scarlet fever outbreak in that Yorkshire town from Dr. Ralph Watson, medical officer of health.

In an accompanying letter Dr. Watson states: "I trust that the information I am sending at the moment will be of some use to you, especially if you are emphasizing the necessity of pasteurized milk."

The accompany report signed by Dr. Watson is quoted as follows:

"On Friday, December 11, 1936, I received information which indicated that an outbreak of scarlet fever of abnormal proportions had occurred in the town, chiefly affecting the Hexthorpe Ward. Information from a milk retailer in this area caused suspicion to rest on the milk he supplied, and information obtained during the afternoon further strengthened this suspicion. It was ascertained that in every case affected, the milk supply came from a certain farm outside the Borough boundary, and a notice was accordingly given on the evening of December 11 for the milk from this source to be stopped. This notice was operative for 24 hours.

Visited Farm.

"On December 12, together with the Medical Officer of Health of the Doncaster Rural District Council, I visited the suspected farm, and a milker was found to be suffering from a sore throat. This man's child had had a discharging ear since December 2. The milker was suspended from duty and all the milking utensils sterilized and milking was thenceforward carried out under supervision by the officials of the Doncaster R.D.C. Samples of milk taken on Friday, December 11 and on Monday, December 14 proved to be free from the organism causing scarlet fever. Under the circumstances milk was allowed to be used, but the consumers were advised to boil it until December 15, when arrangements were completed for the whole of the milk to be pasteurized.

"An official of the Ministry of Health visited Doncaster on Wednesday, December 16, and appeared to be satisfied with the action taken.

"Arrangements had been made on December 14 with the Ministry of Health Laboratory to carry out bacteriological work in connection with the outbreak to supplement that being done at the pathological laboratory at the Doncaster Royal Infirmary, and these investigations have proved that the outbreak was due to the cause which was suspected.

186 Cases.

"Between December 11 and December 24, 186 cases developed scarlet fever, 148 of which were directly associated with the infected milk supply. Of these 186 cases, 111 occurred before December 14, and the remainder in the succeeding ten days. The outbreak showed definite indications of having passed its peak on December 14, and now appears to be gradually dying, two cases only having developed since December 24.

"One hundred and twenty-six cases have been admitted to the Isolation Hospital and 60 have been nursed at home where home isolation and nursing have been available.

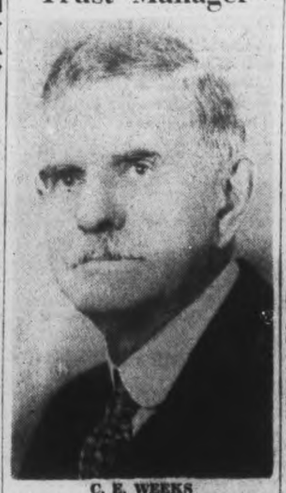
"In addition to the cases of scarlet fever, many people have suffered from sore throats. One hundred and thirty cases of this type are known to have occurred. In all approximately 180 families have been affected by the outbreak.

"I regret to report that three deaths have occurred among patients admitted to hospital with scarlet fever during the outbreak. In one case, however, the infection was of a different origin to that causing the main outbreak, and in one of the other cases definite association with the main outbreak cannot be proved.

"Very fortunately, the new nurse's wing at the hospital was ready for occupation on December 12, and this enabled an additional ward block to be opened for patients. By December 21, the available accommodation proved to be insufficient, and as there were only comparaitvely few patients in the sanatorium section, all of whom could be safely moved for a period of a few weeks, these patients were temporarily discharged and the sanatorium was opened for scarlet fever cases."

The report has been passed on by Alderman Stocker to Dr. G. Murray Fraser, local medical officer of health.

Trust Manager



C. E. WEEKS

Manager Victoria Trust and Savings Company. Mr. Weeks was born in Uxbridge, graduated from Law School and practised law for many years in Cannnington, Woodville and Lindsay. He contested the riding of Victoria in the interests of the Liberal party in 1911 and in 1912 became manager of the Victoria Trust and Savings Company.

Mr. Weeks has always taken an active part in the life of the town and has witnessed the growth of the Victoria Trust and Savings Company from a company with assets of slightly over $900,000.00 in 1912 to its present strength of over $9,000,000.00, as shown in the splendid annual report published here on Saturday.

SHELL AT VALENCIA HITS BRITISH SHIP

Royal Oak were slightly hurt by shell splinters. None, it was announced, was "incapacitated." Later the battleship put out to sea.

It was the second such incident in the last two weeks. On February 15, it was announced, the British destroyers Havock and Gypsy had fired on a plane, believed to have been an insurgent craft, which tried to bomb them near Cape Tenez, off the Algerian coast.

Authorized sources said that the government contemplated no protest, since the incident, technically speaking was "more or less an act of God."

They explained the Royal Oak was lying just outside Valencia Harbor at the time of the bombardment, and that there was obviously, no Spanish intention to damage it.

20 GUARDS SHORT IS HEASLIP'S CLAIM REGARDING STAFF

denied having promised not to punish them.

Some prisoners sewed pillow slips into their coats and carried their toilet articles and other possessions around with them at all times, Superintendent Dr. J. D. Heaslip told the inquiry explaining why parcels from outside were stopped.

Thieves At Guelph

"It was not right that prisoners should be spending their time here thieving or hiding anything valued," he said. "There are thieves in the institution."

Razor blades are now supplied one weekly instead of one every few months following complaints by prisoners.

Dr. Heaslip said he had tried to stop trafficking in the institution and had asked prisoners turn in their money. About $116.25 was turned in for prisoners' accounts, he said.

Superintendent Heaslip said food was not satisfactory when he was placed in charge of the institution Sept. 15 last year. "I haven't changed the quality of the food but I have seen it was better cooked and more cleanly prepared," he said. "Food was not a direct cause of the riot but was the subject of propaganda. There is no malnutrition and 80 per cent of prisoners show gains in weight," he said.

Needs More Guards

Reorganization of the custodial staff is planned with about one-third of the guards affected, Dr. Heaslip said. "We are understaffed by 20 to 25 guards," he told the inquiry.

The institution plans to provide prisoners with felt mattresses, light summer underwear and pajamas, he said. He denied prisoners had to keep the same blankets for months at a time. "Some would like a change of fresh blankets once a week," he said.

"Mental tests used in England were given new prisoners," Dr. Heaslip said. "If he scored below 40 he was a border-line case, and if below 30 he was defective or illiterate. These were kept away from machinery and placed at simple tasks with a pick and shovel in the bull gang, or on the farm or in the dairy.

"Some long-term prisoners complain they are kept in the bull gang irrespective of their fitness for other work," said Gordon Gillanders.

"They are kept there because of safer custody," said Heaslip. "After they have served a year of their two-year term, they may be made a trusty or transferred to other work."

"It is not a case of the prisoner getting some learning of benefit to him later, but of safe custody?" suggested Gillanders.

"That is correct," replied Heaslip.

He opposed compulsory schooling for prisoners. "If a fellow attends school eight or nine years outside and does not get his entrance, we would not do him much good by forcing him to go to school here," he said. "Some vocational training might do them some good. Every facility should be given the boy who is really desirous of getting his entrance standing."

Bert Foster Is Victim Of Painful Accident At Millbrook

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 24—Bert Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foster, was the victim of a painful accident at his home Monday afternoon. Having heated a boiler full of water in preparation for a bath, he proceeded to carry the vessel and its contents up a narrow back stairs. Tripping, or in some manner letting the boiler fall, he was painfully scalded in patches over his entire body. His arms and chest perhaps receiving the most severe burns. Dr. J. W. Wright gave the necessary medical attention.

'DR. CLITTERHOUSE' HAILED IN TORONTO

Debut Of Sir Cedric Hardwicke Brings Real First Night Turnout

TORONTO, Feb. 24—(C.P.).—Sir Cedric Hardwicke made his Canadian debut last night in the title role of "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," a new play destined to open in New York after a week's tryout here.

The first-night turnout was as numerous and enthusiastic as for John Gielgud's American premiere in "Hamlet" here last fall, partly no doubt because Sir Cedric is the Empire's youngest actor-knight and Toronto is notoriously patriotic. At the curtain, Sir Cedric vouched he was almost overcome with nervousness after the civic reception he received earlier in the day.

The production is the latest under the banner of Gilbert Miller, whose "Tovarich" and "Victoria Regina" are running on Broadway. Written by Barre Lyndon, it details the experiences of a London physician who joins a gang of crooks to compile a notebook on their reactions—pulse, blood-pressure and all—while on the job and ends up with an experimental murder.

Lawrence Mason, writing in The Globe and Mail, said it was a superior production. He adds: "The careful finish down to the smallest detail was very noticeable in this handsome production as, for example, when the headlights of Dr. Clitterhouse's returning car shine momentarily through the office windows. The play itself is one of the most novel and original entertainments presented hereabouts in a long time."

CAMPBELLFORD HOGS

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24. — Prices on the local produce market which were quite steady, remained unchanged from last week with hogs quoted at $8.00 f.o.b. and $10.75 for rail grades. Four car loads of hogs including some sows at $5.00 were shipped to Peterborough while one car of mixed cattle going at from $2.00 to $500 was shipped to Montreal.

A Happy Average!

"WE'VE entered upon a new era in this country", declared Mr. William Waddell (Real Estate; Farming Properties Our Specialty). — "Watch Canada grow—and Essex centre, too."

"Hear, hear", applauded "Butch" Nolan, cattle buyer and booster for Picobac, the pick of Canada's Burley crop.

"Hear, hear", echoed the company.

"Boys", warned Mr. Picobac, chuckling into his pipe, "don't let your enthusiasm run away with you. Let's go slow with new-fangled ideas. Sure, I know there's a few things in this country that can be improved. But we don't want to try to do it all at once. And by cracky, we don't want to be like that dog we used to read about in the first reader; we don't want to drop a darn good bone for a shadow. I've been through so many ups and downs now that I'm getting wise. So I tell you—a happy average is the best thing for this country in the long run!"

"Give me a match, somebody", he ordered.

OXFORD GRADUATE VOTES POURING IN THROUGH THE MAIL

Three Professors In Running For One Of University's Two Seats In House

FIGHT ON IN RICHMOND

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 24—(CP Cable)—Thousands of votes from all parts of the world today were locked away in the registry office at Oxford university. They are the mailed votes graduates are polling in the battle between three professors for one of Oxford's two seats in the House of Commons.

The candidates are Sir Arthur Saltar, the eminent economist who is running as an independent; Sir Farquhar Buzzard, Conservative; and Professor Frederick Lindemann, Independent Conservative. Sir Arthur is Gladstone professor of political theory at the University; Sir Farquhar is regius professor of medicine; while Lindemann is professor of experimental philosophy. The seat was vacated by Lord Hugh Cecil, Conservative, following his appointment as provost of Eton College.

Technically, while ballot papers have been steadily coming in for days, polling did not begin until today. It continues until 5.30 p.m. Saturday.

One group of Oxford electors has issued a memorandum urging the government to establish a commission of experts in civil aviation so as to prevent the misuse of aircraft for military purposes. "In this way," the memorandum states, "the government would be making a great contribution towards the limitation of armaments and in the sense of increasing peace security."

Richmond Vote Thursday.

In Richmond, Surrey, the by-election enters its last stage. Polling there is to be on Thursday. Contests are pending too in Farnham, Tonbridge and the combined English universities. Farnham for a time had 23 possible Conservative candidates. They are now winnowed down to three. These three will appear before the conservative divisional council Saturday when one will be finally selected.

Meanwhile, Winston Churchill has entered the fight for control of the London county council with a strong attack on the council's Labor majority.

The next three years, Churchill declares, might well be climacteric in the long history of Britain. Great cities of the world were exposed to danger from the air. In every city strong effective measures were being taken. Undoubtedly a great deal had still to be done here. It might unfortunately be necessary for the municipal rulers of London to take measures vital to the lives of the city's inhabitants. How could they, Churchill asked, confide the rule of the city to a party which had opposed the government's rearmament plans?

"We have to consider," Churchill added, "the effect in the world when on March 4 the verdict of London will be known. The curse of the world has been this aggressive socialist movement, which is the enemy of ordered Liberal progress in every country." A verdict on March 4 in favor of continued Socialist control, he said, would be a blow to the cause of prosperity and world peace.

REFORESTATION TO STOP FLOODS

Removal Of Trees Has Allowed Snow And Ice To Melt Too Early

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—A National Reforestation Commission to protect the country from drought and floods was proposed yesterday by H. J. Moore, of Islington, internationally known horticulturist, at the annual conference of County and Township Road Superintendents in Foresters' Hall, 22 College Street, under the auspices of the Ontario Department of Highways.

Mr. Moore expressed the opinion that the drought of last summer in the great wheat-growing areas of the Middle West and elsewhere on the continent, and the floods of the winter were directly due to the lack of forests and suggested that farmers should be encouraged to plant trees on their farms.

Melts Too Early.

Mr. Moore explained that the removal of trees from the land allowed snow and ice to melt early in the year, and since all humus had disappeared, there was nothing to hold the water, with the result that floods were created.

"We have had our fifth flood this winter. I think if we were to examine conditions closely we would discover that these floods occurred when the headwaters and watersheds of the streams were treeless," he said.

Other speakers at the conference were Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Public Works and Highways; D. J. Emery, County Engineer of Waterloo, and J. E. Goodman, County Engineer of Frontenac, who discussed subgrade soils, their analysis and drainage; A. A. Smith, Chief Highways Engineer, who dealt with highway design; A. L. S. Nash, Lincoln County Engineer; A. E. Chalmers, Peterborough County Engineer, and N. L. Powell, Peel County Engineer, who dealt with removal of snow and ice from roads.

JOINT SIT-DOWN STRIKE SETTLED

Owner Who Imitated His Employees Goes To Bed After Mediator Brings Peace

DETROIT, Feb. 24—(AP).—One of the strangest industrial disputes in history—a joint sit-down of capital and labor—ended to-day with the announced settlement of a four-day strike at the Fry Products, Inc., which manufactures automobile seat covers.

A volunteer mediator, Alfred R. Clancy, former president of the Oakland Motor Car Company and one-time vice-president of General Motors Corporation, said:

"The strike was settled at midnight after a four-hour discussion with representatives of the company's employees.

"We will not mention the terms of the settlement.

"All we have to say is that it has been amicably settled by both parties and work will be resumed at 8 o'clock Thursday morning."

President Walter L. Fry, who became the United States' No. 1 boss sit-downer in retaliation for a strike of his employees last Friday, tumbled on to his cot in his office to get some sleep immediately after the settlement was announced.

Fry said yesterday he had refused to deal with organizers of the United Automobile Workers of America, but declared he was ready to meet with his own workers at any time.

The plant employs 350, mostly girls and women.

MILLBROOK

HAVOC IS CAUSED BY VIOLENT WIND

Barn Of William Bristow Collapses And Windmill Is Blown Over

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 24—The severe wind storm of last evening accompanied at times by a heavy deluge of rain caused considerable damage in various centres of this district, especialy at Carmel, where its force caused a portion of the barn at the farm home of William Bristow to collapse. The structure had been previously raised in readiness for erecting a foundation.

The windmill on the farm of George Patterson, about one half mile west of the Bristow property, also fell before the onrush.

Trees weakened by age and rot and branches of other more sturdy specimens were also littered about having been unable to stand erect before the blasts.

ALBERTA INTEREST REDUCTION MOVE UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Supreme Court Throws Out Second Major Act Of Aberhart's Government

I.O.O.F. TEST CASE

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

EDMONTON, Feb. 24.—(C.P.).—The Alberta Securities Interest Act, under which the Aberhart Government reduced interest on provincial bonds and guaranteed securities, was declared unconstitutional to-day by Justice Ives of the Alberta Supreme Court.

It was the second major enactment of the Aberhart government outlawed in a week by the Alberta Supreme Court, the first being the Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act.

The province slashed interest rates June 1, 1936, from an average of 4.89 per cent. to 2.5 per cent., the estimated yearly saving being $3,500,000.

In ruling out the Interest Reduction Act, the Ives judgment declared:

'I know that it has been authoritatively held that in matters within its jurisdiction, of a purely local and private nature, access to the courts of judicature may be lawfully denied the subject by the province but to extend that right so as to prohibit any question of an ultra vires statute is most repugnant to one's instinctive sense of justice."

This observation of Mr. Justice Ives was directed toward one feature of the Interest Reduction Act which closed the courts of Alberta to lawsuits under its provisions.

BAILIEBORO

DAMAGE IS DONE BY WIND AND RAIN

Shingles Blown Off Barns And Numerous Culverts Washed Out

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 24—The high winds and torrential rains which prevailed Sunday night left in its wake much damage wrought throughout the district. Trees were blown down and huge limbs were hurled from other trees.

H. Nurse living east of the village had the misfortune to have about fifty feet of steel shingles blown from his barn roof. Numbers of barns had boards torn off in the midst of the storm. The heavy rains caused floods which dug deep ditches in fields in the district. Culverts in lanes and on township roads were washed out.

It is generally thought that owing to the frost having been out of the surface soil, it gave the heavy floods a double opportunity to wash the top soil. The snow which fell to the extent of several inches made an excellent covering for fall wheat and grass seeds and is proving a protection during the present cold weather.

LAKEFIELD Y.P.U. NAMES DEBATERS

Miss Hannah Webster And Clifford Hurl To Participate In Contest

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 24.—Clifford Hurl, who has been appointed president of the Lakefield Young People's Union to succeed the former president, Wallace G. Hendren, who retired, presided for the first time on Monday night, Feb. 22, when the society held their regular weekly meeting at 8 p.m. in the Sunday School room.

After the usual hour of recreation the meeting was brought to order and the business discussed. A letter from Fred Barnard regarding the Presbytery 1937 debating series was read by the secretary. According to the schedule Lakefield Y.P.U. is drawn to meet Fairview Society at Lakefield on March 8. The society moved that Miss Hannah Webster and Mr. Clifford Hurl should represent Lakefield Y.P.U. in the debate. The subject is: "Resolved that the idea behind the league of nations is sound." The debate will be conducted in the Oxford method, whereby the affirmative or negative will not be assigned to either side and all four debaters may, if they choose, speak upon the same side. This will eliminate the possibility of a debater arguing against his or her better judgment. Sixty points will be awarded for material and 40 for delivery. One judge will be appointed by each side with a third agreed on by both sides.

A Fairview Invitation

An invitation was received from the Fairview Society to visit them on March 16 or 17. On motion by Mrs. Millage and Miss Daisy Mullen it was decided to accept the invitation and visit Fairview on March 16.

It was suggested that more people should be encouraged to contribute to the weekly programs, and that one person from each tribe should be appointed each week to procure musical and literary numbers for the program.

A skating party was arranged for Wednesday night, March 10. Robt. Spence, convenor of Christian Citizenship is in charge of arrangements.

Miss Mary Webster, convenor Christian Fellowship was in charge of the remainder of the meeting. She called on Daisy Mullen who read the scripture lesson. Rev. G. F. Kelly then led in prayer. Miss Hannah Webster read a selection of choice poems after which Mr. Kelly was called upon to lead a discussion on Bible topics suggested by the members themselves, each of whom submitted one point for discussion.

Rev. G. F. Kelly expressed the opinion that while a knowledge of scriptural texts was a good thing, yet a knowledge of Christian principles among young people was much more essential to human welfare. He felt that most young people of today were not lacking in Christian principles.

COUNCIL AIMS AT 37 MILLS

said, "so why not get part of their reserve now when the money is needed by the people."

"Probably they want to take care of possible losses," Alderman Glover remarked. "They may have Alberta bonds, for example."

"They have only $6,000 of Alberta bonds," Ald. Gordon replied. "The ratepayers are the beneficiaries of the Commission's trust. They have been getting 4% on their sinking funds for 40 years, and in some cases they got 6½ per cent."

"That is how the Commission was able to accumulate their surplus," said Alderman Hamilton.

Says Wise Financing.

"In my judgment it has been wise financing," Alderman Dutton declared. "We know they can't get 4 per cent on their investments from now on, and they are trying to avoid the necessity of ever having to make a special call on the council for funds to meet their requirements. I think the ratepayers appreciate having the reserves to meet what is needed for debentures, and that their financing has been so well managed. Personally, I like the idea of asking for the earnings on the Commission's investments."

"Why shouldn't they give us a certain amount now?" Alderman McIntyre argued. "I don't think they need to pile up such a fund as has been mentioned. If they had a reserve of $150,000 it should be enough. Let us reduce our rate for the people of the present time. If the Commission were to go short all they have to do is call on the city council."

Annual Statement.

Ald. Gordon quoted from the statute which defined the duties of the City Trust Commission to the effect that they should render an annual statement to the council of all monies received and expended, debentures issued and outstanding, and the amounts required for sinking fund payments. He asserted that any statements from the Commission had not presented these details.

Alderman Dutton—We could ask the Commission for a statement giving their reason for holding the monies which are in their care. We would then be in a position to say whether their course is justifiable.

Alderman Wilson—Ask for a detail report as required by the statute.

Alderman Dutton moved that the Commission be asked for a report and explanatory statement, and Alderman McIntyre seconded it. This motion was carried unanimously.

"I hope it is understood that I am not casting any reflection on the City Trust Commission," Alderman Dutton said. "I am only asking for information."

Demand for $60,000.

Alderman Gordon's immediately sequent motion requesting the Commission to pay out of its reserve funds not later than March 1 the sum of $60,000 to the city council to reduce this year's tax rate was seconded by Alderman Wilson.

"I'll support that motion on the understanding that they have a surplus of $221,000," Ald McIntyre said.

Reference to the auditor's report for 1936 showed that the reserve was $231,000.

"I'd rather wait until we got a report from the Commission," Ald. Sloan suggested.

Alderman Glover—I don't want anyone to think that I don't want to get money for the ratepayers from the Commission. But I am wondering whether we are going about it the right way.

Wait for Information.

Alderman Cotton — I certainly thing we would be in a better position to ask for an amount if we had the information before us that we are asking for.

Alderman Dutton—I think the wisest thing is to get the statement first, and I don't want to be misunderstood.

Mayor Macdonald—If we got a reduction of three mills this year, we would be looking for the same thing next year. On the other hand if we could get the earnings from the Commission's invested surplus that [illegible] would be available year after year, and besides that their demand on us is growing less each year while we are not issuing new debentures.

Alderman Glover—A small committee might sit down with them and talk it over, and ask for as much as we could get.

Mayor Macdonald—I am in favor of asking the Commission for their yearly earnings. I believe in looking for a reasonable amount, and I am just as much interested in getting the rate down as the next citizen.

Alderman Sloan—We can't try to set the tax rate tonight, because we won't get the money before March 1.

Mayor's Amendment.

Mayor Macdonald moved an amendment to the Gordon-Wilson motion to the effect that the City Trust Commission be asked to pay to the city treasury the annual earnings from their reserve funds.

Alderman Cotton seconded it, and the amendment was supported by Mayor Macdonald, Aldermen Juby, Dutton, Stocker, Hamilton, Cotton Sloan and Glover.

Those who voted against the amendment were: Aldermen Gordon, Wilson, and McIntyre.

Alderman Hamilton—We are all convinced that they are carrying a larger amount than they need. But they are acting on the advice of their solicitor, E. H. D. Hall, and they say they are abiding by an act regarding trustees.

Solicitor's Opinion.

At the close of the meeting City Solicitor Corkery was asked what he thought of the question in debate. He replied that the special Act appointing the City Trust Commission seemed to define specific duties, but the Commission apparently were acting according to their own legal advice. "I don't like the idea of giving to the ratepayers of one year a large lump sum. I would prefer that it be extended equitably from year to year."

Mayor Macdonald—I have tried to explain my position that if we could get $12,000 to $15,000 a year from the Commission that would be a steady help to the ratepayers; and with that sum there would also be the Commission's reduced demand from year to year. They are asking $13,000 less than last year.

"That seems to me to be a sound idea," Ald. Dutton commented as the discussion ended.

LIGHTING SERVICE HAS BEEN CUT OFF

Apsley Plant Has Been Operating At Heavy Financial Loss

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Feb. 24—Gloom, in the strictest sense of the word, has enveloped Apsley in the cutting off of the light supply from the streets, residences and the two churches, hitherto provided by a local plant. There was no other course for the proprietor to follow under the circumstances related to the customers at a meeting to consider the situation. Figures produced showed that the plant had operated during 1936 at a net loss of about 250 per cent. So once again, at least for the present, Apsley is relegated to the tenth or twelfth concession, whichever you like. The only solution to the dilemma seems to be individual delco plants, unless the Hydro Commission can be induced to extend to Apsley, which is only a forlorn hope.

FRASERVILLE

SKATING CARNIVAL COLORFUL EVENT

Many Striking Costumes Give Judges Busy Job Picking Winners

FRASERVILLE, Feb. 24.—Fraserville rink presented a very gala appearance last Wednesday evening when the local Rink Club held their first skating carnival. Colored lights strung across the rink in several places in addition to the ordinary lighting made every foot of the ice as bright as day.

Skating commenced at 8 o'clock and continued until 9, at which time the judges apeared for the judging of costumes and performance. Messrs. Fred White, J. A. Hill and Harold Cathcart acted as judges and Melville Wood as master of ceremonies.

The events were run off in very good style and occupied the better part of two hours.

Prizes were as follows:—

Best dressed lady — Miss Olga Preston.

Best daddy's comic costume—Mrs. A. J. Yelland and Mrs. H. Ouellette.

Best men's comic costume—Mr. H. Braithwaite.

Best skating couple—Miss Beryl Wood and Mr. Jim Lewis.

Girl's race, under 14 years—Elinor Pue.

Girl's race, over 14 years—Mrs. H. Ouellette.

Men's race—Mr. Lloyd Jewison.

Ladies' balloon race—Miss Beryl Wood.

Boy's balloon race—Clark Darling.

Prizes were donated by Reeve Wood of Cavan, Reeve Waterman of South Monaghan, J. O. Pue, Fraserville and Fred White and Mr. W. L. Plews of Bailieboro.

Following the prize events was a novelty hockey game played by the ladies, using broom and a football, folowed by a similar game by the men. Skating was resumed and continued until midnight.

The refreshment booth did a roaring business in hot dogs and coffee all evening; appetites being very much greater than usual.

The evening terminated with the drawing for a fine Hudson Bay motor rug. The tickets were placed in a barrel churn and stirred up after which Mr. O. B. Johnson drew a ticket. Master James Adams of Fraserville held the winning number. And so ended a very successful event. The attendance was estimated at about two hundred.

A National Hops Fair will be opened at Lublin, Poland, at the end of September.

BABY'S HOT LITTLE HEAD IS A DANGER SIGNAL

WHEN your Baby's head feels hot to your hand you must do something. And do it quickly. Read what Mrs. B—— of Enterprise does and what results she gets: "My baby's cheeks and hands were so hot I was frightened. I gave him a Baby's Own Tablet at noon and by after supper he was all better."

And a Toronto mother has this to say: "When little bowels are congested these grand little tablets move them without griping, relieving any feverish symptoms. My children's health is absolutely safe, while I have Baby's Own Tablets in the house."

They are sweet-tasting. Easy to take. Absolutely safe and harmless. Work quickly and can be given to the most delicate baby. Analyst's certificate on every box.

For upset stomach, constipation troubles and other minor ills of baby days, they are equally effective.

Your druggist is authorized by us to return your money if you are not satisfied with the results from Baby's Own Tablets. Get a box today. 25 cents.

Choir Members Hosts to Friends.

Members of the choir of Murray Street Baptist Church were responsible for an evening tea which was different from the usual run. It was held on Tuesday night from eight to ten o'clock in the Sunday School hall of the church, with an attendance of about one hundred and fifty of the members of the congregation. Each member of the choir was responsible for a table which accommodated about twenty guests, each with its silver service and floral adornments of daffodils in silver baskets.

The guests were received by the choir president, Mrs. Gerald Stenton, the vice president, Walter Cocks, and the organist, Arthur Collison. The Social convenor, Mrs. H. R. Scott, was in charge of arrangements.

During the evening, a pleasing musical program was presented, with the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe as Master of Ceremonies. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Leslie Groombridge, Miss Phyllis Rome and Adam Hawley; Miss Pearl Smith played several piano numbers; Miss Velma Scott and Miss Audrey Murray played in guitar duets. Accompanists were Mrs. Percy Johnston and Arthur Collison. Music during the tea hour was played also by members of the Sunday School orchestra; Miss Edna Borland, Robert Graham and Fred Trotter.

At the close of the entertainment, the appreciation of the choir members to the guests and musicians was voiced by the president, Mrs. G. Stenton.

Fashion Service

Your friends will surely love to see you in this princess jumper dress.

It solves the problem of variety and good wear.

The jumper will do service with any number of adorable blouses.

Again, yellow washable crepe silk guimpe is stunning with the grey jumper. Plain bright red crepe or a colorful peasant print are still other gay and smart suggestions.

When summer arrives, you'll like the jumper of a peasant cotton print with plain cotton guimpe, the shade picked from one of the bright colors of the print.

Exciting to make, too. The jumper is a one-piece affair with practically only seams to join. The pattern includes a step-by-step sewing chart to show exactly how to cut it out and stitch it.

Style No. 2856 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 1½ yards of 39-inch material with 1½ yards of braid trim for blouse; jumper requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch material.

—Goethe.

(This article is an answer to "A.B.C.")

Dear Friends:

Did you ever make a momentous decision, thinking you were making an end of a thing, and then find that it went on and on, never seeming to end at all, so that your emotions were in a constant state of turmoil, your heart racked within your body, and your nerves all shot to pieces?

You had looked at this thing you had to decide on, from all angles, and could see nothing but disaster if you did not act. You thought with longing of the peace that would come to you, once you did what it was evident you must do, if the worst were not to happen.

So, you decided that it must end. And day after day went on, and the peace you craved had not come, the thing had not ended at all, but only took another angle so that you seemed to be living in another whirlpool of emotion, just slightly different from the one you had left.

And all the time, no matter how racked you are, no matter how you crave for an ending, you must use mercy with justice, you must see the other angles to this thing, you must help and help again, tho' in your heart you may be saying, "how long, oh Lord, how long?"

No one can help you much, except with sympathy or words of consolation. Your cross seems bitter and hard to bear, and life holds very little for you, because of this gnawing sorrow.

And you get to the stage where you can hardly trust your own judgment, for here you had made a resolve, carried it through, and had, not by any stretch of the imagination, got what you expected. If you hate to leave things in such an unfinished state, your mind seeks out a new avenue of escape from this thing, but look as you like you cannot alter things. So what to do?

I find when I don't know what to do, that is the best time to do nothing at all, for whatever you do, you will be wrong, so leave things alone, and maybe they will sort themselves out. Maybe you have been trying, as I said before, to do your part, God's part, and the other fellow's part also.

All that is expected of you is what you must do. Trying to do what anyone else should do, only causes more confusion and a continuance of the thing you have been trying to get away from. Trying to do God's part is sheer presumption, because He can see the beginning and the end whereas we can only see as far as we have gone.

Maybe the very one you would like so much to help, has to be helped by God Himself, and your interference is only delaying the whole thing. What altho' it is causing you pain and agony of mind. Get your courage together and bear it, keeping your hands off for awhile. You have done all you could to better things and they were not bettered, so let them alone for awhile.

I have written this article for one who is going through sore travail and has asked my help. And dear A.B.C. (which is the pen-name you gave me) I hope this will be the angle you haven't seen yet. I know I have given you a hard thing to do, for it is aggravating to stand by doing nothing, when your impulses are all for action to clear things up.

But there is a time in all our lives, when the truest valor is to do nothing. Go about your business, keep yourself as busy as you can, and if sleep refuses to come to you now it will come in a little while. Don't think about tomorrow, or yesterday or last week. The one is gone, and the other hasn't come yet, and who knows what a few short hours may do. God bless you.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

JUNIOR FARMERS VISIT FACTORIES

Young Men And Women Who Are Taking Short Course Interested Visitors

Upwards of fifty young men and women who are this month attending the agricultural and home economics short course at Ennismore under auspices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, were interested visitors to several manufacturing plants in the city this (Wednesday) morning and afternoon. The tour made possible through the courteous co-operation of the heads of the various plants visited was under the supervision of A. D. Runions, local agricultural representative.

Both classes went around the Quaker Oats, C.G.E., and Silverwood's Dairy plants, while the boys only were taken through Canada Packers plant, and the girls through the factory of Peterborough Brinton Carpet Company, and wound up at A. Comstock and Sons where they were entertained at afternoon tea.

TEMPERANCE PLAY GIVEN BY FAIRVIEW

Bridgenorth W. C. T. U. Hears Interesting Address From Rev. Mr. Rowland

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FAIRVIEW, Feb. 24. — The Bridgenorth W.C.T.U. held an open meeting in Fairview Church on Friday evening last. The president Mrs. Gordon Mann, had charge of the meeting. Miss Olive Sidey read the Scripture and Mrs. Joe Mann, Mrs. (Rev.) R. D. Wright and Mrs. Reg. Coburn led in prayer. Miss Olive Bell gave a reading, and Miss Lillian McGregor sang a solo, "My Task." Fairview Y.P. gave an interesting temperance play. Those taking part were Wilma Armstrong, Eleanor Rosborough, Greta Reynolds, Opal Rosborough, Carmen Bell, Laurie Mahood, and Burritt Harrison. Rev. E. W. Rowland of Mark Street Church, Peterborough, was the guest speaker, and gave a very inspiring address on Temperance, and the evils of the liquor traffic. Rev. R. D. Wright closed with prayer, and lunch was served by the ladies.

Fairview, Y.P. enjoyed another set of colored slides at their regular meeting this week. The subject was "The Shepherd's Psalm."

John Deck of Toronto is a guest at the home of his niece, Mrs. Reg Coburn.

Mrs. John Boyce of Smith is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mahood for two months.

CORONATION SEAT QUESTION LIVELY TOPIC IN LONDON

Range From $15 Government-Sponsored To Well Over $1,000 For Private Perches

CHIMNEYS POPULAR SPOT

By L. Norman Smith
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 24 — (C.P.) — Question of seats for the Coronation covers a multitude of subjects. For there are seats, and seats.

Second-floor rooms with plate glass windows may be rented for a party to view the procession while liveried servants prepare caviar and champagne—for $1,000 and more.

Or there are the thousands of precarious perches among London's quaint chimney-tops that the janitor will save for a friend and small thank-offering. It is a safe bet many enthusiasts have their eyes secretly fixed on limbs of convenient trees despite warnings of the office of works against such goings-on.

But in between these extremes come the great stretches of stands now being erected along the route. The government will have 75,000 seats available at a construction cost of $550,000.

These stands will be on the east side of the east carriage drive in Hyde Park, both sides of Constitution Hill, Queen Victoria Memorial Gardens, both sides of the Mall, Parliament Square and the Gardens at the south end of the Victoria Embankment. Smaller stands will be erected near the government buildings in White Hall.

Frontage of government seats will be more than three miles, the length of the seat rows, end to end, 27 miles.

400 Men Kept Busy.

Four hundred men are employed on construction and hundreds of others are working on preparation of timber and tubular steel for stands. Furnishings of the stands calls for 24,000 square yards of colored fabric, 12,000 yards of printed fabric, 24,000 yards of leather cloth, 75 tons of filling for cushions, and 10,000 chairs for selected stands.

The dominions and colonies are to be given an allotment of these government seats. But Canada House does not yet know how many it will be given, nor the cost of the seats. Rumor says between $15 and $25 each.

Other stands are being erected by private companies on rented properties. Prices for these vary according to their location. Average price for a front seat is about $125, others less prominent $65. Orders have been heavy, reportedly twice as heavy as for the jubilee ceremonies in 1925, and Americans and a few Canadians are said to have bid as high as $250 for a single seat.

Private agencies have also taken up much of the private room space overlooking the route and prices for these are expected to pyramid shortly.

Police are watching such agencies closely for recurrence of incidents at the Diamond Jubilee procession in 1897. In that year 20 companies were formed in a fortnight for providing seats. One agent made a haul by selling seats in someone else's window 10 times over at $500 a time. Then he skipped back to America before the procession.

SILVERWARE GIFTS FOR MANVERS PAIR MARRIED 25 YEARS

Mr. And Mrs. A. B. Sisson Honored On Silver Anniversary By Their Neighbors

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, February 24.—About 125 guests assembled at the house of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Sisson, west of the village, Monday, to join in wishing them many happy returns of their wedding day. The occasion was the 25th anniversary for this most popular couple, who have spent all their life in and near this vicinity.

The event was most thoughtfully and happily planned by Mrs. W. L. Hannah, Mrs. Ernest Beer and Mrs. Harvey Gray, and they were assisted in carrying out to success the program, under the capable management of Miss Wilma Beer, a niece of the bride. The Misses Isobel Sisson, only daughter of the bride and groom, assisted by Wilma Beer and Mrs. Harvey Gray, received the guests at the entrance to the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sisson, attended by Mrs. Ernest Beer, received their many friends in the living room. The bride was most becomingly gowned in a tasteful dress of new tint rose beige beaded crepe, and looked her charming self.

The dining room presented a most pleasing picture; a three-storey wedding cake centered the bride's table, decorated in white and silver, with pink candles in silver holders were placed to light in a most alluring color scheme, the entire effect.

Enjoyable Program

The program consisted of an address, songs, readings, instrumental music, speeches and community singing.

Mr. W. L. Hannah was prevailed upon to do the honors of chairman in his usual genial and happy manner. When the large company had come to order, a tiny bride and groom entered on the scene, viz., little Miss Kathleen Sisson, attired in creamy lace trimmed with silver, attended by a small gentleman, Master Victor Russell, to the strains of The Wedding March played by Mrs. Harry Neal. The little bride bearing a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses tied with silver ribbon, which she presented to the bride of 25 years.

The small groom attending her carried a scroll address which he presented to the bridegroom of 25 years ago, containing the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends and guests present. The address was read by Harvey Gray.

The Misses Muriel Hannah and Clara Beer then presented Mr. and Mrs. Sisson with a beautiful walnut cabinet containing a 58-piece set of Adam pattern silver flatware, also two pretty silver flower baskets and candelabra. After an appropriate speech by the groom, on behalf of himself and his bride, everyone joined in singing most heartily, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

A dainty lunch was served by the executive committee, assisted by five young cousins of the family, Misses Muriel Hannah, Clara Beer, Wilma Beer, Marjory Page and Vera Strachan. The wedding cake was served and the toast for the future health and well being of the bride and groom was voiced by their clergyman, Rev. Mr. Holden, and heartily responded to by all present. All joined in singing Auld Lang Syne. Dancing and social converse was enjoyed for several hours, ere the good-nights were said.

Guests included Mr. J. J. Preston, Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Holden, Miss Emily Preston and Mrs. Carscadden, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Copping, Peterborough; Rev. and Mrs. R. Paton, Sydenham; Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Preston, Peterborough, and Mr. Heber Preston, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gillis, Toronto; and Mr. and Mrs. Hescon, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Sisson, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jarvis, Brantford; Mr. and Mrs. Will Mark, Kingston; Mr. Ed. and Miss Emma Lathangue, Mr. and Mrs. Will Lathangue, Mr. and Mrs. J. Women's Association Appoint Committee To Carry Out Program Of Improvement

MANVERS STATION, Feb. 24 — On Thursday afternoon the regular meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Johnston, with the president, Mrs. W. D. Cavano in the chair. The meeting opened by singing a hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and Scripture reading by Mrs. E. Keller, 1st Psalm. Roll call was answered by a sentence prayer.

Discussion followed concerning the remodeling of the church tables and the building of new benches. Mrs. Ernest Cavano and Mrs. Harold Thompson were appointed as a committee to look after this. It was decided to cancel the March meeting. April meeting will be held at Mrs. W. D. Cavano's.

At the close of the meeting a very dainty lunch consisting of ice cream, cake, sandwiches and tea, were served by the hostess.

ANCIENT CLOCK

BARRIO'S BEACH, N.S. (C.P.) — A grandfather clock owned by Joseph Boudreau has well earned its name, having served in the same place in this Antigonish County village for 98 years. Believed to be more than 170 years old it registers the day of the month as well as hours and minutes.

BINGO GAMES ARE GAMES OF CHANCE PRESBYTERY HOLDS

Staging Of Such Games Are Condemned By The United Church Presbytery

GIVINGS INCREASED

Staging of bingo games both inside and outside the church was condemned by the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church at its first meeting of 1937 in George Street School yesterday. Such games of chance, however innocent they may be and however worthy may be the cause in which they are played, are gambles and gambling should not be condoned by Christian people, the members held.

Discussion of the matter arose from the report of the committee on Evangelism and Social Service. The Presbytery re-affirmed its strong disapproval of lotteries, slot machines and other forms of gambling and pointed a finger of rebuke at those organizations which resort to rallies of quilts for the raising of funds. Members commended Peterborough city officials for the sterner attitude toward pin-ball games and expressed approval of the proposal that the prohibitive license fee be placed against such equipment.

Twenty of the 22 charges in the Presbytery were represented at the meeting. The chairman, Rev. A. S. Cleland of Norwood, presided at both morning and afternoon sessions.

Dr. McLean Nominated

Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean of St. Andrew's Church was chosen as the Peterborough Prebytery's nomination for the presidency of the Bay of Quinte Conference which is to meet in Smith's Falls in June of this year. Dr. McLean is a past chairman of this presbytery. The nomination was made in accordance with the practice by which each Presbytery sets forth one candidate for the office.

Reports from the home missions at Apsley, Hiawatha and Wesley indicated progress during 1936. The usual annual grants of $500 to the Apsley mission, $350 to the Hiawatha missions and $200 to the Wesley missions were made.

A request that the Peterborough Presbytery make a contribution to the church emergency fund for assistance of ministers with particularly low salaries was considered. The meeting was averse to any action by the Presbytery, leaving the matter of contributions up to the individual ministers and Boards.

Trained Teachers

A need for more highly trained teachers in the Sunday schools was urged by Rev. C. H. Ferguson of Bethany in an address when the Christian Education Committee took charge of the meeting in the afternoon. It was pointed out that a course for Sunday school teachers is now being offered in the Y. W. C. A. and that similar courses are scheduled for Cavan and Norwood but he recommended that for Sunday school teaching should be given in each Sunday school.

Speaking on "Evangelism in the Sunday school," Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James Church, Peterborough, declared that the children in most present-day Sunday schools count the days until they can quit. Of many of these, nothing more is heard for they have not been brought to the point where they go on readily into the adult membership of the church, he said. Evangelism should start in the Sunday schools rather than merely in the churches, he declared.

Rev. Dr. McLean pointed to a serious drift of young people away from the churches as he addressed the gathering on "Adult Education." He suggested the cause of the drift might be that the young people are not getting what they want from the church.

A need for a greater study of foreign missions was urged by Rev. R. M. McMullin of Apsley who spent 14 years in Korea.

During the session, it was reported that the missionary maintenance fund in the Peterborough Presbytery showed an advance of $674 in 1936 over 1935.

PONTYPOOL

Mr. Jim Trick had the misfortune of having his truck burned last week. Mr. Trick had just backed it out of the garage when it started, and an attempt to extinguish the flames proved fruitless. However, Mr. Trick succeeded in saving the tires and flat bottom.

John Payne and Lorne McGill took a truck load of potatoes to Peterborough Saturday, which seem to be in good demand at the present time.

A number from the village attended the house party at Lorne Farrow's on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kellett and small daughter, of Oshawa, spent the week-end in Pontypool.

OBITUARY

ELIJAH McKAY
(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Feb. 24—The death of Elijah McKay after a long illness occurred at the home of his brother-in-law, Bert McIlmoyle, on Friday evening. The deceased was in his forty-fourth year and had lived here all his life. Of a quiet and unobtrusive disposition, Elijah was liked and respected by everyone who knew him. St. George's Church was filled on Sunday afternoon for the funeral service which was conducted by Rev. C. A. G. Spence. Mrs. Killborn played the Dead March in Saul as the cortege left the church for the burial in the family plot in the churchyard. A brother, John, living on the homestead, and a sister, Mrs. Bert McIlmoyle of Burleigh survive him.

HARRY ELLIOTT
(Examiner Correspondence.)

EAST EMILY, Feb. 24.—Melville Elliott received the sad news on Thursday of the death of his brother Harry Elliott of Cattington, Alberta, who died suddenly on Wednesday at the age of 56 years.

Mr. Elliott was a son of the late Sarah MacPherson and George Elliott and spent his childhood days on the homestead where Melville Elliott now resides.

He lived in this district until a young man when he learned the cheese-making trade and was later united in marriage to Miss Tigh of Peterborough and moved west where he had been for the past 30 years.

In religion he was an Anglican and a member of St. John's Church, Emily.

He leaves to mourn his death his sorrowing wife, three sisters and 2 brothers, Mrs. Charles Tigh of Vancouver, Mrs. Bert Ford of Vancouver and Mrs. Willis Tully of Springville and Jim of Smith and Melville on the homestead.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon.

GEORGE H. HENDERSON.

TWEED, Feb. 24. —George Hall Henderson died suddenly at the family residence at Lime Lake, in the Township of Hungerford, on Sunday, February 21st.

The late Mr. Henderson had reached an advanced age, being in his 82nd year. He was born in Hungerford township and had resided there all his life. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson. In religion he was a member of the United church and fraternally he was an Orangeman.

Surviving him are one daughter, Mrs. Norman Alexander, Roslin; three sons, Ward, Herbert and William, all of Lime Lake; three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Alexander, Hillier, Ont., Mrs. Ella Jarmin, Watford, Ont., Mrs. Herman Masters, Hamilton; three brothers, Mr. Thomas Henderson, Hillier, Ont., Mr. Robert Henderson, Kingston; Mr. Andrew Henderson, Napanee; three half sisters, Mrs. Maude Bird, Mrs. Elias Hudgins and Mrs. James Alexander.

The funeral was held from his late residence on Tuesday afternoon, February 23rd. The services were held at his home at 2.00 p.m. and interment was at Bunker Hill cemetery.

JOHN MARTIN.

TWEED, Feb. 24.—One of Hastings county's oldest and most respected citizens passed away last Tuesday morning at his home in Wollaston township, in the person of Mr. John Martin.

Mr. Martin, who last October celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday, was in apparent good health until three weeks ago. The late Mr. Martin was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and came to Canada as a boy with his aunt and uncle, the late Mr. and Mrs. Colin Livingstone and settled on what is known as the Livingstone homestead in the township of Limerick.

In 1888 he married Margaret Menzie, who with a family of four boys and three girls survive him, namely: Colin of Hamilton, (Jessie), Mrs. R. Watt of Wellington; Sandy of Eldorado; (Susan), Mrs. I. H. Brinklow, of Trenton; (Barbara), Mrs. M. A. Park, Jack and Malcolm of Ormsby, and Neil and George who still reside on the homestead.

In politics the late Mr. Martin was a staunch Conservative, a member of the Presbyterian church and honorary member of the Madoc Lodge, A.F. & A.M.

The funeral service was held in the Presbyterian church at Ormsby on Thursday with the Rev. Mr. Vatcher conducting the service. Interment was made in L'Amable cemetery.

MRS. FLORA ANN MILLIGAN.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 24.—Word has been received of the recent death of Flora Ann Milligan, widow of Alfred Milligan, of Melrose, Ont., who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. Gaylord, of Robinhood, Sask., after an illness of a week's duration.

Deceased, whose maiden name was Flora Ann Parks, was born in the County of Hastings, Ontario, in 1855. Her husband predeceased her some seventeen years ago, and thirteen years ago, she went to the west with her daughter, in whose home she continued to reside.

The body was brought to Conquest and funeral service was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Seasy. Rev. F. A. Sharpley of Conquest United Church conducted the service at Fertile Valley Cemetery, where interment was made. The bearers were all grandsons of the deceased.

There are left to mourn her loss six daughters: Mrs. W. C. Seasy and Mrs. R. M. Armstrong of Conquest, Sask.; Mrs. A. Gaylord of Robinhood, Sask.; Mrs. W. M. Morden and Mrs. L. Lansing of Shannonville, Ont.; Mrs. C. B. Freeman of Barrie, Ont., and two sons, Dayton and John, both of Shannonville, Ont. Twenty-eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren also survive. One sister, Mrs. C. Morden, of Lacombe, Alberta, also survives her.

MISS TILLEY BROOKS.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24.—The death occurred on Wednesday of Miss Tilley Brooks, in Cainsville, Ontario. The deceased, who had been in poor health for some time, died of pneumonia at the age of 76. Born near Hastings, Miss Brooks was well-known in this district until she and her sister moved to Cainsville 25 years ago. A life-long member of the United Church in which work she took an active part, she is survived by three sisters: Miss C. A. Brooks of Cainsville, Mrs. Ida Sparling of Cobourg, and Mrs. Charles Longmuir of Campbellford. The funeral will be held on Thursday, and the remains laid to rest in Farrington Cemetery, Brantford.

GO TO HOSPITAL IF FORM FILLED

ing to make cheap political capital out of the child's affliction?"

"The facts in the statement I made are true," declared Dr. Walsh rising abruptly. "I'm prepared to back them up. Dr. Doyle of the health clinic and I talked the case over and I was told there was no use applying for admission for the boy because there were a thousand or more patients on the waiting list."

Mr. Hepburn hit the roof. "I say," he said, "no application was made and you were derelict in your duty——"

"Shame! Stop it!" were some of the cries thrown at the Premier from the Opposition benches.

Won't Stop It.

"I won't stop it," he fired back. "There's nothing more contemptible one can do than what the member for East Hastings did." This instance, he said, reading from departmental files, was not the only instance where in order to play politics against the Government "Tory officials" had withheld applications for hospital care that should have been sent in.

Deriding the mental hospitals program upon which the former Henry Administration had embarked after dissolution of the Legislature in 1934, and on the very eve of a general election, Mr. Hepburn charged that some $710,000 had been voted by that Government by special warrant, and that in some instances foundations of the proposed buildings had been started without a single plan for the structures having been drawn. "We", said he, "are approaching this mental accommodation problem in a proper, intelligent manner, and when we start on a program in the spring we will ask the Legislature to vote the moneys required, and not by any special warrant."

The Government, he said, had "appealed to reason" in the East Hastings fight, which was more than could be said of the Conservative tactics. The paid campaign literature spread around by the Tories had been "absolutely untrue." Every one knew, said he, that the present Administration at Queen's Park was " a Liberal Government—a Reform Government," and not an O'Connor Government, as East Hastings was told.

The Tory claim that great sums of money had been transferred from the public to the separate schools was "absolutely false," he said. The story that he and his Cabinet had imposed twelve new forms of taxation on the people of Ontario since assuming office, was "a deliberate lie."

Probe Meighen Activities.

Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck to-day prepared legislation to enable the Ontario Government to investigate companies with which Senator Arthur Meighen, Conservative Leader in the Senate, was associated prior to and during 1934.

Announcement of such legislation was made in the Legislature yesterday by Premier Mitchell Hepburn, who said he had been "waiting for the chance" to tell something about friends of the Conservative Party.

Interjection of Senator Frank O'Connor's name into House proceedings by George S. Henry, Conservative House Leader, led to Premier Hepburn's attack on Senator Meighen who, he said, benefitted by "a cold, calculated scheme to defraud the people of Ontario" in the purchase by the Henry Government of the Abitibi Canyon power development.

Resuming the Throne Speech debate yesterday, Premier Hepburn denied hotel licenses had been issued freely to friends of the Government. He said the Breadalbane Hotel, Toronto, which Mr. Henry mentioned, was owned by a prominent Conservative. Mr. Henry asked if Senator O'Connor had a financial interest in it.

The Premier then launched into an attack on Senator Meighen. He denied Senator O'Connor had any association with the hotel and Mr. Henry withdrew the charge.

"In my opinion the nefarious Abitibi deal was negotiated for the purpose of recuperating Meighen's losses," declared the Premier.

"It was a cold, calculated scheme to defraud the people of Ontario for Meighen's benefit," he went on. "He violated his oath of office. He took advantage of inside information as a Hydro Commisioner to speculate personally and through the medium of companies with which he was associated, and he should be made to pay the price."

Mr. Hepburn said the Henry government refused a proper investigation of charges made against Meighen by Vancouver investors because Meighen "was important to the Tory party."

"You wouldn't dare touch Meighen but we're going to touch him," he said.

Seek Power For Inquiry.

After the Legislature sitting, Mr. Hepburn said he thought the power to make the investigation would be obtained through an amendment to the Securities Commission Act.

The Abitibi deal, to which the Premier had reference, was the purchase by the Henry government of $20,000,000 in outstanding bonds of the Abitibi Power Co. Through the purchase the government became owner of the Abitibi Canyon development.

Premier Hepburn discussed the Hastings by-election December 9 and concluded it was not a major defeat for the Liberal party because the riding was normally Conservative and had given larger majorities than that of December 9.

He said the Separate school question became the chief issue of Conservative appeals intended to "prejudice the overwhelming Protestant majority" This was in spite of the fact the only way the Assessment Act amendment allocating certain taxes to the Separate schools affected Hastings East was in the diversion of $200 taxes at Tweed.

"Religious prejudice has been stirred for political aggrandizement," he said.

Mr Hepburn said there had been many charges against the Liquor Commission administration but he challenged any member to make them on his responsibility as a member of the House.

Sufferer Follows Good Advice —and Takes Kruschen

The writer of the following letter had a bad attack of rheumatism, and was advised to take Kruschen. He did so, and describes his experiences in the following words:—

"About two years ago I developed a severe attack of rheumatism in my left shoulder blade. I tried all sorts of remedies, but with no results, until one day my brother-in-law, on hearing of my suffering, exclaimed, 'There is only one thing for rheumatism! That is—Kruschen Salts!' I decided to purchase a bottle, and for the first week took a teaspoonful in a glass of hot water each morning. The pain gradually disappeared and has now gone entirely. I am still taking my early morning dose, as I feel convinced that it is helping to keep me fit."—J. G. B.

Rheumatic conditions are frequently the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients of these Salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

In Revision Of 1937 Budget The Finance Committee Clipped $34,000 From Board Of Works

Increases Are General In Every Department Committee Members Find

$27,500 FROM GOV'T

In the revision of the council's budget Tuesday night the appropriation for the Board of Works was clipped from $114,000 to $80,000, which was $5,000 less than the allowance which Alderman Sloan said would satisfy him.

Mayor Macdonald and Alderman Hamilton had pruned the board's estimates to $76,000, but Alderman Glover said that in view of the improvement in general conditions and the council's desire to increase employment of labor he was in favor of transferring $5,000 to the Board's appropriation from the $15,000 sum set aside for reserve against loss on taxes.

"That will give $10,000 for new work," Alderman Sloan said, but objected that some of the improvements which had been urged in recent years were again to be delayed. He mentioned the factory wire fence around the city's yard on Townsend street as one project that should not be postponed.

Mayor Macdonald's resolution providing $80,000 for the Board, was seconded by Alderman Cotton, and adopted. Alderman Sloan refused to support it.

Alderman Hamilton's comment was: Eighty thousand dollars is a lot of money even for the Board of Works. The appropriation last year was $65,000, and in 1935 it was $45,000. I know I never could get anything like that."

"Maybe you didn't demand strong enough," Alderman Sloan said.

Fire Department Up

Estimates for the Fire Department were passed last year at $31,400; and they are now advanced to $34,743, including the $1,617 improvement in salaries.

The Parks committee last year was allotted $4,100, and their new appropriation of $6,000, including the wages of five caretakers of rinks, and also an increase that will cover the cost of moving the city's tourist camp from the Exhibition Park to Riverside Park immediately south of Hunter street bridge.

The Board of Health asked for $5,900 last year, and $10,000 in the new budget. This amount includes $1,500 for a public health nurse as a first step in an effort to reduce the city's infant mortality rate.

The Police Department drew $25,000 last year, and their 1937 estimates amount to $29,830, which will permit the engagement of two additional members of the force. Alderman Gordon supported the idea of police patrols for the outlying wards saying that they paid four-fifths of the taxes.

The appropriation for the Public Library is $11,566 as compared with $11,200 last year. The Library's new budget exceeds by $30 the amount which the Library Board is permitter to requisition from the council on the basis of 50 cents per head of population.

The sum in the estimates for loss on taxes is down from $20,000 last year to $15,000.

$27,500 From Government

Two items missing from the tax atructure is $6,500 for mothers' allowances and $19,000 for old age pensions, totalling $27,500. The provincial government has made gift to the city of that amount by assuming the entire cost of both these social services.

Interest charges have decreased from $11,500 to $7,000, largely on account of the new system of prepayment of taxes; but the benefit to the taxpayers who availed themselves of the prepayment plan had to be made up elsewhere in the burget.

Alderman Wilson estimated that the increase in police salaries amounts this year to $1,200.

"We give them a bulk sum, and the Police Commission disposes of the money as they see fit," Mayor Macdonald explained.

Found With Killer

Possibility of an escape plot was investigated when police found 17-year-old Lucille Turner (ABOVE) in the Detroit, Mich., jail cell of Dayton Dean, confessed black legion triggerman, without authorities discovering her absence from the women's ward. Miss Turner, a runaway from Asherville, N.C., kept a three-hour tryst with Dean in his cell, he even serving her dinner he had been allowed to keep in his cell. Police reported finding a wrench and a twisted bolt in Dean's cell, intimating a possible escape plot.

22 NOMINATED FOR DIRECTORATE

Annual Elections Of Chamber Of Commerce To Be Held Tuesday, March 2

With exception of one man who has left the city, all the retiring directors of Peterborough Chamber of Commerce have been nominated as candidate for re-election along with the names of seven new candidates.

Ballots which went out to members of the Chamber on Tuesday night contain a total of 22 names which have been slated by the nominating committee to be voted upon at the annual elections of the Council of the Chamber, to be held on the evening of Tuesday, March 2. Sixteen directors are to be elected.

Candidates are listed on the ballots in alphabetical order as follows: Robert Abbott, T. L. Ashton, Thomas J. Carley, K.C.; R. E. Cutting, James Dutton, James W. Geraghty, George A. Gillespie, James Hamilton, B. W. Harvey George H. Hewitt, R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, W. C. Hughes, H. H. P. Johnston, Ivan Lillico, John R. Marshall, T. F. McArthur, D. G. Melton, William G. Ovens, Fred J. Overend, D. Ross Platt, William A. Richardson, and J. J. Turner.

The seven new candiates who were not on the retiring directorate, are Messrs. Ashton, Gillespie, Harvey, Johnston, McArthur, Ovens and Platt.

The nominating committee was composed of Messrs E. F. Mason chairman; and C. N. Hall, R. L. Dobbin, R. M. Glover and D. J. Fitzgerald. Judges of the election will be Messrs. Charles Saunders, Thomas Mark, J. J. Lewis, and J. E. Sullivan.

MOTOR-BIKE CLUB TO HEAR ADDRESS

Charles Banks, First Owner Of Motorcycle In Canada, To Give Lecture

Charlie Banks of this city, who claims ownership to the first motorcycle in Canada, will address motorbike enthusiasts at an open meeting of the Kawartha Motorcycle Club in the Chamber of Commerce at eight o'clock Thursday night. His lecture will deal with the early days of cycling in Peterborough and modern organization work, with pictures being shown.

This club, organized locally last year, plans on a membership of at least 100, embracing Peterborough, Oshawa, Port Hope, Havelock, Campbellford and Trent Bridge. Club business and plans for the summer season will be discussed at the meeting tomorrow. A new store for servicing and equipping motorbikes will be opened here at 227 Hunter street in the near future.

FIFTY PER CENT. OF SALARY CUT IS RESTORED

Finance Committee Of City Council Studies Civic Salary List

EFFECTIVE MARCH 1

Depression period cuts in salaries of the staff of the city hall and fire department were restored 50 per cent by the finance committee's recommendation to the council Tuesday night on Alderman Gordon's motion, seconded by Alderman Cotton.

Alderman Gordon at first suggested that the restoration be made in full, saying that according to the report of the Dominion statistician living costs have advanced 15 per cent.

"Don't you think that is a little too much for one step," Mayor Macdonald counselled. "We could make it half this year, and say half next year. I feel that some of the employees need an increase more than others over what they have been getting, especially those in the lower scale."

That course was followed, and the new scale takes effect on March 1.

Morley E. Shaver's salary as city treasurer was increased from $2,000 to $2,250. This is a straight advance as Mr. Shaver's present was not affected by the cut when he was appointed to the treasury department in 1935.

The salary of A. S. Couper, tax collector, was based on $2,000 subject to the general reduction slicing it to $1,700. It was increased to $1,850.

The schedule of reductions in effect up to the present was as follows:—$600 and under 5%; $600 to $1,200, 10%, $1,200 to $1,800 12½%; $1,800 to $3,000, 15%; over $3,000, 20%.

These percentages are now cut in half by the finance commite's decision.

S. R. Armstrong, city clerk, $3,000 was reduced to $2400 and restored to $2700.

W. J. Henry, city assessor, $2400, reduced to $2040, increased to $2,220.

S. R. Parsons, city engineer, $3500; reduced to $2800; increased to $3,150.

Arthur J. Ringer, assistant assessor, $1500, reduced to $1312.50; restored to $1408.25.

E. A. Outram, assistant city clerk, $1,500, a straight increase of $300 to $1800.

Chas. Stapleton, sanitary inspector, $1700, reduced to $1400, increased to $1500.

A. G. Metheral, relief officer and plumbing inspector, $2,100, reduced to $1785; increased to $1942.50.

Dr. C. B. Waite, laboratory director, $1,000, cut to $900; restored to $1,000.

H. C. Kelsey, laboratory technician, $1200, reduced to $1,080; restored to $1200.

George Grange, caretaker at city hall, $1,550 from which he paid a charwoman $240 according to his reported statement; reduced to $1250, and scrubwoman to get $400 a year paid by the city.

Edward Humpage, auditor, $1120, reduced to $1,008; increased to $1200.

J. O. Fife, operator of sewage plant, $1837.50 reduced to $1531.25; increased to $1600.

Miss Florence Johnston, city clerk's office $1100, adjusted to $1137.50 in 1933; increased to $1200.

Miss J. Waddell, tax office, $900; increased to $1,000.

Other increases were:—Miss G. Perdue from $572 to $700; Miss H. Banks from $650 to $750; Miss E. Thompson $1020, reduced to $990; increased to $1050; Miss C. Long, $960, increased to $1,000.

Miss F. McNaughton, half time, $312, increased to $375.

Miss Blanchard, $624, increased to $700.

Miss Beavis $900, increased to $1,000.

Miss Whaley increased from $12 to $14 a week.

Three men employed at the relief office at $16.50 a week will be paitt $18 a week after March 1.

S. H. Mitchell, bailiff and outside tax collector was engaged for twelve months at the salary of $1,500.

A. M. Cowling, caretaker of public rest room, increased from $17 to $20.

Woman employed in charge of women's rest room $6.25, increased to $10 a week.

John Thirnbeck, Board of Works foreman, increased from $24 to $28 a week.

The increase in the Fire Department salaries totals $1617.80 a year.

STRICKEN WHILE TENDING FURNACE

Frederick Shearer Dies Suddenly From Heart Attack At His Home

Suffering a heart attack Frederick Nihle Shearer collapsed and died while tending the furnace in the basement at his home at 312 Monaghan road shortly after eight o'clock this (Wednesday) morning. He was 64 years of age.

A former member of the Carpenter's Union and prominently identified with the trade since coming here from Lang thirty years ago, Mr. Shearer was in apparent good health until the time of his death. He attended a meeting of contractors and carpenters held in the Chamber of Commerce the previous evening under auspices of The Home Improvement Plant, and news of his sudden passing was a great shock to his many friends. Native of Lang he was a son of the late James Knox Shearer and Isabella Easson. Surviving is his wife, the former Florence May Dale and one son Gordon Sheafer at home. He was a member of Trinity United Church.

In the absence of the Rev. George E. Easton, pastor of Trinity United Church services are to be conducted at the residence at 2 p.m. Saturday by the Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean, pastor of St. Andrew's Church. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

Home Improvement Plan Can Become Great Aid To City Ernie Hensley Writes

Ernie Hensley of Flint, Mich., formerly of Peterborough, in a letter to Roland Denne to-day expresses his confidence that the Home Improvement Plan can become a great aid to Canada and to Peterborough in relieving unemployment and promoting business prosperity. He relates his observations in Great Britain and the United States, and extends his best wishes to the Improvement Plan committee in Peterborough.

"I got my usual copy of The Examiner to-day," Mr. Hensley wrote to Mr. Denne, "and I was delighted to learn that you have decided to accept the chairmanship of the new Improvement program. I know you will be a great help in putting over this scheme which will benefit not only Peterborough and its citizens but the country at large.

We get the Examiner every day and look forward with delight to anything that will help benefit the best little city in Canada."

CHIEF IS HIT.

Chief Constable Bert Biddle of Picton is in the Prince Edward county hospital suffering from shock and bruises as the result of being struck by a motor car while he was directing traffic on Picton's main street.

ONLY SIX ORIGINALS.

Peterborough Rotarians will be interested in learning that there are only six of the original members of the Trenton Rotary Club, formed in 1922, left in the club. They are Ralph Bonter, A. Cuffe, Chester Lott, H. O'Rourke, William House

PARTS OF CANAL OPEN.

Skaters have forsaken the ice surface of the Canal since the present mild weather set in. Parts of the Canal are now wide open and other stretches have been rendered useless for skating by a deep covering of surface water. The greater part of Little Lake's surface is now open water.

TO INVADE TORONTO.

Members of the Canadian General Electric Company Social and Athletic Club will invade Toronto this Saturday on a special C.P.R. train leaving here at 1.30 p.m., with another special back at midnight Saturday night. Bowling and the pro hockey game between Maroons and Leafs, for which the club has secured a block of tickets, will be the attraction.

CORONATION NOVELTIES.

With the Coronation of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth rapidly aproaching, local shops are already beginning to display Coronation souvenirs. China shops are displaying special Coronation ware, while jewelers have received shipments from England of some attractive brooches and tie pins, the former being made up in the pattern of tiny jeweled crowns and the latter as be-jeweled sceptres, and the like.

TO ALDRESS KINSMEN.

It is announced in the club's bimonthly bulletin that Jack Dishart is to address the Kinmen at the dinner meeting at Empress Hotel on Thursday night. The subject of Mr. Dishart's topic will be "New Science of Seeing. The address will take the form of a brief outline of what has been accomplished in the last few years in the field of research; the study of correct lighting and its effect on the eyesight of the race. Mr. Dishart is one of the leading authorities in the city on the matter of lighting.

AUGMENTS HIS SALARY

"If I can't earn $3,000 a year in Peterborough I'll leave the city," City Treasurer Morley E. Shaver declared at the finance committee meeting Tuesday night. He works after hours to augment the salary the city pays him. "He is not getting half what other cities pay their treasurer," Ald. Gordon remarked. The discussion arose out of Ald. Gordon's enquiry about Dr. Fraser, M.O.H., doing pathological work at the Nicholls Hospital. Alderman Stocker said that except in emergencies it was after the office hours.

THE FEAST OF LOTS.

Peterborough Jews with those of their religion the world over will this evening at sundown commence the celebration of the festival of Purim, the feast of lots, which commemorates an ancient attempt to persecute the Jews. The occasion is observed with feasting and gaiety and presents are given to the poor. The story of the festival dates back to four centuries before the beginning of the Christian era and refers to the plot of Haman against all the Jews in the kingdom of Persia, when Haman drew lots to decide the date of the massacre. Hence the name "Purim" which means "lots."

CORONATION BALL.

The executive of the Kinsmen Club together with the general committee recently held a meeting at the home of Vern Selkirk when plans were further advanced for the Coronation Ball which the club is sponsoring in the Legion Hall on Wednesday, May 12. Committees were named, the chairmen of which are as follows: General, Vern Selkirk; Music, E. A. Chalmers; Invitations, Ed. Riley; Decorations, H. H. P. Johnston; Publicity, Alex Solitt; Dance and Program, Dr. M. Crough; Refreshments, Kel Sheehy; Favors, Jack Steinhouse; Legal, A. L. Elliott; Finance, Bob Leeming.

Y. P. UNION.

Miss Ruth Parnall, convenor of the Christian Culture committee, was in charge of the meeting of the Young People's Union of George street United Church, held on Tuesday evening with an attendanceof approximately fifty young people. An address on "The Charm of the Bible", was presented by A. Stewart, superintendent of the Sunday School, with a discussion period following. Miss Ruth Parnall and Mel Akers were appointed to debate against members of the Young People's Union of Mark street United Church, at the regular meeting of the George street branch on March 9th. The Worship period was taken by Miss Norma Buck and Cecil Wasson and Miss Ruth Parnall led the opening sing-song and also took charge of a recreation period.

$300 GRANT TO TOURIST BODY.

G. K. Fraser, F. J. Overend and E. F. Mason of the Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton Tourist Association, asked the council for a grant of $300 Tuesday night to assist this new organization in their campaign to increase tourist traffic into the district. Lindsay has contributed $100, Victoria and Haliburton $100, Peterborough county $100. A booklet with a double page spread devoted to Peterborough will have a circulation of at least 10,000 copies, Mr. Fraser said, and its distribution will have the assistance of Standard Oil Company and both the C.P.R. and C.N.R. in the United States. Other promotional projects were mentioned, and Alderman Glover said the Association's request would be "taken care of" out of the appropriation of the Manufacturers' committee.

AT THE EMPRESS.

Registered at the Empress Hotel are R. H. Bristol of Fort Worth, Texas, D. M. Galbraith of Aurora, A. C. Orr of Montreal, C. Campbell, Kingston and J. R. Shannon, Hamilton.

TAKES PANAMA CRUISE.

William P. Eastwood, manager of Peterborough Automotive Supply Limited, sailed to-day from New York on a cruise to Jamaica and Panama. He will be absent from the city for a month.

LEAVES HOSPITAL.

Herbert Clark of Lindsay, employee of the Canadian National Railways who lost his right arm in an accident several weeks ago, was released from Nicholls Hospital on Tuesday. He returned to his home in Lindsay.

DUCKS FLYING NORTH.

Word of Ontario's warm winter seems to have spread down to the duck marshes in Louisiana and Florida, for reports of flights of ducks northward over the city are heard quite frequently. A large flight was sighted yesterday. The birds were flying at a high altitude and were headed almost straight north.

LEGION NOMINATIONS.

Members of the Canadian Legion are reminded that nominations for the offices of president, first and second vice-president, and five executive posts will be received up to 5 p.m. March 3 by the special committee composed of Doug Loomis, Harry Bassett, Chas. Lasenby and Frank Leether. The elections are on March 15.

SEVEN ZERO DAYS.

Unless a severe spell of cold weather comes, this winter is almost certain to set up some kind of record for mildness, Weatherman A. O. Phillips reports. To date, there have been only seven days on which temperatures of zero or lower have been reached. Two were recorded in November and three in December. In January the thermometer reached zero only on one day and one day only has the zero mark been touched so far in February.

CHALLENGE ISSUED

In connection with the Masonic picnic tomorrow evening at the Y.M.C.A., a rumored challenge wrestling match between W. L. (Bill) Ferguson and Dr. Jack Craig may be staged in the gym about 10.00 p.m. Lodge members will have a wide choice of athletic entertainment including volleyball, bowling, wrestling, swimming and such recreations as billiards and bridge. A swim exhibition will be held in the pool at 9.00 o'clock.

HOLD SKATING PARTY.

Twenty-five members of the Knox Young People's Union enjoyed a skating party at the All Saints' rink last night. The skaters were joined by 15 other members at a supper served at the church following the party at the rink, the losers of an attendance contest held earlier in the year playing host to the winners. Social Convenor Alice Davis was in charge of the supper. She was assisted by Mrs. George Mongraw, Mrs. John Oesk and Mrs. John Donaldson. Due to the death of the late Rev. S. G. McCormack, the party had been postponed from an earlier date.

BUILDERS ARE RESPONDING WELL TO INVITATION

Bricklayers, Cement Men, Plasterers And Stonemasons Meet Tonight

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN

"It is up to the bricklayers, cement men, plasterers and stone masons to-night to keep up the good work the contractors and carpenters started last night," Roland Denne, chairman of the general committee of the Home Improvement Plan observed to the Examiner to-day.

Fifty-seven building contractors and carpenters was the attendance at the first group meeting in the Chamber of Commerce, exceeding the most hopeful expectations of the response to the federal government's plan to promote employment.

Mr. Denne said he hoped that next week would find the committee ready to expand their program, and to carry the details to the public.

Enthusiasm Shown.

"Carpenters and contractors left no doubt about their enthusiasm," H. T. Hickey remarked to the Examiner in regard to the Tuesday night meeting at which he was appointed as the deputy of the contractors to the general advisory committee.

"We all know there is an accumulated demand and need for the repairing and modernizing of homes in Peterborough. Citizens who are going to take advantage of the Home Improvement Plan will be well advised to do so early in the season. They have all the best mechanics to choose from at this stage, the season is open and favorable for work, and you can never tell what the cost of materials will be a year from now or even before then.

Peterborough has first class workmen in the building trades, and it is a great pity tha they have not been able to find more regular employment during the recent years. The Home Improvement Plan is intended to improve that condition, and I believe that a large number of citizens will do their part in trying to make this national movement a real success in Peterborough.

Of recent years much has been heard of the lack of opportunity for our young men starting out on their life work. I believe the construction industry offers great possibilities, and it is hoped that many of them will find an opening this year. Increased employment by the Home Improvement Plan would help materially in improving that condition."

GOING TO BANFF

Jerry Duffus, president of Peterborough Ski Club is planning to be present at the Dominion Ski Championships at Banff, where the cream of Canada's skiers will pile thrill on thrill for the large gallery of spectators expected from all parts of the continent. Mr. Duffus, who declares he has no intention of competing in any of the events, is leaving here over the week-end. Leaving Toronto on Sunday night by train, he will join the Transcontinental Limited at Sudbury which will probably have aboard upwards of two hundred winter sports enthusiasts from Eastern Canada who will be making the trip out to the Canadian Rockies for the championship ski meet.

Carpenters And Contractors Name Their Representatives

Fifty-Seven Representatives Of The Two Trades Attend Home Improvement Meeting

PLAN TO OPEN BUREAU

Henry T. Hickey was unanimously elected as representative for the building contractors, and Jack Wiley was popular choice as representative of the carpenters, to the Advisory Committee for Peterborough district of the National Employment's Home Improvement Plan at a meeting of master carpenters and contractors on Tuesday evening. Fifty-seven representatives of the two trades were present at the meeting.

Roland Denne, chairman, outlined the aims of the local Advisory Committee which is working in conjunction with the National Committee to relieve unemployment by remodelling and repairing homes which for the past number of years have been neglected.

Ross Thompson spoke from his observations of the great amount of work of this nature that urgently needs doing in Peterborough, and mentioned specially the many large old-fashioned houses that could be made into modernized duplexes.

Many carpenters spoke in appreciation of the government's plan and the deep interest that public-spirited men and women have taken in the idea to get men back to work. With this in mind, George Sloan stated that in all his experience in the building trades, he had never seen a time when prospects appeared better than in the present year. "The government is behind us, the banks are behind us with the lowest rate of interest in history, and the public is behind us, and there is certainly the work to be done," he said.

Information Bureau.

When the Advisory Committee is complete provision is to be made for establishment of an information bureau in the joint interests of the home owner and the tradesmen.

Another meeting at the Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for 7.30 tonight, at which plasterers, cement workers bricklayers and masons are invited. On Thursday, plumbers, sheetmetal workers, steam fitters, tinsmiths and electricians will meet the general committee and on Friday at the same time and place painters and decorators will convene.

Mr. Denne stresses the need of the utmost co-operation in this venture if the citizens and workmen are to get the maximum value for their outlay of money.

For Thursday, February 25

A DAY of most surprising adventures and experiences, with quite unexpected denouments, is read from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects of important planets. There is a possibility that very quick and decisive action may have to be taken because of fresh opportunities of major influence on the fortunes, environs, interests and associations.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of sudden developments, with major decisions affecting the future destiny and happiness. New and surprising opportunities may call for radical changes in surroundings, plans and contacts.

A child born on this day may have a fine mentality for delving into original channels of science and it may be adventurous, romantic, restive and fond of change.

TWO ORGANISTS WILL EXCHANGE

Cyril Rice Going To Orillia With R. B. Harle Coming To Peterborough

Cyril Rice, supervisor of music in the country schools in this district and organist and choirmaster of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, will leave this city early in March to become supervisor in Simcoe county. He will be organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's church in Orillia. A prominent Liberal, Mr. Rice is the president of the Twentieth Century Club.

Mr. Rice's move to Orillia is in the nature of an exchange, and Robert B. Harle will take his place in the music field. Mr. Harle was in charge of the post Mr. Rice will take over. Although Mr. Rice is at present confined to his home suffering from an attack of influenza, and the actual date of the exchange is uncertain, it is expected to take place during the first week of March, in order that both men will be able to train their choirs for Easter services.

Mr. Harle is a supervisor of many years' standing, having had charge of music in the schools of Owen Sound for four years, and in Stratford for a like time. He will be senior supervisor in this district in point of experience. Mr. Rice will occupy a like position in Simcoe county.

SPORTS APPEAL

A request by Lou Brooks and Ed Riley for better dressing rooms with hot water at Riverside Park for summer and fall sports was referred by the finance committee Tuesday night to the Parks Committee. Mr. Brooks said that Lindsay, Belleville and Oshawa have much better facilities of this kind. Riverside Park was one of the most beautiful athletic fields in eastern Ontario, but the dressing quarters were so unsuitable that local and visiting teams had to use the Y.M.C.A.

OBITUARY

MRS. H. POLLEY.

The many friends of Mrs. H. Polley will be sorry to hear of her death in Toronto on Monday after a short illness.

Mrs. Polley was taken to the hospital last Friday and on Monday at 12.30 passed away.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and daughter, Helen, her mother, Mrs. W. D. Ketcheson of Toronto, also three sisters, Mrs. W. Branscombe, Toronto, Mrs. J. M. Park, Hamilton, Mrs. R. J. Campbell, Port Elgin and two brothers, D. R. Ketcheson of Frankford and M. E. Ketcheson of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Thursday.

GIRL COACHES BOY PUCKISTS

Five Teams In Regina City League Are Coached By Young Lady

PLAYERS ARE YOUNG

REGINA, Feb. 24.—(CP).—Nucleus of a clan of future hockey greats, Regina's "Neighborhood League" ranks as one of the strangest in the Dominion.

Five teams compose the West-End circuit, one of which is coached by a girl, Dot Burrell, prominent in Saskatchewan swimming circles.

Players range in age from nine to 11 years. All live within close radius of the ice sheet. The league has no definite schedule. Team managers watch to keep even in number of games played.

No major hockey league squad, however, packs more of the "will to win" spirit, however, than these midget puck-chasers. They are all "sixty-minute men," and have developed a surprising amount of technique under steady coaching.

Importations are out. Players to be eligible for membership must live in the neighborhood. To league members it ranks as the most important hockey body in Canada

LAKEFIELD HIGH ENTERS O.J.H.A.

Drawn Against Cobourg In First Of Ontario Juvenile Puck Playdowns This Week

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 24. — The Lakefield High School has entered a team in the Juvenile O.H.A. series. The other teams entered in this zone are Cobourg, Oshawa, Campbellford, Warkworth, Kingston, Toronto, Fairbank Aces, Toronto St. Helen's, and Toronto Panthers.

The Lakefield team is drawn against Cobourg in the first round of the series. Knock-out games are played, with each team getting a chance to play one game on their home ice. Points in the games will count, and the team with fewest points will be eliminated.

The games are played under regular O.H.A. rules. Referees will be provided by the home teams. Each team is allowed to sign only twelve players instead of the usual fifteen allowed in regular O.H.A. games.

The Cobourg-Lakefield games will be played this week, it is expected. The Lakefield team is coached by Messrs. H. P. Barrett and T. W. Chaplin.

FORMER ESTEVAN PLAYER HONORED

Johnny Molyneaux Voted Most Valuable Berlin Club Player

ESTEVAN, Sask., Feb. 24.—(CP).—Johnny Molyneaux of Estevan, has been voted the most valuable player on the Berlin (Germany) Hockey Club, according to word received here.

Early in the season he was the only Canadian member of the team, but others from the Dominion have since joined. A German-Canadian club, with many Canadians on its roster, also operates in Berlin.

The Berlin club played two games with Kimberley Dynamiters, at present touring Europe. They lost both tilts but only by narrow margins.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

SOMEONE REMARKED once that there is no royal road to algebra, or something similar. The same applies to good hockey teams. They don't just happen—not even when a smart bunch of pucksters are lined up together. They must practise, practise, practise. Most of the local fans who have seen the Petes or Colts play in O.H.A. games here figured they just got together maybe one or two nights before the game for a bit of a drill. But those players were up at the Brock—and the Colts still are—night after night for stiff practise sessions of one or two hours. Every night when they have no game (except when there is no ice) the boys tear around and work up a genuine sweat. Otherwise, they'd never last out the gruelling season which makes up modern hockey. There is no royal road to puck fame—it's hard work.

* * * * * * *

OUR COLTS are right in the pink for their big game in Kingston tonight. They tangle with the Red Indians of that town on the huge artificial ice surface of the Jock Harty Arena. Return game is here Friday with goals counting on the round. The Colts naturally will try to not only win this tilt tonight but to grab a nice lead in case the ice is heavy back here on Friday. It should be a swell series before one squad is eliminated for the year and the other ankles into further O.H.A. junior "B" playdowns.

THIS FROM Belleville: "The Kingston juniors, who eliminated Whitby, meet the Peterborough Colts in Kingston on Wednesday and return on Friday. Judging from what we saw of Frank Buckland's kids, Wally Elmer's Limestone City juniors will have to be much better than we imagine if they expect to win over the Colts." Well, we'll know more about it late tonight. The team left early this afternoon and scores will be sent back to this office and the Brock St. rink—but do not phone too early.

SENIOR CITY Hockey League—nee Blood and Thunder Loop—winds up its schedule tomorrow eve at the Brock with three games. Outboard Marines play Mayfairs at seven, Bewdley meets Westclox at eight, and Millbrook mixes with Lakefield at nine. These games were postponed Jan. 14th and they have a direct bearing on the final standing. The squads will be battling their heads off and every game—most especially the first—should be a lulu wrapped in cellophane or a humdinger in a plush box. Ought to draw a crowd.

MONARCHS DEFEATED All Saints 2-1 and Canucks took a 4-2 win from St. Peter's in two Junior City Hockey League games last night at the Brock. "This is more of a blood and thunder league than the Senior City Loop," a number of fans remarked as the kids battled it out without a letup and tossed in several fights as well. Two lively tussles, and the final fixtures the end of this week—with playoff berths at stake—should be dandies. They play again Saturday afternoon, Monarchs meeting St. Peter's at two o'clock and Canucks tangling with All Saints at three. Don't overlook the tilt tonight (Wednesday) at eight in the Brock between the smart Campbellford juvenile O.H.A. entry and the local Canucks. Campbellford is grouped with Cobourg, Warkworth, Kingston, Toronto Aces and Toronto Panthers. Mick Magee will referee this game here tonight.

MILD WEATHER has held up the Church Hockey League playoffs. This year 34 games have been postponed in this large minor circuit. The officers are quite worried over the remaining small number of tilts. Inability to get ice and the attempt to co-operate with the Southend Loop has slowed up the schedules even in cold weather. However, they hope to clear it up soon. The thrice-postponed juvenile semi-final between St. Paul's and Mark St. will be run off tonight at nine. If postponed, it'll be Thursday or Friday at seven. Park St. and George St. Bantams play the second of their finals tomorrow e'en at six. The second senior final between Murray St. and All Saints is set for 8.30 o'clock Thursday p.m.

BUNNY MORGANSEN writes in the Tely: "When they found out that the O.H.A. was going to put their junior 'B' team against Northern Vocational, Oshawa withdrew their club and have entered the City League grads in the Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association series. It seems that junior 'B' clubs throughout Ontario have boycotted the Vocational crew. They are still waiting for their first O.H.A. playoff round after winning the Prep School title two weeks ago." If we remember rightly, the Toronto Vocationals went to the S.P.A. finals early this winter against the best junior "A" teams in the Province and, if this is so, we don't blame any junior "B" team—our Colts included—for refusing to meet 'em. What is it anyway, a racket?

* * * * * * *

AFTER WATCHING a number of fist fights in hockey games this winter, it seems to us that something should be done toward having separate penalty boxes. It is rather cruel to take two guys, who have just been slinging punches a few seconds before—and who may be hating each other like the Madrids hate the Rebs—and park 'em side by side in a narrow box. Maybe the powers that be figure that'll subdue the battlers quicker or make 'em feel ashamed, but we figure it is a bit unnatural. After all, when you go to the trouble of working up a good hate you don't like to have to share your blanket with the object of your hatred, now do you? At that, it speaks well for sports when two bitter battlers follow the direction of ye referee's thumb and sit peacefully side by side a moment after trying to slaughter each other.

GRAB-BAG: Trenton Fliers took an 8-4 win in the first of their semi-finals last eve in Ganonoque . . . . While Belleville beat Norwood, 11-5, on Quinte ice . . . . Colts' scores will be announced at tonight's exhibition game at the Brock . . . . Phone either 3505 or 1600 for the score from Kingston . . . . Grove of Lakefield took a 5-3 win from P.C.I. in an exhibition puck tussle at the Brock St. rink yestiddy afternoon . . . . We hear Lakefield High School will enter a team in the O.H.A. juvenile series . . . . Ontario Athletic Commish gives $500 to the O.A.L.A. and a similar amount to the O.B.A.A. as grants . . . . Tickets for Friday's O.H.A. game here are on sale tomorrow . . . . Looks like Point Edward and the Fliers in intermediate "A" finals . . . . And now for the long jaunt to Kingston.

Soccer Notes

The annual general meeting of the Peterborough and District Football Association was scheduled for Monday evening but was postponed until March 15th when the financial statement will be submitted. Owing to the lack of the necessary quorum of the old executive the president thought it advisable to put the adjournament to the later date.

The secretary will write to Bowmanville and Oshawa in regards to their proposed entry into the local league. Perhaps they will have a definite answer for the 15th of March.

Rookie Up With Scoring Leaders

The sensational rookie centre of the Toronto Maple Leafs, Syl. Apps, proving his scoring ability as he goes down the N.H.L. home stretch. He has pulled up to second place in the scoring honors, just a few points behind the leading Larry Aurie of Detroit Red Wings. Apps has been playing spectacular hockey all season, and should be a leading contender for the "best rookie of the year" award.

GEHRIG AND DEAN IN SAME CLASS

Their Methods Differ But Both Still Hold Out For $50,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (A.P.). — Major league baseball's two holdouts for $50,000, Lou Gehrig and "Dizzy" Dean, offer a sharp contrast in publicity methods.

Gehrig, who holds the record for consecutive games played, has consistently been beaten to the verbal punch by his boss, Colonel Jake Ruppert.

Dean, who holds the all-time mark for consecutive popoffs, has outshouted the entire Cardinal front-office this winter.....It has gotten so nowadays you can dial "Dizzy" on any wave length. . . But the big league payoff isn't on a word-count basis.

Strong, silent Gehrig will be paid more than lean, loud Dean, but it's a safe bet both will be on hand for opening day at the ball parks, April 20.

Highest salary ever paid National League pitcher was $23,000, which "Dazzy" Vance collected from the Dodgers in 1931. . . Christy Mathewson and Grover Alexander, in their palmiest days, didn't get half that much.

With kid brothers of each on trial, New York Giants may have another Hubbell-and-Mancuso battery before long.

JERRY HAGEN OUT OF JUNIOR GAME

Kingston Defence Player Suffers Fractured Wrist While Practising

(Special to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 24. — Kingston's hockey hopes sustained a bad blow last night when Jerry Hagen, experienced left defence player, sustained a broken wrist when he crashed into the boards during a practice session. He will be out for some time. The Kingston boys play Peterborough here tonight in the first game of an O.H.A. Junior "B" elimination round. Herbert Clark will fill the vacancy on the rear guard.

Hagen is one of the few American-born players in Canadian amateur hockey.

Ski Notes

(By Andy Rutter).

Well, fellow club members, it looks like at last the weather man has jumped to our side of the fence, and if the weather continues in the present vein, it is very likely that we will be using our new jump by the week-end. In any event there will be instruction classes at 7.30 this evening in Victoria Park, handled by Jack Holland and myself. All members wishing to get a few pointers are urged to be on time. If the weather conditions permit a night run will probably be run Thursday night.

Better get into condition now for the club championship meet, which should bring out some stiff competition this year.

NO WELCOME SMILES

Barber Shop Window Broken By Car.

WABASH, Ind., Feb. 24 (C.P.).—David Springer found no welcoming smiles from employees when he entered a barber shop. There were two reasons:

First—He did not want a haircut or a shave.

Second—He came to get his automobile which had crashed through the shop window when the brakes failed to hold.

The interest in the schedule games is now centered around Group C—the winners in Groups A and B having been declared Tuesday night.

B. Scott defeated R. Adams and finished up at the head of A Group with nine wins and one loss. J. J. Howden won Group B when he was successful against C. Westbrooke; he finishes up his schedule with eight wins and two losses.

But in Group C anything can happen. W. Harvey is ahead with seven wins, one loss, with two games to play. Tom Donaldson has six wins and one loss, with three to play. V. Currie is right in line with seven wins, one loss and one to play, and these boys have to play tonight and tomorrow night. So figure it out for yourself. There are too many "if's" in it for us.

Our club is represented at the Oshawa Bonspiel today (Wednesday) with one rink skipped by J. J. Howden, and supported by Norman Hawley, George Green and J. Welch.

14 UNEMPLOYED HELD

Five-Minute Scuffle Occurs Between Police and Unemployed in Calgary.

CALGARY, Feb. 24 (C.P.).—Fourteen unemployed men were held today on charges of vagrancy and causing a disturbance following a five-minute scuffle yesterday in the city police station. Ten policemen and most of the unemployed suffered cuts and bruises.

The unemployed, who claimed they recently had been cut off relief, were taken into custody after they had asked for food at the city soup kitchen.

"Flash" Murphy's Slip Lost the Championship

Come hockey fans and lend an ear,
We've history that you'd like to hear
The story of "Flash" Murphy's slip,
That cost Dubtown the championship.

That was a hockey game by gar!
The players went so fast and far
That had they not been fenced about
They would have been with Byrd down sout'.

The stakes were big; the scene was tense;
The crowd might well be termed immense;
So packed were people, row on row,
There wasn't room to move a toe.

The greatest team e'er seen arranged
Swept forth that evening on parade;
It was the Durham Bulls, and they Believed they'd won on easy play.

A balanced team, and brilliant, too,
Could skate until the air was blue;
Strong on attack, forechecked or eased,
Did ev'rything they dashed well pleased.

But Dubtown's team was very weak;
In long years past it reached its peak;
Yet home town fans said they'd stay true,
They thought the Flash would pull them through.

Was Murphy not the greatest trick
To ever wield a hockey stick?
A wriggling wraith, a goaling ghoul,
Toyed with opponents like a tool.

So fast was Murphy on that night
The eye could scarce make out his flight;
He made three plays, with any luck,
Before the ref had dropped the puck.

With sweep of blades and crack of sticks
The Durham Bulls showed lots of tricks;
A three-goal lead they quickly made
And Dubtown's hopes began to fade.

Fans called for Murphy loud and long;
They played their hero's favorite song;
But Murphy hardly saw the puck,
Waving to friends who wished him luck.

His teammates lagged, they were all done;
Flash laughed the louder in his fun,
Let Durham players pass at will
And gazed at pretty girls until.

But five small minutes there remained,
Then Murphy seemed at once unchained.
Shot in behind their power play,
Alone he held the Bulls at bay.

He grabbed the puck, detoured a slash,
Weaved down the ice in solo dash,
Drew out the goalie from the net
And scored before he was upset.

While yet the roar was echoing round,
Flash Murphy gave another bound,
His shift tricked the defense to split,
Inside the goal the puck a-lit.

The faceoff came, he got the draw;
"Stickhandle through," yelled out his "Paw"
So Flash cut loose a blinding play
And scored again without delay.

The crowd went wild: they crowed a laugh,
They shrieked for Murphy's autograph;
Called him the apple of their eye,
Their honey bunch and sweetie pie.

The game was tied and all seemed well,
The cheers rose louder, swell on swell,
"The cup," fans roared in one great bawl,
"Will grace the Dubtown city hall."

Scarce thirty seconds of the match
Were left when Flash undid the latch,
Ripped holes in Durham's flagging team,
A king was he in might supreme.

Right thru' he went, in on the goal,
But didn't try to pick a hole,
He still had lots of time to score,
So back to his own end he tore.

He'd go through them again he planned
To make his victory more grand,
And show the fans the ease with which
He pushed the Bulls into the ditch.

But as he headed round his net
His skate caught, making him upset;
Head over heels did Murphy roll,
Taking the puck inside the goal.

The red light flashed; loud groaned the fans,
Murphy crawled out on knees and hands;
He watched the people file away
And knew they'd not forget that day.

51—Christiania—Swings

In following articles we will describe the technique of the various christiania swings. Those of our readers who have studied the books and articles of other writers on the subject will notice that our conception of the technique for different types of christianias differs, in some instances, from theirs. The Swiss technique is the result of the study, not of one man or of one school, but of all the foremost Swiss exponents of the art and of all Swiss ski schools. Before the organization of the Swiss Ski association there were differences of opinion in the various schools regarding the proper methods and classifications, but by the thorough analysis of the fundamental physical and mechanical laws governing the execution, the Swiss classification has been evolved and is accepted and concurred in by the foremost Swiss skiers, both professional and amateur.

Closed Christiania Swing

There are, of course, good skiers who have not been trained in the Swiss technique but it is our opinion that the average skier who has mastered the Swiss methods is more capable of controlled skiing under all conditions than he who has not. Control, which means safety, should be the objective of the student and this will be acquired in the mastery of the various swings.

It is a generally accepted axiom that a good instructor should have a thorough knowledge, both theoretical and practical, of his subject, be able to perform his teachings and have the faculty of imparting his knowledge to his pupils.

RANGER ROOKIE SLAMS IN TWO TO BEAT LEAFS

Wares In His First Night In "Big Time" Gives New York 5th Win Over Toronto

SCORE 2 TO 1

Bruins Hand Americans a 5-2 Trimming On Boston Ice

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—Twenty-one-year-old Eddie Wares has had his moment. The Calgary youngster may be shipped back down the river soon but they can't take away the memories of his first night in the big time. He staged a Dick Merriwell stunt every minor leaguer dreams about but few accomplish.

Wares was brought up from Philadelphia Ramblers last night to play his first National Hockey League game for New York Rangers against Toronto. Lester Patrick tossed him into his Ranger crew with a prayer that not too many goals would be scored down his wing.

The rookie got his chance with just a couple of minutes of the second period to play. Ten thousand spectators had watched Bill Thoms give Toronto a lead in the first period. Then they saw Wares take a perfect pass-out from Joe Cooper to tie the score.

That should have been enough thrill for any player on his first night in the big league. But Wares didn't think so. In the third period he took Neil Colville's pass to drive a 30-footer past Turk Broda for the goal that gave Rangers a 2-1 victory over Toronto.

Last Game Of Season.

It was the last game Leafs and Rangers will play this season unless they meet in the playoffs, and it marked the New Yorkers' fifth victory in six games over Toronto. The Leafs won the other. Wares' goals also kept Rangers within a point of Boston Bruins, runners-up in the American section to Detroit Red Wings, who defeated Americans 5-2 in Boston last night.

Wares and Bryan Hextal, Winnipeg boy, were brought up from Ramblers to take the places of Mac Colville and Alex. Shibicky, out of the game with influenza. Hextall earned an assist on the first goal Wares scored.

The game marked the return of Charlie Conacher, star Toronto right winger, to the game after an absence of more than two months. His broken right wrist seemed to be fully mended and he was given a good workout for his return to the game.

Penalty Proves Costly.

A penalty to Joe Jerwa in the second period of the American-Boston battle probably cost the New Yorkers the game. They took a lead in the first period through goals by Sweeney Schriner and Les Cunningham, but when Jerwa drew five minutes for hitting Bill Cowley with his stick they quickly lost it.

Jerwa drew a misconduct penalty as well as the major when he protested the first penalty. His stick opened a cut that required two stitches. While he was off Hooley Smith beat Alfie Moore, and 18 seconds later Red Beattie took a pass from Leroy Goldsworthy to even the score.

The American defence crumbled midway in the third and Dit Clapper and Charlie Sands ran in two goals in 31 seconds to put Boston away up. Cooney Weiland ended the scoring in the last minute of the game.

Youth and Experience On N.Y. Rangers Defence

"CHING" JOHNSON

JOE COOPER

Hockey-wise Ivan "Ching" Johnson, the veteran, and fiery Joe Cooper, the younger feature this defence duo which on occasion parades in front of the New York Rangers' goal. Cooper is one of the graduates of Lester Patrick's hockey school and a native of the Manitoba capital, but though the Manhattan Blueshirts, now battling for a second place berth in the Stanley Cup playdowns, have been fired with an influx of youth this year, they still call on old Ivan the Terrible to help with the bouncing. Canny Lester kept the hockey-worn defence ace to help coach his youngsters, and the idea has paid big dividends. In addition "Ching" is still able to turn in the odd bang-upgame. Cooper is rated one of the most colorful young defencemen in the game.

CANADIANS SWAMP FRANCE BY 13 TO 1 IN WORLD SERIES

England Beats Hungary 5-0—Both Win Six Straight In First Two Rounds

MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

LONDON, Feb. 24—(C.P.)—The big game of London's hockey season, the clash between Canada and England in the world's amateur hockey championship, to-day was scheduled for Friday night at Wembley Stadium.

Barring a startling upset in another third round match, that game will settle the title, being defended by Percy Nicklin's Canadian-bred English team.

With the four places in the final round settled after last night's games, the teams rest until the final begins to-morrow, with Canada facing Germany, and England meeting Switzerland. On Friday, in addition to the England-Canada scrap, Switzerland will play Germany and the tournament will wind up Saturday with England against Germany and Canada meeting Switzerland.

Canada and England went through the two first rounds with six straight victories each. The Empire teams were not called upon to meet each other during those preliminary rounds. In the final, the team scoring the most wins will take the title, with goal averages settling the issue in case of a tie.

Last night, Kimberley Dynamiters, representing Canada, swamped France, 13-1, while England defeated Hungary, 5-0. Germany obtained its place in the final by ousting Czechoslovakia, 2-1, in a bitter match that went 30 minutes overtime. Switzerland won from Poland, 1-0, in a drab game.

Moncton's Jimmy Foster scored his sixth straight shutout for England last night, while Ken Campbell of Kimberley was robbed of his fifth by a French goal in the last two minutes. Poland scored twice on him in the first round when Canada won 8-2.

Jack Forsey, a member of the Dynamiters last year but this season performing in the English National League, scored four goals for Kimberly to bring his total for the tournament to six. Two goals were scored by Gordon Wilson, George Goble, Fred Botterill and Ralph Redding. Bill Burnett netted the 13th.

LOS ANGELES WINS THIRD CAGE TILT

Newly Crowned Basketball Champs Admit Fords "Fightingest Club We've Met"

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 24—(C.P.)—Firm in the admonition Windsor Fords were "the fightingest club we've ever met," Los Angeles Laemmle Stars, newly-crowned amateur basketball champions of the world, left Windsor to-day for Buffalo, N.Y., on a continuance of their cage tour. With them, the California Giants carried the mammoth Jacob France Trophy, symbolic of their triumph.

Stars earned the laurels, defeating Fords in two successive games of a best of three series over the week-end. Just to make it decisive, they whipped the Canadian champions again last night in a tame exhibition affair, 33-18. In all games the winners appeared to have plenty of power in reserve.

Throwing bullet-like passes over the heads of their smaller opponents, and showing clever plays executed with lightning-like precisions which usually wound up at the Ford basket, the Americans took the first game Saturday, 40-31, and the second Monday, 28-19. Crowds of 2,300 jammed every available inch of space for the first two matches, but only a sprinkling of fans turned out last night.

ST. PETER'S LOSE TO CANUCKS 4-2

Saints' Retain Slight Chance Of Making Junior City League Playoffs

Junior City Hockey League Standing:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Canucks	3	0	2	8
All Saints	2	2	1	5
Monarchs	1	2	2	4
St. Peter's	1	3	1	3

St. Peter's suffered a serious reverse in their hopes for a play-off berth last night when they bowed to Canucks, 4-2, at the Brock St. rink. It was an exciting scrap between husky, well-matched squads and saw two fights break out in the final frame. The Canucks had an edge on speed and took a 3-1 lead in the first period with both teams scoring once in the second chukker. The Saints ganged up plenty in the second and third but could not pull up on even terms.

The speedy Canucks rammed home three in a hurry in the first, Connelly, Coursey and Fleming tallying. Curdin got the only one for the Students. In the second Thornton and Riel both counted. Both goalies had to kick out a bunch through the torrid third. With all the players on both teams battling hard, it would be unfair to name individual stars. The teams:

Canucks: Goal, McKinnon, defence, Giardino and Csumrick; centre, Gilbert; wings, Connelly and Coursey; alternates, Whaley, Ridley, Fleming, Collins and Riel.

St. Peter's: Goal, Shaughnessy; defence, Kelly and Prete; centre, Creighton; wings, Thornton and Sullivan; alternates, O'Leary, Heath, Hoy and Curtin.

Referee, Ernie Wolff.

Norwood High Wins Campbellford Game

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24. — The Norwood High School team won from the boys of the local institution by a score of 4-3 in an exhibition game played in Davidson's Arena on Tuesday. Although both teams displayed some fair hockey, the visitors were heavier and had an edge on the play for a good deal of the game. The score might easily have been doubled as players of both teams missed opportunities when the defence was left wide open with only the goaltender to beat. The game opened lively from the start with both teams giving everything they had, and the first frame closed with Godin and Basken of Norwood each getting a counter when the Campbellford defence was left unguarded while Roe scored the locals' only goal.

In the second the homesters gave the visitors a real run with close checking and combinations in which Farrell and Roe played a prominent part seeming to be all over the ice in pursuit of the puck despite heavy body checking by the visitors. The period ended with the score of 3-3, with credit for the scoring going to Lumsdin for Norwood and Roe and Farrell for the C.H.S.

Half-way through the third Puffer netted the winning goal for the visitors, who then settled down to defensive hockey which the local boys could not penetrate, and when the final bell was sounded Campbellford had lost the game.

Norwood — Goal, Lobb; defence, Moore, Richardson; forwards, Godin, Lumsden, Basken; subs., McCarthy, Lumsden, Clark, Puffer.

Campbellford — Goal, O'Sullivan; defence, Atkinson, P. O'Sullivan; forwards, Jarvis, Farrell, J. Kelly; subs., Roe, Phillips, Stephens, J. M. Kelly, Robertson.

Referee—D. Couch.

MONARCHS WIN 2-1 TO STAY IN RACE

Nudge Out Verdict In Hard Battle With All Saints' Of Junior City Loop

Monarchs kept in the race for a Junior City Hockey League playoff berth by nosing out a 2-1 decision over All Saints before a slim crowd at the Brock St. rink last night. They got a goal each in the second and third frames while the losers scored one in the first of a hotly-contested match. Play was fast and rather rough most of the way, culminating in a lively fist fight in the third which threatened to involve most of the players before peace was restored.

Watson tallied for All Saints on a neat try in the initial inning for the only score. The second period was practically over when the Monarchs evened the count after persistent ganging. Brault shoving in the disc. Midway through the third chapter, with each side short a player, Vitarelli went in fast from the side to sink the winning marker. All Saints pressed hard from then on and Monarchs had to play a defensive game to hold their slim lead. Both goalies made

The Day That I Forget
By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

In Hollywood following an ingenious maneuver on the part of his young wife, Janet, Joel Paynter, second-rate Broadway actor, begins work under a short term contract. Meanwhile Janet makes a point of cultivating the right people, joins a tennis club and meets Vernon Chester, an important director. Chester asks her to play tennis and have lunch with him. Chester likes Janet and learns inadvertently that she and Joel have been reading a best-seller about to be screened by Chester. Chester selects Joel for an important character role in his new picture and Janet virtually dictates the terms of an attractive new contract and option. Joel makes screen history in "The Dance Was Long" and the Paynters find fame and fortune at their feet within eight months. Janet has everything that money can buy yet happiness eludes her because she finds she has nothing more to do. Janet longs for a baby but the studio says "no", frowning on any domestic notes for Joel, now the popular American lover.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 19

MR. AND MRS. JOEL PAYNTER were free, white and over 21. For them also, supposedly, there was the right of the pursuit of life, love and happiness.

There was a big world about and beyond them. There were the means of seeing it. They had no illnesses and no poverty. There was no one dependent upon them. They were under 30 and there were hundreds upon hundreds of young people the world over who envied them the star that favored them.

Janet Paynter reflected bitterly upon these things.

They were healthy and they had plenty of money. They had love, but since they were not free what did these things mean?

They were only as free as Joel's contract permitted them to be. It permitted them to buy anything they wanted. Witness the white house in the hills, the cars in the garage, the clothes in the scented closets. They were free to make friends and to be with them. Weren't they at parties almost every night? And when they were at home, wasn't their house filled with laughter and pleasure and friends who were only as free as they were?

They could see the world—some day—when Joel had a vacation. And in the meantime, they could have an occasional week-end, and some day, when Joel could get away, they could fly east for an opening and they could have one week away from their golden bars. They could do exactly as they pleased. Except that they had to stay at a fashionable hotel and be "in" to reporters and photographers and if they had something to do between press parties and public openings, they were free to do it. They could make any arrangements in the east they wished to with the provision that they were to drop everything and fly back to California when the studio wired for them.

But it was not these things that turned the sick disappointment in Janet's breast to a fiercer emotion of fury.

Mr. Wertiem, Joel's producer, said they couldn't have a baby because the studio was building Joel up to becoming America's First Lover!

That was the one and only time that Janet ever staged a scene and when it was over, and Joel patted her as though she were a child and he himself a rather helpless little boy, Janet forgave Joel for not seeing her point and locked away her forlorn hope.

It was not because Joel wanted to be the lover type but because Joel wanted them to have a fortune laid away against the tomorrows, when the average short-lived career of a star was over, that she began to see his point. The studio owned him but it paid well for the privilege.

Janet began to think of those tomorrows and she lived by them. Some day they would be away from Hollywood. The picture of Joel was not quite clear then but there was another picture that had supplanted the one of the little white house. It was another kind of a house somewhere in the country. There would be children then. And there would be money in the bank to take care of Joel and herself when they were old. Money enough to take them around the world on the cruise they had talked about in the short week that had been the time of their strange courtship.

They had talked of Istambul and Egypt, of Venice and the Rhine. The crowded streets of Shanghai and the wastes of the Sahara where the footprints of the camels left violet heart-shaped shadows on the sands. They had thrilled at the mention of temple bells and iron grille gates with the magic of the East ever an impenetrable mystery back of them.

Hand-in-hand they had walked on Fifth avenue during that week looking into the windows of the travel agencies or staring enrapt at the posters of the Cote d'Azure, at the incredible blue of the Mediterranean. The pictures of the big ships had beckoned them and shyly they had confessed their mutual longing to travel the enchanted waterways of the world. They hadn't used the words "tomorrow" or "together" then because they hadn't known that they would marry. And they had both believed there never would be a tomorrow because the pot of gold was the other end of a remote rainbow.

Those were the days when Janet had had a dream of one day walking in the streets of Glasgow, the city that she knew by legend before she had ever left the little town of Chester. Those were the days when Joel had thought of a walking tour in New England between Broadway engagements as the mark of his ambitions.

And then when they were first married and Janet was weighing the caloric value of a small steak against the pittance of her daily budget, she had satisfied her longings with the magic of printed words. Reading through her long evenings, she travelled the ports of the world with Joel at her side and the promise of "some day" in her heart.

But all that was yesterday and today, when the dream should have been nearer, it was a greater distance away than ever before.

Today there were no magic words like Nippon and Fountainbleu before them. Today it was San Bernardino and Palm Springs or Ensenada or Caliente. Or possibly New York. Even their world of conversation had narrower boundaries.

And when Janet tried to talk to Joel as she had once, stirring him up with enthusiasm for the things they wanted to do, she had been met with a yawn or, "Did I tell you what Hickson tried to pull on me when we were taking a shot on the balcony?"

So Janet had learned to put another dream aside with a reservation that the time would come in a future that was more secure and less enchanting. She had learned to listen with her mind if not with her heart. And always to give the right answer wisely and softly.

There was another reason that tugged at her conscience and made the travel hope less concrete. They had plenty of money but they were not saving it.

Joel and Janet refused to live in credit though credit was offered them in astounding proportions. Joel paid for the white house in the hills. He paid for the town car and later for the roadster he said was really a necessity since he could not deprive Janet of the car when he had to go away on location. Naturally, the roadster was no kin to that first little car of their earlier days. It was a long, sleek thing that cost 6,000.

Money had a way of melting when there were high wages to pay for servants. Janet had a cook, an upstairs girl and a houseboy. She had two gardeners and a chauffeur. She had enormous bills for food and parties, for flowers and garages.

Joel's bills for his clothes—and there was constantly the need for more—were staggering. So were Janet's. Joel insisted that she have the most expensive. Her lingerie was imported. Her stockings cost $5 a pair and her gowns averaged $200 for the simplest sports things.

There were very logical reasons why $3,000 a week melted.

Janet tried and tried to find a way out, proposing that they save money, invest it. But Joel always said there would be more.

Little did she know when she persuaded Joel to buy out Lon Hutchin's interests in a group theater at Grannis, a small summer colony town on Cape Cod, that she made the most important move of her life. Or that the day was coming when it was to prove the key piece in the jig-saw puzzle of their lives and to make the picture solve itself forever.

Lon Hutchin was going to England to act in a series of pictures and he offered the theater to Joel for $5,000.

"Buy it, darling," Janet had said. "Those little theaters in the east are getting to be very popular and you can always sell again if you want to. You'll get a bigger kick out of making a few hundred a season than you do here in a week."

So Joel bought the theater and forgot about it. Janet never did.

IMPORTANT APPOINTMENT.

QUEBEC, Feb. 24 (C.P.). — Appointment of Georges Leveille, editor of the Quebec morning newspaper L'Evzement, to "a very important position at the Premier's office" was announced to-day by Premier Duplessis. Mr. Leveille will assume his new duties on Monday, but the Premier refused to disclose what post he would hold.

Bedtime Story
By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CLEVER TRICK

"Yowie! Yowie! Yowie! Ker choo!"

"Jowie! Jowie! Jowie! Ker choo!"

"My, those Bad Chaps certainly are howling!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he listened to the noise the Fox and Bob Cat made as they ran farther and farther away. "I gave them a hot time all right! And now—ker-choo! Ker-choo erkie-choo-choo!"

Uncle Wiggily suddenly sneezed with his pink, twinkling nose. Some of the red pepper he had used on his bologna sausage tires, which, as I told you in last night's story, he dusted on the tire-eating Bad Chaps had gotten up his nose.

After sneezing, Uncle Wiggily laughed. It was certainly funny, he thought, as he remembered the surprised looks on the faces of the Bad chaps when he peppered them.

Now for Another Trick

"That was a clever trick I did," said Mr. Longears, putting the tin of red pepper back in the stalled car. "But I shall need to do another clever trick to get my car to the garage to have this blowout fixed and new tires put on, all around, so my wife will ride with me," thought Mr. Longears.

He had been going to get new tires, to replace the old bologna ones, patched with salami and liverwurst, when he got the blowout. Then the Bad Chaps sneaked up to the rear of the car and began to bite chunks out of the other sausage tires.

"But they didn't bite enough out to make any more of the tires go flat," said the rabbit gentleman, taking a look. "So if I could only get some sort of a tire for the blowout one I could go on."

However, it wasn't easy to drive his car with one blowout tire that would go flippity-flop. His spare was as flat as a lollypop after it's been sucked all day.

"Yes, I shall need to do another clever trick to get to the garage," thought Mr. Longears. "Let me think, now. What can I use for a tire in place of the bologna sausage one that has the blowout?"

Just for fun he pulled off the flat tire. It was now just some shreds and patches of what had once been a fine bologna sausage. It could not be mended again.

As Uncle Wiggily sat on the running-board of his car, thinking, he looked to one side and saw, hanging down from a rock ledge, a big, long, thick icicle. It had been formed by frozen water that had melted and dripped from the edge of the overhanging rock.

Has An Idea

"Now, if that big, round icicle were only shaped round like an auto tire, I could use that to get to the garage," said the rabbit uncle. "It is large enough around and would be like a solid rubber tire. If only I could bend it into a round shape like a ring."

Then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily remembered that heat melts ice. And when ice is warm it bends into many shapes. Icicles have even been known to form circles.

"I'll have it!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I'll build a fire and warm the big icicle so I can bend it into a circular tire. I'll put it on and away I'll go."

No sooner said than done. Breaking off a piece of the icicle that was just long enough to go around his wheel when curved, Mr. Longears held it near a fire he built. Soon the icicle was soft like molasses candy and could be bent into a curved ring shape.

"Hurray! Here we go! Now for another adventure!" cried the bunny as he slipped the curved icicle tire on his wheel and started off.

And if the snowball will please stop bouncing up and down on the head of lettuce, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily trying some cheese.

When Nerves Scream Tonic Is Essential

Nerves Need Nourishment to Bring Fitness.

When your nerves get the better of you so that even trifles seem to grow into tremendous annoyances, your nerves are really crying out for nourishment. At such times, particularly, you will find the great British tonic, PHOSFERINE, a tremendous blessing.

"PHOSFERINE," writes Mrs. M. Huggett, Islington, England, "has been of great benefit to me in overcoming a feeling of weakness, with inability to concentrate; also for neuralgia. I think PHOSFERINE is the ideal tonic for anyone run-down. Just an occasional dose keeps me in splendid health."

PHOSFERINE is concentrated nourishment for the nerves. It helps you, quickly, to pick up lost energy and vigor. Start taking PHOSFERINE today. Before the week is out you will have found new endurance, you'll sleep better, eat better, and look as good as you feel. At all druggists, 50c, $1.00 (4 times as much), $1.50 (6 times as much). 59

MARMORA, LAKE CEMETERY DATES BACK TO MAY, 1873

Fourteen Petitioners Arranged Purchase Of Grounds From Two Parties

TOTAL COST OVER $200

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 24—The fifth day of May, 1873, was an auspicious day for the Municipal Council of the United townships of Marmora and Lake when assembled in the old town hall of the village to receive a petition signed by fourteen of the leading residents of that time calling for the enclosure of the Pleasic Cemetery and the appointment of commissioners to collect and expend certain funds for the purpose of enclosing and improving this cemetery.

A resolution was passed concurring with the petition and appointing Wellington McWilliams, David Fitchett, William Leonard, David Bentley and Benjamin Johnson as commissioners with David Fitchett acting as treasurer for the commissioners. Solomon Johns was the reeve for that year and William Phillips (father of Robert Phillips) was the township clerk.

The petition was signed by the following: David Fitchett, William Leonard, D. B. Johns, R. B. Johns, Thomas Warren, Gordon McWilliams, D. M. Hough, G. W. Bleeker, Simon Armstrong, Benjamin Johnson, D. Bentley, George Loucks, Alexander Jones and A. M. Caverly, all of whom have long since passed to their reward.

Contents of the Petition

The petition of nine clauses mentioned that the unprotected graves were situated upon a portion of Lots 7 in the 4th and 5th Concession of Marmora township and that the titles to the burying ground were vested in the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Mining Company and George Loucks. "The petitioners therefore reasonably expect," continued the petition that the said Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway and Mining Company would for a nominal consideration make over by deed that portion of land aforesaid to the Municipal Corporation of the United Townships of Marmora and Lake to be held by said Municipal Corporation for the use of a public burying ground." A similar clause regarding the land owned by George Loucks was added.

The petition received the endorsation of T. P. Pearce a councillor of that year. The same evening the commissioners met at the office of David Bentley and appointed David Bentley as chairman and David Fitchett as secretary, he already having been appointed treasurer. Messrs. Leonard, McWilliams and Johnson were empowered to circulate subscription lists in addition to David Fitchett, the secretary-treasurer.

The minutes of six later meetings, the final being on the 8th of August 1873, show that James Cooper, Richard Lindsay, George Loucks, Felix Carpenter and William Simmons supplied the posts. T. P. Pearce supplied lumber, T. Warren made the gate and others employed were George Loucks, William Jenkinson, John Wilson, John Devlin, Henry Rose, Robert Bush and Richard Simmons. The full list of subscribers follows: Benjamin Johnson, Alexander Fitchett, William Clemenger, Thomas Kelly, Willam W. Armstrong, Adam Affhart, Andrew Stickell, W. J. Gatling, Richard Campion, Ruth Devlin, Mrs. Hays, Charles Clairmont, Henry Pfuffer, Hugh Shannon, Richard Wolfe, John Mills, John Hamilton, James McGrath, Patrick Callaghan, D. M. Hough, Edward Nihill, Thomas Nihill, D. G. Bowen, George Downey, James Wilkinson, Joseph Richardson, Solomon Johns, John Brown, Simon Armstrong, George Addison, John Presley, Hugh Jones, William Jenkinson, Robert Kennedy, George Wiggins, Andrew Gawley, William Leonard, David Bentley, Joseph Stapley, George Leonard, Alexander Jones, William Derry, George Bleecker, William Phillips, Matthews Lough, Richard Broadworth, E. D. Boyd, Thomas McClarence, Alexander Boyd, D. B. Johns, Thomas Warren, Benjamin Beddome, Michael McShea, James Bailey, Richard Buck, Magnus Fidler, Amos Caverley, L. F. Papineau, John Kimmerly, John Jenkinson, John O'Neill, J. W. Taylor, Edgar Eastwood, A. W. Carscallen, Thomas W. Campion, L. O'Brien, Albert Wright, D. Wright, Robert Neal, William Defeverix, William Irwin, Jeremiah Loucks, A. M. Kemp, Ira Murphy, George Pinner, John Spry, Robert Bush, William Sinclair, Jas. Henry, Michael O'Connor, Charles Devine, Samuel Danford, John Keys, Charles McWilliams, Thomas Broadworth, R. B. Jones, William Hilton, R. J. Broadworth, Richard Briggs, James Bailey, John McShea, Wellington McWilliams, Gordon McWilliams, Michael Gillen, T. P. Pearce, H. M. Jones, Mrs. Isaac Briggs, James Wiggins, John Andrews, William McCarter, Robert Fletcher, Albert McWilliams, William Heath and Joseph Hope.

Cost of $200

Thus at the cost of a little over $200 was the old cemetery enclosed and improved and a year later the majority of those fourteen petitioners were further busily engaged with the building projects of the first Anglican and Methodist Churches to be built in the village of Marmora which with the necessary renovations and improvements which time brings, stand today.

The old cemetery now designated the Marmora Protestant Cemetery, has in the last two or three years undergone much improvement. Road widening on its northern side in connection with the new No. 7 Highway furnished this interesting God's acre with a fine fence and approach and a noticeable improvement has been effected in the resurfacing of many plots.

Queen's O.K's Co-eds' Good-Night Kissing

Kingston, Feb. 24 (C.P.).

THE good-night kiss on the doorstep of Ban Righ House, main women's residence at Queen's University, has official approval, the Queen's Journal reported today.

There was some question about the right of a co-ed to be kissed by her escort when a night warden at the residence recently watched a freshette embraced by a man student. The warden brought the matter before the house council, composed of 12 co-eds.

The Queen's Journal reported the meeting discussed the matter heatedly, finally deciding if the co-ed had no objection to being kissed, neither had anyone else.

CROKINOLE PARTY PLANNED BY CIRCLE

St. Andrew's, Millbrook, Church Organization Has Interesting Regular Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 24.—Fifteen members of the Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church, gathered at the home of the president, Miss Sadie Rowland, last evening when the regular monthly meeting was held at 8 p.m.

Quiet music played by Miss Phyllis Kidd opened the meeting accompanied by the president's call to worship and prayer by Miss Agnes Johnston.

A portion of the sermon on the Mount was the scriptorial lesson read by Mrs. Dave Lunn, who also gave a splendid paper on the theme of the meeting entitled, "Jesus, the great Teacher." "Men and women of far horizons" was the title of the address contributed by Miss P. Kidd.

Secretarial reports were received from Mrs. E. Richards and plans were completed for a crokinole party to be sponsored by the Mission Circle in the Sunday School hall, March 12. Games, a short program and the serving of candy will be the main features.

Delicious home-made candy was served by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. Rowland, at the close of the meeting.

EAST EMILY

PANTOMIMES ARE PROGRAM FEATURE

Members Of Omemee Y. P. U. Are Guests Of Bethel Young People

(Examiner Correspondence.)

EAST EMILY, Feb. 24.—On Wednesday evening the members of the Young People's Union of Trinity United Church of Omemee were invited guests of the Young People's Union of Bethel United Church.

The members of the Y.P.U. of Bethel had charge of the program for the evening. Ralph Hanbridge, the president was in charge and gave the visitors a hearty welcome.

The worship period was under the supervision of the devotional group of which Miss Dorothy Dayman is the convenor.

The five members of her group in the devotional period each doing their part in a most capable manner.

Harry Jackson was the special speaker and gave a most practical and inspiring talk on "Friendships." Miss Lillian Irwin read the scripture lesson. Miss Helen Howden gave a recitation "The Friendship Bank." Miss Dorothy Dayman and Ralph Hanbridge favored the audience with a duet.

A short program was given: recitation, "Susan getting ready for Church," Miss Dorothy Dayman; recitation, Miss Thelma Bailey, "Little Batise"; recitation, "Is It Anybody's Business," Miss Dorothy Dayman.

The president then gave the meeting into the hands of the recreation convenor, Miss Helen Andrew.

The young people were divided into four groups and each group presented an impromptu pantomime.

The group presenting "Lord Ullin's Daughter" of which Miss Helen Howden was the leader took first place in the presentation of these pantomimes.

The group presenting "Somebody's Mother" of which Miss Mary Faulkner was leader and the group presenting "Three Bags" of which Miss Northey was leader tied for second place.

The group presenting "Lockinvar" of which Miss Dorothy Dayman was leader came third.

The winning group received a basket of candy. A tin can relay followed which in turn was followed by a centipede race.

The last item on the recreational program was a contest of Canadian cities, towns and villages of which Miss Helen Moyer and Mr. Edward Lowes were the high scorers.

The young people were then asked to form a large circle, when the Bethel Young People were hostesses in serving dainty refreshments of sandwiches, cake, pie and coffee.

On behalf of the Y.P.U. of Omemee Edward Lowes moved a hearty vote of thanks.

Ralph Hanbridge expressed his pleasure at the friendship that existed between the two societies, it was but a reflection of the Christian life they all were endeavouring to live.

School Concert Held

The pupils of S.S. No. 13 Emily held their Valentine concert in the school on Friday afternoon under the direction of their teacher Miss Helen Andrew.

The concert was prepared and presented by the pupils, each taking his or her part well. Miss Elzina McConnell taking the part of chairlady.

The school sang a favorite song, "O Come With Me"; a reading, "Valentine Day" by Margaret Wright; recitation, Muriel Davis, "Mother's Valentine"; a duet, "Abide With Me," Grenith Harrison and Elzina McConnell; recitation Howard Carew; chorus, "Let Me Sing a Little Mountain Song" by the boys; riddles, given by Alta Boate and Ruby Irwin; solo, "Old Rugged Cross," Donald Nurse; recitation, "My First Valentine," Dorothy Nurse; chorus, "Father Lead Me Day by Day," by the girls; reading, "Why We Send Valentines," Elzena McConnell; a Valentine contest was given by Blanche Boate.

The Valentine Post Office then was opened and distributed by Margaret Wright, Alta Boate, Dorothy Nurse and Grenith Harrison.

Home made candy brought to the school by the children was passed which brought a very pleasant concert to a close.

LOW VITALITY MAY CAUSE 'FLU

Beware of widespread epidemic! Keep your system free from poisons that lower resistance.

Doctors agree that one of the greatest causes of 'Flu is lowered resistance caused by accumulation of harmful body wastes and poisons. Don't take chances. Keep your system free from these harmful wastes and poisons by taking Fruit-a-tives regularly. Start right now too, because 'Flu strikes quickly, without warning. Fruit-a-tives, the prescription of a prominent Canadian physician, contain extracts of fruits and herbs and act to stimulate the liver and four other vital organs to normal healthy action; activate the flow of bile, cleanse the intestinal tract of harmful wastes and poisons; tend to purify the blood of poisons and acids. Guard against 'Flu. Get your supply of Fruit-a-tives right now. Every druggist has them. Be sure you get only genuine "Fruit-a-tives".

STOP THAT COLD THE FIRST DAY

A cold can take hold quickly and develop seriously. Don't let a cold take hold on you. At the first sign of a cold go right to your druggist. Buy a package of GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Grove's has what it takes to knock that cold right out of your system the first day. 436

Nerves at Breaking Point

NO need for girls or women to suffer from periodic pains, headache or sideache. Many find that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a very beneficial tonic. This is what Mrs. J. Lizmore of 569 First St., Niagara Falls, Ont., said: "Years ago I was in a run-down, weakened condition, my nerves were at the breaking point, the least little thing irritated me and I could scarcely eat a thing. I had constant headaches, dizzy spells and felt so weak I just had to drag myself around. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and picked up steadily. I gained weight, my appetite improved and the headaches, and other trouble disappeared." Buy now!

'PEG POLICEMAN SLAYS GUNMAN DURING ARREST

Victim Opens Fire With Rifle As Car Chase Ends On Side Street

BULLET GRAZES OFFICER

Second Desperado Escapes Afoot But Is Picked Up Later

WINNIPEG, Feb. 24—(C.P.). — A man identified by police as William May, an ex-convict, was shot to death in a gun fight with police here to-day. Leonard "Curly" Knight, alleged companion of May, was taken into custody later, but no charge has been laid against him.

A bullet from a rifle held by one of the men tore the coat of Constable James Gray, who was accompanied by Constable James Davies, who, police said, fired the shot that killed May.

Constables Gray and Davies were cruising in the downtown section of Winnipeg in a police car when they saw another car being driven in suspicious manner. They gave chase.

The car carrying May and his companion halted on a side street and its two occupants jumped out. May, police said, fired a rifle as Constable Gray dived at him. Constable Davies also opened fire. May's companion disappeared after May fell fatally wounded. Knight was picked up by police while walking on the street. He refused to make any statement.

ARREST IS MADE IN COX ACID CASE

Two Unnamed Port Arthur Citizens Go $5,000 Bail For Accused Woman

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Feb. 25 (CP).—Miss Eileen Flanagan, former school teacher, today faced a charge of throwing corrosive acid on Hon. C. W. Cox, Minister without portfolio in the Ontario Government, and Mayor of Port Arthur. She will be arraigned in court Saturday.

The arrest of Miss Flanagan and her release on $5,000 bail was announced today by police. The arrest took place Monday in McKellar Hospital in Port William by Chief of Police Watkins, but the announcement was withheld while communication was made with Attorney-General Roebuck of Ontario at Toronto.

Chief Watkins was accompanied to the hospital by Magistrate Lemay of Port William, and after the formality of the arrest bail was provided by two unnamed Fort William residents.

Miss Flanagan is alleged to have thrown the acid in Mr. Cox's face here February 2. The charge, laid by Crown Attorney Langworthy of Port Arthur, alleges Miss Flanagan threw the acid with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

Cox Stand Undecided.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—(CP).— Hon. Charles W. Cox, Ontario minister without portfolio and Mayor of Port Arthur, said here to-day he "hasn't considered" whether he would testify at the trial of Miss Eileen Flanagan, charged with throwing corrosive acid at the minister.

Port Arthur police announced the arrest of the former school teacher and her release on $5,000 bail until arraignment.

Mr. Cox, who suffered acid burns about the face and eyes, said he was "getting along all right" and "pretty much" able to go about his business.

KING HOLDS INVESTITURE

Follows Precedent Set By Late King George.

LONDON, Feb. 25 (C.P. Cable).—The King held the second investiture of his reign to-day and followed a precent established by his father by holding it in a State Room on the ground floor of Buckingham Palace.

No band was in the Palace quadrangle because of the dismal weather, but a string band of the Welsh Guards played in a nearby room.

Insignia was presented to 144 persons mentioned in the New Year's honors list. These included 23 women.

Unanimous Objections Raised By Lodge Officials, Charity, Church Workers

DEADLINE SET SATURDAY

Provincials To Watch County While City Officers Crack Down Wholesale

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 25—(CP)—Protests came from organizations all over London today against the ban on bingo and keno games that goes into effect here Monday. Objections were voiced by lodge officials, charity workers and church workers.

In order to test the ban some bingoes may be held next week. A number of Londoners are consulting government officials and hiring lawyers to advise them. A test case may be brought to court to see if bingo can be enforced.

W. H. Johnston, secretary of Moose lodge expressed the opinion that if bingo games are illegal then the government has been a party to breaking the law.

"They have been collecting two cents amusement tax on each admission ticket we sell to our bingo games" said Johnston.

Johnston said that a meeting of moose officials would be held to consider their future policy.

Will Get Advice.

Officials of the Orange Hall said they had planned a game for Monday night but likely would call it off. They said they intended to abide by the law but would first check up with officials to see if the games were really against the law.

"If it is illegal," declared a church member "then the draw for prizes in connection with the annual hockey game between the police and the firemen must be illegal too."

With the deadline set for Saturday night many organizations are rushing plans to hold bingo and keno games during the latter part of this week. But even these extra games might run into trouble. Police said they understood only games that had been planned and advertised before the ban was announced would be allowed to run this week. They said Crown Attorney Norman Newton had set the ban for Monday night so that it would not interfere too much with organizations that had their prizes purchased and their announcements sent out.

A joint meeting of all soldier organizations to consider concerted action in protest has been called by Arthur Tattersall, president of No. 2 branch of the Canadian Legion.

Whole County in Ban.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 25.—(CP). — Bingo and Keno games will not be allowed to operate in Middlesex county after this week, it was stated in official circles to-day.

Not only will London police officers keep a watchful eye for the games within the city limits, but constables of the Provincial Police Department will also be on the lookout for the odd game throughout the district.

As in the city, the games will be allowed to operate for the balance of this week, but starting Monday the ban will be strictly enforced.

43 MILLION DOLLAR DEFICIT REPORTED FOR C.N.R. IN 1936

Operating Profit Brings In $6,600,000 But Interest Takes $49,900,000

ANOTHER $9,916,000 LOAN

OTTAWA, Feb. 15—(C.P.).—A deficit of $43,300,000 for the Canadian National Railways during the last calendar year was reported by Finance Minister Dunning in his Budget speech to-day.

Operating revenues of the company increase $13,400,000 over the previous year, or 7.7 per cent. "However," the minister said, "operating expenses increased by the same ratio and the net revenue after taxes, rentals, etc., available for interest on debt was $6,600,000 as against $6,800,000 in the previous year. The increased operating expenses were due in part to the costs absorbed by the company under the various government unemployment relief programs and increased wage rates.

"After applying the $6,000,000 available from earnings to interest charges of $49,900,000 there resulted a net income cash deficit of $43,300,000, which amount has been paid by the Dominion and charged to expenditure in the current fiscal year. This cash deficit compares with $47,400,000 for 1935, the improvement being entirely due to reduction in interest charges resulting from refunding of securities at lower rates of interest.

"It should be borne in mind that there are certain non-cash charges in the railway accounts which should be taken into account in reconciling the above-mentioned figure of cash deficit with the net loss for the year as shown by the annual report of the railway company."

The government this year will loan the company $9,916,000 for miscellaneous debt retirements and equipments purchased under the special supplementary estimates. The company paid back $395,000 of the amount loaned it last year.

Unregistered License Plates Used By Hamilton Safe Gang

Markers Stolen From Guelph Reformatory Pair Admit Turning Crown Evidence

DESCRIBE FOUR JOBS

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 25 (C.P.).—Evidence that Ontario license plates for automobiles made in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph, were stolen before being registered, and used on a Hamilton car in several safe-cracking expeditions was heard before Magistrate H. A. Burbidge to-day when Joseph Long, Lorne Burns, Roy Wilson, and Geo. Tompkins came up for hearing.

Long and Burns were arraigned and declined to elect. They were charged with shopbreaking and theft in connection with the removal of a 500-pound safe from the Cloke & Sons' Office Supply Store., with receiving in connection with the same robbery; with shopbreaking and theft at Dominion House Furnishing Company, the Bright Winery, and the McDougall Electric Company, all safe robberies; and with the theft of license plates and other articles from the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph.

Wilson and Tompkins were charged in connection with the Cloke robbery and Wilson was also accused in the license plate theft.

Wilson and Tompkins turned Crown evidence, and described the operations of the gang. They declared a stable in rear of Burns' house and a boathouse on the waterfront were used as a clearing-house for stolen goods. When the Bright Winery was robbed, $50 was obtained from the safe and a car was bought in Toronto. This was equipped with license plates from the Ontario Reformatory.

Police said the license plates rendered the detection of the alleged thieves' car difficult as the numbers were not registered and could not be traced.

Over 3,000 men will be put to work at once on the sister ship to the Queen Mary, now under construction in Scotland.

Barbecue Pit Idea 15,000 Years Old

Washington, Feb. 25—(AP)

THE roadside barbecue stand, Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts said today, originated in North America about 15,000 years ago.

A study by Smithsonian Institution scientists of material excavated last summer at the oldest known campsite of the ancestor of the Indian, known as Folsom Man, has shown that he dined on species of camel and bison now extinct.

Folsom Man was a homeless wanderer, but Dr. Roberts said at his camping places he apparently roasted game in a barbecue pit similar to those still in use at picnics and political gatherings.

Inattention, Impatience Take Biggest Road Toll

Majority Of Accidents Happen In Daylight On Good Highway With Sober Drivers

TRAFFIC LANES OBSOLETE

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (C.P.).—The Ontario Good Roads Association was told to-day that the average traffic accident occurs in broad daylight, on a strength of good road with a sober driver at the wheel who is not breaking the speed limit.

"What is the explanation?" asked G. W. Robertson, general manager of the Ontario Motor League, who described the perfect driving conditions attending most highway accidents. Mr. Robertson had the answer, too.

"Absent-mindedness or misdirected attention is by far the most common of all highway accident causes," he said. "Impatience comes next to inattention as a cause of car crashes."

He mentioned two prime causes of accidents:

1—We operate 1937 model cars on obsolete 1920 model roads.

2—Eighty-mile-an-hour cars are in the hands of 20-mile-an-hour drivers on 30-mile-an-hour roads.

"The results are not very satisfactory," he remarked.

U.S. STRIP ARTISTS BEST IN WORLD

Burlesque Kings Tell Senate Girls Schooled Year Learning To Shed 3 Garments

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The Brothers Minsky, who put the strip-tease dance into the United States Congressional record, defended the shed-your-shirt fandango today as high American art.

"It's not altogether what you take off," said bespectacled brother Herbert, "but how you take it off."

"And," added mustached brother Morton, "who takes it off."

As burlesque impresarios, the brothers were willing witnesses yesterday before the House of Representatives immigration committee on behalf of a bill to restrict entry into America of foreign performers.

Girls of the United States, they vociferously agreed, have it all over their sisters across the seas when it comes to the fine points of the strip-tease.

"For one thing," said Herbert, "they've got rhythm."

"And," added Morton, "they got more looks."

By concentrating on exotic dances, they said, the European performers often cause the strip-tease to be a hit and miss affair.

"The American stripper," explained Morton, "doesn't do that. She goes to school. Sometimes it takes 12 months just to learn how to peel off three garments. That's native art."

(Details of the accident to the 10,609-ton steamship were not given in the message. The vessel is owned by the Union-Castle Mail Steamship Company, a British company.)

Budget Highlights Financial Review

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—(CP).—Following are highlights in the financial revue presented to-day in the House of Commons during the Budget speech of Finance Minister Charles Dunning:

Estimated grand total expenditures fiscal year 1936-37 of $539,618,000 against total revenues $452,123,000, leaving gross deficit of $87,396,000.

Revenue highest of any other year in Canadian history except 1928-29, largely due to sales and income tax increases.

Ordinary expenditure $51,528,000 less than ordinary revenue, showing first surplus on ordinary account in many years.

General improvement in all branches economic activity except building and agricultural production, but compensating increase in prices of farm products.

Dividend distribution highest since 1930 and increased 18 per cent as compared with 1935

Velocity of money circulation measured by cheques cleared highest since 1930 and 16 per cent greater in December 1936 than the same month in 1935.

A warning against speculative fever such as brought on the financial collapse of 1929 and expression of the governments hopes this movement may be restrained.

"Disheartening" failure of numbers on relief diminishing proportionately with revival of business.

Conviction that policies now being followed will rapidly reduce unemployment problem to "manageable proportions."

CROLL GIVES UP GUARDIANSHIP OF THE QUINTS

Prefers Running Welfare Department To Being Manager For Five Small Girls

P. D. WILSON STEPS IN

Girls' Estate Now $543,046—No Debts—Main Need Is a Normal Life

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (CP)—Percy D. Wilson, Ontario official guardian will take the place of Hon. David A. Croll, Ontario Minister of Welfare, on the board of guardians of the Dionne quintuplets. Mr. Croll stepped out of the picture yesterday, determined to spend all his time handling his government department.

Mr. Wilson whose duties include handling minors' estate will start his new job April 30. His fellow members on the board are Judge J. A. Valin of North Bay, chairman; Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the babies' physician, and Oliva Dionne, their father.

Decision to drop his duties as the quints' special guardian, or business manager, was reached by Mr. Croll after two years of work on behalf of the famous babies during which their fortune neared the million-mark.

In his announcement to the legislature yesterday he revealed Oliva Dionne has finally given his approval to the government guardianship idea for his daughters, a step he strongly opposed at first.

"There was at the time criticism of the method the government followed in the 1935 legislation," said Mr. Croll. "The parents in particular were inclined to regard the bill as a theft of their children.

"I am happy to say that in the intervening two years they have changed their opinion on this point. Mr. Dionne is today one of the keenest advocates of some form of continued governmental protection."

Croll's Reasons

The minister gave this reason for retiring: "I have this much vanity—I prefer my work as administrator of the Department of Welfare, Labor and Municipal Affairs, rather than as contact man for five small girls, no matter how successful a one."

He declared the only fame for the quints' manager was "something like the reflected glory enjoyed by a movie star's husband."

When he introduced the bill for appointment of Mr. Wilson, the

Basque Dynamiters Tighten Siege Ring on Ruins of Oviedo

Insurgent Garrison Sticks Grimly To Guns, Hope Of Rescue Virtually Gone

BATTLE IN SIXTH DAY

BAYONNE, Franco-Spanish Border, Feb. 25 (AP)—Dynamite-hurling Basque besiegers of Oviedo reported today they had stormed the heights dominating Naranco Hill, last redoubt on the outer rim of the devastated city.

The strangling circle was closed around the Insurgent garrison during the night, the government forces reported, cutting off the city's defenders from all hope of relief.

At times struggling hand-to-hand, the dispatches from the lines about the northwestern provincial capital said, the Basque miners pushed slowly through the San Claudio quarter to a dominant position overlooking the Insurgent fortifications.

The once-proud Oviedo was being battered into ruins by Spanish government besiegers of all hope of rescue.

The Mesbe quarter of the historic city of northwest Spain was reported in flames after Insurgent resistance was crushed there in hand to hand fighting.

A hospital, an orphange and a convent were said to have been wrecked by dynamite and hand grenades and Insurgent defenders driven from them.

A large segment of Oviedo's garrison was reported waging a fight to the death from Vega Arms factory on the sixth day of battle.

LOCAL DEPUTATION URGES COMPLETION PETERBORO ROADS

Cordial Interview With Hon. T. B. McQuesten And R. M. Smith, Deputy-Minister

WORK IS PROMISED

Paving of sections of No. 7 highway east of Peterborough and extention of the work on unfinished roads in the county are included in the plans of the Department of Highways, Hon. T. B. McQuesten and his Deputy-Minister R. M. Smith recently informed a local deputation composed of Warden Roy Brown, J. J. Duffus, T. P. Lancaster, E. Bruce Fowler, Reeve John Clark, F. D. Kerr, K.C., Reeve C. S. Tanner of Lakefield and James Hawthorne.

Increasing importance of the road system to mining, lumbering, agriculture, fuel hauling and general employment was stressed by Mr. Duffus who was allotted the duty of outlining the county's road needs.

Reeve Clark was especially interested in completion of the road from Bobcaygeon to Kinmount, and also a connecting link between the Buckhorn-Gooderham Road and Bobcaygeon. About seven miles of the road north of Buckhorn is all that remains to be done to provide good communication from Gooderham south into Peterborough county and the city.

COURT RESERVES JARVIS JUDGMENT

Will Consider The Matter Says Justice Rowell After 3-Day Hearing

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (C.P.).—Court of Appeal to-day reserved judgment in the reference of the Minister of Justice on the conviction of Aemilius Jarvis, Sr., in 1924 on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the people of Ontario.

"In view of the full argument in the case, we will consider the matter," Chief Justice N. W. Rowell declared at the conclusion of the hearing which took three and a half days.

When convicted, Jarvis was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and fined $600,000. Later an Appeal Court reduced the fine to $60,000. Through the present hearing in Ontario's highest court he sought to clear a name.

Revenue Highest Of Any Other Year In Canadian History Except 1928-29

BUDGET DAY IN HOUSE

Dividend Distribution Highest Since 1930 Hon. Charles Dunning Reports

OTTAWA, Feb. 25 (C.P.). — An overall deficit of $87,395,000 as compared with $159,980,000 last year was estimated by Finance Minister Dunning in his financial review for the fiscal year ending next March 31, given at the start of his Budget address in the House of Commons today.

The finance Minister painted a picture of improving conditions in most branches of economic activity but voiced a warning that speculative adventures might bring on another collapse such as occurred in 1929.

All figures for the current fiscal year were necessarily estimates since the year does not end until March 31. The Minister estimated total ordinary expenditures would be $51,528,000 less than ordinary revenue, the first surplus on ordinary account in the last five years.

Lowest Since 1931.

The deficit on total revenue as compared with all expenditures, $87,395,000, will be the lowest of any year since 1930-31, and compares with the Minister's estimate in his budget last year of $100,000,000.

Total ordinary expenditures were estimated at $391,860,000 and total ordinary revenues at $443,388,000. But such extraordinary disbursements as Canadian National Railways deficits, unemployment, and drought relief and other charges, brought the grand total of disbursements to an estimate of $539,518,000. Total of all revenues, including $8,000,000 credit from the Wheat Board, refunds of capital investments and other credits, was estimated at $452,123,000.

Revenues increased $80,000,000 compared with that of the previous fiscal year and were exceeded by only one other in the history of Canada, 1928-29. They were 45 per cent. greater than in 1932-33, the lowest point in the depression cycle.

Taxation revenue was $384,618,000, an increase of $67,306,000, with the sales tax providing the greatest single increase. This produced $115,500,000, an increase of $37,948,000 of which $28,675,000 was due to the increase of the tax last year from six to eight per cent.

Income taxes produced the second largest revenue, $102,000,000, an increase of $19,290,000, of which $5,840,000 was due to increases in the corporation taxes provided in last year's budget.

Expenditures Up

Expenditures on ordinary account were up $19,327,000, largely due to New Brunswick and Quebec coming under the Old Age Pension scheme which accounted for some $5,000,000 of the increase. Capital expenditures were only $3,447,000, a little more than half the disbursements under this heading the previous year.

Special expenditures of $80,429,000 were entirely for unemployment relief, employment measures and drought relief and were only slightly greater than in the previous year. The Canadian National deficit was estimated at $43,000,000 compared with $47,000,000 the previous year, and the total disbursements for government-owned enterprises were estimated at $44,472,000 compared with $50,940,000.

The national debt at March 31, 1937, was estimated at $3,093,485,000, an increase of $87,395,000, the amount of the over-all deficit. Assets were estimated at $437,498,000. The funded debt was estimated at $3,337,332,000 at an annual interest charge of $125,061,459 while indirect liabilities, guaranteed bonds and debentures amounted to $1,003,000,000.

Expectation voiced last year of a strengthening and broadening of the recovery movement had been "amply realized," Mr. Dunning said. In many directions gains had exceeded expectations. "Since 1929 no New Year has dawned with greater promise for Canada."

New High Mark

Newsprint production had reached a new high mark as had mineral production. Agricultural production had dropped but there had been a 17 per cent. improvement in prices and the farmer was slightly better off relatively than in 1926. Construction activity was less in 1936 and employment figures were disheartening.

Statisticians had estimated the national income for 1936 at $4,500,000,000 as compared with $4,094,000,000 in 1935 an improvement of 10

Execution Wipes Out Last Of The Ethiopian Rebellious Chieftains

Ras Desta Is Overtaken In Mountains Fleeing From Scene Of Lost Battle

3,000 NATIVES BEATEN

Majority Killed In Fight Or Shot After Their Capture

ADDIS ABABA, Feb. 25 (AP) — Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law of Haile Selassie and last of the Ethiopian chieftains to dispute Italian occupation, has been captured and executed, an official communique announced today.

He was killed yesterday immediately after an Italian scouting party seized him in the mountain region west of the lakes stretching south of Addis Ababa.

The Fascist soldiers surprised the Ras with a few followers. There was a quick exchange of shots, then capture.

End of Resistance

His death was interpreted by informed circles as marking the removal of the final vestiges of the organized resistance to Italy's colonization of Haile Selassie's former domain.

Last Friday 3,000 of Ras Desta's followers fought four Italian columns 70 miles south of Addis Ababa at the moment hand grenades were hurled at Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Viceroy of Ethiopia, in the capital.

Although practically all Ras Desta's chiefs were killed in the battle or executed after capture, the Ras escaped. He had been wounded, however, it was said.

Italian scouts took up the trail of the Ras and his followers and were able to surprise them finally and seize their leader.

LINDSAY WOMAN REACHES 95 MARK

Miss Matilda Whiteside Was Born In Little Britain In 1842

LINDSAY, Feb. 25. — In splendid health and spirits, Miss Matilda Whiteside yesterday celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday at her home here. Born in Little Britain, eight miles west of here, in 1842, she is one of two remaining children of a family of eight born to Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Whiteside, early pioneer residents of Mariposa Township.

Her brother, Robert Whiteside, who is 91, resides in Little Britain. Miss Whiteside has resided in Lindsay for the past forty years.

Miss Whiteside spent the day crocheting, an art for which she is known throughout the community. She does her own shopping when the weather is fine, and is often to be seen going in and out of Lindsay stores making purchases. Two nieces, Mrs. Albert Matthews of Toronto and Miss E. R. Whiteside, visited their aunt for the occasion.

Mr. And Mrs. Henry Hay Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary Of Marriage

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25.—Many friends gathered at a reception held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hay, Second Street, who yesterday celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Among the guests was Mrs. Thomas Walkinshaw, the bridesmaid at the happy event performed 50 years ago by the Rev. John S. Clarke at the farm in Seymour East, where the couple resided until they moved to Campbellford twenty years later.

Mrs. James Storie, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Hay, assisted her parents in receiving in a room decorated with many beautiful floral tributes of roses, daffodils, snapdragons and tulips.

Mrs. George Martin, sister of Mr. Henry Hay, and her daughter, Mrs. Hector Wynn, both of Toronto, were among the out-of-town guests.

Those who poured tea and assisted at the reception were: Mrs. Hector Wynn, Mrs. Alfred Hay, Mrs. Walter Badgley, Mrs. Walter Rutherford, Mrs. R. J. Allen, Mrs. Harold Dunk, Mrs. Free Clark, Mrs. F. Rutherford, Miss Winnifred Hay, Miss Margaret Guernsey.

A JAP CONCESSION

Allow Men and Women Skating Together if Professionals

TOKYO, Feb. 25 (A.P.). — Men and women were permitted to skate in pairs to-day for the first time in Japanese history—provided they were professionals.

The practice, strictly forbidden as immoral, was legalized by police in view of the Olympic Games to be held in Japan in 1940.

Only professional skaters who can obtain a certificate of good character from Japan's National Skating Association will be allowed to skim the ice together.

Guarantees Pullets From Any Hen's Egg

Tokio, Feb. 25 (AP)

PROFESSOR Kiyozumi Ninomiya announced tonight he can guarantee to produce a female chicken from any hen's egg. He has had 100 per cent. success in this line by injecting a female hormone into the egg, he said. An injection costs about two sen (slightly more than half a cent) per egg. The announcement created a sensation in poultry and scientific circles.

HEPBURN REFUSES SATISFY MACAULEY ON ELECTION DATE

York Tory Charges Future Of North Sold To Foreigners On Ruinous Terms

A "CLOSED DOOR" DEAL

TORONTO, Feb. 25 — (C.P.) — Premier Mitchell Hepburn is keeping his own counsel on when Ontario is to have a general election. He wouldn't tell Leopold Macaulay, Con., York South), there would not be one this year when the Conservative asked him yesterday, as the Legislature continued the Throne Speech debate.

The Premier said he was not obliged to answer the question.

Mr. Macaulay attacked a recently-negotiated contract between the Ontario Government and the Pulpwood Supply Company, a concern chartered by Ontario and financed in the United States. He said the contract marked the abandonment of a policy inaugurated by the Ross Liberal Government many years ago that required Ontario's pulpwood to be manufactured in Ontario.

As far as he had been able to learn, said Mr. Macaulay, the Pulpwood Supply Company had been given a lease to enable it to cut 6,000,000 cords of pulpwood in Northwestern Ontario, the pulpwood to be exported for manufacture in U.S. In addition, the government had contracted to spend $250,000 diverting Long Lac Waters to float the pulpwood down to Lake Superior, the money to be repaid by the company in 20 years.

Future Sold Out

"The Government has actually sold out the future of the North on ruinous terms to foreign interests for whom thousands of Ontario citizens will become hewers of wood and drawers of water," charged Mr. Macaulay.

He said the contract had been negotiated behind closed doors and announced in a casual way.

Mr. Macaulay condemned the Assessment Act Amendment of 1936 by which certain taxes were re-allocated as between Separate and Public schools. Hastings East had voiced resentment against the measure in the December 9 by-election.

He said the amendment had resulted in the larger share of the school taxes from Courtauld's of Canada, Limited, Cornwall Township, going to the Separate schools, though the company, a British concern, was wholly owned by Protestants.

Mr. Macaulay accused Premier Hepburn of crucifying those who op-

WHEAT BOARD WILL RETURN 8 MILLION

Offsets in Part $15,856,000 Put Up Last Year By Dominion Treasury

OTTAWA, Feb. 25—(C.P.).—The Canadian Wheat Board will pay back to the Dominion Treasury, $8,000,000, Finance Minister Dunning told the House to-day in his budget speech.

The minister said this would represent "an offset in part to the disbursement of $15,856,000 which we provided for last year to recoup the Board for the net liability assumed when it acquired the wheat and wheat contract held by Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited in connection with the 1930 Wheat Pool and stabilization account.

"It is a matter of congratulation that a liability to our national finances of menacing proportions has been removed."

3 HUNGARIANS DIE IN RIOTING AT MINE HEAD

Military Control Ordered Over Entire Pecs Coal Region

Authorities Refuse To Permit Trade Union Group Go Below To Negotiate

PECS, Hungary, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Military control was declared over the entire Pecs Mine region to-day to halt the spread of a hunger-strike of 267 coal miners, isolated in their workings far below the surface.

After the toll of dead in yesterday's rioting at the pitheads rose to three, with six others wounded, army authorities closed the university to prevent student sympathy demonstrations.

The strikers, reported dominated by a militant minority, restored communcation with the surface momentarily to ask that a trade union committee be sent down to hear their terms.

Authorities, however, refused to permit the committee to go below.

The immediate objective of the authorities was to prevent the strike from reaching the proportions of the 1934 demonstration in which 1,200 miners threatened mass suicide to enforce demands for wages greater than $2 a week.

Their threat ended when the government promised better working conditions, the present strike was aimed at increasing the daily rate of pay from $1.00 to $1.20.

Police and 300 men and women clashed last night near the strike-bound mine. The crowd stoned the police and the shooting followed. Two of those injured are women.

In the belief part of the workings along the 656-foot shaft might be filling with water or dangerous gases, authorities considered efforts to restore pumping facilities suspended by the strikers.

MAY TALK BACK ON NEW DEVICE

Inventor Gives Radio Fans Chance To Register Preference

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(CP). — An apparatus for installation on any radio set operated by house current, that will enable listeners to give their opinions of the program or tell the studio how many are tuned in, has been announced by Dr. Nevil M. Hopkins, well-known radio inventor.

Through this device, the inventor says, radio fans could send an electric signal, thus signifying approval or disapproval of the entertainment or recording a yes-or-no vote on questions of public interest.

But whether or not the listener chose to signal a musical tone broadcast from the station could actuate the gadget and automatically record the fact that the receiving set was tuned to that station at the time.

This apparatus is an outgrowth of several years' work by Dr Hopkins, who carried out practical experiments three years ago with the co-operation of radio stations and the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey.

A. M. Acheson, one of Dr. Hopkins' associates, said the cost of the device is so small it could be installed on new radios without affecting the retail price appreciably. The company is negotiating with manufacturers for putting them on new sets.

One year's output equipped with "radiovoters" would give radio executives an accurate means of surveying about 10 per cent. of the listening public for station and program preferences, Mr. Acheson said.

Existing radio surveys are based on several hundred telephone calls made in certain sample areas. But this sample, at best, is a small one and radio people still find that they must go along more or less in the dark.

Father Layman And Preacher Son Debate Respective Positions

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(C.P.).—A Sunday evening congregation at the Central Presbyterian Church was treated to a novelty. Instead of a sermon, they listened to a debate between their pastor and his father.

The father, James M. Speers, well-known department store head, spoke on, "If I Were a Minister," while the son, Rev. Theodore G. Speers, took the theme, "If I Were a Layman."

The elder Speers presented a portrait of an ideal minister—a composite person drawn from what was best in preachers he had known in his youth in Ireland and later in America—as a man who has an intimate touch and helpfulness. "Ministers," he said, "should be filled with the very spirit of Christ and the Gospel—men of tremendous power and earnestness; men of prophetic vision, men who utterly forget themselves in their zeal for the glory of God and bringing in of His Kingdom."

Rev. Mr. Speers chided the laity for its habit of dumping religion into the lap of the clergy and then waiting for the ministers to return the religion to them as if in the form of easily-digested pills. "What the world needs most of all," he declared, "is more laymen to whom fellowship with God is a vital first-hand experience, a product of thought, reading, effort and adventure for Jesus' sake."

MONTREAL WOMAN WINS HER DIVORCE

Senate Allows It Despite Hughes' Charge Of Collusion

OTTAWA, Feb. 25 (CP).—Despite a second attempt by Senator J. J. Hughes (Lib. Prince Edward Island) to block a bill because of alleged collusion between the parties, the Senate last night gave final reading to a measure granting a Montreal woman divorce from her husband.

Renewing a protest he initiated last week, Senator Hughes, self-avowed opponent of divorce, stated that according to press reports some of the judges in Ontario were of the opinion collusion existed in 70 to 80 per cent of divorce actions in the province. If that were the case, he thought it would be "fair to assume" there was a similar percentage of collusions in divorce petitions which came before parliament.

Persons who made up their minds to get a divorce by agreement had no hesitancy in denying on oath there was no collusion between them so that their cases would not be thrown out, the Maritime Senator stated. The courts and Senate divorce committee were "at the mercy of that class of society" as they were obliged to give their decisions on the sworn evidence presented.

Divorce, he declared, was a growing evil in Canada as it was in the United States and in Great Britain, and in England there were organizations "which make it a business to supply correspondents."

Bingo Craze Captured Canada Instead Of Fun It Is Finance

Toronto Alone Has About 70,000 Fans Playing Every Week

MAKE GOOD PROFIT

TORONTO, Feb. 25. — Bingo, a game held illegal under the Canadian criminal code and a game in which the odds are decidedly against the player, is sweeping Canada from coast to coast.

Known to Great War veterans as housie-housie, the only gambling game permitted by the King during the war, Bingo began its climb to popularity a year ago and according to operators has reached its peak during the last few months. A careful study of Toronto discloses 300 games being played here weekly under the guidance of church and social clubs and other organizations. A conservative estimate has placed the number of persons attending these games here as between 60,000 and 75,000 weekly.

Upon this basis Toronto, with a population of 700,000 people, now has a total of 10 per cent. of its citizens playing the latest "rage," and similarly Canada, with an urban population of 6,000,000, would have some 600,000 persons attending bingo games weekly.

Operators holding games in this city have placed the cost of an evening's entertainment at 50 cents per person. Torontonians therefore are spending between $30,000 and $35,000 weekly on this new form of entertainment.

Game Raided.

Stating that the games were being held illegally a well-known Toronto lawyer pointed to Section 236, Sub-section D of the Criminal Code which reads: "Everyone is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to two years' imprisonment and to a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars who:

"Disposes of any goods, wares or merchandising by any game or mode of chance or mixed chance and skill in which the contestant or competitor pays money or other valuable consideration."

Toronto police, after spending several months in an atmosphere of careful watchfulness, finally swooped down on a bingo game held under the auspices of a social club, summoning the two operators and taking the names of almost 100 contestants. Police of other cities in the Dominion have banned bingo games though few have carried out raids similar to Toronto. One of the first cities in Ontario to ban the game was Brantford, whose Chief of Police banned all games excepting those currently advertised. In Winnipeg Magistrate R. B. Graham, vice-chairman of the Winnipeg Board of Police Commissioners, announced bingo games in that city must stop, ordering Chief George Smith to so advise operators. At that time more than a dozen halls were operating games. At Stratford, Ontario, the police department held the games illegal and ordered them stopped. Other cities from Halifax to Vancouver are allowing the game to continue openly.

Mayor Morrison of Hamilton, Ont., headed a deputation to Queen's Park asking that the games be banned. Mr. Morrison advised government officials he had 150 applications from organizations to operate the games in his city.

Play to Win Prizes.

While operators claim the game is just another form of amusement, persons attending the games usually do so with the object of winning a prize rather than to spend an enjoyable evening. Throughout Toronto bingo halls there is a tense atmosphere broken only by the hum of voices and occasional forced laughter. Contestants immediately forget personal interests and carefully watch their cards when the games begin. Evidence of their concentration may be seen in wrinkled brows and heads supported by both hands. That there is disappointment when someone calls "Bingo" in a sharp voice is noticeable by the sighs which escape from the unlucky players.

Attended by men, women, and young people, most of the players are those of the working class. Throughout the large crowd may be seen women with children, elderly men and women, young girls in plain dresses smoking incessantly and youths dressed in windbreakers. During games all are hunched over their cards and between games most jiggle their slugs restlessly.

Must Cover a Row.

The technique of the game for those who have never played is quite simple. Each player has a card measuring seven inches by five and a half inches in front of him. The card is divided by eight lines, which form 35 small squares. Across the top of the card are printed the letters BINGO, and under these letters are the numbers which range from one to 75, though only a total of 24 digets appear on each card. In order to facilitate the playing of the game, the centre square is left blank and may be counted as already covered. The object of the game is to cover any row of five letters with a small slug. Therefore when the operator calls, often through a microphone, "Under O-70," each contestant looks down the column under the letter "O" to see if he has that number on his card. Should he be fortunate, he covers it with a slug. From the layout of the card, it is possible to form 12 rows of covered numbers either vertically, horizintally, or diagonally. The persons filling five squares of numbers in a row immediately calls out "Bingo," and after checking the card for errors, the prize is given out and a new game begun. Checking is done by a second operator reading back the numbers covered on the card to the operator seated on the platform, who has a master card, each number of which is covered as it is called out.

Make Good Profit.

The cost of the games in this city range from 5 cents a game to 20 games for 25 cents. The higher prices are usually charged by organizations where only 100 to 150 people attend. It seems that the organizations which have very large attendances are able to charge lower prices and give more valuable prizes.

How the operator makes his profit can be illustrated best by two organizations in this city. The church having an attendance of 800 people charges 25 cents for 20 games and therefore collects a total of $200. Over a period of 20 games there is an average of 25 winners who are given prizes valued at approximately $4.00 to $5.00. The profit from 20 games at this rate is between $75 and $100, minus operating expenses.

At games where the attendance is much smaller say 100 people, the price is usually five cents a game. Likewise the value of the prizes drops to about $1.00 to $1.50. The operator in this case would take in $5.00 each game and pay out, at the most, $1.50, making his gross profit $3.50 per game, or $70.00 for a total of 20 games.

That the odds are clearly with the operator as against the contestant can be seen in the fact that of 800 people only 25 won prizes during the evening. This makes odds of 32 to 1 and as the operator only pays off at odds of 20 to 1, he makes his profit on the odds of 12 to 1, which are in his favor.

In the case of the smaller attended game, the odds against the contestant are roughly 7 to 1 in favor of the operator. This man pays off at odds of 6 to 1, leaving odds of 1 to 0 in his favor.

Bringing Prosperity Back.

Prizes are usually in the form of merchandise, such as electric lamps, cushions, blankets, irons, dresser sets, bread boxes, and other household utensils. Occasionally a special prize of a money order on a local merchant is given. These articles, it has been pointed out by various persons, are purchased in district, where the games are staged. This, it is felt, helps stimulate business among local merchants. One dealer, who sells both bingo cards and merchandise, suggests operators buy most of their prizes from merchants, filling out their selections with smaller prizes from the bingo dealers. This man also estimated that $10,000 a week is spent on prizes in Toronto, most of which are bought from the smaller storekeepers. At this rate over $100,000 a week is spent on merchandise throughout Canada and over a period of 20 weeks, during which the games have reached their greatest popularity, the sum reaches the huge total of $2,000,000, which might not have been spent were it not for bingo games.

Bingo, Canada's latest favorite amusement, is helping to bring prosperity back to local merchants of the Dominion and at the same time supplying a fairly cheap form of entertainment.

MARMORA

FOXBORO MINERAL WATER DISCOVERY RICHEST IN WORLD

Dr. E. M. Carefoot Tells Of Drilling Nine Wells, How Flow Is Bottled, Handled

HAS 20 INGREDIENTS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 25.—The discovery by a retired doctor, who after 20 years of practice had turned his attention to mining, of a mineral water which, according to Dr. Macey of the Colloidal Laboratories of America, New York City, is apparently unparalleled for its calcium content and number of minerals, was described by the discoverer, Dr. E. M. Carefoot, to an interested audience in the White Hall on Wednesday evening.

The doctor, a graduate of Queen's, spent 20 years in Western Canada and also did post-graduate work in Berlin and Edinburgh. His prospecting itinerary brought him to the Foxboro district where, on the Coulter property, he took out an option to carry on diamond drilling which resulted in his discovery of the water which is already becoming famous.

So far, 25 agencies in the four counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Prince Edward and Northumberland, with the headquarters at Belleville, dispose of the production.

Nine wells have been sunk on the property which has been now purchased by the Belleville Aqua Vitae Company, of which Dr. Carefoot is managing director, the water from only Wells 1, 2 and 9 being used.

Trucked to Bottling Plant

The deepest of these wells is 500 feet below the surface or 300 feet below the limestone. Two trucks deliver the water from the wells to the bottling plant at Belleville, and thence to the agents. The truck drivers and most of the agents are men who have benefitted from use of the water.

Five or six analyses of the water were carried out in Ottawa and Toronto, but as they failed to account for the therapeutic results the water had given, samples were sent to John Bell and Croydon's Analytical Dispensaries, London, England, and with the better equipment of this firm, more minerals were discovered in its composition. Included in the 20 constituents are calcium sulphate, calcium chloride, magnesium chloride, sodium chloride and calcium carbonate, besides iodine and radium (in negligible quantity).

Dr. Carefoot, who is addressing a series of meetings to point out the efficacy of the water, stated to his Marmora audience that he has been particularly interested since 1926 as to what was really at the back of disease. Lack of vitamins had been greatly stressed, but reading from articles by well-known medical men, he concurred that back of all disease and ill health was a lack of minerals. There was something wrong, he said, with our present treatment when, as an article which he read, stated that it cost Canada $600,000,000 yearly for ill health. He contended that without a proper mineral balance in the human system vitamins and proteins and other foods were not of much value.

Twenty Different Minerals

In the mineral water which he discovered, Mother Nature had put 20 different minerals into a solution and this water wars on toxics. Many vegetables to-day were sadly lacking in mineral content of the proper proportions. Later on this year, Dr. Carefoot hopes to have the bottling plant set up on the property from which the water is taken. He was introduced to the gathering by Clifford Jones, the local agent.

Temperance Forces Start Campaign As Wets Urge Council To Call Vote

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Feb. 25. — A vigorous campaign over the proposal to establish a beverage room in the village of Haliburton is planned by the temperance forces. Haliburton is in the Township of Dysart, and the council has been asked to pass a by-law calling for a vote. Those behind the beverage room proposal have taken this course in order to avoid the presentation of a petition signed by twenty-five per cent. of those eligible to vote.

Floods on the Lindsay-Newcastle highway, southeast of Janetville, have rendered the road impassible. Pigeon Creek overflowed its banks and sent the water over the road to the depth of two feet. Cars were being pulled out all day Monday and Tuesday.

Fire, caused by an overheated stove, completely destroyed the residence of Levi Warrien, of Greenbank, this week. Nearly all the furniture was saved by the neighbors. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

A copious run of sap is reported from Janetville. John R. Magee tapped about two hundred trees on February 20 in his large maple bush, and reports a splendid run.

SOCIALISTS ROUTED AT OVIEDO

SALAMANCA, Spain, Feb. 25 (AP). —Government attackers of the isolated insurgent garrison at Oviedo have been routed in the "most crushing defeat of the civil war," leaving 2,500 dead on the northern battlefield, General Francisco Franco's high command claimed today.

More than 10,000 Government militiamen have been wounded in two days of attacks and counter attacks, the insurgent commanders declared.

The Young People's Society met on Tuesday night, the president, Ernest Breckenridge, presided during the business period, after which Muriel Whittington had charge of the program. Following the reading of Scripture by Mary Anderson, there were given three papers on the evils of intemperance, by Grace Johnson, Gerald Anderson and Ernest Breckenridge. The guest speaker was Albert Hill of Fraserville, who gave an interesting and instructive address on "Success in Life". Willie Lackey gave instrumental selections on the guitar. At the close of the meeting there were games and contests.

IN WINTER, doctors have real trouble with their hands. Cold weather—frequent washings—hands in strong antiseptic solutions—and bad Chapped Hands develop.

And what do doctors use for Chapped Hands? A survey shows that hundreds of doctors are using Noxzema Medicated Skin Cream. That's because doctors know that Chapped Hands are CUT HANDS—scores of tiny cracks or cuts in the skin which need medication rather than a perfumed cosmetic.

Quicker relief for YOUR hands

See for yourself how wonderful Noxzema is for Chapped Hands. Apply Noxzema tonight on the sorest, reddest chapped hands—as much as the skin will absorb. Note how wonderfully soothing Noxzema is—how much better your hands feel and look in the morning! Remember—Noxzema is greaseless, stainless, non-sticky. Try it on this special trial offer.

New Idea—But Not Good

One would be inclined always to welcome new ideas as long as they were good ideas—helpful things. But some of the new ideas do not come in that class. By their own defects they almost automatically slide off into the lesser and poorer and more undesirable bins.

To illustrate: There is a school principal in London, Ont., who had an idea. It was to work this way: Two children in a school where 500 pupils attend were to be punished, and it was in connection with the punishment that the new idea came to the surface. By use of a radio hook-up the sounds and the weeping of the two children were made audible to all the other children in the various rooms, and reports say four girls were either in hysterics or in a state of faint.

That indeed was a poor idea to the point of being misarable. Not by the stretching of a fertile imagination could it possibly serve any good purpose. The intention may have been to instil a feeling of fear in the minds of other pupils; it may have been there was a desire to cause them to realize what would happen to them if they did not behave and attend to business.

One thing the trained teacher must know is how to maintain discipline without appealing to an outside agency. The scholars must be made to feel that their teacher is entirely capable of handling any situation which may arise. The London experiment was a poor and unwise invasion of that field.

It was bad too because it enlarged and spread abroad the trouble of two children. If it had been necessary to punish them then the punishment could have much better been administered as a matter of school routine. The children might have wept a bit, but when it was all over it would have been completed and soon forgotten.

The idea of trying to advance discipline through broadcasting the wailing of a couple of children through the entire school in order to produce a feeling of fear was so wrong that the wonder is any school principal would think of resorting to it.

How To Save $100

The Finance Committee of the Peterborough City Council has one item in its list of contemplated expenditures which the Examiner would be pleased to see deleted. That item is $100 proposed for the payment of reporters. The Examiner reporters cover council and committee meetings but there are outside reporters as well, and we understand the spending of the $100 is for the purpose of getting more Peterborough news published. Making a grant to a reporter at the end of the year has been a common practice in a good many places, and has always been regarded as nothing more than an evidence of appreciation of the services of the reporter.

The Examiner can speak for itself only in the present instance, and it would prefer that there should be no grant passed for any of its reporters. The reason can be fairly and frankly stated. We do not wish our reporters to be placed in a position where it can be said they are being paid by the City Council to report its meetings, and therefore an obligation has been created for a reporter to leave this out or put that in. A grant of that sort is open to any interpretation which any citizen cares to put on it, and for that reason alone The Examiner would suggest to the City Council that this $100 item be deleted in its entirety.

The Rural Mail Carrier

Now and then there is a question asked and answered, and the record is found generally in the first few pages fo Parliamentary Debates for the day. Not infrequently some member inquires about a change being made in some small postoffice, and again regarding some contract on a rural mail route. In some of those answers the amount paid to the rural mail carrier is so small that the wonder is that any person would undertake to do the work at the figures quoted. And yet the figures are those which the men tendering have supplied themselves. They always seem to be low. Too low. The reason is they are in competition, and it is known the lowest tender is going to win. There are rural mail carriers all over the country today who are making miles of hard going each day for a rate of pay which is as small as it is unfair. There are carriers doing 20 miles a day for $450 per year and less. And out of that amount they have to provide for horse or car and live themselves.

The contract system may bring a remarkably cheap service, but it is wrong to pick out the rural carriers as the ones who must work under contracts secured only through being the lowest when it came to tendering. There is no promotion in the service. In fact if a rural carrier wants to stay in the service at all the only way in which he can do it is by submitting the lowest tender when his contract expires. The carriers through their organization have been knocking on the door at Ottawa for years seeking better conditions, but they have never yet received them. The rural carrier should be appointed and paid a decent rate on a mileage basis or according to the territory he has to serve.

Paying For It

W. T. McDowell, High Court Secretary of the A.O.F., lost his life because he sought to regain his hat. He was crossing a street in Toronto and when at the curb he slipped. His hat came off and Mr. McDowell bent over to pick it up, a simple and natural movement. Then it was he was struck by a car and instantly killed.

It used to be safe enough for a man to get his hat if it had been blown off or knocked off. If there were need for it he would not have been in much danger if he had started chasing it along the middle of the street on a windy day.

But it is different now. It is worse. One does not like to think in terms of death all the time, but death seems to be just at the edge of the curb, only a foot or so from the place where pedestrians can walk in safety.

We get about with greater speed than was once the case, but when we stop a moment to think that a man lost his life because he sought to recover his hat we have to admit we are paying quite a price for our modern ways.

Costs of Keeping Prisoners

It is costing the people of this country $4.43 per day to keep a prisoner at the penitentiary at Collins' Bay, and that is a board bill of $31.01 per week.

That information came as the result of a question asked by Mr. Ross of St. Paul's in the House of Commons, and the information was furnished by Hon. E. Lapointe, Minister of Justice. He gave the prison population in our various institutions and also the daily cost of maintenance per capita in various institutions. Here are the figures as they were presented:

Prison	No. Prisoners	Daily Cost
Kingston	719	$ 1.74
St. Vincent de Paul	883	1.85
Dorchester	364	2.11
Manitoba	291	2.84
Saskatchewan	390	2.56
British Columbia	275	3.58
Collin's Bay	202	4.43

Going into the figures farther it is found that the cost of maintenance per day as it applies to food varies from 34 cents at Dorchester to 44 cents at British Columbia. Capital expenditures, that is, cost of buildings, etc., range from 14 cents at Kingston, to $1.05 at British Columbia and $1.38 at Collin's Bay. Going into other costs it is found staff and administration costs per capita are 97 cents at St. Vincent de Paul, $1.01 at Kingston and $2.24 at Collin's Bay.

Collin's Bay is the newest and most modern penal institution in the country and that accounts for the high per capita rate as it is reflected in capital cost, but it does not explain why staff and administration costs should be $2.24 per day at Collin's Bay, a new and modern place, and but $1.01 per day at Kingston. Whatever may be the explanation, and we believe the explanation should have been furnished when the matter was before the House, the bare fact of keeping prisoners at Collin's Bay on a cost basis of $4.43 per day is quite outside the limits of good management or good reason.

Ladies Have an Advantage

There were some pictures in Toronto papers showing the new styles for dressing hair. This modern business follows very closely world events, and right now it is considered well to have a Coronation wave, which of course is different from any other kind of a wave. Just how or where the difference comes we do not know. We learn, too, that experts have been studying the new effects, and they have a new model or method for each particular type of face. The face which is round like a nice red apple needs something different to the face which is long and slender like a summer squash. That is where the real work of art comes in.

And that of course is quite different to the way in which such matters were attended to in other years on the Tenth Concession. The girls and the young ladies and the mothers and grandmothers and the aunts and cousins had to rely pretty much on their own ingenuity to produce the effect desired. If there were to be some bangs worn then the wearer had to experiment and find the proper way to produce bangs. If there were some curling to be done—and often there was—then the implements were few but quite effective. At least so it seemed.

Those who thought and acted a little in advance did the curling the night before, and if fickle memory plays no tricks it was done with kid curlers or even with pieces of newspaper, a service for which newspapers never did receive any credit. Then there was the more immediate result to be obtained by placing the curling tongs over the flame of the coal oil lamp, then trying them on a piece of paper to see whether they were too hot. Once a person became somewhat adept at such method we believe much curling could be done in the shortest possible period. In later years we learned in school that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points, and it always seemed that using the curling tongs fresh from the flame of the coal oil lamp was something like that—the most results in the shortest period of time. All the straying ends could be effectively dealt with and much straight hair could for the time become so curly that every person knew at once it had been curled. The lady of today has an advantage more than has a man. A man can get his hair cut and his face shaved or his whiskers trimmed, but that same process was going on long years ago. The lady, though can get Coronation waves when there is a Coronation in the offing. Inventive minds keep on bringing forth something new for her delight. Compared to the field of artistic decoration available today it does seem that the women folk of the Tenth Concession were left pretty much to their own resources.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Attorney General Roebuck says bingo games must go. Just like the slot machines have gone, we suppose.

Queen Mary is reported as having ordered her Christmas postcards. The important thing however is when will she post them.

A Clayton, N. Y., golfer drove a ball that hit and killed a gull and now we really know what the devotees of the game mean by a birdie.

It is recorded that the Legislature had a thirty minute session the other day without a dissenting voice being heard. How do the provincial politicians expect to get on the front page that way?

Cambridge scientists declare that anti-gas masks are of very doubtful value. Let us hope there will never be a chance to demonstrate whether or not this opinion is correct.

There were over half a million more tourist automobiles in Canada last year than in 1935 an increase that was undoubtedly translated into more money in circulation in all parts of the country.

Sault Ste. Marie is asking for a radio inspector to be appointed. We hope that all the set-owners in the place have taken out their licenses and are in good standing.

The export of jew's-harps from the United States has dropped off completely. Probably the demand from hill-billy bands at home has been so great there is no exportable surplus.

Prisoners in the Birmingham, Eng., Jail receive weekly lectures on science, economics and citizenship. In Canadian penal institutions most of the education deals with safe-cracking and the technique of holdups.

Miss MacPhail may not believe in defense measures but she carries formidable armaments herself in the form of a ready tongue and a fund of sarcasm. Her quip that if cadet training causes alert minds the House of Commons should have a corps is a case in point.

Col. J. E. L. Streight has been named commander of Canada's coronation contingent on motion of Mr. Pouliot, and the member for Temiscouata who says a lot of things in the House made his wisest statement of the session when he referred to Col. Streight's fitness for the honor.

Plymouth has been awarded the distinction of being the soberest town in Britain last year with only 86 cases of drunkenness representing .413 per 1000 of the population. It only takes one New Year's eve celebration here to knock Peterborough out of the running so far as this record is concerned.

Saskatchewan professor has been eleven years preparing a soil map of the provinces for the benefit of the farmers, surveying over 120,000 square miles of farm land in the process. And after all this work there is always the chance that a drought followed by high winds can change the whole character of the soil over a large area.

GOOD POINTS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Joe Crumpet lived just down the street, and always kept his place so neat, and he was cheerful too; he always had good words to say, for folk he mingled with each day, some kindly thing he knew.

¶ I mind a chap left town one day, and went a goodly space away, then tongues began to wag; they said he had robbed his boss, and he was crippled by the loss, a useless sort of hag.

¶ They said he cheated in the store, and customers went there no more, he hollered at his wife; and tongues all wiggled at a rate, they all joined in the hymn of hate, he'd led a double life.

¶ Joe Crumpet smiled and had his say, he knew the man had gone away, and said he liked him too; when Joe was sick he'd done his chores, nor let him venture out of doors, he tended him right through.

¶ And every time some scandal came, Joe Crumpet always spoke the same, nor was he filled with hate; he sifted all the things he knew, and always gathered one or two, to show a goodly trait.

¶ That's why I liked Joe Crumpet so, his tongue on scandal talk was slow, he hated it like sin; no matter who the person was, or if he'd busted up some laws—Joe found some good in him.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(From Parliamentary Debates)

HOT SHOT

Miss MACPHAIL: There has been much stress laid on making minds alert. If that is a result of cadet training, it might be a good idea to have a corps from the membership of the house on the grounds in front of this building. Much of what was said by the hon. member for Rosetown-Biggar expresses what I would say in regard to the speech made by the hon. member for Davenport. He talked a great deal about getting the boys in uniform and off the street corners.

MORE ABOUT CADETS

Mr. DOUGLAS: The minister gave the number of cadets by provinces for 1936. Could he give us the amount that was spent in each province?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): It has not been broken down in that way.

Mr. DOUGLAS: It is not available by provinces?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): No.

Mr. MacNEIL: Is any training still given in marksmanship in any cadet corps?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Yes.

Mr. MacNEILL: What type of institutions are qualified for assistance on account of marksmanship? Are instructions in marksmanship given under the supervision of militia units or under the cadet instructor attached to the school?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): The instruction is given by the instructor who receives pay for these services, just as for the ordinary training of cadets.

Mr. MacNEIL: Are the rifles and ammunition supplied by the department from assistance given for instruction purposes?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Rifles are issued and ammunition is supplied by the department.

Mr. BENNETT: The sea cadets vote would not in any sense cover the training in the ship that is being built down in Nova Scotia?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): No.

Mr. BENNETT: Nothing to do with this vote?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): No. That ship will not be finished until towards the end of this fiscal year.

Mr. BENNETT: That will not be covered by this vote?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Not under this vote at all.

Item agreed to.

Contingencies, $28,800.

Mr. POULIOT: Is there anything here about the pensions being paid to General McNaughton and Colonel Steel?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Not under this vote.

Mr. STIRLING: Would the minister explain this vote?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): This vote is to provide for the cost of telegrams and telephone calls, postage, and so forth for militia services at headquarters. It includes guards of honour and the expenses of the Bisley team, the latter item being estimated at $1,200.

Mr. COLDWELL: What did guards of honour cost last year?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): So far this year, $3,344.75.

Mr. POULIOT: In order to save time, may I ask the minister which is the item relating to the McNaughton and Steel stuff?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): The pension is purely statutory under the terms of the Militia Pensions Act. I forget the exact section, but it is the one dealing with officers seconded from the Department of National Defence to any other department.

Mr. POULIOT: I wonder if I shall have to block all the estimates in order to get some information about these fellows. I understand the pension is statutory but the money must be provided somewhere in the estimates like every other statutory expense.

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Such pensions are payable by the and are not voted by this parliament. department of pensions.

Mr. POWER: They are statutory

Mr. POULIOT: Then the whole law should be repealed.

Item agreed to.

NOT FRIGHTENED.

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

FROM Berryville, Va., comes a report about the laying of an egg which bears within it the marking saying war will begin in June of 1937. It even gives the date, June 20. It is even placed in print that a newspaperman went and saw it and agreed the lettering and the numbers were there, and as though to prove there had been no monkey business going on it was stated the newspaperman was not in any way related to the owner of the hen. We read, too, that neighbors are quite excited regarding the message in this remarkable egg.

For our part we are not going to get excited. Hens do funny things when making eggs. They sometimes wind up by putting a few curlyques on the end, on occasion seem to forget to put the shell on entirely. No hen in Virginia or elsewhere is going to get us into a war either.

We have enough human beings in the world over working at the same business now. They count that day lost when they have failed to produce a new set of international chills. They have made the situation bad enough now without the hens starting to chisel in on the war scare business.

BRITAIN'S WARNING.

(Montreal Star)

GREAT Britain is loading her revolver. Moreover she is doing it in full view of a watching world, not through boastfulness but simply as a convincing demonstration that the old, starry-eyed, mush-minded days are over when her ministers thought that a Genevan resolution was a substitute for ten dreadnaughts. When these ministers today look out over the effervescing Continent of Europe, they are not looking for beloved allies for whom to die but for possible enemies whose predatory attacks must be repelled. They want peace with everybody. They do not want war with anybody.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics.

DWIGHT L. MOODY'S CENTENARY

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Having heard Dwight L. Moody in Great St. James Methodist Church, Montreal, in 1896 or '97, a line or two at this time might be permissible.

While on a big evangelistic tour of the United States, he came over from an American city to spend the Sunday week-end in Canada. A big man though comparatively short with a rugged frame, he at once drew his hearers' attention closely to him, as he fluently delivered his message. With the Bible in one hand he frequently turned from passage to passage for references. With a passionate desire for saving souls he seemed to put his very being into his life's work. He was a man with a colossal vision of this world's needs in lifting mankind from their sins to a higher place above. Dwight L. Moody actually wore himself out in trying to redeem this world for he passed to his reward at the comparatively young age of 62 years.

The large photo on the Sunday page of last Saturday's Examiner is a very true likeness of Mr. Moody as I saw him while in Montreal. Somewhat in resemblance in carrying on their life work for the uplifting of humanity was William Booth of the Salvation Army. The writer heard him in Winnipeg. Though in his declining years, his sympathetic appeal was very real as he pictured sinners in their wayward and degraded life. He fervently appealed to the Army workers to put more zeal and prayerful thought into their daily tasks before them. This old world today is badly in need of such men as the above.

JOHN T. TUCKER

MODERN MUSIC

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir: While glancing through this evening's edition of the Examiner I noticed an article concerning a talk given at the meeting of a local organization by Dr. Charles Peaker in which he attacks popular music. I would like to take exception to some of the remarks made by Dr. Peaker.

First, Dr. Peaker claims that the blaring saxophones of jazz bands were suggestions of the love life of the baboon." I have never heard a baboon make love but I would suggest that Dr. Peaker listen to Wayne King's orchestra. Maybe he'll get an idea of what the saxophone sounds like in the hands of masters. Can any symphony group match the "Waltz King's" incomparable orchestra?

Or if Dr. Peaker wants a real thrill he should take an evening off and listen to some Harlem orchestra, such as "Cab" Calloway's playing real "hot" music that makes the heart beat double-time.

This is a modern age, life is much faster and the younger generation demands fast music. This was, no doubt, the idea that brought the new type of music known as "swing" into popularity. After all, popular music is that which the majority of the people want, otherwise it would not be termed popular.

Are there any clasical compositions that can compare with Hoagy Carmichael's "Star Dust", or "Duke" Ellington's "Sophisticated Lady"? I don't think so.

Every night, all over the country, thousands yes, even millions, sit with ears glued to their loud speakers. Are they listening to some triple-chinned prima dona split her tonsils on D above high C? Are they listening to some boiler-maker wrestling with a piano, under a foreign name? No! They're listening to Guy Lombardo, Henry Busse, "Fats" Waller and the dozens of others who cater to the public's taste and give them the hot, swingy music they crave.

Bach, Mozart and their confreres have been dead many long years. Why continue to annoy us with their silly symphonies that very few of us wish to hear any longer?

Here's to popular music and long may it survive. Thanking you Mr. Editor.

Yours sincerely,
A SWING FAN.

The Dart Craze In England.

(By P. O'D. in Toronto Saturday Night.)

TO TURN from the trivial pursuits of scholarship and science to the vital and exalted activites of Society (with a big, big "S"), Mayfair, has a new craze—darts! It always required a good deal of nerve to barge into a Mayfair drawing room, but it requires more than ever now, for there is probably a dart-board on the back of the door, and the Duchess may have just flicked an enthusiastic but cafeless dart at it. It is not the sort of thing one would wish to receive in the middle of one's waistcoat, even from those fair and noble fingers.

I don't know if the dart-craze has reached Canada yet, but, if it hasn't it soon will. Darts is a very good game, full of variety and calling for a high degress of skill. It has the further advantage that it can be played almost anywhere, for it requires only a bit of unencumbered wall and a few clear feet of floor-space—just room enough to throw the little missiles at the board. And the board itself is merely a circular target about a foot and a half across. All you have to do is hit it. That's all!

Heaven only knows who invented Darts, or [illegible] the game is. All I know is [illegible] for many years it has been the chief entertainment feature of the "pubs" of the land—apart from beer, of course. But perhaps I shouldn't say "apart from beer," for the two are very closely connected, as the losers in the dart-matches are made sadly aware.

The right place to see and play Darts is, as all honest men will admit, in a village "pub." There is something about the atmosphere there that is in perfect keeping with it. Nothing could be more soothing than to sit on one of the ancient benches, sipping your "bitter," while the ploughman and the hedge-cutter and the road-mender engage in deadly rivalry with the little feathered weapons.

If you are wise you will go on sitting, and will resist all temptations to take a hand in the game yourself—unless you are prepared to do a lot of buying. For throwing a good dart is not nearly so simple as it looks. And those lads are artists at it. They have to be.

Unfortunately, Darts have now become genteel. They have also been organized. There is a National Darts Association, with thousands of clubs, and more than 250,000 members. Even the most dignified of London clubs are fast installing dart-boards.

Deer a Real Advertisement.

(From the Lindsay Post.)

A HERD of deer, the first group of six to be seen together in this district in some years was sighted in Somerville Township on Sunday by two Burnt River men, Bonar and Charles Hodgson who were exploring the back fields of some of Somerville's abandoned farms. This is an encouraging sign in a district that is putting forth every effort to develop tourist trade. One does not have to travel far to find people who would go miles to see a herd of wild deer in their natural surroundings. If this section of Ontario can be kept unspoiled for wild life so that deer and other animals and birds of the woods will prosper, it will prove one of the greatest drawing cards for tourists.

Modernized bathing beaches with showers and roped off squares may have their appeal for some. There are those who prefer cottages and summer homes in swanky districts where surroundings consist of well kept lawns and paved boulevards. It is not hard to conceive however, of the harassed city dweller fed up with the dirt and grime and bustle of the crowded places in the heat of summer, wanting to get away from it all. Wanting to get to a place where nature is really nature, pure, unadulterated and unspoiled. Any district where a herd of six deer can be sighted on a Sunday morning is just such a place. In addition to the wild life in the wood there must be cool quiet streams where fish will bite with a little coaxing and calm lakes where one can wash off the dust of the day in a refreshing dip at sundown.

Six deer in a group is a real advertisement for the Kawartha Lakes and Highlands of Haliburton. Let all of us who are privileged to reside in this refreshing locality realize this fact and do all in our power to maintain such an atmosphere by practising conservation of wild life, an asset that will return increasingly handsome dividends as the years go by.

SOMETHING WRONG.

(St. Catharines Standard)

THERE are some very sad conclusions to be drawn in the relief system. The other day Welland reported a case of a man with 11 children who drew from Ship Canal work over $1,100 wages, possibly not enough to sustain and keep his brood. But the moment his seasonal work quit, there was an application for public relief. In response to Welland the Minister of Labor wrote yesterday:

"I find that salaries paid the canal employees are the same as, or better than those which obtained prior to 1930. That was before the day when relief was available and these men were able to maintain themselves and their families on their earnings."

What is the inference? Only that the people who work have to maintain the people who won't work or who for the time being can't get work.

The solution: When a canal worker has a job for eight months of the year, he should be mulcted out of his pay for unemployment insurance and be made to contribute his share to pay for his own idleness. The same should apply to all industry.

What a travesty when Welland property, or St. Catharines property has to be levied upon to meet this sort of condition! It is not fair nor equitable: it is not even decent.

CANNON-FODDER.

(Calgary Herald)

A MERCHANT told us the other day of a customer who had just informed him that he would not be paying his bill this month because the money was going into oil stock. From another quarter we heard of a lady who had offered to sell some property for a quarter of its real value—to raise money for a flyer in the oil market. This, we think, is emphatically the sort of money that should not be used for speculation.

There are people—such as the successful oil companies—whose natural business it is to prospect for oil. There are funds—such as the surplus savings of debt-free and prosperous citizens—which should quite properly be available to finance such exploration. The tragedy of any boom is that it usually goes on long after the legitimate speculator has deemed the risk too great for him and got out.

The cannon-fodder of the stock market are the little people who are tempted to go on and on for the very human reason that it is so much easier and more exciting to gamble than to save.

EPIC OF NORTH.

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

AN EPIC of the north marked by remarkable endurance and friendly devotion, and in which the airplane played a part as it does so often in that region, comes from Lac du Bonnet, Manitoba.

A man died and his friend determined that he should have Christian burial. It was a hundred miles to the nearest settlement. The friend set out through the wilderness and 24 days later arrived at his destination. The despatch tells he encountered blizzards and for days at a time had to seek what shelter he might from the force of the storm. Through forest and over frozen lakes he fought his way and eventually triumphed.

Then an airplane took off and returned with the remains of the dead man. As an illustration of stark courage and of devotion to a friend this man's record stands high in the annals of a region where these great virtues are conspicuous.

A WOMAN OF EIGHTY.

(Lethbridge Herald)

SHE is a woman of eighty. In her younger days she played the piano well enough to give lessons to others. Today she is still giving lessons, not because she is required to by need of money to sustain her; far from it, for the reason is she is helping others who have not the means to pay for tuition. Two little girls, daughters of a neighbor, were eager to know how to play the piano, but the depression had left their parents with little better than sufficient to pay for the necessities of life, and piano lessons were out of range. So the neighbor of eighty years comes into the picture. She brings the little girls to her home and gives them lessons regularly, with the result that the gift to play the piano is not to be lost to these children of the depression years.

A Bit of Nonsense

Beyond Words

Tommy had been given the job of sweeping the snow from a neighbor's front door. After he had completed the task the neighbor came to the door and pressed a coin in his hand.

Tommy looked at it but remained silent.

"Now, Tommy," said the neighbor, "what should a little boy say when he has been given a penny for sweeping the snow away?"

"Daddy said I mustn't use that kind of language," said the boy.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 25. — Wheat futures groped for recovery on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and found stimulation in a moderate pickup in export demand.

Sale of 200,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and firmness in United States markets served to erase fractional losses at the opening and the close was ½ to ¼ cent higher.

Bulk of the export trade was worked out of Vancouver. United States markets were influenced by the lack of moisture over winter wheat areas and a forecast of clear weather.

Losses stretched to half a cent shortly after the opening in the local pit in sympathy with a decline at Liverpool. Small inquiry for the cereal pushed values down ⅞d to ¾d in the English market. Buenos Aires reflected favorable weather conditions to close ¼c to ½c higher.

Cash wheat and coarse grains activity moved in a narrow rut, with spreads generally unchanged. Trade in the latter was confined chiefly to rye.

One lot of good lambs went at $9.75.

RUSSIA TO DEPORT GERMAN SUSPECTS

Only Ten Of 44 Nabbed For Sabotage And Espionage However Will Go Free

MOSCOW, Feb. 25. —(AP)— Ten Germans, arrested on suspicion of sabotage and espionage in November last year, will be deported from Russia immediately, the Soviet government informed the German embassy today.

The embassy declared it "was not advised" on the status of 34 other Germans known to be held in Russian jails.

Four of the Germans facing deportation are incarcerated in Moscow and the other six are in jail at Leningrad.

(German ambassador Count Friedrich von der Schulenburg made "serious" representations on behalf of the imprisoned Germans last week.)

(Russian vice-commissar for foreign affairs N. H. Krestinsky, in reply, said he would attempt to determine the status of the prisoners but that investigation of their alleged sabotaging activities had not

ESKIMO SKILLED IN MANY CRAFTS

Mission Worker Finds North Shows Examples Of Arctic Folk Lore

WINNIPEG, Feb. 25 (CP).—Miss Prudence Hockin, R.N., who for the last five years has been in charge of the Anglican mission hospital at Pangnurtung, Baffin Land, speaking in this city showed models in walrus ivory of a sled, dogs, a boat, with its thin skin sail, and many other objects skilfully carved and decorated by the Eskimo.

She also had models of an Eskimo man, woman and child, made by an Eskimo girl at the mission from seal skin, and showing remarkable skill. Her own parka and other garments which she wore in the North drew expressions of admiration for the Arctic needlewomen who made them.

Miss Hockin told of the beginnings of the hospital work, how the Eskimo at first were suspicious and brought their sick only when they thought they were going to die. Wonderful success in several apparently hopeless cases brought confidence and today the eight-bed hospital has so much work to do that a second nurse is needed.

Miss Hockin will leave in April for Moose Factory, where she will be in charge of a new Anglican hospital recently built. She is giving addresses before Sunday schools and missionary societies during the intervening weeks.

TOWNSEND TO APPEAL

Elderly Physician Will First Ask a New Trial.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP).—Dr Francis E. Townsend, predicting eventual exoneration, helped his attorney draft a plea today for a new trial in an effort to overturn his conviction of contempt of the United States House of Representatives.

The elderly California physician said an appeal would be taken to a higher court if the request was denied.

Justice Peyton Gordon delayed sentence of three days. He can impose a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and a year in jail.

The Federal Court jury considered only whether Dr. Townsend had walked out of a House committee hearing last May without permission, another charge of refusing to appear before the committee having been dismissed.

SOLD WILD BIRD.

MANCHESTER, England (C.P.)—For selling a linnet that was not aviary bred George Jobson, a bird-dealer, was fined $10, and ordered to pay $25 costs, on a charge laid under the Protection of Wild Birds Act.

LOCAL DEPUTATION URGES COMPLETION PETERBORO ROADS

intersection of No. 28 and No. 7 highways west of the city was also mentioned because of serious accidents which have been caused there by lack of visibility, and it is understood that the grade will be reduced this season.

Lakefield's Pavement

Pavement through Lakefield, additional improvement of the road from Lakefield to the nepheline quarry east of Stoney Lake, and additional work on the completion of the Apsley-Bancroft road were also mentioned. Opening of a road from Havelock north to the Canadian Flint and Spar Company's quarry in Methuen is another project which has been urged through the county council. It was referred to Hon. Mr. McQuesten's department, and by way of good measure the need of transportation facilities across Gannon's Narrows and Pigeon Creek was urged.

The eventual road building scheme beyond Bancroft leads to Barry's Bay and Pembroke, forming a link through Peterborough between No. 2 highway and the main artery through Pembroke.

Road building, it was pointed out by all the members of the deputation would not only assist local industry but also enhance the asset of the tourist attractions in the Kawartha district. The importance of the tourist traffic was especially mentioned by Mr. Kerr. One of the arguments advanced by Mr. Duffus was that the provincial government had already invested a large sum on improved roads in this county and district, but the full advantages would not be realized until the uncompleted sections of roads were built.

T. P. Lancaster gave his support as a member of the Legislature to the deputations main petition, and it is reported that Hon. Mr. McQuesten's reception was cordial and encouraging. He suggested that they also speak to Mr. Smith, Deputy-Minister of Highways. At that conference Mr. Smith said it was the intention of the Department to pave sections of No. 7 highway east of Peterborough this year, and also to proceed with work on the Burleigh Falls-Bancroft road. Other details of the Peterborough request would be considered, especially the completion of unfinished stretches of roads.

31 REBEL SHELLS HIT SOUTH MADRID

Take Heavy Toll In Workers' Section—Battery Later Reported Silenced

MADRID, Feb. 25. — Thirty-one high-explosive shells took a heavy toll of dead and wounded in the workers' section of Southern Madrid today as Government machine-guns severed all communication between the insurgent lines and their troops on the summit of El Pinzarron Hill southeast of the capital.

The exact number of dead and wounded from the shelling could not immediately be ascertained, but a score were believed buried under demolished buildings or killed by flying debris.

El Pinzarron, which dominated the key village to Maranosa in the shell-torn Jarama River valley, was surrounded in yesterday's Socialist advance enveloping Maranosa. The crest of the hill had been heavily fortified, with a Fascist artillery battery commanding the entire sector.

A defence council communique declared that the El Pinzarron battery had been silenced by Government guns after the southern section of the capital had been shelled.

The council also said the Government troops had followed up their advance in the northwestern sector of the capital yesterday by driving a wedge into the enemy lines at Robledo de Chavela.

Meanwhile, Fascist forces have succeeded in entrenching themselves outside Vaciamadrid, only a few miles from the capital on the Valencia highway.

STRANGLE PATROL TO ENCIRCLE SPAIN FULL OF TROUBLE

Germany Starts It By Asking No Russian Warships Be Near Her "Beat"

AGREEMENT TOTTERS

LONDON, Feb. 25 — (A.P.) — Ticklish points involving the national honor of France and Russia and the "Act of God" shelling of a British warship to-day endangered the International control plan to cut off warring Spain from the rest of Europe.

Authorities admitted the task of setting up the non-intervention system had proved so complicated the plan to throw a patrol net around Spain probably could not be made effective on schedule at midnight March 6.

A sub-committee of the six most interested powers—Britain, France, Russia, Germany, Italy and Portugal—was called for to-day, however, to salvage as much of the agreement as possible.

Despite efforts of official spokesmen to minimize the "mistake" explosion of a Spanish anti-aircraft shell on the deck of the British battleship Royal Oak, concern was aroused lest more serious "incidents" lead to International complications when the patrol is established. Four officers and a seaman were injured by the explosion.

Germany already has asked that her ships not be stationed in proximity to those of Russia because of the possibility of some untoward event.

Presentation To Mr. And Mrs. Ward When Girls' Club Meets

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 25.—The Girl's Club of the Lakefield Baptist church held a social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nicholls in Smith, on Friday night.

The first part of the evening was devoted to games and crokinole. Then Rev. W. B. Walker, acted as chairman while a short program of musical and literary talent was presented. After the chairman's short address, which preceded the program, Miss Dorothy Northey sang a solo; Messrs Walter Walker and Lorne Morrison rendered a guitar and auto-harp duett, and Miss Beatrice Charlton gave a reading entitled "The Song of Brother Jones"; Messrs Gratton Bullock and Freddie Darling delivered a harmonica duett; Miss Cora Webdale sang a solo, and Messrs Walter Walker and Lorne Morrison rendered "Just A Song At Twilight" as a vocal duett.

At this juncture, Miss Edith Nicholls read an address and Mr. Walter Walker made a presentation of a silver cream and sugar set to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ward, who were married last month. Mr. and Mrs. Ward both attended the Lakefield Baptist Church before their marriage, at present they are residing in Peterborough. After the couple had replied, the group joined in the singing of the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

The serving of refreshments brought the evening to a close.

CHILD BRIDE BACK AFTER 3-WEEK TRIP

Honeymoon To Florida In Detroit Parents' Car—Now She Returns To School

DETROIT, Feb. 25 (CP). — This city's newest child-bride, 15-year-old Ruby Hilton Lee, picked up her books and returned to High School today to continue school work and the life momentarily disrupted by her secret marriage to Clarence Lee, 18-year-old neighbor.

The two disappeared three weeks ago with a car belonging to Lee's father, and returned Tuesday after a honeymoon trip that extended to Florida. They were married in Cumberland, Md., while police of several states sought them.

At the home of her parents, who have no objections to Clarence, "because he's such a nice boy," Mrs. Lee said recent publicity on child marriage had not influenced her into taking the marriage vows.

"We know exactly what we're doing," she said. "I'm not so young. I'm getting old."

"I've wanted to marry Ruby since I first met her," Lee said. "We've been going together a year and a half."

The couple is living with the bride's parents. When her husband finds a job and can afford it, they will move into an apartment, the bride said.

LEICESTER CITY WINS

LONDON.—In English Football League second division games played to-day Coventry City, playing at home, was defeated, 2-0, by Leicester City, while Swansea overcame Sheffield United, 2-1, in the Welsh town.

Senator Dies

One of western Canada's foremost pioneers and widely connected with Canadian ranching and industrial enterprises, Senator Pat Burns of Calgary died in that city after a lengthy illness. Senator Burns is shown here.

OBJECT TO OATH.

BELFAST, Feb. 25 (C.P. Cable).—The newspaper Irish Independent to-day described changes in the Coronation oath, made to bring it into conformity with the Statute of Westminster, as "objectionable to Northern Ireland Catholics."

The paper referred to the phrase which says the King is to maintain "In the United Kingdom the Protestant Reformed religion as established by law."

LAKEFIELD

BIBLE DISCUSSION IS HELD BY B.Y.P.U.

Regular Meeting Of Lakefield Organization Marked By Good Program

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 25.—The Baptist Young People's Union of Lakefield Baptist church held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, in the Sunday school room. The president, Mr Walter Walker, presided. Miss Winifred Roeborough presented the topic.

"Abide With Me" was sung as a solo by Miss Cora Webdale, who was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Webdale. Miss Beatrice Charlton gave a reading, "The Meaning of 'Thank you'," and Misses Mc[illegible] and Elsie Hopkins sang a duet. A selection on the guitar and autoharp was given by Messrs. Walter Walker and Lorne Morrison.

Rev. W. B. Walker led a discussion on the Bible, raised by questions from the readers of the Bible booklets which have been distributed to members for guidance in Bible study during the week. Each student brings up for discussion any point which is not clear to him, or which he thinks would make a helpful discussion, and the matter is discussed by the group.

APPEALED ALLOWED

LONDON, Feb. 25—(C.P. Cable).—The Judicial committee of the Privy Council to-day allowed the appeal of the municipality of Port of Spain, Trinidad against the Canadian-owned Trinidad Electric Company in a case arising from a dispute about the terms upon which property should be compulsory acquired.

Normal Staff Honors Miss Madill.

Miss Patricia Madill of 606 George street, whose wedding to Arthur Metcalfe of Hamilton is to take place on Saturday, has received many especial gifts from a wide circle of friends.

On Wednesday afternoon at the Normal School, the principal, staff and students united in presenting her with several handsome gifts, in recognition of their personal liking for the bride-to-be and also for her father, Dr. A. J. Madill, who is a prominent member of the staff of the Normal School.

At a very pleasant tea planned by staff members, Miss Madill was the recipient of a very beautiful framed picture which represented the staff gift, an electric hotpoint toaster from the students, and a clock made from inlaid woods, the work of A. F. Hagerman.

The affair was held in the library of the school and was preceded by an appropriate flower contest in which "Sweet William" finds his bride among the flowers of the garden. Tea was served from a table arranged with a white cloth embroidered in colors and centered by an exquisite large bouquet of Spring flowers which was afterwards presented to the guest of honor, Miss Madill. Presiding at the table were Mrs. J. A. Bannister and Mrs. J. V. McIntyre, assisted by staff members.

After tea had been served, the School principal, Dr. J. A. Bannister, spoke briefly, and the gifts were presented to Miss Madill on behalf of the donors, by M. H. Park, J. V. McIntyre, and officers of the Literary Society, William Colborne of Sioux Lookout, president, and Miss Alice Darling of Peterborough, past president. The bride-elect made an appropriate acknowledgment.

A happy gathering closed with the service of fruit punch by Mrs. McIntyre and Mrs. Adrian Macdonald and a toast to the bride-to-be, proposed by Adrian Macdonald and responded to by her father, Dr. Madill.

Greetings from Our Southern Namesake.

From Peterborough, Canada, to Peterborough, South Australia, seems like a very long distance to travel, but it may easily be bridged by friendship, as the local Y's Men's Club of the Y.M.C.A. discovered when, in an effort to promote the work of the club, John S. Boyd, who is the Governor of Y's Men's Clubs in the Eastern Ontario district, forwarded a good-will letter to George Briggs, the 'Y' secretary at the Antipodes. Peterborough, Australia, is sited 150 miles north of Adelaide, has a population of nearly three thousand people, and is an important railway junction. It is the clearing house for ore trains from Broken Hill, en route to Port Pirie on Spencer's Gulf, where smelting works are situated. Broken Hill is one of the largest producers in the world of silver, lead and ore concentrates and Peterborough clears an ore train for that point every hour in the twenty-four. From that Peterborough (and they spell it the long way) the East-West Express is cleared for Port Augusta, where it begins a long trek across the desert. On one stretch of the track there are 358 miles of track without a single curve.

Mr. Briggs sent a breezy letter in response to Mr. Boyd's communication, which was published in full in The Times and Northern Advertiser of the Australian Peterborough. This is a large sheet, half as long again as our newspapers, and about a column-space wider, consisting of a large double-page weekly. It has advertisements in very black type. At the foot of Mr. Boyd's published letter, the editor comments: "There are four Peterboroughs in the world; in England, Victoria, Canada and South Australia." (But there are two more in the United States.)

Mr. Briggs mentions that the literature with regard to the local club did not reach him, as the envelope enclosing it was broken and empty. He mentions that one of the small boys at the 'Y' removed the stamps for his stamp-book.

He also enclosed in his reply to Mr. Boyd an interesting illustrated folder showing views of our Southern namesake. The streets are wide, tree-bordered and unpated, the automobiles on view are mainly of the older, open-top type and it is evidently a pretty place. On the top of the little folder one sees displayed prominently pictures of the kookaburra bird, the little, long-billed "laughing jackass" of Australia.

It is interesting to note the odd names that abound in that district, although our own names would probably seem queer to those Down Under." In the weekly paper, places mentioned include White Yarcowie, Terowie, Oodlawirra and Orroroo. Queerly enough also, there is an A. T. Pink in Peterborough, Australia, a namesake, evidently, of A. T. Pink of 696 George street. The South Australian Mr. Pink runs a butcher shop.

Buying Groceries By Electricity

Clarence Saunders of Memphis, Tenn., proprietor of the world's first electrical grocery store, is here shown behind the scenes as he fills up the display boxes made vacant by purchases. Customers are given a key with a light bulb on the end when they enter the store. They make purchases from the glass cases by inserting the key in a slot nearest the article they desire. When the light on the key flashes, the purchase is made, the price recorded and the goods ready for delivery.

Fashion Service

2823

So smart, new and young, you'll hardly believe this individual dress could be so very simple to sew.

If you copy the original in lovely blue crepe, you'll have something bright and gay for your waning winter wardrobe. You'll also be prepared for spring days without a coat for town.

The buttoned shoulder accents the flattering neckline. A tailored feeling is noted in the stitched back pleat from neck to hem. It will give you height. Two hip pockets and a single breast pocket, add a sportive-air.

Crepe silk print is another enticingly lovely idea.

The sleeve cut in one with the shoulder, makes this model exceptionally quick to sew. Note the very smart long sleeved version.

For summer, you'll want to make it in a bright linen or a peasant cotton print.

Style No. 2823 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38-inches bust. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-in. material with 2 yards of ribbon for the belt.

TEA SERVICE PRIZE AT COOKING SCHOOL

Many Interesting Features On Mrs. Aitken's Program On Friday Evening

Many prizes will be distributed at the Canada Starch Company Cooking School in the Collegiate Auditorium tomorrow evening, the grand prize being a beautiful tea service in silver plate. All the articles of food prepared by Mrs. Aitken in her demonstration will also go to various members of the audience, chosen by means of 'lucky number' programs.

There will also be special presentations, such as a birthday cake for the oldest lady present, a silver plate for the youngest bride, and "deb" prizes.

The requests for Mrs. Aitken to appear in different cities are so many that she can only accede to a small part of them, and Peterborough is one of the very few places that she has found time to visit a second time. In addition to conducting these schools, Mrs. Aitken makes four morning broadcasts each week over CFRB, and also supervises the activities of the test kitchen which The Canada Starch Company maintains in Toronto for the purpose of discovering new and delightful ways of using such products as Benson's corn starch, mazola, crown brand corn syrup, and so forth.

The ladies of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., under whose auspices the school is held here, and to whose work all proceeds of the small admission fee will be devoted, reports a heavy demand for tickets, and those intending to attend would be well advised to be at the Collegiate auditorium well in advance of the hour of beginning, eight o'clock tomorrow (Friday) evening.

COTTESLOE Y.P.S. DISCUSSES DEBATE

No Decision Arrived At As To Whether To Enter Contest

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COTTESLOE, Feb. 25—The Y.P.S. met in the church on Monday evening, with the president, Mrs. Golloher, in the chair. The roll call was answered by 18 members. After some discussion about entering the debating contest, which decision was left over for another meeting, Maitland Forsyth, Citizenship convenor, took charge of the following program: Bible reading by Miss W. Lewis; readings by Misses Marjorie Barr and Ada Clements, and Rev. Mr. Cleland gave a splendid talk on "How the Bible came into being," showing how it had been translated into the English language.

The different groups took part in a "Ties" contest, conducted by Miss Lewis.

FRANCES WILLARD DAY IS OBSERVED BY THE W. C. T. U.

Anniversary Meeting Is Combined With a Mission Program

MISS HADDOW SPEAKS

Very interesting and inspiring was the "Frances Willard Day" meeting, observed yesterday by the local W. C. T. U., when the green room at the Y.W.C.A. had every seat taken. An innovation for this anniversary meeting was in combining it with missions in connection with the W. C. T. U.

Mrs. G. K. Tyler, the president, presided over the meeting with its exceptionally fine program.

The worship period included a hymn, followed by prayer. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Harold Rehill. Mrs. A. J. Throop led in a season of prayer for missions, and in memory of Frances Willard, and a stirring missionary hymn concluded this devotional service.

Reports from several superintendents were heard in the business session.

City-Wide Crusade.

As usual, at the beginning of the year, plans were made for a city-wide crusade day, when all members are called together to win new members. For this meeting, which is to be held on Friday, March 19th, Mrs. H. Rehill graciously offered her home on Dalhousie Street, with Mesdames Fairbrother and Campbell as an assisting committee.

A beautiful duet, "I'll Go Anywhere," sung by Mrs. Clayton Telford and Mrs. Stewart Mitchell, with Mrs. E. W. Rowland accompanying at the piano, proved a pleasing interlude in the program, and the temperance reading by Mrs. George H. Rowe was also greatly enjoyed.

In a brief talk, Mrs. A. J. Throop told of the type of work being done for missions through the Women's Christian Temperance Union. One of Frances Willard's visions was "a world-wide gospel temperance organization." This is evidenced by the fifty countries which represent our work. To organize in these various countries, we have special workers, whose duties are all missionary in type. A letter giving many details of this side of the temperance work was read by Mrs. E. Wand. Coming from Miss Ida Ambrose, the daughter of one of our Provincial officers, this letter held much of interest to us. A world-wide noon-tide prayer circle, which encircles the globe, is one of the privileges of the W.C.T.U. member, [illegible] in keeping with this the hymn, "The Beautiful Hour," was sung.

Guest Speaker.

Miss Mary Haddow, who has lived most of her life in Bolivia, where her parents are engaged under the Canadian Baptist Mission, was the guest speaker.

Miss Haddow told many interesting stories of their life and work there. They are a very patriotic people and learn the rules and constitution of their country in a serious way. They send their children to the Christian schools, where they are taught to study the Bible, and in this way it is taken into the homes. These schools are pitifully few, and hundreds are turned away for lack of room every year.

Miss Haddow appealed for the prayers of the women for missionaries of all denominations. She said the work was slow and difficult, but that the knowledge that home friends were praying for them, gave strength and courage.

After thanking the speaker and all those who assisted in the program, the meeting was dismissed with prayer and the benediction by Mrs. H. P. L. Seymour.

CITY MOVES HOME OWNERS.

REGINA.— (CP)— Unable to extend water and sewer facilities to many Regina homes through lack of funds the city plans to move these people to areas where such facilities are available. City-owned lots will be offered in exchange providing the owner will move his house to the new site. Cost of moving will be nominal.

THREE GRAND PRIZES—EACH CONSISTING OF A FREE TRIP TO THE CORONATION—For a BOY or GIRL accompanied by a parent or guardian

many big CASH PRIZES

HERE IS THE SECOND AND FINAL QUESTION:
WHY ARE YOU PROUD TO BE A BRITISH SUBJECT?

If you have not yet answered the First Question—do it now so as to qualify for the Grand Prizes—as the winners must have answered both questions.

The First Question is—WHY WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE THE CORONATION?

Any boy or girl still has a fair and equal chance to win an all-expense Free Trip to see the Coronation, with all its magnificent pageantry and glamour. It also includes a Free Trip for a parent or guardian to accompany each child. Send in your entry now.

THE CONTEST—What you have to do:

Every answer to each question must be accompanied by a "CROWN BRAND" Corn Syrup label. You can send as many answers as you like, provided a "CROWN BRAND" label is enclosed for each answer. Read the Rules at the left carefully. All answers must be mailed not later than March 25th. And remember—if you have not already answered the First Question send it in as well with your answer to the Second Question. You must do this to qualify for a Grand Prize.

Here Are The RULES Read Them Carefully

1. Answers must not be more than 25 words.
2. Each answer must be accompanied by a label from a tin of "CROWN BRAND" Corn Syrup. Send in as many answers as you like, but each and every answer must be accompanied by a "CROWN BRAND" CORN SYRUP label.
3. Write your name and address and age plainly and the grocer's name and address from whom you purchased "CROWN BRAND" Corn Syrup.
4. The prize winners will be announced as soon as possible after the close of each contest.
5. The judges' decisions are final and there can be no correspondence with contestants.
6. Only children 17 years of age and under, residents of Canada, may compete. Employees of the Canada Starch Co., Limited their families and employees of the Company's Advertising agency, are not eligible.
7. In case of a tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.
8. Only children who have answered the two questions will be eligible for the Grand Prizes.
9. Winners of the Grand Prizes—trips to the Coronation and two weeks' tours of Britain—will sail from Montreal each with a parent or guardian on April 23rd and return sailing on May 15th.
10. The Contest closes March 25th and all entries must be mailed not later than that date.

Answers must be mailed to The CANADA STARCH COMPANY Limited, P.O. Box 218, Toronto.

All Boys and Girls 17 years and under can enter. Independent and impartial judges have been appointed and their decisions will be absolutely final. Writing, spelling, phraseology and neatness will count in the judging.

224 CASH PRIZES for the Second Question

Besides the wonderful Grand Prizes of Free Trips to the Coronation, there will be 224 Cash Prizes for answers to the second question. Imagine what a good chance you have to win a prize.

1st Prize $50.00 — 4th Prize $5.00
2nd Prize $25.00 — 20 Prizes of $2.00
3rd Prize $10.00 — 200 Prizes of $1.00

THE GRAND PRIZES

A Free Trip to the Coronation accompanied by a Parent or Guardian, will be awarded to each of the three children who send in the best individual answers during the entire contest—the winners, however, must have answered the two questions, and enclosed a "CROWN BRAND" label with each answer.

PRIZES TO GROCERS. To the grocers who supplied "CROWN BRAND" CORN SYRUP to the three grand prize winners—$50.00 each. For the grocers who supplied winners to the second question—$10.00 each for the first four winners and $5.00 each for the next twenty winners.

HALF OF LONDON DOWN WITH FLU

City Hospitals Crowded To Capacity—Doctors, Nurses Working Overtime

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 25—(CP)—Influenza has appeared in practically every office and home in London during the past few days and employers are tearing their hair wondering who will be the next to fail to turn up for duty.

During the past week, colds which first were considered mild have suddenly taken their toll with the result that almost half of London is "under the weather."

City hospitals are crowded to capacity. Nurses and doctors are working overtime in an effort to reduce the number of cases to a minimum, and for the past few days extra beds have been placed in the corridors and sunrooms to care for the increasing number of patients. The cases all seem of a mild type.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

I DO NOT know why there should come to me
The thought of someone, miles and years away,
With swift insistence on the memory,
Unless there be some need that I should pray.
She goes her way, I mine, we seldom meet,
To talk of plans or changes, day by day,
Of joys or sorrows, triumphs or defeats,
Or special reasons why 'tis time to pray.—Roberta.

Dear Friends:

Haven't we all had the thought of someone come into our minds at unexpected moments. We had not been talking of them, there was nothing that had cropped up to make us think of them, there had been no letters, and yet there was the thought as clear as could be.

Sometimes we hear from them, but more often not. We cannot talk with them as we used to do, for many miles separate us now. We can not talk over our problems or experiences, getting comfort from one another, so don't you think it must be that we are meant to pray for them?

We are too busy to spare special thought
For days together, of some friend away.
Perhaps God does it for us, and we ought
To read His signal as a call to pray.

All the days are taken up to a great extent with our own affairs, and there is little now except an occasional letter to remind us of the friend we loved to see coming in our door. Our hearts cannot leap at the sound of their voice, because we are too far away.

Yet deep in our memories is the love we have for them and the happiness their presence gave to our days, and altho' we may have a nostalgia to live once more beside them and renew that dear friendship again, yet that does not account for them coming into our minds when there was nothing to cause it. Maybe it is because:

Perhaps just then, my friend has fiercer fight.
A more appalling weakness, a decay
Of courage, darkness, some lost sense of right,
And so, in case she needs my prayers, I pray.

We all have, at one time or another, a weak time in our lives. It may be that things are getting too much for us, and we feel like kicking everything over and going out and not giving a darn about anything, so maybe our friend is feeling like that, and our prayers will be the very thing needed to steady them and give them proper balance once more, for "more things are wrought by prayer than this old world dreams of."

And so because we cannot speak to them ourselves and show them that two wrongs cannot make a right, we ask God to do it for us, that our friend will not go down to defeat, and the first chance we get we sit down and do our part by writing and telling of our love and how we miss them.

Many's the one whose courage has been bolstered up by someone saying a prayer for them. It is my own sure defence in time of trouble. Sometimes I am held back because I am so conscious of my own shortcomings, but I cannot stay from God. There is too much lack in my life if I let a day go by, and you can usually find me looking out the window at 7 a.m. telling God all about it, and asking for help.

And if you know a better way to start the day, I wish you would let me know about it for at best my time cannot be very long. And sometimes, if you let everything slip out of your mind but the thought that you are communing with your Father, you will be amazed at the peace that comes into your whole being. And now, I will conclude with the last verse of this poem.

Dear, do the same for me, if I intrude
Unasked upon you, on some crowded day,
Grant me a moment's prayer as interlude,
Be very sure I need it, therefore pray.

Your Friend
ROBERTA.

Gowns Approved For Coronation

These two designs for gowns to be worn at forthcoming Coronation courts have been approved by King George and Queen Elizabeth. The designs are by Reville of London. At left is a court gown of gold brocade with a cluster of crystal flowers at the decollette. The train is of gold brocade with gold lame. AT RIGHT, a Reville court gown and train of delphinium blue satin. The "off-shoulder" decollete, the bodice and the train are hand-embroidered in a "feather" design of crystals and pearls. The waist is encircled with a crystal and pearl girdle.

REGULAR MEETING OF CENTENARY W.A.

Enjoyable Program Is Provided For Occasion At President's Home

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Feb. 25.—The regular meeting of the Women's Association of Centenary United Church was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Misses Jessie and Emma Sherwin. The president, Miss Jessie Sherwin presided.

It was decided that Miss Hilda Arthur purchase lining and batting for two quilts. Mrs. Newman Lean presided over the devotional part of the meeting. She read a story entitled "A Thought," and arranged a contest. Other numbers on the program were readings by Miss Hilda Arthur, Miss Vera Sherwin, who read "The Stream We Never Cross"; Mrs. Dawson Timlin "If you have some one worth loving"; and several poems were read also; Miss Emma Sherwin read, "The Ring My Mother Wore"; Mrs. Walton Lean read, "A New Start"; and Mrs. P. Williamson read, "An Expression of Thought For You"; little Miss Lois Arthur sang a solo, and little Miss Audrey Scott said a recitation; Miss Jessie Sherwin conducted a Biblical contest.

The hostesses served refreshments and a social period was enjoyed.

SIR GUY STANDING VICTIM OF SPIDER

Bitten While Filming "Lives Bengal Lancer"—Knighted For War Service

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25—(A.P.)—Death of Sir Guy Standing, 63-year-old English Actor, saddened the international industry of motion pictures to-day.

The noted character star, knighted for service to his country in the Great War, was seized by a fatal heart attack on a business errand in Hollywood yesterday.

His brother, Wyndham Standing, also a film actor, waited to-day for word from Sir Guy's third wife, now in London, before completing funeral arrangements. She is an actress known on the stage as Dorothy Hammond.

Born in London, he was eldest son of a theatrical family, when the war broke out he interrupted his career to serve in the British navy. He rose to the rank of Commander, seeing duty in the Dover patrol and in the Intelligence Service.

A black widow spider, Standing's friends said, probably was the indirect cause of death. He was bitten during the filming of "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and had complained of recurrent pains in his legs ever since.

In Hollywood he maintained sumptuous bachelor quarters at Malibu Lake, 30 miles from the studios. His only companion was his valet, Jim Fuller. He was devoted to sailing, golfing and music. He was widely admired among the movie set, but seldom attended any of its social functions.

Despite an acute shortage of iron and steel, Tokyo, Japan, has a building boom.

COMMUNITY HEALTH

A Column Conducted by the Department of Public Health, Peterborough, in the Interests of Peterborough Citizens.

"COMMON COLDS." —ARE EASILY CAUGHT —COST MUCH MONEY.

How many days of work did you lose last year because of colds? If you did go to work with a cold what per cent. of efficiency did you give your employer? How many days were your children absent from school because of colds? A cold lowers the vitality and resistance of the person suffering from it, and it is also communicable to the one who comes in contact with you.

One eminent physician in this country has an unwritten law in his household, "If you have a cold go to bed until you are rid of it." That should be the law in every household, because a cold is an infectious disease. Anyone is liable to "catch" it, especially if his resistance is low.

A cold will spread through a whole family, school-room, office or workshop, because of the carelessness of the person having it. He may sneeze in the air, cough with mouth uncovered and even handle things before washing his hands. A cold is sometimes spread by such common direct contact as shaking hands.

How Colds Are Caught.

Colds are conveyed in the secretions of the mouth and the nose. Any part of the respiratory tract may be infected—the nose, pharynx, larynx, trachea or sinuses of the head. The secretions of the nose and mouth carry the cold germs which are spread by coughing and sneezing.

Then, too, even with the most careful individual, the hands often become contaminated with the infected secretions, and quite unconsciously the germs are scattered.

That is why you should be most particular about keeping your hands from your nose and mouth when you have a cold. Frequently washing of the hands with hot water and soap is a protection against passing the cold on to another.

Colds Commonest Now.

This is the season when colds are most common.

By observing a few simple rules you can stay 100 per cent. free from colds this winter.

Keep your resistance up to normal by proper nourishment, rest and exercise in the out-of-doors.

Avoid infection.

Keep away from the crowd of sneezers.

Don't shake hands or kiss anyone who has a cold.

Do not use a common drinking cup or towel, pipe, pencils or other articles contaminated with fresh secretions.

Wash your hands with soap and hot water before handling food.

Do not use dishes that have not been sterilized.

If You Have a Cold

Stay in bed one to three days, longer if your physician so prescribes.

Cough and sneeze into a piece of cloth or paper that can be burned.

Have a thought for the person next to you, who by your carelessness may catch your cold.

Wife Preservers

Try serving a dash of celery salt with salads and salad dressings.

HOUSE DEBATES ON SCHOLARSHIPS IN QUIET SESSION

Speakers From All Parties Favor State Aid To Encourage Higher Education

MEASURE IS TALKED OUT

OTTAWA, Feb. 25—(C.P.)—Finance Minister Dunning's presentation of the budget will overshadow all other activities in the House of Commons to-day.

Opening with a review of the current financial year, in which he will probably show a marked decrease in the deficit as compared with a year ago, the minister will then present the tariff changes and taxation proposals, subject of intensive study and preparation for many months.

Of particular interest in the budget presentation is the fact it will contain the tariff changes incidental to the new Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement signed early this week, details of which will be made public to-day.

In sharp contrast to the acrimonious discussions of the past week over defence estimates and foreign policies, yesterday's short session of the House was occupied with a debate on national scholarships, in which many members spoke, and not a partisan or bitter word was uttered.

Resolution Talked Out

The resolution of Paul Martin (Lib., Essex East) calling for study by the government of the desirability of establishing state scholarships by which higher education would be made available to meritorious high school graduates whose means would not enable them to continue their studies otherwise was talked out.

Labor Minister Rogers, speaking for the government, agreed Canada had lagged in adult educational progress, but would not agree that blame rested on the federal authority. Not only did the prior responsibility rest on the provinces, but he believed universities and business corporations had been delinquent.

The government faced a heavy responsibility in assisting in the care of unemployed homeless young men. But the National Research Council, which had already done much in the way of providing scholarships, was working on further plans for the rehabilitation of youth, and would continue to do so.

Mr. Rogers said the Government could not accept the resolution in its entirety, but the necessity of voting it down did not arise. The motion was being debated when the six o'clock adjournment was reached and since yesterday was the last "private members' day" it will probably not be reached again.

All Speakers In Favor.

Speakers from all parties of the House endorsed the motion, most of them with considerable feeling that the government should act as soon as possible to provide scholarships to the end that latent intellectual talent would not be lost to Canada through the lack of means on the part of brilliant students.

Denton Massey (Cons., Toronto Greenwood) said Canada had done much in the way of providing youth education. Of the total population one-fifth were children attending school. There were 73,000 teachers and 2,300,000 school children. Those attending schools were as many as the combined number of men and women in all other employment. This was double the number in schools 36 years ago and the increase was a great achievement.

The tragedy was that most of the teachers were greatly underpaid and in some instances not paid at all. Mr. Massey raised the question of the value of this education, whether the capacities of the children were studied and developed or if the pupils were merely "exposed" to the educational facilities provided by law.

The Dominion was about to face a scarcity of trained men and women whose services would be needed, he continued. It was unfortunate for Canada such a small proportion of students were enabled to go on to higher education from the common schools.

Youth Greatest Wealth.

There was no natural wealth in Canada greater than the wealth of youth, Mr. Massey declared. Canadians pointed with pride to their natural resources of minerals and forests, but failed to tap the source of even greater wealth contained in the intellect of Canadian youth.

Mr. Rogers said he wished Mr. Martin could have made the same appeal in each of the Provincial Legislatures. The question of jurisdiction could not be ignored. There was no insurmountable obstacle in the way of the Dmoinion Governments providing scholarships, but there was a question of priority of obligation. It was a first duty of the provinces to provide education. It was the primary duty of the Dominion to look after other matters.

The universities themselves, private corporations and the provinces had done something to provide scholarships and they could do a lot more.

Mr. Rogers expressed the conviction universities had not done as much as they could have in providing scholarships for graduates from high schools. Corporations, too, could, he thought, have done a greater service in this respect. Commerce and finance needed trained men and women, and while they were spending large sums for advertising, he felt providing scholarships would be the best kind of advertising.

Canada Lagging?

Canada had not kept pace with other countries in education, Mr. Rogers said, but the blame could not be placed entirely on the Federal Government. The provinces had prior responsibility but he agreed at once that the Federal authority could assist and was doing so in a large degree through the National Research Council.

In the Speech from the Throne it was indicated the Government was planning measures for rehabilitation of youth, and the National Research Council was busy on a study of how this could best be done.

When Mr. Dunning completes his presentation of the budget address, a task which will occupy more than two hours, the debate will be adjourned, probably by Conservative Leader Bennett, until next Monday or Tuesday.

FLYING GERMAN PRIEST CRASHES

Reaches Moosonee Montreal-Bound For Parts To Repair Missionary Plane

MOOSONEE, Ont., Feb. 25—(CP)—After a 75-mile trip by dog team from Fort Albany, where his airplane crashed a week ago, Father Paul Schulte left here by train to-day for Montreal to obtain parts for his damaged machine. Three occupants of the plane were uninjured in the crash.

One-time pilot in the German Air Force, Father Schulte brought the plane into the north country last summer to aid in mission work.

Leaving this settlement on the lower end of James Bay late February 17, the noted flying priest was accompanied by Father Belleau of Omi, superior priest for James Bay, and another brother of the Omi Mission. It was dark when Father Schulte attempted a landing at Albany, northwest of here.

In the crash, the propellor and undercarriage of the machine were broken. After a survey of the damage, Father Schulte started back to Moosonee with a dog team from the Roman Catholic Mission at Albany. He carried some broken parts to be replaced or repaired at Montreal.

During the Great War Father Schulte served with the German Air Force and later organized Miva, a German organization supplying planes for missionary work in outlying sections of the world.

A plane was expected at Fort Albany from Winnipeg to-day with some parts for the damaged plane.

WHIP BROADCAST AN OBJECT LESSON

London Principal Says No Parents Have Complained—Board Silent

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 25 (CP).—Broadcasting of whippings through the rooms of St. George's Public School here was done as an object lesson, Principal Fred H. Galpin states. One six-year-old boy was spanked and a nine-year-old one strapped while about 600 pupils listened through the public address system.

Principal Galpin said so far no objections from parents were forthcoming. The pupils were warned about playing in the basement and swinging on bars and new equipment which was marred, he said.

Superintendent George A. Wheable will make a report to the Board of Education Thursday on the whippings. Pending this report Board officials were silent.

Arthur Legg, father of the boy strapped, said yesterday he conferred with the principal and was told a mistake was made. "Mrs. Legg and I are both satisfied and so is Jack," the father added. "I have talked to members of the Board of Education and I hope we have all heard the last of it."

Superintendent Wheable who said he didn't believe in corporal punishment, admitted he was strapped every day at 3.30 o'clock during school days because he had a blot on his exercise book.

FAIRMOUNT

A pot luck dinner was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. H. Ball, with eleven present, and turned out to be a sumptuous banquet. The afternoon was spent in quilting, and over $2 was presented in aid of the W.M.S.

A very enjoyable evening was spent on Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Horton, when the young people of the community spent the evening in playing progressive crokinole. Seven boards were in full swing. Afterwards a dainty lunch was served, bringing the social time to a close.

Four members of the Knights of King Arthur class wrote the examination on the Bible study test of the Sunday school. Lessons for the last quarter on Wednesday evening; results will be received this coming week and diplomas given.

Mr. S. Dundas of Ingersoll called on Mr. and Mrs. T. W. McIndoo on Sunday.

Miss H. A. Waddell spent the week end in Peterborough with friends.

Mrs. H. M. S. McBain had the misfortune to fall on the ice the latter part of the week, injuring her shoulder and spraining the arm.

Rev. H. P. L. and Mrs. Seymour spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. T. W. McIndoo.

Mrs. R. Hooton was the guest of Mrs. W. Shaw of Springville on Saturday.

Miss Mary Hooton and her brother Roy made a business trip to Keene on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. L. Seymour spent Thursday at the home of Mr. J. Earle.

Mr. L. Graham took suddenly ill and is still confined to his bed.

Where Italian Soldiers Turn Pleasure Into War

Skiing can be a killing business, as well as a pleasing winter sport. Here is a glimpse of a situation where it is a factor in the deadly art of war. Italian mountain soldiers (Alpini) are shown during manoeuvres in the mountains near Piemonte. The machine-gun squad at RIGHT is in action against a theoretical enemy.

TORSO SLAYING LAID TO MANIAC

Man Believed To Have Killed Eight Women Could Only Be Held For Minor Violation

CLEVELAND, Feb. 25 (A.P.)—The sex-crazed maniac believed responsible for eight Cleveland torso slayings in the last 2½ years can be charged only with violation of a health ordinance, Detective-Sergeant James Hogan declared today.

"Even if the slayer confessed," Hogan asserted, "that wouldn't help us any. Violation of a health ordinance is the only charge we could place against him.

"That's a fine of $50 and 30 days in the workhouse."

Police started a frenzied search of missing persons' records upon discovery of the latest victim—a woman's nude torso, severed from the arms, head and legs with surgical skill—found on Cleveland's East Side on the Lake Erie shoreline.

One previous victim was found at almost the same spot. The mutilated bodies of five others were left in the desolate Kingsbury Run section, a few miles away.

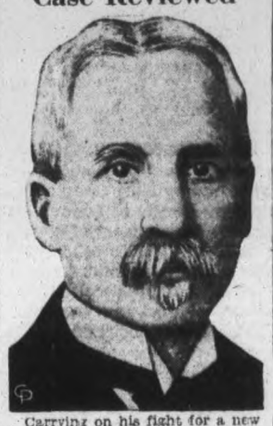
Case Reviewed



Carrying on his fight for a new trial on the charge of conspiring against the province of Ontario in connection with the purchase of succession duty free bonds, upon which he was convicted in 1924, Aemilius Jarvis, Sr., noted Toronto bond dealer, is having his case reviewed by the Ontario court of appeal. The case was revved upon a reference from the federal minister of justice.

NEW ABITIBI DEAL IS ALMOST READY

Pulp Limit Arrangement Will Hinge On Firm Getting Out Of Receivership

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (CP).—An agreement between the Abitibi Power and Paper Co. and the Ontario Government in respect to pulpwood limits will likely be concluded in the next few days, Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, said today after a conference with representatives of the company.

"The arrangement we will make will of course be conditioned on the company getting out of receivership," said Mr. Heenan.

Ontario's largest paper company is now being operated by a trustee for the bondholders. Mr. Heenan said he understood satisfactory progress was being made between representatives of the bondholders and company officials and he expected the company would soon be back on its feet.

A JOB RACKET?

TORONTO, Feb. 25—(C.P.)—Alleged to have taken money from three youths after falsely promising to find jobs for them, Robert Fagan, 20, of Toronto, was arrested yesterday on charges of fraud, attempted fraud, and theft.

Jack Roy told police Fagan had offered him a job in a downtown store with the provision he post a bond of $8. Jack Bryson and Richard Russell, also of Toronto, made similar complaints.

FIND FILM WRITER SHOT DEAD IN BED CALIFORNIA RESORT

Wife Of Humphrey Pearson, Hysterical, Is Unable To Give Coherent Details

BOTH BEEN DRINKING

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Feb. 25 (AP)—Humphrey Pearson, prominent film writer, was found shot to death in his bed at his desert cottage at midnight here at this wealthy resort. He was about 40.

Deputy Sheriff W. W. Walrath said Pearson's wife, weeping and hysterical, was in the same bed when the tragedy was discovered. She was unable to give a coherent story of what occurred. Pearson was shot twice through the chest, the deputy said.

Police Chief Lloyd Boller said Pearson and his wife apparently had been drinking, and his body fell across the bed, pinning Mrs. Pearson beneath.

The butler was quoted as saying the Pearsons were strongly devoted to each other and not given to quarreling. Neither Boller nor other investigators would advance a theory regarding the shooting, pending further inquiry.

A former advertising man, he wrote for both radio and films. He did dialogue for "Broadway Babies" and collaborated on "What Price Hollywood." His adaptions include "Top Speed," "Going Wild," "Sunny," and "The Great Flirtation."

$1000 CASH HIDDEN IN CANS

WALLACETOWN, Ont., Feb. 25 (CP)—One thousand dollars in cash, the larger part of it secreted in a baking powder tin and bonds of undetermined value, made up the estate of James Foster, old-age pensioner who died here last Friday.

The 87-year-old recluse of this Elgin County community, whose only companions were three cats and who slept on a bed of grass, was found dead by neighbors. Doctors said he had been dead several hours.

LOANS GIVEN WEST DROP DURING YEAR

Total Only Ten Million Compared With Over 42 Previous Twelve Months

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—(CP).—Dominion loans to four Western provinces for relief showed a marked decrease in the present fiscal year, Finance Minister Dunning said today in his budget speech.

Up to February 15, 1937, net loans made for such purposes amounted to $10,892,236 compared with $42,304,150 in the preceding fiscal year, ending March 31, 1936, he stated.

Total loans outstanding to the four western provinces on February 15 which had been made under the various relief acts stood at $127,419,400.

Totals for the various provinces were: Manitoba, $19,415,855; Saskatchewan, $51,898,717; Alberta $25,759,748; British Columbia, $30,345,080.

AGREES SO WELL WITH ALL BABIES

CARNATION MILK has made a special reputation in the case of premature and other hard-to-raise babies. But it also is specially good for all bottle-fed babies. It is so easy to digest, so safe, and has an extra amount of "sunshine" vitamin D. These virtues are the results of the way Carnation treats rich, whole milk—evaporation, homogenization, irradiation, and sterilization.

Carnation is also extra good for cooking and creaming. Try it. Write for these Carnation books. "The Contented Baby" is free. The Carnation Cook Book with full-page, full colour illustrations is 10c. Address Carnation Company Limited, Toronto, Ontario.

URGES LOWERING OF FIRE INSURANCE KEY RATE IN CITY

Peterborough Rate Is 50 Cents a $1,000, While St. Catharines Enjoys 25 Cents

20 YEARS AFTER BIG FIRE

Reminding that Peterborough's fire loss ratio has now returned to a more favourable figure with the expiration of a 20-year period since the $2,262,000 loss caused by the great Quaker Oats fire of 1916, Fire Chief George Gimblett urges the City Council to seek a lowering of the city's fire insurance key rate in a recommendation included in his annual Fire Department report.

"It is a matter which touches the pocket book of almost every citizen in the city," the chief declares. "Peterborough is paying a key rate of 50 cents a $1,000 insurance while St. Catharines enjoys a rate of 25 cents. I believe Cobourg, Port Hope and Lindsay, with only volunteer fire brigades, pay a key rate of only 40 cents. Through lowering of our key rate, we could save Peterborough citizens up to $40,000 a year—the equivalent of two mills on our tax rate."

His recommendation reads: "I would recommend that the underwriters be interviewed by a committee of the City Council with reference to having the key rate of the city lowered. The 20-year loss ratio on the city caused by the Quaker Oats fire was up on December 11, 1936."

The key rate is governed largely by the losses of the city over the preceeding 20 years and thus has been unduly high by reason of the heavy Quaker Oats fire loss, he pointed out. With expiration of the 20-year period immediately following the Quaker Oats fire on December 11 last year, the total 20-year fire loss for Peterborough dropped more than 50 percent. In the 20-year period from 1916 to 1935, the loss total was $4,413,859.73. In the 20-year period from 1917 to 1936, the loss total was $2,199,796.35.

Among other recommendations made by the Chief are the following:

"I would recommend again for your favorable consideration the building of and manning of a bunkhouse in the southern section of the city.

"That two alarm boxes be added to the system.

"That a Johnson portable pump be purchased to take care of the section east of Armour Rd., as there are no water mains in that section. Having used this pump with excellent results the past year, I am more convinced we should have one in the Department.

"That a three way Deluge set be purchased this to give a heavy stream in large fires.

"That a 600 imperial gallon pumper be purchased and the old Larrance consomation waterous steamer and Seagrave ladder truck be turned in as part payment on the pumper.

"I would once again strongly recommend that the Council take ways and means to establish a pension fund similar to what they have in other cities.

"I would recommend the purchase of 1,000 ft. 2½" first quality hose to replace hose worn out and discarded.

"That (2) C. O. 2. extinguishers be purchased.

"That the Utilities Commission be requested to install more hydrants in the residential sections.

"I would recommend that three up-to-date pieces with timers on be purchased for the gas masks.

"That I be allowed to appoint an extra man as inspector for the Fire Prevention Bureau as the inspections have to be curtailed during sickness and holidays.

"That two men be added to the strength of the Department to fetch it up to the required ratio of one man per 1,000 population, as now we have only 21 against a population of 23,078.

"That the Council make arrangements with different oil companies having warehouses in the city to carry 1,000 lbs. of foam powder each and the same to be available to the Fire Department for use in their foam generator at any serious gasoline or oil fire, powder used by Department from any company to be replaced by the Department.

"I would strongly recommend an amendment to the Fire Prevention Bureau by-law dealing with chimney fires as we had 259 chimney alarms out of a total of 577 alarms. This I consider gross carelessness and should be checked by a by-law. It also weakens the force by having men and apparatus out if a serious fire were to occur.

"I would recommend that Council appoint a capable man to inspect all chimneys in the city for defects and also appoint a capable chimney sweep and he only be allowed to charge a reasonable price for cleaning same, and both to be under the supervision of the Fire Prevention Bureau and the Building Inspector."

Ponies To Be Innocent Victims Of Starvation In Mine Strike

Gang Of 450 Threaten To Stay Down Without Food Till Pay Is Raised

WATER, AIR CUT OFF

PECS, Hungary, Feb. 25—(A.P.)—Four hundred and fifty coal miners declared a hunger strike to-day for themselves and 100 ponies underground with them in a 656-foot shaft.

Demanding an increase in the daily pay from $1 to $1.20, they shut off the mine's water supply and air pump and declared over the mine telephone they would feed neither themselves nor the ponies until their demands were met.

Fearful of rising water in the mine and the possibility of dangerous gases, authorities expressed anxiety for the safety of the strikers. A regiment of troops and police were on duty at the pit-head.

GOLD PRODUCTION UP FOR JANUARY

Worth Nearly Million Dollars More—85,000 Tons Additional Milled

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (CP).—Ontario Department of Mines reported today the value of gold produced in January in Ontario at $7,120,010, compared with $6,234,414 in the same month last year. Tons of ore milled rose from 605,555 to 691,346.

All four gold-producing belts showed increases. Value of Porcupine's output rose from $2,654,617 in January, 1936, to $3,166,931; Kirkland Lake from $2,767,180 to $2,961,649; Matachewan from $116,704 to $134,021; North-Western Ontario from $695,913 to $857,409.

Production in ounces for last month was given as follows: Porcupine, 90,266; Kirkland Lake, 84,519; Matachewan, 3,820; North-Western Ontario, 24,505.

PERMISSION GIVEN FOR TWO TAG DAYS MARCH 13, MAY 29

Police Commission At Monthly Meeting Decides To Revise Regulations

CHIEF IS IMPROVING

Requests for permission to hold tag days were granted by the Board of Police Commissioners sitting under chairmanship of His Honor Judge Sheldon L. Smoke on Wednesday afternoon to two charitable organizations.

A written request from Mrs. J. J. Lynch asked permission to hold a tag day on Saturday, March 13, in aid of St. Vincent's Orphanage, while a similar written request from J. Treneer, field secretary for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, sought authority to have a tag day on May 29.

Permission in both cases was granted on motion of Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., seconded by Judge Smoke.

When aked by the chairman for information concerning the police estimates which were submitted to the council by the Commission with the demand for an appropriation of $29,830, Mayor George Macdonald intimated that the estimates had been approved by the Finance Committee, but have not yet reached the council.

Having reference to a remark made by the Mayor regarding rummage sales, Magistrate Langley commented on the recent action of the Attorney-General of Ontario, and observed, "It looks as if church organizations will have to be more careful about disposing of quilts and so on by raffles."

Condition Improving.

Inspector James F. Reid, called on for a report as to the condition of Chief Constable Samuel Newhall, who has been absent for the greater part of the month through illness, intimated the condition of the Chief appears to be showing marked improvement, although he is not yet ready to resume his duties.

Mayor Macdonald, remarking on the fact that off-duty police officers have been called on in the past to escort mental patients to Whitby in cases where they have shown a tendency towards violence, revealed that a fee of five dollars for each officer has been collected from private patients. Recently, he said, there was an indigent patient of violent tendencies removed to a mental hospital, and he wished to know where the officers might look for remuneration for their services. He felt they were entitled to a fee in such circumstances.

The matter was discussed briefly by the Commission, and the chairman sought to find some provision in the police regulations prohibiting constables from performing work that would bring them extra remuneration in their off-duty time. While he failed to find it, he came across several obsolete regulations in the thirty-year-old manual, which led to the proposal that it was high time the rules and regulations were amended and brought up to date. No action was taken.

One of the regulations read by the chairman and which relates to another day and generation, was that respecting the tieing-up of horses at hitching posts.

Apropos of a resolution passed at the last meeting of the Commission in which Chief Commissioner E. G. Odette of the Liquor Control Board was given assurance that the city police are co-operating with Provincial police locally in enforcement of the Liquor Control Act, but that the wine shop is proving a source of trouble, a letter was received in which the Chief Commissioner promised that operations of the wine shop here would be investigated.

V.C. Holder Is Given Promotion

Corporal Philip Konowal, V.C., who shares with Major M. F. Gregg, V.C., sergeant-at-arms, the distinction of being the only members of the parliamentary staff at Ottawa to hold the coveted military award, has been promoted to "doorman" of "Room Sixteen", the new common room for all members of the House, Senate and Press Gallery. The new room was designed by Premier King to promote wider acquaintances and association among all political groups in parliament. Corporal Konowal, V.C., is pictured at one of the desks in the meeting room.

Four Constables Are Required to Hold Man

Hamilton, Feb. 25 (CP)

FOUR constables were required yesterday to overpower Dominico Milanetti, found guilty today by Magistrate H. A. Burbidge of assaulting Constable Frank Waddington. Milanetti was remanded to March 2 for sentence.

"I don't know what this man was drinking, but I never saw the effects of liquor last so long," said Inspector Roughead. "He was still crazy drunk and raving for hours after he was locked up."

"Somebody put a gallon of coal oil in his stomach," volunteered Nick Milanetti, brother of the accused.

CATCHES "FROZEN" FISH

MAGRATH, Alta. — (C.P.) — Clyde Bennett created a stir when he walked into his home here, 30 miles west of Lethbridge, and started to unload fish from his pockets. They were large, small and medium-sized. All were frozen stiff. He "caught them" in a pot-hole. The fish had fish for dinner.

IT'S TRUE! AT LAST A "NO-SCRUB" SOAP
That's Safe As Can Be For Colors, Hands!

Developed at the cost of $1,000,000 by the makers of gentle Ivory Soap

● It's here! A new-type laundry soap that soaks out dirt in 15 minutes . . . gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter . . . yet safe for colors and hands! OXYDOL was developed by the Ivory soap people, at the cost of $1,000,000! It brings you at last, a "no-scrub, no-boil" soap that leaves your hands soft and white, that will not fade any washable color.

Combining speed and safety in a way no single soap has done before, OXYDOL does these 4 amazing things:

(1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes . . . no scrubbing, no boiling. Even the "tough" spots come snowy with a gentle rub between the fingers.

(2) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter, proved by scientific Tintometer tests. (3) Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. (4) Yet so safe that even sheer cotton prints washed 100 consecutive times in OXYDOL suds, showed no perceptible sign of fading.

The news of OXYDOL is spreading like wildfire! Women in all parts of the country are discarding former favorites and adopting it. To save time and drudgery on washday—to protect their hands from the ravages of harsh soaps!

OXYDOL is more economical, too. Tests show that it will go ⅓ to ½ again as far as even the latest soap chips on the market. One package often gives twice the suds—does twice the work—lasts twice as long as less modern soaps. Get OXYDOL from your dealer today.

TWEED

SAMUEL BOWERS PIONEER CITIZEN IS 96 YEARS OLD

Tweed's Oldest Resident Remembers Bear Chasing Him From Potato Patch

BORN IN THURLOW

TWEED, Feb. 25.—Celebrating his ninety-sixth birthday at his home here Tuesday, Samuel Bowers, Tweed's oldest citizen was receiving the congratulations of his friends throughout the district. Until the past few months he was in excellent health, although this winter he has been forced to remain at his home with only occasional visits to the business section. Mr. Bowers was born in Thurlow Township in 1841, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Britain Bowers, moving with his parents when an infant into Hungerford Township nine miles south of Tweed. The pioneer father made a clearing [illegible] a small log cabin in the [illegible] forest. Samuel Bowers lived in this immediate district all his life retiring to live in Tweed in 1920 after an active career on the farm.

Mr. Bowers has vivid recollections of the early days in this district when all farm work was completed by ox-team and when two days were required to make the round trip to Belleville over corduroy roads to have his grain ground at the mill. Wild animals inhabited the bush in the early days and he remembers having been chased from the potato patch by a large black bear.

Early Tweed.

When Mr. Bowers first visited Tweed over eighty years ago, there were two stores, a saw-mill, a grist mill, a small hotel and the town hall. He remembers having walked to Belleville, purchased the first family plough and walked the distance home twenty miles, with the implement on his back. He spent several years in the lumber camps operated by Flint and Holton and when only fifteen years of age drove logs down the Moira River to the mills.

His wife died in 1935 after the couple had observed their 62nd anniversary of their marriage. Six children are still living: Nelson Bowers, Gouverneur, N.Y.; Mrs. H. Belden, Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. H. A. McGaugherty, Watertown, N.Y.; Mrs. Thomas Kincaid, Hamilton, Ont. One brother, Nelson, lives at Parry Sound, and two sisters, Mrs. Henry Myles of the State of Missouri and Mrs. Hobert Fleming in New Ontario.

Gardener of Note.

Mr. Bowers is a gardener of note and disposes of his products to the people of the village during the summer months. He is also proficient at locating water for the establishment of wells and he uses the traditional "witching" method and his services have been in constant demand. Mr. Bowers has never been seriously ill; he has been able until recent months to enjoy his smoke and the daily newspapers, and he is looking forward to reaching the century mark. He has been a lifelong Conservative and a regular attendant of the Methodist and later the United Church.

LAD TO GET MEDAL, NEW DOG.

TORONTO — John Kent, year-old Chatham boy, who risked his life on February 9 in an effort to save the life of his dog Snooty, from the cold water of the Thames River, is to get a new dog.

The Toronto Humane Society has decided to present him for his effort with a thoroughbred wire-haired fox terrier and a medal, it was announced to-day.

CREEK IN FENELON OVERFLOWS BANKS FLOODING TOWN

Hundreds Of Dollars Damage Done As Waters Invade Stores

WORST IN HISTORY

FENELON FALLS, Feb. 25 (CP).—Merchants counted the cost today following the worst flood this village, fifteen miles north of Lindsay, has ever experienced, estimated at hundreds of dollars, was caused when a small creek which flows through the centre of the town overflowed its banks following heavy rains.

On the main street, water poured into store cellars to a depth of four feet, in many cases causing damage to merchandise. Copp's butcher shop, the Grand Cafe, Fellmore's grocery and the People's Produce Company suffered severely.

Emergency crews carried provisions to upper floors of flooded buildings on Francis Street, where residents were marooned for several hours. The water in some cases rose to within an inch of upper floors.

Fenelon Falls has been threatened on previous occasions by floods from the creek, and negotiations had just been completed whereby the Dominion and Provincial Governments are to share the cost of diverting the creek to prevent a catastrophe. The work had not yet started.

CROLL GIVES UP GUARDIANSHIP

minister decribed the wealth of the babies.

"When this bill passes the House, after two years operation of the act, we shall turn over to the official guardian the Dionne assets now under our control, consisting of $543,046.39, invested in government and government-guaranteed bonds of the province and the Dominion, and contracts guaranteeing for two years an assured income of $200,000 and no debts."

Ample income for life was assured the Dionne family. Now the little girls, nearly three years of age, can enter "A normal family life" and prepare for education and training.

Noticing Ballyhoo.

"The ballyhoo days are over," he continued. "Ballyhoo was all right as long as the children didn't know it was going on. Now that they are growing up they are beginning to notice their surroundings, to take stock of things and to understand them.

"It won't be long before they come to the realization they are unique and the subject of a world-wide publicity campaign. For their own good we have to do what we can to offset this. They have health, they have money. What they need now most of all is a normal domestic life, association with their brothers and sisters, the love and discipline which their parents alone can completely provide. There is no substitute for a mother.

"The best thing that could happen to them during this interval of growing up would be to get their names and pictures off the front pages for a while. There will be enough of that later on, inevitably. Let them in these formative years have a little normality in their daily lives."

posed him politically. He had sought to indict Senator Arthur Meighen by having a commission investigate the purchase by Ontario of the Abitibi Canyon Power Development, and nothing came of it.

"Meighen is one of the ablest Canadians that ever took part in public life," he said.

Tax Hydro Plants

William Houck (Lib., Niagara Falls) introduced a bill to enable Niagara Falls and Stamford Township to levy municipal taxation on power plants and other property acquired by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission from private companies and on which the private companies paid municipal taxes.

Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck, Hydro Commissioner, had indicated on previous occasions he will oppose any measure for the taxation of hydro.

As the legislature passed through second reading of the government bill to amend the succession duties act, Wilfred Heighington (Con., Toronto-St. David's) suggested there should be some understanding reached between Canadian legislative bodies in regard to taxation of estates, incomes and corporations. Changes from year to year upset business, he said, and there should be a measure of finality about such legislation.

He also said a person should be able to arrange the disposition of an estate with a sure knowledge of what the government would demand in the way of taxes.

DRIVER IS HURT BY RUNAWAY TEAM

James Morton, County Road Foreman, Injured When Wheel Passes Over Him

LINDSAY, Feb. 25. — When the rear wheel of a wagon drawn by a team of frightened horses passed over his body yesterday, James Morton of Bethany, county road foreman, suffered fractured ribs and a dislocated shoulder.

Assisted by Ernie Sisson, Mr. Morton was spreading gravel on the road when the horses were frightened by a small boy with a hoop, and ran away. He was removed to his home.

OBITUARY

ABRAHAM DINGMAN

NORHAM, Feb. 25.—Abraham Dingman, a life-long resident of the Norham district, died at his home here on Thursday, after a prolonged illness, having reached the age of 84 years.

The deceased was well known in the community, where he had lived since early manhood. Following the deathe of his wife, about twenty years ago, he came to reside in the village with his daughter, Mrs. Ella Campbell, whose kindly, loving care did much to ease his suffering through years of ill health. His passing will leave a void in her home.

Other daughters left to mourn his loss are Mrs. E. Bertrand, of Campbellford and Mrs. Blakely, of Saskatchewan, also four sons, Clifford of Norham, Edward of Campbellford, Frank and Korey of Saskatchewan. Thirty-six granchildren also survive.

The funeral service was held in the Cramahe Christian Church with the Rev. C. W. Kay of Warkworth in charge. The old Hymns, "Abide With Me" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus", were sung, also a beautiful duet "In That Beautiful Land on a Faraway Strand", by Rev. and Mrs. Kay.

Pall bearers were six grandsons of the deceased, Ralph and Oscar Campbell, Cecil and Clarence Bertrand, Gerald and Morley Dingman. The remains were interred in the family plot beside the Christian Church.

FREDERICK N. SHEARER.

The funeral of Frederick N. Shearer, who died suddenly on Wednesday morning is to be held from the family residence, 312 Monaghan road, at 2 o'clock p.m. on Friday. The Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean will officiate at services, with interment being made at Little Lake Cemetery.

BABY SMITH

NORHAM, Feb. 25.—The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Amos Smith whose infant son passed away on Monday. The baby was not quite a week old. This is the sixth child of the sorrowing parents to be taken by death in a period of ten years. The baby's body was laid to rest beside the others in Red Cloud cemetery. Besides the parents, two brothers and a sister survive.

SHIRLEY DUNK.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25.—Death occurred suddenly on Wednesday morning to Shirley Helen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dunk, Front Street. The child, who was 23 months of age, and in apparent good health, was stricken early in the morning. The funeral service will be conducted from the family residence by the Rev. B. Simpson Black, after which the remains will be interred in Burn Brae Cemetery.

MRS. CLARA RICHARDS

(Examiner correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Feb. 25.—Warkworth and vicinity were shocked at the sudden death of Mrs. Clara Richards, widow of Dr. J. N. Richards, on Sunday, February 21st, after a brief illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Richards will be greatly missed in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where she was an active member in the various organizations, as well as a director of the Warkworth Public Library.

She is survived by four daughters: Mrs. R. McKenzie of Centreton, Misses Margaret, Clare and Doris, at home; three brothers: Dr. William Wilson of Hastings, Frank on the homestead in Dartford, and Arthur of Hastings.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from the home on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. G. R. Duncan, assisted by Rev. Donald McKenzie of Centreville and Rev. C. G. Graham of Colborne, had charge of the service. Interment was in the Warkworth Cemetery.

THOMAS EDGAR DAWSON

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 25.—Thomas Edgar Dawson well known resident of Bailieboro passed away here yesterday in his sixty-fifth year. He is survived by his wife, formerly Eva C. Lucas and by one son Gerald and two daughters Jean and Ruth.

The funeral will take place on Friday from his late residence in Bailieboro at 2.30 p.m. to the Bailieboro Cemetery.

MARMORA.

Mr. Lloyd Bailey of this village, who has been teller at the Dominion Bank, Madoc, for the past four years, has been transferred to the St. Lawrence Boulevard branch, Montreal.

DUNNING HANDS TIMELY WARNING ON SPECULATION

Will Mean False Standards Of Value And Unbalanced Development

SURE STEP TO DISASTER

OTTAWA, Feb. 25 (CP)—A warning to stock market operators against further development of the current speculative fever was sounded by Finance Minister Dunning today in his budget speech.

If carried further, false standards of value and unbalanced development would result, with their "inevitable aftermath," he said. Full co-operation of the stock exchanges and banking institutions would be necessary to regulate the flow of credit into speculative channels to prevent a new disaster.

"If we may judge by the activity in brokerage offices, the rapid rise in stock market prices and the ratio of stock prices, particularly in some sections of the market, to nearby earnings and dividend prospects, we are forced to recognize a revival of that get-rich-quick spirit which proved so disastrous in the pre-depression years," said Mr. Dunning.

"As business activity increases and especially if the commodity price level shows a rapid rise this speculative fever is likely to become more widespread and more hectic, creating false standards of value and an unbalanced development with their inevitable aftermath.

"It is not too early, therefore, to call attention to those potential dangers and to express the hope that adequate measures may be taken with sufficient promptness to keep unsound developments in check.

Bank Has Power of Control

"The Bank of Canada has the power to control the total volume of credit in circulation, but if the amount of credit flowing into the special channel of speculation is to be regulated there will be needed the effective co-operation of the stock exchanges and the banking institutions which will be called upon increasingly to finance speculative activity.

"We are, I hope, too close to 1929 to forget the necessity of ordered progress and well-balanced development."

Some contraction of credit may be necessary to prevent excesses in the rising tide of Canadian business activity sooner than many people expect at the moment, Mr. Dunning predicted.

He noted the possible usefulness of credit expansion to combat deflationary forces in a depression, but it had to be recognized as a dangerous weapon requiring use of expert technique, great wisdom and caution, he said.

"The control of the volume of money and credit with a view to mitigating the extremes of booms and depressions is one of the primary functions of a central bank," he added. "The easy money policy which has been followed in the recent past is, in my opinion, an illustration of appropriate action in a time of depression.

"There will come a time, however, and it may come more quickly than many of us expect, when precisely the opposite policy will have to be followed if the best interests of the country are to be served."

TO ADDRESS KIWANIS.

"Peace Gardens" is the subject of an address to be given by Mr. Moore of Toronto as guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting at Empress Hotel on Friday. Mr. Moore is an authority on horticulture and his address will deal with the international gardens distributed up and down the international border between Canada and the United States.

THE DENNE PICTURES.

Arrangements are being made for the display of the T. H. G. Denne collection of old Peterborough prints which have arrived in the city. This splendid collection of pictures will be permanently on view in the rooms on the second floor of the Public Library on the north side of the building.

FEASTING ON VENISON.

Relief recipients in the Tamworth district are feasting on venison this week as the result of the finding by Game Inspector Ed Morley of a deer so badly entangled in a wire fence that it had to be destroyed. Reeve Courneyea ordered the meat to be distributed among families on relief.

OPEN FORUM SPEAKER

As John Hargraves is sailing for England soon he has been unable to accept the invitation to address the Open Forum at George Street United Church next Sunday. His place will be taken by P. J. Rowe, M.P., who will speak on "Security and Defense." Because of the interest of mothers and wives in the matter of war the Forum will be open to them for the first time, and all are invited.

TO ADDRESS ROTARY.

The Peterborough Rotary Club has been fortunate in being able to secure for their guest speaker at next Monday's luncheon the well-known Canadian writer, Robert J. C. Stead. Mr. Stead who is director of news and publicity for the Department of Natural Resources, Ottawa is a facile speaker, with a wide knowledge of Canada and he will have an interesting message for Rotarians.

A GIRL CARILLONEUR.

Few Peterborough folk are probably aware that the city possesses a girl carilloneur in the person of Miss Kathleen E. Ford. In the absence through illness of her father, Richard Ford whose duties include the playing of the chimes of St. John's church, Miss Ford and her brother Fred have been carrying on, and she has been playing the hymns heard over the chimes on Sundays and before the mid-week Lenten services.

KNOCKS DOWN SIGN.

When he allegedly drove his car north on George street between another vehicle that was in the act of making a left turn at an intersection and the east curb, George E. Beal, 595 Water street knocked down a Motor League signpost at the northeast corner of George and McDonnel streets around 10.20 p.m. Wednesday. The other car was proceeding south on George street and was about to turn left on McDonnel street when the accident occurred. The driver was stated to be John Doogan, 352½ Water street.

CAN BE NO RAINBOW.

If snow falls while the sun is out, can there be a rainbow? Yesterday and on several previous occasions this winter snow has fallen in bright sunlight, prompting this inquiry from subscribers. The answer is in the negative. The tiny globules of water which a rainfall produces are required if the sunlight is to be refracted from sufficient uniformity of direction to produce the rainbow spectrum. Ice crystals which go to make up a snowflake will refract the sun's rays but lack the regularity of shape to produce the phenomenon. A rainbow in the middle of winter is not an impossibility, however, for one was seen here on Sunday when rain fell during the day.

GAMBLING GAMES AT EXHIBITIONS MUST BE CLOSED

Grants Not Be Given To Fairs Permitting Gambling W. Rosborough Reports

DISCUSS CAR RAFFLE

While it is still some months away, the Exhibition Board directors met under chairmanship of President Thomas Brown on Wednesday evening and discussed preliminary plans in connection with the annual Fair. There was a good attendance.

A feature of the meeting was the presentation by Wilbur Rosborough of his report as delegate to the Ontario Fairs Association in Toronto recently. It was a report that brought forth general commendation and R. M. Glover remarked that a practical farmer should again be sent as delegate in future years.

Mr. Rosborough's report brought to the attention of the directorate a very pertinent matter that was discussed at the convention relative to the question of gambling on midways.

He reported that J. A. Carroll, superintendent of Agricultural Societies commented on the condition at some of the fairs as being very undesirable, and in a conference with Mr. Rosborough following the meeting said the criticism Mr. Carroll had to offer applied to Peterborough Fair. Grants will not be given this year, if the condition is not remedied, Mr. Carroll warned.

Must Be Eliminated

The directors briefly discussed the question of gambling and agreed it is a matter that must be firmly dealt with at the forthcoming Fair with a view to stamping out the abuses that have been contended with in former recent years.

Dr. Christie who was speaker at one of the afternoon sessions at the convention was reported by Mr. Rosborough to have paid high tribute to the directors of Fair Boards throughout the province, who are giving their time freely without remuneration, to make their respective communities better and more attractive places in which to live.

In reporting that the annual Fair prize list and program is to be ready for press at an early date, Mr. Glover paid tribute to the work in connection with the selling of advertising space that has been done by William H. Merrill. A copy of the prize list is to be forwarded to Mr. Carroll's office as soon as it comes off the press.

The question of giving away cars is to be considered at a future meeting, as the venture which was first tried out last year, was stated to have been highly successful as a means of drawing the crowds into the grandstand.

Mr. Glover's committee was authorized to contract for the use of Conklin's sound truck the week prior to and during the Fair, at a stipulated fee of $100.

Parking of cars is to present a problem for the directors this year, with the indication that no parking will be permitted on Lansdowne street which is now a part of Highway 7. The proposal was made that supervised parking be afforded on the grounds at a fee per car of 25 cents, and that parking outside the grounds be offered at 15 cents per car. No definite action was taken on the matter, which is to be further discussed at a future meeting.

RETURNED TO CANADA.

During 1936 a number of Old Country families left this city to return to England and Scotland. At least three of these families are now back. It is reported they found opportunities for employment plentiful but discovered their attachment to Peterborough and Canadian life too powerful to break.

STILL USING LAKES.

Roadways over the ice surfaces of lakes in the Peterborough region are still in use, although the ice has not been of a consistent thickness sufficient to guarantee the safety of other years. Farmers who use these short cuts with their teams and autos have apparently been unusually cautious as few accidents have yet been reported.

BAD FOR STATIC.

Local amateur radio and wireless operator report this winter has been a bad one for static. They blame the mildness and also the fact that the sunspot cycle seems to have reached its height this year for a difficulty in transmission and reception to points on the American continent. On the other hand, they report unusually good short wave reception from European stations at times.

OUTSIDE AIR RINKS OPEN.

Although the temperature has been hovering rather close to the melting point during the past few days, the city's open air rinks have been in steady use. The ice sheets have been softening under the warm noon-day suns but hardening in time for the evening crowds. Members of the Curling Club have had a good season despite the mildness of the winter and are still going strong.

OWNS OLD CURRENCY.

A fire shilling note issued by the Newcastle District Loan Company with offices at Peterborough, is in the possession of Dolph McFadden. The note is dated September 6, 1818. Little or nothing is known about the company by whom the note was issued. There does not appear to any record of the company in books dealing with the history of early Peterborough, which around that time had a population of less than 500 people.

8,066 CHURCH MEMBERS.

The Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church included 3,923 families in its membership in 1936, an increase of 112 over 1935, a report received by the Presbytery indicates. The report indicates a total of 8,066 church members, an increase of 72; 1,586 W.M.S. members, an increase of 124; 1,300 W. A. members, an increase of 14, and 320 members of men's organizations, an increase of 180. A total of $15,938 was raised for the missionary and maintenance fund in 1936, an increase of $632 over 1935. By the W.M.S., $8,357 was raised, an increase of $122.

Giving London's Anti-Gas Offices Their Official Test

British enthusiasm for gas proof chambers and gas masks was slightly damped when scientists from Cambridge university denounced these forms of protection as ineffective and not a safeguard against gas attacks. The sceptical scientists published a book in which they stated (1) The average person could remain in a "gas-proof" chamber only three hours. (2) The gas mask will give a limited amount of protection. (3) If chambers were made "gas-tight" they would be too small to live in for 12 hours. These startling facts, however, do not seem to worry the young people in the above photographs. The young lady at the LEFT will be able to take her mask off when she closes the chamber door. At the UPPER RIGHT is a trio of the employees making themselves comfortable in one of the chambers, the gas-proof door tightly shut. In the LOWER RIGHT a young lady samples water from the filter system which has been installed to service the underground rooms.

Bricklayers, Cement Men, Plasterers Promise Support

Success Of Plan Depends On Effort Builders Place Behind It

GET OUT AFTER JOBS

Keen practical interest in the Home Improvement Plan was displayed by the group of bricklayers, plasterers and cement workers at their organization meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night.

Fred T. Tuggey was appointed to represent the bricklayers, Irwin King the plasterers, and Murray Sickler the cement workers. The ancient trade of the stonemasons, almost predominant in the building industry forty and fifty years ago, was not represented. It was stated that there are only two or three stonemasons in Peterborough today, and none of them was present.

Twenty Men Present

The combined group of twenty men affirmed their support of the Home Improvement Plan as a means of improving employment in the building trades, and expressed their appreciation of the leadership undertaken by Roland Denne, chairman of the advisory committee.

The readiness of the bank managers of the city to assist in the promotion of the Home Improvement Plan was indicated by an encouraging talk by R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, manager of the local branch of the Dominion Bank who explained by specific cases the simple operations of the Plan.

A Public Service

"Peterborough is very fortunate in having a man of the experience and personality of Mr. Denne to assume the chairmanship of the committee in this city," Mr. Hicks-Lyne said. "It is a public service without remuneration, a voluntary act of citizenship throughout the entire organization by the men of the national and provincial committees, and by those who are carrying on the work locally.

The building industry is receiving the benefit of widespread publicity which will be felt in Peterborough, and of the helpful co-operation of all those who are trying to make the Plan a success."

Mr. Hicks-Lyne answered many questions relating to the operation of the Plan. James Garside, veteran plasterer, expressed the opinion that the Home Improvement Plan was going to be a success in Peterborough this season. Prospects were already encouraging, and a great deal of additional work was bound to materialize as the general public came to realize what the advantages of the Plan meant to them as home owners.

Personal Effort Needed

Mr. Denne thanked the group of men for attending the meeting and for their prompt response. He pointed out to them that the measure of the success of the Home Improvement Plan would depend very considerably on the effort the men would personally put behind it.

"People are buying automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, radios and all sorts of things for their homes, and they don't hesitate in many cases to pay for them on the instalment plan," Mr. Denne said. "How many of these articles would be purchased if salesmen did not try to sell them in the homes. Repairs and improvements to the homes of the city are all the more necessary, because the actual condition of the houses should be a first consideration. The men of the building trades should realize that they are facing all this selling competition, and they shouldn't hesitate to sell the idea of having necessary repairs made to homes, and various modernizing improvements which we all know will be greatly appreciated.

Don't Wait For Jobs

That is a big part of this season's job. Carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers, painters, tinsmiths and so on have been content to wait until somebody knocks at their doors with jobs. There should be more of the idea of going out after them. The Examiner will do its part as this campaign develops in making the people aware of the Home Improvement Plan. The bank managers of the city were never more friendly to a public movement than they are to this. Everything is working to the one end to make this employment scheme of the government a big success in Peterborough."

The Rambling REPORTERS

PRAYS FOR HEPBURN

Premier Hepburn may not know it but prayers to guide him into the paths of righteousness are being offered daily—at least, the paths of righteousness as the W.C.T.U. sees them.

Referring to the premier's refusal last year to hold a referendum on the matter of to close or not to close the beverage rooms and wine shops, Mrs. G. K. Tyler, local president of the W.C.T.U. told a meeting yesterday:

"I suspect Mr. Hepburn is of the same opinion as before although I am praying for him every night. It is possible that his heart is softening."

She said she wished she had the heart to pray even more often for the guidance of the premier.

INCINERATOR MEN GET WAGE BOOSTS

Property Committee Sets Price On Property For Lane Allowance

Wage increases for the incinerator staff were recommended to the City Council at a meeting of the Property Committee held under chairmanship of Alderman Malcolm McIntyre on Wednesday evening.

The proposal is that the foreman at the incinerator and the driver of the garbage collection truck be paid at the rate of twenty-two dollars per week, and that two employees who assist in the collection of garbage and the other employee at the incinerator be remunerated at the rate of twenty dollars a week.

Authority is being sought by the committee from the Council to sell market tolls and charges for the year beginning April 1st. This resolution was put through in the ordinary course of routine business.

Relative to the recent request of Schneider Brothers for a laneway through from King Street North to connect with their own lot fronting on Charlotte Street, the committee intimated that the city would be willing to sell Schneider's sixteen feet of the west part of the city's lot to be used as a laneway for a consideration of $560.

It was decided that the Rest Room on the Market Square needs repainting, and a recommendation was made to the Council to this effect.

ST. JAMES' WOMEN'S CONCERT SUCCESS

Pleasing Musical Program With Dialogue And Tableau

Under auspices of the Women's Association of St. James' United Church, a delightful concert was presented in Wesley Hall to a most appreciative audience, with the Rev. F. W. Craik as chairman.

The program consisted of vocal solos by Miss Isabel Duthie, Miss Betty Mather, Clifford Hall and Adam Hawley; violin numbers by the Rev. G. K. Tyler, accompanied by Mrs. Tyler; a piano selection by Miss Adele Fitzgerald; a reading by Mrs. J. A. Brumwell; an accordion solo by G. Lovatt; a vocal quartette by the Misses Margaret Grose, Anna Hubel, Leah Davis and Norma Wood; a male quartet by Gerald Cuffe, B. Pitchford, G Cuffe and H. Turner; and musical selections by Miss Helen Ludlbrook's group of "Aloha Serenders," playing Hawaiian guitars.

The dialogue, "Aunt Virginia's Trumpet," was ably presented by Mrs. S. Rowe, Mrs. McAdam, Mrs. G. Rowe, R. Kitchen and M. Drysdale, and a very beautiful tableau, "The Old Spinning Wheel," was portrayed by Miss Hazel Palmer, assisted by H. Turner, with Cecil Lapp at the piano.

OBITUARY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JAMES J. BREWSTER

CENTRETON, Feb. 25—The death occurred on Sunday of James Johnson Brewster, in his 89th year. The deceased was born in Haldimand on a farm west of Centreton. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Brewster. Many years ago he married Miss Annie Stuart who predeceased him a few years ago.

Afterwards Mr. Brewster went to Brantford to reside with Mrs. W. Brewster and he died in that city. He had been failing in health for sometime. Deceased was a member of the United Church and was Conservative in politics.

A brother Willoughby and a brother Charles predeceased him some years ago. The funeral was held at the United Church on Wednesday afternoon. One sister in the Northwest, Mrs. David Sergeant still survives.

The remains were interred in the family plot in Centreton.

RONALD WILFRID DAVIS.

The funeral services for the late Ronald Wilfrid Davis, who passed away at Nicholls Hosital on Thursday morning, February the 18th, was held at the family residence, 382 George street, south, on Saturday afternoon.

The service was conducted by his pastor, Rev F. W. Craik of St. James' United Church, assisted by Rev. G. K. Tyler of Park Street Baptist Church, who spoke at both the services at the house and at the graveside.

Ronald, who was born at Salisbury, England, June 4th, 1912 was the second son of Mrs. E. M. Davis. He is survived by his mother, two sisters, (Vera (Mrs. Stan Leggitt) and Leah at home; two brothers, Ernest and Cyril, both at home.

Ronald was a member of St. James' United Church and Sunday School and a day student at King Edward Public School. Later he became a student in dentistry, but was overcome by the serious illness which held him a sufferer in Nicholls Hospital for six years, when death released him.

The pallbearers were Stan. Clark, Oshawa, Dave Smyth, Murray Halihan, Stan Church, Bob Waldie and Stan Leggitt, and interment was made at Little Lake Cemetery.

Among the beautiful floral tributes were those from: The Boy Scouts of St. James' United Church, the teachers of the primary classes St. James' Sunday school, St. James' Brotherhood, teacher and class mates, King Edward Public school, the Cheerful Workers' Bible class, St. James' Sunday school and many personal friends.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, February 26

A DAY of great opportunity for progress and prosperity is presaged from the ruling planetary positions, but one not without its seeming frustrations and perplexities. There are some signs of confusion and treachery, but these may be swept away under the impulses of ambition and progress and by the co-operation of friendly and powerful interests.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a progressive and profitable year, although there may be stubborn obstacles and surprising problems to cope with. New plans and change are probably, but ambitious and enterprising projects may merit the support of those in high places.

A child born on this day may be energetic, constructive and ambitious, and it may attain prestige and high friendships through its talents and industry, which it may express in unusual creative lines.

RAILWAY STRIKE BALLOTS ON WAY

Expected To Reach Peterboro Employees In Few Days

WIDE POWER GIVEN

No Peterborough railway man has yet received his strike ballot as far as could be learned today. It is expected the ballots, being sent out to 117,000 Canadian railway workers, will reach members of the Peterborough locals within the next few days.

The ballots, through which the unions may attempt to force restoration of the 10 per cent railway pay cut, are in the nature of pamphlets of 11 pages setting forth the history of negotiations on the subject of pay, giving copies of letters which have passed between the railways and the men, the men and the railways, and between the men and the Hon. Norman Rogers, the Dominion Mister of Labor.

The ballots differ from the usual in that each man must sign, giving the name of his union and the number of his local. Furthermore, it is not a simple vote of "Yes" or "No" on the strike. It is actually a power of attorney giving the committee of union officers, already named, the power to call a strike if the wage dispute is not settled in a manner satisfactory to them.

The voter apparently may say whether he is for or against a "peaceful withdrawal from service," but in any event he gives his power of attorney to the committee of union chairmen.

The actual terms of the ballot follow:

"I the undersigned have carefully read the foregoing statement and vote (for or Against a peaceful withdrawal from service unless a settlement satisfactory to the officers and general sairmen can be obtained and I hereby appoint herein named officers as my attorneys-in-fact and authorize them to settle the dispute, set forth in the statement attached, for me and in my name in whatever manner that to them seems proper. I understand that in the event of such withdrawal from service, it will be conducted in accordance with the laws of the respective organizations named."

Space is reserved on the ballot for the signature of the voting member, and indication of his occupation, his union and his local.

CAR BADLY DAMAGED

In an accident that occurred on the Warsaw-Peterborough road on Wednesday a car said to be owned by J. Harry Dummitt, 570 Romaine street was extensively damaged in collision with a motor truck owned by E. L. Payne, Warsaw. According to provincial police the car skidded when ascending a steep hill and the rear end of the car swung around into the pathway of the motor truck.

BUSINESS BRISK FOR JUNK DEALERS SURVEY REVEALS

Frantic Armament Race Places Premium On Scrap Metal

EVEN OLD CARS

Junk dealers in Peterborough are doing a brisk business these days thanks to the frantic race for increased armaments and to the general return of prosperity inquiries today revealed. Wholesale prices offered by big dealers for scrap metal of all kinds have advanced so rapidly that competition among local collectors is keen.

The real money now being paid for scrap is a reminder almost of the days of the Great War when no piece of junk was overlooked in the urgent need for metals. Two years ago, the money offered was not worth the collecting and shipping costs but today local dealers are bidding anxiously against each other.

Auto wreckers report junk dealers are hot on the trail of old cars. They have been bidding up to four and even five cents a pound for battery lead and are paying $8 a ton for iron and steel. Brass and copper scrap brings eight to nine cents a pound. Aluminum is prized at prices up to 10 cents a pound here. Pewter is being bought at prices upward of 20 cents a pound.

Car loads of junk are leaving this city for Toronto each week. Many of the shipments are from local factories which are particularly careful now to salvage every piece of their own scrap.

UNDERWRITERS LUNCHEON

In the regretted absence of President Clifford N. Hall who has been called to Toronto owing to a death in his family, E. L. Sackville presided as chairman at the luncheon meeting of Peterborough and District Life Underwriters held in Hoopers Palm Rooms today. A singsong was led by J. E. Shortt, while the speakers were W. J. Ferguson of Lindsay on "How I Sell the Farmer"; and H. B. Matthews, C.L.U., local manager of The London Life on, "Experiences from a Life Insurance Career."

The town of Accra on the Gold Coast of Africa has been quarantined for yellow fever.

LOST FARM JOB, BOUGHT GUN KILLED THREE, ENDED LIFE

Left Note Indicating Desire to Punish His Former Employer

SLAYS DAUGHTER

Padiham, Lancs. — John James Blackburn, 20, lost his job on a farm after a month. Soon afterwards he bought a gun.

He shot the farmer's 18-year-old daughter and two men on the farm then took his own life.

"I think this will punish you more than anything else," he said in a note to his former employer.

This was the story told at an inquest here.

The tragedy took place at a moorland farm near the Pennine village of Worsthorne.

The victims were:

Jane Ellen Wilkinson, daughter of Fouldes Wilkinson, of Saville Green farm;

William Pickup, 30, of Worsthorne, cowman at the farm; and

Blackburn was found lying dead, a double-barrelled shotgun in his right hand.

Frank Rowland, coroner, said Blackburn was seen going towards the farm, carrying a sack. He had previously bought a double-barrelled gun.

Foulds Wilkinson, 46, farmer, widower, said Blackburn went to him as cowman, but he was discharged for lateness and impudence.

Wilkinson returned from his milk round and found his father-in-law lying in the yard, and five yards away his daughter lying dead. He went to the police.

Scriven and Blackburn were found later.

Sarah Ann Blackburn identified a note left on a window sill as being in her son's writing. It read:

"Well, Foulds, I thought this would punish you more than anything else. I am not crazy but just getting my own back. I leave you to look after my brother."

Her son was miserable after his dismissal, but bore no grudge, said Mrs. Blackburn.

Since having some teeth out, he had complained of pains in the head.

It was possible, said the coroner, that Scriven was shot first, and that Pickup and the kirl, alarmed by the shots, went into the yard.

The girl had apparently tried to escape through the piggeries.

Injuries to her left hand suggested that she had made an ineffectual attempt to shield her face.

Every human being on that farm was exterminated.

DANCE HALL CURFEW SUGGESTED PENALTY

Corrective for Woman's Fatal Attraction, Home Office Official's Plan

London.—S. W. Harris, home office assistant under-secretary of state, had these things to say about the probation system when he delivered the Clarke Hall lecture in the Hall of Gray's Inn.

He would like to see:

1. The offender to whom drink is a temptation be made to abstain from it;

2. The young woman fatally attracted to the dance hall submit to a curfew;

3. The hooligan boy be compelled to forgo his Saturday afternoon football match, dirt track or dog races.

But he does not want:

1. A youth of eighteen to be expected to give up smoking cigarettes, to be at home every night at nine o'clock and to go to church every Sunday.

2. The young cinema fan to be required to deny himself Mickey Mouse and Laurel and Hardy for two years.

Mr. Harris said that he was quoting actual cases.

He told of a man and a woman who, after being charged jointly and put on probation, were forbidden to speak to one another. Result: they were married within a month.

FINED FOR WEARING UNIFORM OF FASCIST

Test Case Under New British Order Results in $8 Penalty

Leeds—A test case under the new Public Order Act, which came into force on Jan. 1, was decided at Leeds when a Fascist named William Wood was fined 40s. ($8) for wearing a political uniform contrary to the terms of that act.

The magistrate said he would only impose a nominal penalty in view of the fact that it was a test case. Each case must be treated on its merits.

P.C. Burnett said that on the day after the act had come into operation, he saw Wood in Briggate, selling two Fascist newspapers.

Wood was wearing a peaked cap with a leat er chin strap, and on the cap were two badges commonly associated with the British Union of Fascists. He was also wearing a black shirt rnd a black tie.

Wood, added the officer, said that the proprietors of one of the papers had told him that if he wore the uniform cap while he was selling th papers he was in the same position as the ordinary vendor of newspapers.

BISHOP, SPEED RACER BUY PALACE PARROTS

London. — Two parrots which, for many years were pets of visitors to the Crystal Palace, to go to the homes of the Bishop of Southwark and Sir Malcolm Campbell. They were bought at a sale.

The birds—good talkers—were unharmed in the fire which destroyed the palace, but the trustees were no longer able to accommodate them.

The Bishop of Southwark's purchase was a handsome red Rosella parrot, and Sir Malcolm bought a brilliantly colored blue-fronted Amazon.

FOUNDATION STONE LAID BY TELEPHONE

Bishop of Southwark Officiates at London by Remote Control

London.—The foundation stone of the first block of dwellings to be built by the London county council on the Hackney marsh site—the key to the East End slum problem—was "laid" by telephone from the county hall by the bishop of Southwark.

It was placed in position on the site by E. G. Culpin, vice-chairman of the council.

Referring to the importance of the site, Lewis Silkin, M.P., chairman of the housing committee, said that in the East End there were still about 150,000 people living in slums or overcrowded conditions.

He hoped that people would be occupying flats on the Hackney marsh site by next Christmas.

The Bishop of Southwark welcomed the "happy collaboration" which had made it possible for the council to acquire 20½ acres of the marsh without any loss of open space to London.

RARE DISEASE AGES WOMAN IN FEW DAYS

Blindness, Loss of Weight and Hair Precede Londoner's Death

London—A strange and rare disease that aged a woman years in a few days has been investigated by British doctors.

It is known as Simmonds' disease, and the young woman who contracted it died of old age in a few months.

She was married and 26 years old. Her case was taken to the Royal Free hospital. She had given birth to twins. After the birth of the second child she collaped. Three days later she developed a severe headache and was unable to sleep. After a further two days she became blind. Her condition became gradually worse. She lost weight and her hair began to fall out.

After some months she was discharged from the hospital. Then she had a sudden relapse. Two days later she was found in bed with her jaw set and her hands tightly clenched. In five hours she died.

The disease, according to the British medcial journal, Lancet, was originally described by Simmonds in 1914. Although several cases have occurred on the continent, it is very rare in England.

BIGGEST HORSE IN ALL ENGLAND

Her name is Boughrood Lady Grey and she is the biggest horse in all England. She stands 19 hands one inch, that is about six feet three inches and is five years old. The horse was shipped from Cardiff to take part in the Shire Horse Society's show at Royal Agricultural Hall, London.

MOTHERS THANKFUL FOR SAFETY ACTION

Kneel in Church as Measures Finally Taken in Dangerous Area

London.—Mothers whose children have been hurt or killed in Westway, Hammersmith, W., knelt in St. Catherine Coleman church, to give thanks that measures are at last being taken to make the road safer.

They sang "Now thank we all our God," while outside traffic rushed by, as yet unrestricted.

The vicar, Rev. Leonard S. Beale, who is chairman of the Westway parents' protest committee, preached from the text: "There shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of Jerusalem, and every man with his staff in his hand for very age. And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof."

He said there was a suggestion of sorrow, of hesitation, in their thanksgiving because the ministry had not yet decided to enforce the speed limit.

"But we shall never rest until it is granted," he added. "We have behind us the education authorities."

SCHOOLBOY IS PUZZLE

Normal at Home, Can't Talk, Write or Read in Class

Worthing. — However hard he tries, a 10-year-old Worthing boy, whose name is being kept secret, is unable to talk, write, or read as soon as he gets to school. Yet at home he is perfectly normal.

Doctors are puzzled by the case and the Worthing town council has granted £150 ($750) towards the expense of trying to cure him. It is thought that when young he may have received some shock which caused this condition.

TOLD HER FIANCE IS DEAD AS SHE DONS WEDDING GOWN

Battery Quartermaster-Sergeant Found Dead Hour Before Due at Church

POISONED BY GAS

Trowbridge, Wilts.—As she was putting on her wedding dress, less than an hour before she was to have been married at St. John's church, here, a girl, aged 22, was told that her fiance, of whom she had not heard for three days, had been found dead from gas poisoning in Acreman Rd., Sherborne, Dorset.

The girl, Miss Mollie Clarke, of Trowbridge, was to have married Battery Quartermaster - Sergeant Charles Hanford, age 42, instructor at the yeomanry drill hall, Sherborne.

Miss Clarke told a reporter: "We had planned this day so often since we became engaged a few months ago. I had not heard from Charles for some days, and naturally I was worried, but I did not think anything so dreadful could have happened.

"My father went to Sherborne, intending to travel back here with my fiance, but he could not get any reply to his knocks at the drill hall, where Charles lived.

"With police officers my father broke into a room, and found Charles dead, the room filled with gas. On a cushion by his head there was a photograph of myself.

"Scores of people were to have come to the wedding, for my fiance, who was only recently appointed to his position at Sherborne, was a Trowbridge man, and was immensely popular."

ABATTOIR FOR KIMBERLEY

Kimberley, S.A.—A municipal abattoir is to be erected here at an estimated cost of $275,000, of which $100,000 has been granted by the government.

POLICE CHIEF FINED FOR POOR DRIVING

License Suspended for Six Months After Mishap

Melton Mowbray, Leicestershire. —The chief constable of Rutland, Frederick William Golder, was fined £10 ($50) and costs here, and his license suspended for six months for dangerous driving at Burton Lazars.

When drvling down Burton hill he collided assertedly with a trap and threw a man and woman into the road.

Mrs. Gladys Desborough, of Burton Lazars, said she was waiting for a bus when the chief constable "drove by at a terrific rate."

"HEEL-BUG" HITS HORSES

Mystery Disease Causes English Races to be Postponed

London.—"Heel-bug," a mysterious disease, is robbing favorite horses of the chance of winning big stakes in England this season, and resulting in the loss of thousands of pounds in ante-post betting, it is revealed.

The disease, caused by an unknown microbe, has attacked many horses, mainly those training in the Newmarket area, and appears to be spreading. Several well - backed horses have been withdrawn from recent important races because they were victims of the malady. Others have run, but have not come up to par.

CORONATION ORDERS

London.—Orders for coronation decorations by business houses stipulate they must be of fast colors that will neither fade in the sun nor run in the rain and strong enough to stand heavy winds.

WAR OFFICE CHECKING ALL TRANSPORT MEANS

Every Vehicle in Britain Catalogued for Best Use in Emergency

London.—Every transport vehicle in Britain, including motor buses, is to be inspected by the war office to discover its best use in war time.

Every garage in the country will receive an official visit of inspection during the next few months.

There is to be a large increase in the strength of that little-known war office department the inspectorate of supplementary transport.

A number of ex-officers are now being engaged to inspect vehicles now in use by transport firms, and to report to the war office on the particular purpose for which they would be most suitable to army requirements.

Additional inspectors are being engaged from the list of retired officers. The war office have made their own arrangements for increasing the staff; sufficient men are available and applications are not invited.

Private cars are not to be inspected. The Army Act gives the government power to commandeer these in the event of war.

SIGNALLED TO WIFE BY FLAPPING WINGS

Airways' Official Fined for Low Flying and Having No License

Romford.—Admitting that he signalled to his wife while flying over their home by flapping the wings of his aeroplane, Edward Arthur John Hillman, 25, of Gidea Park, was fined $300 and costs.

He was summoned for causing danger to property by low flying and also for having no license.

Hillman, who was stated to have been associated in flying with his father for many years and to have ben interested in Hillman Airways, Ltd., pleaded guilty to both summonses.

H. E. Fellars, for Hillman, said his duties had always been confined to the ground and Hillman had never had any occasion to take out a pilot's license.

Hillman agreed there was a flapping of the wings of the aeroplane. He was signalling to his wife. He did not think that he was flying lower than 200 or 300 feet.

$500,000 FOR FUND

London Convalescent Home Foundation is Offered

London.—Edward W. Meyerstein, millionaire, has offered £100,000 ($500,000) as the foundation of a fund to build a convalescent home to serve London's large hospitals.

He suggests that, with the King's approval, the fund might take the form of a coronation gift from the people.

Mr. Meyerstein said: "It would cost a lot, but the money would, I believe, be readily forthcoming from the public."

LIVES AFTER BURIAL ALIVE

Bombay.—A sadhu (religious mendicant) who had had himself buried alive 25 hours earlier, was dug up recently at Indore and revived in the presence of a large crowd which included high state officials.

WOMEN HUDDLE IN IGLOO IN STORM ON GRAMPIANS

Search Parties 200 Yards Away Fail to Hear Their Calls

LOST IN BLIZZARD

Glasgow.—Two women mountaineers, lost for 17 hours in a howling blizzard on the 3,500 feet Grampian peak Glas Thulachan, spent all night huddled together in an Eskimo igloo which they built of snow.

Search parties, seeking them late at night on mountainside eight inches deep in snow, passed within 200 yards of their shelter.

The women heard their shouts, saw the lights of their lanterns. But the searchers did not see them. And the women knew it might mean death if they left their hut.

Crouching together, with only one overcoat as blanket, the women—Miss J. H. Rodger, a 36-year-old Dundee typist—and Miss J. MacDougall, aged 37, a teacher, of Broughty Ferry, near Dundee — spent a night of terror.

They knew that if they fell asleep in the intense cold they might never wake again. So all night long they talked to each other.

Soon after dawn their frail shelter seemed certain.

Then, through the swirling snow, they saw another search party heading towards them. They were saved!

The women and R. Bell, all members of the Grampian Climbing club, had set out to scale the peak.

Nearing nightfall, Mr. Bell was swept off his feet by an avalanche and fell hundreds of feet down a corrie, but escaped with bruises.

It took him an hour to get out, and he at once set out in search of other members of the club, who organized the search party.

After searching for him in vain the women built their snow hut for shelter.

Only 200 yards away, hidden by the blizzard, was an empty shooting hut where they could have spent the night in comfort.

When they were found Miss Rodger had to be carried four miles on a stretcher to a lodge. She was almost snow blind. Miss MacDougall was able to ride there on a mountain pony.

STAGE-STAR SLAYING RECALLED BY DEATH

Insane Assailant of William Terriss Passes at Broadmoor Asylum

Broadmoor — Seventy-eight-year old Richard Arthur Prince died in Broadmoor Asylum recently. He killed—39 years ago—William Terris, idol of the London stage and father-in-law of Sir Seymour Hicks.

He stabbed Terris to death as he was entering the Adelphi Theatre, where he took the lead in melodrama, just before Christmas, 1897. Prince was found guilty, but insane.

Prince had had big ideas of his own worth as an actor when he came to London.

He appeared in a small part in the famous play, "Harbour Lights." Terris, too, was in it.

Prince felt he was worthy of better parts. But in 1897 he was near starvation. He had delusions of persecution.

One night Terris and a friend alighted from a cab at the corner of Maiden Lane and Bedford St, and walked to the private door of the Adelphi theatre.

GIVES FORMER HOME TO HIS NATIVE CITY

Coventry Council Accepts Lord Iliffe's Offer

Coventry—Lord Iliffe's offer to present to his native city his former residence, Allesley Hall, with gardens and adjoining lands covering 52 acres, was gratefully accepted by Coventry council.

The mayor said he had no idea of the magnificance of the residence until he inspected it, and only the word gorgeous adequately described the mansion.

Every night its front door is barred with a six-foot long oak bolt, taken from the original twelfth century castle on whose site Allesley Hall stands.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER DROWN IN AUTOMOBILE

Car Plunges Over Quayside in View of Horrified Onlookers

Poole, Dorset.—Horrified onlookers on the quayside watched a car with a man and woman inside plunge over the edge into 30 feet of water.

A ship moored nearby assisted in desperate efforts to raise the car, but when, after an hour's work, it was raised by means of grappling irons on the vessel, the two occupants were found drowned.

The bodies were still in the car when it was brought to the surface.

It was established that the victims were Edward Alfred Wise, aged about 60, and Miss Mildred Amy Wise, 31, father and daughter. They lived at Elmsway, Southbourne, Bournemouth.

Poole fishermen and seamen of all nationalities, fought desperately for three quarters of an hour after the car plunged over the quayside in an effort to save the trapped couple.

They were led by Harry Davis, a local licensee, who during his 30 years on the quayside has rescued over 20 people.

DOES NOT BELIEVE IN CANING STUDENTS

Retiring Wimbledon Schoolmaster Prefers to Reason With Boys

Wimbledon.—Schoolboys here are losing the ideal schoolmaster, A. E. Baxter, who is retiring. He Does not believe in homework;

Does not believe in the cane!

Does not think modern boys are any worse than boys ever were.

Mr. Baxter has been headmaster of various Wimbledon schools since 1905.

"I always accept the parents' view on homework, he said to a reporter. "If they ask for it the boys get it.

"It is not true that there is more juvenile crime nowadays.

"In the old days the boy who was caught was given a good clout and sent away. To-day he is taken to court for every petty thing and people like me—I am a magistrate—have to give him a lecture."

Mr. Baxter last used a cane in June, 1932.

"You get on much better with a boy by being straight with him and reasoning his troubles out," he said.

BRIEF STORIES GATHERED FROM ALL CORNERS OF THE WORLD

NIGHTLY VISITS TO HAREM RESULT IN DEATH OF SCOT

Young Engineer Disregarded Warnings of Older Europeans

FOUND MURDERED

Paris.—Curiosity regarding harem life in the east has cost the life of a young Scottish engineer employed by a British firm at Aleppo in Syria.

The mystery of the death of Andrew Cathcart Cairns, native of Invergordon, whose murdered and mutilated body was found in the desert a short time ago, has been solved as the result of a special investigation undertaken at the instance of the French home government.

Young Cairns, who arrived in Syria two years ago, developed an interest in local life and customs that older European residents warned him might land him in trouble.

Despite warnings he persisted in making nightly visits to a harem on the outskirts of the town, and in some way he got into touch with one of the inmates, a dark-eyed beauty.

He seems to have gained entry to the women's quarters of the harem. On the night of the tragedy, it is believed, he was surprised by the eunuch guards.

In such circumstances there is one penalty, death and mutilation, and the French law is powerless to stamp out custom in this respect in any of its African colonies or protectorates.

Custom decrees death for the woman as well as the man in such cases. The dark beauty was buried two days after the discovery of her lover's body, and the police are suspicious of the medical certificate of death from heart failure put in when questions were raised.

EDWARD VIII STAMP DESIGNER ONLY 17

Torquay.—The designer of the Edward VIII postage stamps was only 17 years of age when he submitted his design. He is Hubert John Brown, son of A. E. Brown, retired bank manager, and was born at Purley.

As a humble member of the Torquay and Exeter Philatelic societies, he submitted his sketch last February in competition with those of well-known artists.

70 YEARS A THIEF

Belgrade Woman Caught When Slowed by Rheumatism

Belgrade.—Rheumatism, which caused her to fumble when attempting to pick a pocket, has led to the arrest of an old woman who claims that for 70 years she has lived by stealing and has never been caught before, nor even suspected. This light-fingered lady, Teresa Bushitch, when haled into court, showed the police a long list giving dates and various sums of money which she has stolen through the years.

CLAIM FAMOUS TOWER

Limassol, Cyprus.—Reda Bey, a wealthy Turk who traces his ancestry back to the times of Mohammed the Conqueror, has come to Cyprus in the manner of his forefathers—on spoilage bent. He is claiming ownership of the famous Tower of Kolossi, which was one of the strongholds of the Crusaders and was well-known to Richard Coeur de Lion. He also claims a large slice of the surrounding countryside.

IL DUCE WILL OPEN 1,177-MILE HIGHWAY

Runs Along Mediterranean Coast From Tunis to Egypt

Rome.—One of the longest roads on the continent of Africa—the new 1,177 mile highway along the coast linking Tunis with Egypt—will be opened by Signor Mussolini next May when he visits the Italian colonies of Tripolitania and Cyrenaica.

Built by Italian and native workmen under the control of Marshal Balbo, governor of Libya, it will then have been under construction for over two years.

The cost is estimated at 103,000,000 lira which will be borne by the colonial budget, the total being charged to ten successive budgets.

The road, a well-prepared, tarred highway eight yards wide, runs by the sea for the most part, only occasionally turning inland for a distance of about half a mile.

One of the chief difficulties in its construction has been the problem of supplying the workmen with fresh water. Special water lorries, fitted with water tanks have been plying to and fro between oases and water reservoirs and the various workmen's camps along the line of the new road.

MANY CENTENARIANS

Istanbul, Turkey.—There are now 112 centenarians living in this capital, according to the most recent statistics compiled by the city authorities. Of these, 76 are women. Eight of them—three women and five men — are believed to be more than 110 years old. All belong to the laborer class and more than half worked on the land in their younger days.

PARACHUTE JUMPING PARIS "EX" FEATURE

Will Descend 150 Feet in 20 Seconds, Checked by Rope

Paris. — Safety-first parachute jumping by the airminded public will be a feature of this year's Paris exhibition. The parachutes will float from the top of a 150-foot tower, in 20 seconds, checked by a special guide rope. The apparatus is a Soviet model on which women are trained for the Red army.

Other schemes include a searchlight "fly past" of army machines at night and a mass demonstration by 1,000 aeroplanes over Paris on July 14.

A special exhibition airport is to be built at Issy-les-Moulineaux. Fifty-mile-an-hour speedboats on the near-by Seine will bring this port to within seven minutes of the exhibition.

BOOKS MORE COSTLY

Swiss Prices Soar as Franc Depreciates

Geneva.—As a result of the depreciation of the Swiss franc the price of British books, periodicals and newspapers has increased in Switzerland by 42 per cent. German publications were affected in the same manner but the Swiss News-Agents Society has reached an agreement with the German authorities as a result of which the price of German books and periodicals will be increased by only 8 to 11 per cent.

BEARDS MAY STOP DISEASE

London.—Silicosis has developed among masons working on the new Liverpool cathedral, states "Industrial Welfare," which prints a letter from a correspondent suggesting that beards may be a safeguard against the disease.

ARAB 'SCARLET PIMPERNEL' ROUSES HATE FOR BRITISH

Styles Self "Commander-in-Chief" of Armed Arabian Bands

ELUDES POLICE NET

Bagdad.—"The Scarlet Pimpernel" of the Near East is reported to be busy in in Bagdad stirring up trouble for Great Britain.

At the height of the trouble in Palestine last year, the elusive Fauzi ed-Din Kaukji appeared on the scene, styled himself "commander-in-chief" of the armed Arab bands, and breathed defiance at the British army. A price was placed on his head, but time after time he slipped through the net thrown for him by the police and troops in Palestine. Finally, the Palestine revolt collapsed and Fauzi fled the country.

Now he has established himself in Iraq. Despite the treaty of alliance with Britain under which Iraq obtained its independence and was admitted to the League of Nations, he is reported to be carrying on his incendiary propaganda. In inflammatory speeches and personal negotiations he is calling for any army to drive the British out of Arab lands and into the sea.

With the situation delicate in Iraq following the recent military coup d'etat, and a number of the new leaders antagonistic to Britain, is it feared Fauzi's activities may prove dangerous.

LAVA COLLECTION

Honolulu.—Boy Scouts have sent to the Boy Scout council camp on Ten Mile river reservation in New York, a piece of lava from the crater of Haleakala to take its place alongside pieces of lava and stones from other states and territories of the United States.

FIRST SUGAR LEVY COLLECTED IN CUBA

One Mills Sale Pays Government $2,250

Havana.—First payment of the famed nine cent sugar tax controversy which provided the overt act through which congress and the military authorities brought about the impeachment of former President Miguel Mariano Gomez, has been collected from the Santo Domingo sugar mill in Cameguey.

The sale of 25,000 bags of sugar of 365 pounds each brought $2,250 which will go to the support of the army's sergeant-taught rural schools. It is estimated the tax will provide from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 annually.

NEWS OF EACH OTHER FATAL TO BROTHERS

Copenhagen.—Two brothers who, within a short space of time heard bad news about each other, died here. Asmus Asmusen learned that his brother Theodore was seriously ill following an operation. He fell dead from heart failure. Becoming uneasy as to why his brother did not come to see him on his sick bed, Theodore questioned his wife, who had been keeping the news of his brother's death from him. When he finally realized that Asmus was dead Theodore fell back unconscious on his pillow. He died a few hours later.

CHOLERA TAKES HEAVY TOLL

Calcutta.—Cholera raged in Noakhali district, Bengal, recently and in the 100 villages ravaged by the epidemic, 256 of 553 cases in one week were fatal.

LABOR M.P. DISCUSSES PRISON LENTIL SOUP

Member for Chesterfield in Jail Two Years as Conscientious Objector

London. — Ex-prisoner "A4-53," M.P., had a lot of hard things to say about jail life—especially the lentils.

And "A4-53"—alias Mr. George Benson, Labor member for Chesterfield—has good reason for knowing about these lentils; he was vegetarian-cook when he was in prison two years for being a conscientious objector in the war.

He told the Howard League for Penal Reform, of which he is the new chairman, how his kitchen-utensil was a boiler about twice the size of a washing-copper.

"I used to take a hundredweight sack of lentils," he said, "tip in as much as I thought necessary, add water, and boil it up.

"If it came out thin, I called it lentil soup; if it came out thick, I called it lentil roast. If it was middling, I left the prisoners to call it what they liked. And they did!"

He was attacking the stupidity of the prison system.

STEWARD NOW "ADMIRAL"

Southampton. — Many years ago Harry Chick was a steward on Union Castle liners. Then he became a licensed victualler in Southampton. He prospered, and now is mayor of the ancient borough — a post that carries with it the admiralty of the port. Before the Union Castle liner Carnarvon Castle sailed recently the mayor visited the ship in his capacity as admiral, and reminded his hosts, the heads of the company, that one time he walked the decks of their ships as steward.

FIRST SURPLUS SHOWN IN YEARS BY MINISTER

per cent in the aggregate incomes of all the people.

Mr. Dunning sounded a warning that there was still a great distance to travel along the road to recovery and that "we have not by any means reached the stage where we can relax our vigilance or our economies." He warned also that "there is more than a suggestion of a mentality that led to the deplorable excesses of the late twenties."

Year of Promise.

"Viewing the situation broadly in the light of the progress of the past year and the major underlying forces at work, I believe I can fairly say that since 1929 no new year has dawned with brighter promise for Canada," Finance Minister Dunning said as he began his budget speech. "I shall be greatly disappointed if by this time next year Canada has not moved substantially further along the road to economic recovery."

Mr. Dunning then reviewed business and economic statistics and pointed to improvements all along the line during 1936. Leading industries all reported increased output, both domestic and foreign trade was up, farm prices were better although crops were not all they might have been, dividend payments were higher, low interest rates had encouraged new bond flotations.

Unfortunately, however, some of the provincial governments had been unable to take advantage of lower interest rates to refund their debt or obtain new capital.

"This is a problem to which the government has given the most serious and unremitting attention since the day it assumed office.

"The acute stage which the problem has reached in Manitoba and Saskatchewan during the recent past led the government to make the decision which was announced by the prime minister last week.

"That decision followed investigations which demonstrated what had long been recognized as a fundamental weakness in the allocation of financial powers and responsibilities to the provincial governments by the fathers of confederation 70 years ago.

"The revenue-raising powers assigned to the provinces do not appear to be commensurate with the responsibilities which they were given or which they have assumed in an age of increasing provision for governmental social services.

"It is a basic principle that a government should be able to stand financially upon its own feet—that it should itself be responsible for raising the revenue necessary to meet its own needs.

"I look therefore with great confidence to the results of the investigation into this whole problem to be made by the royal commission which is to be appointed. If this investigation and report are as competent, as impartial and as constructive as the occasion demands, they may well serve to point the way to such action as to make the year 1937 as significant in Canadian history as the year 1867."

Bank of Canada.

The Bank of Canada was making an important contribution to the national welfare in advising governments on financial problems.

The commercial bank had ample reserves for the accommodation of borrowers and were prepared to lend. Cheques drawn on bank accounts showed an increase in December, 1936, of 16 per cent. over December, 1935. This indicated the velocity of circulation of cheque-book money was speeding up. Prosperity depended as much on the velocity of circulation as on the volume of money in circulation.

The national income, the aggregate income of all the people in 1936, was $4,520,000,000, an increase of 10 per cent. over the previous year. Business cycles, however, did not follow any set pattern and it would be unwise to sit back and assume the present general upward movement would continue on all economic fronts.

"We must not lose sight of the fact that in certain fields improvement has lagged, and that to a large number of our people the recovery of business has not yet brought the expected relief. In other directions there is more than a suggestion of a mentality that led to the deplorable excesses of the late 20's. Greed and unreasonableness in industrial relations are dangers that can paralyze our best efforts.

"There are forces unleashed in the recovery period that must be grappled with no less vigorously than those facing us in times of depression. These realities must not be neglected. Furthermore disturbing factors in International relations still perpetuate much uncertainty in the world outlook."

A conspicuous industrial lag had been evident in private construction and it was in the building trades that a large portion of unemployment was to be found. To meet this the Government had launched the Home Improvement Plan.

Study Facilities.

It behooved all interests associated with the building industry to study facilities offered by the plan to provide a sound product at a reasonable price and push its sale. Public works construction would not continue at the present scale without leaving an intolerable burden for the future and it was up to private construction to step into the picture at this stage of the recovery movement.

Employment figures generally were up but they had not kept pace with gains in business activity. Another discouraging fact was that numbers on relief had failed to decline proportionately with recovery in trade and industry. There was no reason, however, to look on the unemployment problem as hopeless.

"It is probably true that a hard core of unemployment and relief will always remain. Doubtless there will be a number of those in the higher age brackets, who have been on relief for several years, who may be permanently 'unemployable.'

"I am convinced, however, that in the policies now being followed and in the economic forces now working with increasing momentum, the present and major problem will rapidly be reduced to manageable proportions.

"The real solution must come, and is coming through the expansion of private enterprise, based on conditions favorable to the more extensive development of our primary and other industries."

Sounds A Warning.

Mr. Dunning then sounded a warning against stock market speculation and noted a revival of conditions which had led to disaster in pre-depression years.

Turning to the international situation, he said the devaluation of "gold bloc" currencies had been an important development during the year. It removed one of the major reasons for exchange controls, quotas and other restrictions on international trade.

"World trade as a whole, however, has not made the progress which one might have hoped for, and in some areas there are still evidences of financial or economic strain. Nevertheless, in most countries as in Canada the signs point to continued progress if only peace can be preserved and political fraction reduced.

"Looking back on 1936, however, one cannot pretend that political progress has kept pace with economic improvement. War and the fear of war appear to loom larger in men's eyes that at any time in recent years.

As the present fiscal year end March 31 figures for revenue and expenditures in 1936-37 are estimates, Mr. Dunning pointed out. He believed they would not be far out although they were necessarily approximations.

He presented a summary of the revenues and expenditures compared with those for the previous year in this table:

Figures in millions.

	1936-36	1936-37
Ordinary expenditures	$372,539	$391,869
Ordinary revenues	$372,222	$443,368
Deficit (-) or surplus on ordinary account	*317	51,528
Special expenditures	$102,047	$ 80,429
Less special receipts	*321	8,105
Balance	$101,727	$ 72,304
Add capital expenditures	6,544	3,447
Add government owned enterprises	50,940	44,472
Add other charges	*515	19,310
	$159,726	$139,533
Less other credits	*54	*615
Add deficit or deduct surplus as above	*317	51,528
Total deficit or increase of direct net debt	$159,989	$ 37,395

* Thousands of dollars.

Revenues exceeded those of every other year in history except 1928-29 when collections totalled $460,000,000, Mr. Dunning said. They represented an increase of 45 per cent from 1932-33, the low year of the depression.

Sales tax with an estimated return of $115,500,000 was the largest single source of government revenue. It showed an increase of $37,946,000 over the previous year, the greater part of which was due to an increase in the rate from six to eight per cent.

Income tax with a yield of $102,000,000 was the second largest producer and showed an increase over the previous year of $19,290,000, partly due to improvement in incomes and partly to a rise in the corporation rate in the last budget.

Total tax revenues were estimated at $384,618,000, an increase of $67,306,000 over the previous year and non-tax revenues from investments and governmental services were placed at $58,770,000, an increase of $3,860,000.

Old-Age Pensions.

The largest increase in ordinary expenditures was in the cost of old-age pensions, from $16,764,000 to $22,500,000, due largely to the participation in the scheme for the first time of Quebec and New Brunswick.

It was important to concentrate on aggregate rather than ordinary expenditures, for while there was a surplus of $51,528,000 on ordinary account, compared with a deficit of $317,000 a year ago, the over-all deficit was serious.

Capital expenditures at $3,447,000 were little more than half the total for the previous year.

"During the year special expenditures are expected to aggregate $80,429,000. The decrease of $21,618,000 as compared with the total for 1935-36 is wholly explained by the absence this year of any disbursements for grain marketing losses.

"Under the Unemployment Relief and Assistance Act, 1936, total expenditures are expected to reach $46,064,000. Of this total $28,930,000 will be accounted for by grants-in-aid to the provinces for direct relief; $14,136,000 by the Dominion's share of joint Dominion-Provincial projects; and $2,750,000 by the cost of the special railway maintenance program which it will be recalled was designed to provide work for single homeless unemployed men formerly taken care of by the relief camps.

National Emergency.

"The serious drought which developed in the three Prairie provinces last summer necessitated relief on so extensive a scale that the Government felt obligated to regard the condition as a national emergency and as one therefore which called for special Dominion assistance.

"It is now estimated that the expenditures under this program will not exceed $9,741,000 by the close of this fiscal year. Of this amount $5,490,000 will represent the cost of direct relief and $4,251,000 the Dominions share of the cost of feed, fodder and freight charges."

Summary of unemployment relief expenditures with figures for the previous year:

(Figures in millions)

	Estimates 1936-36	1936-37
Grants - in - aid to provinces	$26.274	$28,930
Railway maintenance works		2,750
Dominion projects:
Department of Public Works	17,896	10,314
Department of National Defence	10,201	4,322
National Harbors Board and Department of Marine	5,437	5,375
Dept. of Interior	2,294	1,879
Dept. of Agriculture	*238	1,049
Dept. of Railways and Canals	*942	*539
Miscellaneous and sundry depts.	1,431	1,371
Special drought area relief	4,000	9,741
	$79,416	$80,429

Government - owned enterprises, including the Canadian National Railways, cost the treasury $44,472,000 compared with $50,940,000 the previous year.

Assets would be written down by $19,310,000 during the year. There was the normal write-off for soldier and land settlement loans and seed grain and relief accounts totalling $545,000.

The big write-off, however, was due to the debt adjustment proposed for the drought areas of Saskatchewan and Manitoba. This involved writing off treasury bills held by the Dominion as security for advances to the provinces. It would not exceed $806,000 for Manitoba and $17,960,000 for Saskatchewan.

Were is not for the presence of this abnormal item in the expenditures the grand total for the year would be less than for the previous year. As it happens it stands at $539,518,000, an increase of $6,933,000 over the previous year.

Deficit of $87,395,000.

"Taking the total revenues for the year at $452,123,000 and the total expenditures at $539,518,000 there will be an over-all deficit for the fiscal year of 87,395,000.

"This, of course, takes into account the railway deficit as well as other expenditures for which the government is responsible. It compares with a total deficit last year of $159,989,000.

"It is better than the figure of $100,000,000 deficit which I set as our goal in the budget last year. If we make allowance for the abnormal write-off of $18,765,000 which relates to the activities of previous years and also for the special receipt of $8,000,000 from the wheat board, it is indeed very much better.

"But while we have succeeded in cutting last year's deficit nearly in half and while we are able to show a substantially smaller deficit than in any year since 1930-31 when the deficit was approximately the same as this year, I think it will be realized by all members of the House that the gap between our total income and our total outgo is still very broad and that it must be abridged at the earliest possible date."

Loans and investments during the year regarded as active assets totalled $36,795,000 compared with $59,903,000 the previous year. They included $4,614,000 to the Canadian National Railways, $558,000 to the Canadian Pacific Railway, $11,894,000 to the Canadian Farm Loan Board, $10,892,000 to the provinces under relief legislation, $5,166,000 for railway equipment and $5,100,000 for purchase of shares in the Bank of Canada.

New obligations, loans and treasury bills totalling $382,996,000 were floated during the year. Of this total $311,000,000 was to meet maturing obligations and the rest for the deficit and other current expenses.

"As at March 31, 1937, the outstanding unmatured funded debt and treasury bills of the Dominion, less sinking funds, will amount to $3,275,574,000," Mr. Dunning continued.

"Adding to this amount $253,419,000 of other liabilities, consisting chiefly of annuity insurance and superannuation funds, post office savings deposits and certain trust and contingent accounts, we arrive at gross liabilities of $3,530,993,000.

"Active assets, including cash on hand and investments, amounted to $437,498,000. After deducting the latter figure from the gross liabilities, we reach an estimated net debt of $3,093,495,000 as at the close of the fiscal year. The increase over last year of $87,395,000 represents, of course, the amount of the over-all deficit."

In addition to the direct obligations the Dominion Government is also liable as guarantor of securities issued by other agencies. These indirect liabilities would amount to $1,003,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year, Mr. Dunning stated.

This represented an increase of $9,000,000, mainly due to an issue of government-guaranteed securities which had not been guaranteed.

Spanish Senorita Handles Rifle

As the battle for Spain's capital city goes on, every person in the city able to handle a rifle is pressed into service for the firing line. Here is a young woman in a sandbagged trench on the outskirts of Madrid, using her rifle like a veteran, firing shot for shot with the men beside her.

Something To Think About

OTTAWA, Feb. 25—(C.P.)—Excerpts from to-day's Budget speech by Finance Minister Dunning:

War and the fear of war appear to-day more in the public eye than at any time in recent years. Perhaps the best hope for peace lies in the fact that the dangers are so clearly realized.

Monetary policy should not be regarded as a panacea. It can at best, only create conditions favorable to sound development.

To those observers who look for an early end to the relief problem the decline during the past year will appear discouragingly small. It is probably true that a hard core of unemployment and relief will always remain.

The revenue-raising powers assigned to the provinces do not appear to be commensurate with the responsibilities which they were given or which they have assumed in an age of increasing provision for governmental social services.

There are forces unleashed in the recovery period that must be grappled with no less vigorously than those facing us in times of depression. These realities must not be neglected.

Public works construction cannot be continued indefinitely on the scale of recent years without building up an intolerable burden for the future. If it must be kept up in the late stages of a recovery movement, what hope can there be that governments will be in a position to use public works requirements as a reserve against future depression?

Recent price movements have operated distinctly in the direction of reducing the farmer's handicap.

Our banking system currently finds itself with ample reserves for the accommodation of commercial borrowers.

FINED $100 AND COSTS

L. E. Pease paid a fine of $100 and $5.25 costs on pleading guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this (Thursday) morning to a charge of being in possession of an unlicensed still suitable for the manufacture of spirits, contrary to provisions of the Dominion Excise Act.

A. L. Elliott who appeared on behalf of the accused urged that Pease had made the still for his own use and to satisfy a flair he has has as an amateur chemist.

"He does not appear to have injured any person, only himself and the Liquor Control Board." His Worship remarked in imposing the minimum penalty.

SOFTBALL GOOD FOR 1937 BOOM AMATEURS ONLY

Old Time Ball Star Predicts World Series For Young Game

NO PLACE FOR PROS.

By ED YINGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 25—(A.P.)—Softball will not train talent for the hardball majors, but the flourishing young pastime will have its own world series—for amateurs only—and will field 11,000,000 players who will pay around $125,000,000 for equipment in 1937.

Take the word of George Sisler, the great old big-time first baseman now sports goods dealer, who turned to softball and discovered it intriguing—and profitable. He frowns at the mention of professional softball and predicts a retreat from the "small headway" already made by teams which bang the overside horseshide for profit.

Men and boys playing softball in Canada and the United States outnumber the girls three to one, but the women are catching up, Sisler says.

"Softball benefits baseball in a commercial way, but does not help baseball in the way of training players. The softball player does acquire poise, alertness, sportsmanship, and other qualities found in any athletic contest; but his ability to handle the larger, softer ball is of no use in baseball," says Sisler, who ought to know. He named one softball player who graduated to baseball—Al Fisher, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, who will be with Houston of the Texas league this season.

Stimulates Sports

Sisler said softball stimulates general interest in sports and thereby enlarges baseball crowds.

Only minor rule changes are likely for the 1937 season. One proposal would move the pitcher back two and a half feet—to 37½ feet from the batter. The change is designed to produce more hitting.

Total of $125,000,000 seems like a fabulous figure for uniforms and equipment, but considering that 11,000,000 boys and girls—and some papas and mamas—will be out there trying to hit underhand sinkers and curves with a puny stick next summer, the total outlay divides up to less than $12 per head.

Sisler made his predictions for the 1937 campaigns as both president of the American Softball Association and as an optimistic business man who supplies the goods and promotes the game.

A softball world championship series, he says, will be the outgrowth of co-operative negotiations between his association and the Amateur Softball Association headquartering in Chicago. Sisler's group will stage its annual national tournament here next September with approximately 60 teams from all parts of the land on hand.

Beats Baseball

Sisler, who made first-basing history with the St. Louis Browns and Boston Braves, declares the fast-growing game now has more followers and participants than its nearest rival, basketball.

"Pro softball won't go," he insists. "Softball is a low-priced game, and pay for the players would take away the zip. There are some travelling teams, but the money is just not there."

Admission prices for softball average a dime, with two-bits as tops for championship contests. Sisler says larger admission fees and bigger playing fields would be necessary for profitable pro games. "I don't believe," he says, "that persons sitting as far away as the outfield bleachers would get any kick out of the game—and fields would have to be that big to make it a paying proposition. Furthermore, salaried players would remove the attractive features peculiar to the game."

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

TONIGHT AT the Brock St. rink, three Senior City Hockey League games wind up that schedule. At seven o'clock, Outboard Marines meet the Mayfairs; at eight it's Bewdley vs. Westclox; while Millbrook and Lakefield clean it up at nine. With both Lakefield and the Marines battling for a playoff berth, every game promises to be packed with action and the usual Blood and Thunder Loop bumpings about. First three teams in the final standing go into playoffs next week. For the low fare charged, fans can't go wrong on these wide-open and scrappy tussles.

AND THE basketball for tomorrow evening. Down at the Y.W., three Ladies' Cage League contests are lined up like this: St. John's vs. C.G.E. Juniors at 7.45, C.G.E. Seniors vs. Marconi Radio at 8.15, and "Y" Quakers vs. Westclox Juniors at 9.00. The first section of this schedule is nearly over and it's quite a race. C.G.E. Seniors can move into a tie with Westclox tomorrow by beating Marconi, while three junior squads are pretty well bunched behind the Electrics. At P.C.I. gym Friday e'en, Port Hope senior gals and Port Hope junior boys have cage jousts with our Collegians.

UP AT the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday p.m., two basketball games and an inter-city volleyball match will be staged. At 7.15, Dominion Life meets St. Paul's while at 9.15 P.C.I. plays Neill's in Senior City Basketball League fixtures. In between, at 8.15 or so, Toronto Central "Y" volleyballers tangle with the Peterborough "Y" team. This latter outfit won the Ontario title last year while Central "Y" were runners-up, so it should be a swell scrap. And will introduce this peppy sport to many local fans who have never seen it played before.

ALL QUIET in baseball up and down the Rue Rumor these days, but we know local sports enchusiasts are busy and we look for a good local team in the C.O.B.L. next year. Annual meeting of the Petes' club will be held in a week or so. Meantime, we trust manufacturers and merchants here are ready to do their part to keep the name "Peterborough" prominent throughout the Province this summer in baseball. Everyone should get in behind the ball officers and help in any way he can. Senior ball is a community matter. They are very much in doubt around Belleville regarding the senior diamond sport. But it'll likely iron out when warmer breezes start to blow. We hope so.

IT WAS 5-2 for the junior Kingstons last p.m. which means our Colts are three goals in the red for tomorrow night in the return O.H.A. playdown game here. Big ice made the chief difference between the two squads who looked well-matched. For one thing, it gave some of the local kids stage fright; for another, it worked swell for the homesters who played the blue lines (which looked a mile apart to the Colts) smartly; and for a third point, it let the Limestone Citizens waltz around our defence on the wide area fairly frequently. So our boys looked rather disorganized most of the evening and played poor hockey. Crowe and Kingdon went good all through and Harding didn't let in any soft ones. The rest were spotty—good and bad.

* * * * * * *

THIS PARTIS kid at centre between two good wingmen is the ace performer for the Red Indians. Their lanky goalie looked good, too, and that hard-hitting defenceman, Smith. As a team they didn't show any more speed or class than the Colts but they were right at home on an ice surface bigger than that of either Oshawa or Belleville. As large as Maple Leaf Gardens. Up here tomorrow in the gloaming, the Kingstons will find a much snugger fit at the Brock. It will be several sizes too small for 'em and forwards trying to skirt defence will be rubbing their elbows on the sides. And the blue lines are in the same county, so they will find it much tougher to suck in the locals and then shoot the disc away out to a crony asetting at the blue line—with said crony galloping off blithely blocks ahead of foiled Colts. It's natural ice, too. Yeah, they will find it considerably different.

* * * * * * *

WILL THE locals overcome that three-goal deficit? Sure they will, provided the ice is fair and they play ordinary good hockey. But not if the forwards don't backcheck; if they don't click better on their passes; or if the defencemen both go after one man and leave his buddy wide open. Kingston went good last night, got two soft goals, and yet they only won by three. The same team lost their second game against Whitby on small ice but nosed out on the round by one marker. They are almost sure to lose here tomorrow but whether they lose on the round or not depends on whether the Buckland boys get over their jitters and get in and play good—not necessarily brilliant—hockey. It should be a beautiful battle before the biggest crowd of the season. It is do or die for our Colts tomorrow night here.

ST. PAUL'S Juveniles just yanked out a 1-0 Church Hockey League win over Mark St. last eve and now meet Murray St. in finals, starting tonight. These teams met in bantam finals three years ago with the Baptists' winning out. Goalie McBride had two shutouts last p.m. His team Queen Mary had a 3-0 win in a school game at seven while his church squad won at nine. Just 14 years old, McBride has been in goal for St. Paul's teams for four years in finals. Games Thursday: George St. vs. Park St. in second of bantam finals at 6.30, the former winning the first game; Murray St. vs. St. Paul's in first juvenile final at 7.30; and All Saints vs. Murray St. in second senior final at 8.30, the first being a draw. Rest of scheduled West End Loop tilts: Friday—All Saints at Keene and Canadiens at Warsaw; March 2nd—Keene at Warsaw, Canadians at All Saints at seven; March 3rd—All Saints at Warsaw.

West End League Standing.

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Keene	4	3	3	11
All Saints'	5	4	0	10
Warsaw	3	3	3	9
Canadiens	2	4	4	8

Games left: Feb. 26—All Saints' vs. Keene, Canadiens vs. Warsaw; Mar. 2—Keene vs. Warsaw, Canadiens vs. All Saints' at 7.00; Mar. 3—All Saints' vs. Warsaw.

Canadiens suffered a serious setback in their chances for a playoff berth last night when All Saints' copped a 1-0 nod over them. It was a close game all through, with the winners having better team-play. Cut-up ice hampered play. All Saints' were minus their regular goalie, but Seabrooke earned a shutout neatly. Frost got the lone goal on a solo effort in the second frame. Rusaw was outstanding for the Anglicans, with Quirt, Fisher and Maudsley also good. None of the good Canadiens' players played up to the usual standard. The teams:

All Saints': Goal, Seabrooke; defence, Beauclerc, Rusaw; centre, Maudsley; wings, Charlton, Quirt; alternates: Fisher, Frost, Conlin, Alton.

LAKEFIELD GIRLS DEFEATED BOYS

High School Girls' Team Defeats Public School Boys

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 25—The Lakefield High school girls' hockey team, coached by Miss B. Dunn, got the long end of a 6-3 score when they played the Public School boys team in the rink on Wednesday.

It was a fast game, with hard playing for the whole sixty minutes. The boys seemed determined to redeem themselves after a bad start, but though they fought valiantly, the fair ones outplayed them.

Both goalies showed up well, with Luella Spofford in the net for the feminine faction, making a number of spectacular saves. There were some good combination plays on both sides. A number of penalties were meted out, but the handing of a penalty for tripping to Betty Nichols, who plays defence on the girls' team, aroused a lot of amusement among the lads who apparently thought — or hoped — that the girls would not "stoop to such tactics." as tripping opponents.

In the first period, the ladies registered two goals while their opponents failed to score; by the end of the second session the girls had tallied three more counters and the boys had scored twice; and the third period produced a goal for each side bringing the final score to 6-3.

The goals for the girls' team were made by Cubby Lampman (2), Isobel Bullock (2), Betty Lampman (1) and Helen Kelly (1).

The line-ups:

Lakefield High School girls' team—Goal, Luella Spafford; defence, Betty Nichols, Winnifred Blewett; centre, Isobel Bullock; wings, Betty Lampman, Cubby Lampman; alternates, Betty Brown, Helen Kelly, Dorothy Smith.

Lakefield Public School boys' team—Goal, Jimmy Webster; defence, Ramsay Hopkins, Donald Fry; centre, Gerald Pearson; wings, Ralph Millage, Jimmy Fowler; alternates, R. Bennington, R. Jackman, G. Wong and C. Dunford.

Mark St. Juveniles Are Eliminated 1-0

Mark St. Juveniles were eliminated last night by St. Paul's, 1-0, in Church Hockey League semi-finals. With two stars sick, Craig and Strickland, the Easterners extended St. Paul's all the way before Morrow scored late in the game on a faceoff pass from Easton. St. Paul's now meet Murray St. in the finals. Due to holes in the ice last night, the game was run off in four periods.

It was a fast tussle with St. Paul's having better combination but lacking the speed of Mark St., but there were many scrambles around the latter's net. At that, the St. Paul's goalie had tougher ones to handle and he deserved the shutout. Mason on defence for the losers was the best player on the ice. Scriver teamed up well with him to aid their goalie. McBride in the rival cage also had good protection from King and J. McMillan. Graham was the best of the forwards. The teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, McBride; defence, King, J. McMillan; centre, Easton; wings, Morrow, Perks; alternates, Mackness, Lockington, T. McMillan.

Mark St.: Goal, Agnew; defence, Scriver, Mason; centre, Nicho''; wings, Graham, Easton; alternate, Barringer.

Referee: G. Webb.

KING OF WINTER SPORTS — Ski-ing

By Charles Schaer

Sponsored By Peterborough Ski Club

52—Pure Christiania.

The mastery of the christiania swings, by increasing the skill and confidence of the skier, will greatly add to the pleasure of ski-ing. The pure christiania is adapted to use on light snow rather than heavy, deep snow.

In the execution of the pure christiania the skis are kept parallel in the narrow track position and the rotary action is produced by body muscular effort.

The terms "inside" or "intended inside" and "outside" or "intended outside" will be used to designate the ski, knee, arm, shoulder, etc., on the inside or outside, respectively, of the curve followed by the swing.

In preparation for the swing when running a traverse take the erect running position and advance the intended inside ski, figure 1. Weight the skis equally, keep them flat and lean the body slightly forward. With a vigorous, screwing motion of the body, hips swinging outward and shoulders inwards, impart a rotary action to the skis, figure 2. The screwing motion must be energetic but smooth, and it is important that the knees be thrust well forward and the heels kept down. When the swing has been started the body will naturally incline inwards, figure 3, to counteract centrifugal force. Figure 4 shows the finish of the swing.

By keeping the angles normal the skis will be edged inwards to the curve, thus producing a stemming action and the body weight and momentum will aid in maintaining a side-slipping motion, causing the skis to skid around.

Practice on a gentle, fairly hard-surfaced slope, first swinging uphill from a traverse, taking advantage of the slope to aid the rotary motion of the skis, then downwhill swings and gradually in deeper snow.

Next: Jerked and Unforced Swings.

Canucks Win 9 To 1 Over Campbellford

In an exhibition game played last night at the Brock St. rink before a small crowd, Canucks of the Junior City League copped a 9-1 win over Campbellford's juvenile O.H.A. entry. The victors outplayed their young opponents throughout, showing too much speed and combination to work in repeatedly for hot stabs at goal. Campbellford battled hard but were never in the hunt. Free got their lone marker while Fleming shone shone with five for the winners as Connelly collected two and Cournyea and Coursey one each for Canucks. The teams:

Campbellford: Goal, Seguire; defence, Attison, Reddick; centre, Farrell; wings, Donald, Jarvis; alternates, Coughling, Nichols, Free, Bell, Kennedy.

Canucks: Goal, McKinnon; defence, Giardino, Whaley; centre, Gilbert; wings, Cournyea, Fleming; alternates, Czumrik, Creighton, Coursey, Collins, Connelly, Ridley.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

W. Harvey's rink took a stranglehold on Group C Wednesday night when they defeated D. Carlisle 11-9. Harvey has just one more game to play, and if he wins that one, he wins the group. As is their custom, the Harvey rink got away to a poor start—a habit with them and were trailing 6-1 at the half-way mark, but Wallace took the boys to one side, and said something—kind of private—and they immediately came back with a four-end, and then went on to win the game.

J. B. Minns, secretary High Park Curling Club, Toronto, was a visitor at our club, and enjoyed a game, viceing for T. McKay.

We intend to hold our "irregular" bonspiel on Saturday. We've missed a couple of weeks, so we should have a big crowd out.

J.J. Howden, Blade's Island, reports having a good time in Oshawa.

The ladies are staging the Sturgeon Trophy on Monday morning. No doubt the rinks will be drawn up to-day or to-morrow and players will be notified by their skips.

Ski Notes

(By Andy Rutter)

It looks like the jinx has been snowed under and at last ski-ing will have an even chance to come into its own. A few members and a million children showed up for the ski lessons last night at Victoria Park. There will be more lessons this evening for club members at 7.30 in the Park and as usual will be handled by Jack Holland and myself. Anyone desiring a few tips would be wise to take in these classes.

If this snow stays with us it is likely the club championships will be run off over this week-end so all skiers planning to compete had better wax up the old slabs and get into training, at once. In connection with the club competitions there will be jumping on our new hill and the public is invited to attend this spectacular branchof our championships. There will be however no interpretation of jumpers and club members only will compete. Tell your friends to be on hand. Watch this column for further announcements. An organized run will commence this evening from Victoria Park about 8 o'clock; be on time and share in the fun.

Colts Are Down Three In Junior Playdowns After a 5-2 Reverse

Red Indians Of Kingston Have Slight Edge On Play On Big Ice Surface To Gain Three-Goal Margin For Return Tilt Here Friday

TEAMS ARE WELL-MATCHED

Down three goals on their O.H.A. playdown round as a result of a 5-2 reverse last night in Kingston, the local Colts make their do-or-die stand in the return fixture here Friday evening. The Red Indians of the Limestone City outscored them one goal a period last night, having a 1-0 lead in the first frame and getting a 2-1 edge in each of the next two of a fast, clean and exciting fixture before a good-sized crowd in the Jock Harty Arena.

Taking full advantage of their home stand on the large artificial ice surface, the Kingston juniors earned the nod in the first tilt. The visitors appeared disorganized on the big rink most of the time and failed to play their best hockey. The Kingston habit of drawing them in and then playing the long blue line area for forward passes and quick breaks had the Colts bothered most of the way.

TEAMS WELL MATCHED

On general ability, the teams appeared well-matched. If anything, the Buckland boys were faster skaters. They checked as well but did not click up to form on passing plays, nor did thy have any luck in finishing plays around the rival net. Two of the Kingston goals were of the soft variety, one occuring in a scramble when the young Petes were shorthanded and another on a clean breakaway as the visitors were ganging up. On the smaller local rink, the score is quite likely to be reversed.

Both goalies turned in a bangup performance, Harding and Bridgen kicking out a flock of hard thrusts in close. The defences used the body freely but the wider Kingston rink fooled the Colts' rearguard at times. The first line for the winners, Partis, Carr-Harris and Belwa, shone, the former being especially brilliant. The rest went fair. None of the losers looked good consistently through the contest but Crowe and Kingdon, but the others at times showed up fine and worked hard throughout. They drew four of the six penalties, having some tough ones called on them in the first frame.

It was fast and even to start the first period but A. Clark was gated early for charging and Kingston pressed. He was just nicely back when Connelly climbed the boards for tripping and again the Colts had to go good to hold out their rivals. Later the visitors had an edge on play, a Starr-Wright combination being robbed and then Crowe almost tallying. A. Clark went off again for tripping and Partis scored in a scramble shortly before the bell sounded.

Heal Gets One.

The two net-minders booted out a bunch early in the second as play swung up and down fast on passing rushes. Connelly got the air for tripping, and five Kingstonians swarmed in hotly but could not sink one. At full strength again, the Colts held their own. Heal made a fine play but was thetied of a goal and then Smith took Evans' neat pass in close to counter. Play was hot and pretty even for a time but Kingston made it 3-0 when Partis snaked his way around defence and picked a corner at close quarters. Later they claimed another one but it was not in; the goal judge, however, being changed. Smith got the finger for tripping and the Colts ganged up dangerously with Heal finally pulling out the goalie to score.

The third was but two minutes old when Carr-Harris took a pass from Partis inside defence and blazed it by Harding. The fans were yelling at the hot action as each side in turn tore in and peppered the goalie. Smith was chased for tripping and five Colts buzzed around Bridgen, but they had no luck in close and Kingston kept shooting it down the ice. Finally, Partis broke away clean to make the count 3-1. Kingdon was battling hard and deserved a coup'e on his smart plays. The Colts kept pressing late in the frame and finally got one back when G. Clark took Al Clark's pass and gave the home net-guardian no chance. They had most of the play at the finish.

The teams:

Colts—Goal, Harding; defence, A. Clark and Jopling; centre, Starr; wings, Heal and Wright; alternates, Kingdon, G. Clark, Brady, Connelly and Crowe.

Kingston—Goal, Bridgen; defence, Crawford and Smith; centre, Partis; wings, Carr-Harris and Belwa; alternates, Knott, Younger-Lewis, Evans, McCloine and Clark.

Referee, H. T. Holway of Belleville.

Helps Ramblers Slap Falcons Down In Philadelphia By 9 To 3

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (CP) — The bright lights of the National Hockey League didn't blind Eddie Wares. He's still the capable winger-man who has helped make Philadelphia Ramblers front-runners in their section of the International-American League, even after a brief starry interlude with New York Rangers.

Wares was taken up by Rangers Tuesday night for a single game because of illness in the N.H.L. club's ranks. He scored both goals as they whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1, then went back to Philadelphia to resume activity with the Ranger farm team.

The Calgary boy looked for all the world like a big-leaguer again last night as he aided Ramblers in drubbing Cleveland Falcons 9-3 at Philadelphia, scoring a goal and two assists. By their victory Ramblers increased their lead in the eastern section of the Int.-Am. to 11 points over the idle Springfield Indians.

Charlie Mason was the chief Falcon antagonist, however, scoring three times for Ramblers. Bob Kirk got two counters and Wares, Bert Connolly and Bryan Hextall, were other Philadelphia marksmen.

In the night's other game Providence Reds edged out a 4-3 win over Pittsburgh Hornets. Lorne Duguid scored twice for Providence and Coach Al Leduc and Jerry Lowrey supplied the other markers. Johnny Gallagher, Ken Doraty and Clarence Drouillard got the Pittsburgh goals.

GEN. A. CRITCHLEY THINKS ENGLAND'S TEAMS SUPERIOR

Offers All Expenses For Series Of 5 Home-And-Home Games With Best This Side

HOCKEY BOOMING THERE

By George Maguire
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (CP)—Amateur hockey is thriving at such a pace in Great Britain that the belief prevails there the best English team can whip the champions of Canada or the United States, said Brigadier - General A. C. Critchley, native Calgarian today as he prepared to leave New York for a Florida holiday.

"I am so confident our best team could do this," he said, "that I am willing to stage a home-and-home five-game series with any team, guarantee expenses and let the winning club take all receipts for the game on this side and in England as well."

He said he had never seen teams in the United States Eastern Amateur League perform but would be pleased to have New York Rovers take up his proposition.

Lester Patrick, head of the New York Rangers expansive farm system, which includes Rovers, a collection of hand-picked stars from Western Canada and Ottawa, declared the General only needed to put the offer in writing and he would be glad to send the Rover boys abroad at the conclusion of their schedule.

Patrick Is Ready

"There is nothing I would enjoy more," said the gay Lestaire, "than sending a hockey club to help the game along over there. I don't think we would have to worry much about losing streaks. A number of the stars over there are players I, and several other managers, did not consider good enough for Eastern League competition. The boys would enjoy the trip though, I am sure."

The General said he would get in touch with Patrick after returning home three weeks hence and surveying the situation.

While he has extensive interests in Greyhound racing, boxing and an industrial concern, the former member of Lord Strathcona's horse, has an interest in two of Britain's best puckchasing squads which play at the Harringay rink, he had built along lines of Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. It seats 10,000. There are three others in England seating 7,000 and 12 with a seating capacity of 3,000-4,000, he said.

The game was growing so popular among all classes of Britons, he added, that British interests can easily vie with Canadian and American club-owners for the best Canadian players. However, he did not think conditions warranted the introduction of professional hockey for some years.

WHITBY RED WINGS TROUNCE OSHAWA

Take 2-1 Game For Lead In Intermediate "" Playdown Beginner

OSHAWA, Feb. 25.—Whitby Red Wings, perennial title threats, skated off with a one-goal advantage for the return game in the county town Friday evening when they handed Oshawa Coca Colas a 2-1 defeat in the first game of the Lakeshore Intermediate "B" O.H.A. playoffs before a large crowd here last night.

The game bristled with action throughout, with Oshawa bringing up Ivy McCullough, Louis Brunell, "Brick" Calhoun and "Red" Krantz from the Junior Generals for the game, which added considerably to the interestand excitement.

Whitby— Goal, Hurst; defense, Brown and Oke; centre, Heard; wings, Mayne and Blanchard; alternates, J. Sleightholm, E. Sleightholm; Louis Vipond, Luther Vipond and Piper.

Kingston Juniors Play Colts Here

The Red Indians of Kingston play the local Colts here tomorrow (Friday) evening at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink. It is the return game of their O.H.A. junior "B" first round playdown series. The first game in Kingston last night ended 5-2 for Kingston. Goals count on the round. The local squad will be at full strength for this important tussle, and the season's record crowd is expected to take in the game. Winner of the round goes into further O.H.A. playdowns while the loser is eliminated.

All of the Kingston team are homebrew players except Hagen—now out with injuries—and Evans of Napanee. Most of them have had about two years O.H.A. experience and four or five were on the Kingston squad which last year put out the Peterborough juniors. Partis, Carr-Harris and Belwa make up a starry trio on the first forward line; these boys being fast, tricky and experienced. They have a husky, fair defence and a lanky goalie who towers over six feet. Th average age of the Red Indians is 18 and the average weight about 160 pounds. The Colts have a mixture of rookies and experienced players with several huskies and a number of lighter boys. The teams appear quite well-matched and dish up a slambang game.

BALANCED BUDGET.

NEW DELHI. — Indian railways will show a balanced budget for the first time since the fiscal year of 1929-1930, according to the 1936-37 revised estimates and the estimates for 1937-38. Each of the two years indicates a surplus of more than $50,000.

Steele's Right Sends Risko Back

This snap, taken during the 15-round middleweight title bout in New York, shows Freddie Steele of Tacoma, Wash., the title holder, sinking his left into Babe Risko's mid-section, as he started a roundhouse right in the Babe's direction. Mr. Risko backtracked away from danger on this occasion. The scrap was lively from start to finish and Risko made a valiant bid to regain his crown from the man who took it away from him; but Steele got the nudge at the end of the fight and remains at the head of the middleweight division.

MADOC PLAY TIE BELLEVILLE AND

Exciting League Fixture On Madoc Ice Ends In 4-4 Draw

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 25. — In a regular league fixture Madoc and Belleville battled to a 4-4 tie before a large and enthusiastic crowd in Madoc Arena. Play opened up in the first period with both teams setting a dizzy pace. Beautiful combination plays were completed by both forward lines and both goalies were severely tested with numerous hard shots, but managed to keep their nets clear.

At the five-minute mark Smith broke through the Belleville defence and laid down a perfect pass to Akey, whose shot had Cook in the Belleville nets beaten all the way. Play continued at a dizzy clip and Semark of Belleville was penalized for dumping Wellman, but no goals were scored while he was serving time, although Madoc tried hard. At the eleven-minute mark Embury scored from a pass from Caverly, putting Madoc two up.

Hailstone of Madoc drew a minor for slashing McGuire. Belleville put on their power play, but could not score on Nickle, who was unbeatable in the Madoc nets. First period ended, Madoc leading 2-0.

The Second Period.

Second period opened with Madoc still pressing, and at the four-minute mark Akey again broke through the Belleville defence, passing to Smith for Madoc's third counter.

Play continued fast and wide open and McGuire of Belleville was penalized for talking back to Referee Watson. No damage was done while he served time. Belleville pressed hard but their combination efforts did not seem to click. Hammett received the second Belleville penalty for hooking Alexander, and while he was on the bench the prettiest play of the evening was completed by Madoc's first string line of Smith, Akey and Alexander, Smith breaking through the defence, passing to Akey, who in turn passed to Alexander, who completed the criss-cross play by laying a neat pass on Smith's stick. Smith made no mistake picking the corner of the twine behind Cook, putting Madoc in the lead by four goals. The third penalty of the period was meted out to Belleville, Howie being chased for a minor offence. No goals resulted, the period ending a few minutes later, Madoc leading 4-0.

Belleville's Strong Finish.

The third period opened slower. After two minutes, with Belleville playing four men up, Hammett scored from a scramble, giving Belleville their first counter. Two minutes later Belleville again scored when Harvey went through alone and picked the corner of the net for the second goal. From then on Belleville dominated the play, and within two minutes McGuire had notched two goals to tie the score. Madoc seeing defeat, took a new lease and bottled the flashy Belleville team in their own end of the ice. On two occasions Madoc were right in on Cook, only to be outguessed. When Kincaid of Madoc received the first penalty of the period for holding, Belleville turned on the heat and Nickle in the Madoc nets was peppered with shots from all angles and stoped seemingly impossible shots. Kincaid returned to put Madoc again at full strength, but for only a few minutes, when he was again penalized for charging. Nickle was called upon to make sensational stops as Belleville, four men up, swarmed around his cage. Kincaid again returned to the ice, no goals having been scored. One minute before the period ended Hailstone received Madoc's third penalty, and the period ended with the score tied 4-4.

The Belleville squad played great offensive hockey all through this third period and received many cheers from the crowd for their display in tieing the score.

The teams went into overtime, play continuing quite fast. Both teams missed opportunities through over-anxiety to score. The period ended with the score still knotted 4-4.

There were no individual stars, both teams putting up an exhibition of clever passing. The game was one of the best seen in the Madoc Arena this season. The game was well handled by Referee J. Watson, who was on top of all plays and checked both teams very closely on all infractions. The teams:

Madoc — Goal, Nickle; defence, West, Kincaid; centre, Smith; wings, Akey, Alexander; alternates, Wellman, Hailstone, Caverly, Embury, Tellman.

Belleville — Goal, Cook; defence, Ethier, Hammett; centre, Howie; wings, L. Semark, Harvey; alternates Henn, Day, Goyer, McGuire.

GAUMON-BRITISH FIRM MAY CLOSE

Directors Press Step Unless Larger U.S. Market Obtained For Films

LONDON, Feb. 25—(C.P.)—England's oldest and largest film producer, the Gaumont-British Picture Corporation, Ltd., was reported today on the verge of closing down its plant at Shepherd's Bush, London and transferring stars and directors under contract to the Pinewood Studios at Ivor, Buckinghamshire.

The move was stated to have been urged strongly at a meeting of the board of directors, with Isidore Ostrer, president of the corporation leading the group favoring abandonment of production.

Ostrer recently threatened that unless the British Government took steps to gain for British films a larger share of the United States market, he would close down the plant.

Sport Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(A.P.)—Joe Louis, once struck, flames like a match, but Champion Jimmy Braddock plans to burn him fast. "I'll be hitting from the first bell," Jimmy says, and sure as gray hair and coffin nails, that'll start a ruction. . . . Got a complain in the mail from a gent who says he couldn't understand Joe Gould's Brooklynese broadcast at the Braddock-Louis signing. . . . Evidently the boys didn't "rehoice."

New York State Athletic Commissioner Bill Brown was asked yesterday if Max Baer's hands were examined and okay before the Baer-Louis bout. . . . Replied the commissioner: "They were examined all right, but we don't know whether they were okay because he didn't use them against Louis."

During this same commission meeting it was recalled that Brown had described Baer as "a bum." . . . We looked this up in the biggest dictionary we could find, and we've wondering ever since if Brown could have meant Baer is: (1) a humming noise, or (2) a high-pooped, two-masted craft of the Levant. . . Either way, it's pretty bad.

Brown and Baer have clashed before. . . . You may remember Brown as the gent who was going to stop the Baer-Primo Carnera fight because he said Baer wasn't in condition. . . . Baer knocked Carnera down 11 times, and it was freely suggested after the bout that the doctors examine Brown instead of De Preem.

FLEETWOOD

CROKINOLE PARTY SCORES SUCCESS

Fleetwood Young People Have Enjoyable Meeting at Armitage Home

FLEETWOOD, Feb. 25.—On Friday evening the Young People's Society of Fleetwood United church held a jolly crokinole party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Armitage, when about fifty people attended.

Eight tables were occupied with crokinole players while the remaining guests enjoyed other amusements, among them being happy social conversation.

At the conclusion of a series of games the scores were counted and the winners declared to be Mrs. C. H. Ferguson and Earl Shea, to whom were presented appropriate prizes by the sponsoring society.

Rev. C. H. and Mrs. Ferguson were in charge of a delightfully varied program of parlour games, community singing, etc., which proved to be one of the most novel recreational periods enjoyed by the young people during the season.

The young people came provided with luncheon, which was served with coffee with the assistance of the hostess, parents and friends of the Y.P.S.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Armitage and family for their kind hospitality in opening their home for the entertainment of the young people.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Finney and family kindly offered the use of their home for the next fortnightly meeting to take place on March 5th.

HASTINGS

UNITED MEETING OF YOUNG PEOPLE

Trinity Y.P.S. Are Guests Of St. Andrew's At Enjoyable Gathering

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 25.—Fraternization of two church societies took place on Monday evening when the Young People's Society of Trinity United Church were entertained by the kindred organization of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the visitors putting on the program. Over seventy-five young people were present. Mrs. Stewart Whitred heartily welcomed the guests and presided over the devotional part of the program.

The president asked Miss Grace Orr, literary convenor to take the chair in the absence of their president. A reading on the theme "Friendship" by Miss K. German and a reading by Miss Florence German and a lovely solo "Rock of Ages" by Mrs. Everett Hess closed the devotional program.

The program was varied and interesting and of a literary nature. The life of John Buchan was told by Miss Grace Orr; Misses Marjorie Scriver and Carrie Doxsee rendered a delightful piano duet; Miss Helen Collins gave a reading on the duties of Canada's Governor General; Rev. and Mrs. F. W. Newell contributed a piano duet; Miss Frances Hoard a reading entitled "If"; Mrs. Alton Thompson a vocal solo "Drifting"; Miss Pauline Scriver a reading "The Day Is Done" and Mrs. Gordon Faux and Miss Winnie Huycke sang as they played their accompaniment to "Red Wing."

Lunch was served by the members of St. Andrew's Y.P.S. after which a social time was enjoyed in a game and contest. The telegram contest proved very interesting, Mr. Walter Dodd's group composing the best written telegram from the letters supplied. The orange game was more than exciting as the oranges placed on the toes of the first one in the arranged lines were passed from toe to toe without the aid of hands.

Personals

Miss Marjorie Dodd entertained the cast of St. Andrew's Church who are practicing for their play "Here Comes Charlie" at the home of her parents on Saturday evening. After time was spent on the play a social time was enjoyed and a very dainty luncheon served.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Stewart and son Jack of Foxboro were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Dalnard.

Misses Everett and Walter Whitred and Mr. C. Baker motored to Hamilton on Sunday to visit the former's mother, Mrs. George Whitred whose condition does not show much improvement.

Mrs. J. Staples of Lindsay spent Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tate.

Miss Kathaleen Morrow visited her grandmother, Mrs. James Morrow of Percy Township on Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Dodd entertained fourteen members of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society at her home on Tuesday afternoon for their regular February meeting. Mrs. William Hill presided and after the usual transaction of business Mrs. C. Dodd contributed a reading "A Mother's Prayer and its Answer," which was in keeping with the World's Day of Prayer. Mrs. Reta Johnston gave a reading on the same theme. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Dodd served a very dainty lunch and a social half hour was spent over the tea cups.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

In Hollywood following an ingenious maneuver on the part of his young wife, Janet, Joel Paynter, second-rate actor, makes screen history in the course of eight months. Fame and fortune are theirs following one outstanding picture in which Joel plays an important character part. He obtained the role because Janet cultivated the right people and Vernon Chester, a leading director. Denied a baby because the studio frowns on domestic notes in building up Joel as the popular American lover, Janet finds happiness eluding her, despite everything money can buy, because she has nothing more to do. Janet discovers that $3,000 a week melts rapidly living as they now do. After buying a small group theater in Cape Cod as a lark, Joel promptly forgets about it.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 20

ONCE JOEL had written his check for Lon Hutchin's theater in Grannis, he forgot about it. It was no more than writing a check for the station wagon. Oh, yes, there was another car in the garage because guests and servants had to be transported here and there.

Janet didn't protest at the expenditure. She was learning, however, not to accept the fact that they "have to have this, dearest, because in the end it will save us money."

If Joel had forgotten it, Janet hadn't. She played with the idea and learned as much as she could about it. She had so little else to do.

Joel was working hard at being America's First Lover. His box office returns were tremendous and the studio's demands in response to the public's demands to know more and more about him left little time for his wife.

A New York newspaper and 1,400 other daily newspapers all over the country were running his life story. Janet marvelled at the items the writers dug up. She thought it was rather strange way for a wife to learn about her husband.

Joel had been the son of a river boat gambler and an aristocratic mother. At least that was what the newspapers said. They also said that he had a private tutor in the mansion that had been his childhood home. Another paper said that he was the son of a wealthy ranch owner and had run away from home when he was a child because he wanted to be a portrait painter. Another paper flatly denied it, saying that he had worked as a waiter in an effort to earn enough money to study medicine.

There were pictures of Joel at every conceivable place. His diet was a matter of public concern. The cut of his lounging suits was copied by every movie-going youth in the country. Breathless school girls began to look with disapproval at the neat, slicked hair of their boy friends. Joel Paynter's hair was always softly tousled.

Just look at the billboards. If you don't see a picture of him there bigger than life, you're sure to see it on at least on two of the fan magazines on every newsstand. And if you'll open those magazines you'll read the most intimate details about him. You'll learn that he likes luxuries because he never has had them. Or, if you read another, you'll find that he prefers the simple life.

There will surely be an article telling you that, quite frankly he says he enjoys the company of women—that they stimulate him. Well, we can't help it if a rival fan magazine says that he prefers the company of men and that his favorite sport is skeet shooting in company of his cronies, Tony Menone, the famous comic, or Larry Kelton who plays detective roles.

You will not find a single article that says that he prefers his wife to any other woman in the world or that he has an adorable habit of pretending that he is sitting in her lap when he has troubles.

You will find very little about Mrs. Paynter.

The studio takes care of that little matter. But in spite of all the studio could do, Joel Paynter refused to go to an opening, to a party without Mrs. Paynter or to go with any other woman star. Mr. Paynter was adamant on that subject. Janet didn't even know that.

Janet knew that the romantic buildup of Joel was inevitable and inescapable. It was "box office" and had nothing personal or dangerous in it. Let the school girls write their heart secrets to him. Let the shameless wives bear their passion for him on paper. Some of the letters came written illegibly on lined paper and some of them came on heavy white linen. The buildup had worked. Women were mad about Joel Paynter. He was a he-man with wistfulness, an unbeatable combination. He made screen history. No matinee idol of another day had ever touched his heights.

Janet took it with a grain of salt. She read the magazines and press scrapbooks that Joel tossed toward her. But she read them only when he was there. It sickened her a little to read that her man belonged to the public. It wasn't really her man who did, it was a shadow man on a screen. Let the public have that man.

Her man was still the same one who had always needed her. Needed her long before she came into his lonely life.

It was funny when you think of it that a man who could bring the hearts of the world of women to his feet could need plain, little Janet.

But Janet wasn't the plain little girl she thought herself. She didn't have glamor, even after she had bought the expensive clothes and become a regular client of the most famed beautician in Hollywood. All that these thing did for her was to bring out the small proportioned perfection of her figure and to groom her beautifully.

Janet developed a beauty within herself. It began with what was in her heart. It softened her maturing in her late twenties. It gave her a repose that shone in her eyes. Her humor and understanding gave a sweetness to her generous mouth. Because her role was a secondary one, she had learned quiet and poise. Combined, these qualities took her far from the position and classification of a plain girl.

It was indicative of everything about Janet Paynter that she would have believed none of these things had you told her about them.

There is a repose in women that comes, not only from security, but from trust and faith. Janet had both faith and trust in Joel. Adulation could not change him or his love for her. Success could not turn his head or affect his feeling for her.

She recognized the ever-present possibility in every marriage that Joel could tire of her and for that reason she bent her efforts to be necessary to him. But for no other reason.

And so, when Joel proposed that she go east without him that summer, she was glad to go. She thought the vacation would be good for both of them.

She would have preferred that Joel could go with her but he was working on one picture immediately he finished his last one and he had little time.

She protested faintly when he pointed out that she had been long away and Martha Colby had written that she longed to see Janet. He also pointed out that Janet and Martha could take a trip up to the Cape and look over the little theater at Grannis.

The little theater had been a great joke. The manager had written glowingly of the season. The first week the net proceeds had exceeded $165! That day Joel had paid $200 for a tweed suit. He thought it was very funny.

"It might be a very good idea for me to see our property," Janet responded and sent a wire to Martha to meet her train in New York and he prepared to go on to Cape Cod immediately.

When she packed, she was torn between anticipation such as she had not remembered, and regret at leaving Joel.

"Don't get into any mischief, dear," she begged and couldn't see him for the blur in front of her eyes when the train pulled out.

"Just remember you're my best girl and I'll count the days until you're back," Joel called after her.

Janet knew that, but, before her train was half way across the country, the newspapers had a different story.

The regular meeting of St. Paul's A.P.A. was held in the Parish Hall on Tuesday, the president, R. J. Scott, being in the chair. It was decided to hold a Coronation Spinsters' ball on April 16th. The program for the evening was under supervision of the Missionary Committee. W. J. Cottrell, convenor, gave a reading on the Columbia Coast Mission. This was followed by a questionnaire contest, with Miss Annie Bailey being declared winner.

Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY TRIES SOME CHEESE

"Bumpity bump! Thumpity thump! Himpity hump!"

That was sound Uncle Wiggily's auto made as he drove over the snowy fields and through the snowy woods towards the garage kept by the Old Sea Dog.

In Summer the Old Sea Dog, who was very jolly, kept a dock for motor boats on the Duck Pond. But there was no motor boat business in Winter so now he kept a garage.

"Ahoy! Ahoy!" called Uncle Wiggily as he and his auto thumped their way up in front of the garage. "Ahoy and belay!"

Those are words sailors use and though Uncle Wiggily wasn't even a sailor hat he knew it would please the Jolly Old Sea Dog to hear words like this.

Yo, Ho! Ho!

Sure enough, out of his garage came trotting the Old Sea Dog. He smiled when he saw Uncle Wiggily and barked:

"Yo, ho! Yo, ho! A sailing we will go—maybe next Summer, my hearty! But what makes the thumping sound? Are you holystoning the decks or avasting and belaying in the lee scuppers?"

"Neither one," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I had a blowout of my bologna sausage tire and I had to put on an emergency one of an icicle."

"An icicle!" barked the Old Sea Dog. "Shiver my oil burner, but I thought icicles were always as straight as the way to Davy Jones' Locker."

"So they are, my hearty!" admitted Uncle Wiggily, still using sea-talk. "But I heated this icicle near a fire and bent it into a round shape for an emergency tire. But now I want new tires all around. My old bologna sausage ones, having been nibbled so much by Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, to say nothing of the Bad Chaps, are all shot. My wife won't go riding with me until I get new tires."

"So you want to buy new tires, eh?" asked the Jolly Old Sea Dog. "What kind were you thinking of getting?" he asked as he shuffled around the car.

"Why," answered Uncle Wiggily, "since the puppies and the Bad Chaps so like to nibble the bologna sausage tires I was thinking of using liverwurst for my new ones. I had some liverwurst patches put on the old bologna tires and they lasted well."

Why Not?

"Oh, but look here, my hearty!" barked the Jolly Old Sea Dog. "liverwurst is just another sort of sausage. It will be nibbled by the dogs and the Bad Chaps each time they get a chance. Why not fool them?"

"How?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Put on cheese tires," said the Sea Dog. "I know it sounds sort of cheesey," he admitted with a laugh, "but you'll like them. We have some very fine new cheese tires just in. I can give you Swiss, Roquefort, Gorgonzola or American."

"I'll try American cheese," said Uncle Wiggily. "Put on American cheese tires, if you please, and then I'll take my wife for a ride. Will I get good mileage out of cheese tires?"

"Plenty," said the Jolly Old Sea Dog. He ran back in the garage to get the lifting jack to put on the new cheese tires when, all of a sudden, he called: "Come in here, Uncle Wiggily! Hurry!"

"My goodness! What's happened now?" asked the rabbit gentleman as he hopped toward the garage.

And if the dining room table will please stop putting on roller skates and pretending it is a rocking chair, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's cheese cake.

PAINFUL PILES

Can Be Quickly Relieved.

If you think there is no way to relieve the misery of piles, it's because you don't know of HEM-ROID, an internal medicine, from a prescription written by Dr. Leonhardt, a western physician.

The real cause of piles is on the inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel, with the tiny rectal veins full of stagnant, impure blood.

Dr. Leonhardt decided the way to relieve piles was internally, with a medicine which would ease the congestion of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and help to heal and restore the sore, tender spots. After many tests he wrote the prescription which has been so successful in giving quick relief from pile misery. It is now offered to you with our promise that you may have your money back if you are not completely satisfied after using one bottle.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, HEM-ROID must show you the quick, clean way to get rid of your pile misery or your money will be given back to you. McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store or any other druggist can supply you with HEM-ROID and will back up this promise.

Civil Servants To Get Five Per Cent. Salary Reduction Back

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—(CP)—Broad changes in trading arrangements with the United Kingdom, and a diminishing deficit featured the budget address delivered yesterday in the House of Commons by Finance Minister Dunning.

Canada's so - called "forgotten man," the taxpayer, was left unmolested by either direct or indirect taxation increases. In addition there were numerous reductions in the tariff rates on commodities from which he might benefit.

Estimating an over-all deficit of $35,000,000 for the fiscal year 1937-38, less than half the estimated deficit of the current year, Mr. Dunning pinned his expressed hope of a balanced budget next year entirely on increased trade and national prosperity.

Replacing and altering in many directions the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement effected at the Ottawa Conference of 1932, a new trade agreement was embodied in the budget making the most sweeping changes in the preferential tariff since that policy was adopted in 1897. Its provisions become effective today.

Salaries Raised.

Of wide interest throughout the Dominion, was the minister's announcement that parliament would be asked to vote the necessary money to provide for restoration of the five-per-cent deduction in civil servant salaries. The existing deduction applies only to salaries of $1,200 and over and the proposed restoration will be effective from next April 1.

Income, excise and sales taxes were left unchanged as to rates and there were some minor additions to the list of commodities which are exempt from sales tax. Allowing for an even slower increase in revenues than that registered in 1936-37 but with hopes of reducing expenditures, Mr. Dunning declared his goal of a balanced budget might be attained a year from now.

The ordinary budget address encumbered by the mass of detail involved in the new trade agreement, kept Mr. Dunning on his feet almost three hours. At the close of his address he tabled the agreement itself which was signed in Ottawa early this week and made public yesterday in London and Ottawa. Debate on the budget will open next Tuesday with Conservative Leader Bennett leading off for the opposition.

Major Preference Held

Under the new agreement, which runs to Aug. 20, 1940 unless six months notice is given by either side to terminate it earlier, Canada retains free entry into the United Kingdom for all but a limited number of commodities as under the old arrangement.

Canada is guaranteed also a fixed margin of preference over foreign countries on a list of 21 commodities which were exported to the United Kingdom in 1936 to a value of $300,000,000. This provision is practically unchanged from the former agreement.

Further provisions include reduced rates on silk stockings, guarantee against an increase in the duty on automobiles, retention of the quota of 280,000,000 pounds (25,000,000 British hundredweight) of hams and bacon as provided in the former treaty and a safeguard market for cattle and meat up to 50,000 head per annum.

The United Kingdom is given tariff reductions on 179 items and guarantees against increased tariff rates on 24- items, but the fixed margin of preference heretofore given on 215 items of United King-

HARD ON CANDY MEN

Robertson Head Sees Blow to Workers in New Tariff.

TORONTO, Feb. 26 (C.P.). — A 7½ per cent. reduction of the British preferential tariff on candy and confections, announced in the budget yesterday, was described to-day as "very bad for the manufacturers," by William Robertson, president of Robertson Bros., Limited.

"We were already working in a business without protection," commented the candy manufacturer. "Duties on raw materials, such as sugar and nuts, were already twice as much as the duty on the finished product. Now we are getting another bump of 7½ per cent."

NOT INTERFERING.

LONDON, Feb. 26.— (AP).—Viscount Cranborne, under-secretary for foreign affairs, told the House of Commons to-day the government had no intention of stepping into the controversy raised by refusal of the crew of the British freighter Linaria at Boston to transport nitrates to the Spanish insurgents.

REDUCTIONS GIVEN ON MANY ARTICLES OUTSIDE TREATY

Cotton Clothing, Plate Glass, Printing Plates For Magazines Most Important

HELP FOREIGN TRADE

OTTAWA, Feb. 26— (CP) —Although the new trade agreement with the United Kingdom was associated with most of the tariff changes announced when Finance Minister Dunning brought his budget down in the House of Commons yesterday, there were, nevertheless, several reductions in duty with substantial bearing on foreign trade.

Among the more important of these non-treaty changes are those in cotton clothing, plate glass and printing plates for magazines.

In addition there were several reductions under the British preference which were accompanied by lower duties in the intermediate and general tariffs. These included, among others, decorative marble, forged steel rolls and seamless oil casings.

The United States garment industry will be particularly affected by removal of the specific duty of 1½ cents a pound under the intermediate tariff on cotton clothing and other articles made wholly of cotton.

The ordinary duty of 25 per cent under the British preference, 30 per cent under the intermediate tariff and 35 per cent under the general remains and countries without most - favored - nation agreements with Canada will still face a four-cent-per-pound specific duty on cotton garments under the general tariff.

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 26 (C.P.). — Eastern "broiler" factories, said President A. R. Current of the Oklahoma Poultry and Egg Association, are threatening ruin to Mid-Western poultry marts.

Aldermen Consent To Attend Protest Session On Government Ban

"SLOT MACHINES WORSE"

Inconsistency Of Law Enforcement Stirs Anger Of Other Members

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 26 (CP) — Throwing responsibility for the control of bingo games on the Attorney - General's Department, Mayor Kingsmith said today that at no time had this form of game been mentioned in city council deliberations.

The mayor's motion, seconded by Ald. Towe, asked for a survey of "illegal gambling and illegal betting" in London. The mayor and the alderman said they had made no reference to bingo and did not care to enter into the administration of justice, but what we had in mind particularly was the operation of slot machines and any illegal gambling being conducted to the detriment of the citizens," the mayor said.

It was disclosed that some aldermen had consented to attend a protest meeting called by a number of organizations for tomorrow in the No. 2 Legion quarters to offset a drive announced by Crown Attorney Newton to raid all bingo games in the city Monday.

"I told them I would be there," Ald. Killingsworth remarked.

Ald. Towe said the motion passed by council asking for the servey of gambling had developed from agitation against "illegal" betting. "Bingo and kenno games did not enter into any of my arguments and anything that is done reste entirely with the Crown," the alderman emphasized.

Games of No Chance

Ald. Towe added that his attention was directed especially to slot machines which he described as games of "no chance" instead of "games of chance."

His contention is that in any game the player should know the "odds" which would be paid for a certain investment.

Ald. Killingsworth, who protested loudly against a "bookie" being sent to jail when selling tickets on horse races while a member of the police force sold him a ticket on a draw in the court room, said he was not attacking the holding of draws, bingo games or any other game, but the inconsistency of law enforcement.

The alderman said he could see little difference between selling a ticket on a horse race and drawing contest.

Jap Strong Arm Men Invade Rescue Mission.

TOKYO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Sixteen women were clubbed by four Japanese "strong arm" men who invaded the Japanese Rescue Mission near Osaka, a refuge for women fleeing licensed vice quarters of Kobe, Osaka and Kyoto, police reported today.

Two Englishwomen, members of the mission staff, identified by police as Rose Saville and Minnie Karolday, were knocked unconscious. The attack yesterday followed a visit by the proprietor of a house in Kyoto who protested two women had escaped to the mission without paying their debts.

TERRORIZED CITY MONTHS

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 26 (C.P.). —James Webb, father of four children, and confessed perpetrator of dozens of housebreakings, was sentenced to eight years in Kingston Penitentiary to-day by Magistrate H. A. Burbidge. Webb's wife collapsed in court when he was sentenced.

Webb admitted his guilt in 29 robberies, a series which held East Hamilton householders in terror for two months. On the first 15 charges he was given four years each, the sentences to run concurrent.

On 14 charges he was sentenced to four years also, these sentences being concurrent in themselves, but consecutive to the previous group, making eight years in all.

TEAR GAS ATTACK CLEARS WAUKEGAN

Gang Withstand Assault For Hour Then Flee After Holding Factory Nine Days

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Feb. 26 (A.P.). —An early morning gas attack by deputies forced 65 strikers out of the Fansteel Metallurgical Plant today.

The strikers, on a sit-down in two of the factory buildings since February 17, fled from the plant after withstanding the tear and "knock-out" gas for an hour.

Some of them were bleeding from the effects of the gas, shot into the plant through windows.

Sheriff Lawrence A. Doolittle of Lake County mobilized about 50 deputies for the attack soon after President Robert J. Aitchison of the corporation announced rejection of Governor Henry Horner's proposals for settling the strike.

The suddenness of the assault apparently caught the entrenched strikers by surprise. When the first tear gass shells fell in the building the strikers turned on air blowers, but they proved ineffectual.

Use Wooden Tower.

Some of the deputies shot gas bombs from the protection of a wood tower covered with sheet steel and mounted on a truck which was driven close to the building.

A week ago a force of 125 deputies were repulsed in an effort to evict the sit-downers, who went on strike for recognition of their union, the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America, a unit of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

In a statement last night Aitchison said the Governor proposed recognition of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America Union, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization. The company management has refused to recognize the union, and would not enter peace negotiations with what it termed "outside organizers."

Blaze In Theatre Starts A Scramble

Toronto, Feb. 26 (CP)

SEVERAL hundred persons scrambled for exits last night when a curtain caught fire at the Roxy theatre here. Scantily clad chorus girls escaped through a back exit into the projection room. As patrons pushed their way into the street, Will McCaul, motion picture operator, was forced to clamber over them in order to get at the flames with a fire extinguisher.

By the time firemen arrived he had the blaze under control, with the help of stage hands. Damage was not extensive.

FEDERAL BUILDING A LIKELY PROJECT IN COMING YEAR

City's Deputation To Ottawa Able Report Real Progress On Visit

A new Federal building for Peterborough has advanced from the stage of a possibility to a prospect with the likelihood that it will be an actual project for next year, if not for 1937, Mayor Macdonald informed The Examiner to-day in a conversation regarding the visit of a deputation from the Council to Ottawa on Thursday.

Mayor Macdonald was accompanied by Aldermen Hamilton and Sloan and City Engineer Parsons. Accompanied by J. J. Duffus, M.P., who devoted most of the day to escorting the deputation to various departments, the city's representatives interviewed Hon. Mr. Cardin, Minister of Public Works, and Hon. Mr. Elliott, Postmaster-General, with reference to the city's request for reconsideration of an old departmental promise and undertaking to build in Peterborough a combined Post Office and customs house.

"This question was gone into in detail, and we certainly got a most favorable reception," Mayor Macdonald said. "Hon. Mr. Elliott said he wished to go into further details, and we were assured that our re-

HUSBAND HELD AFTER DRESDEN WOMAN KILLED

Body Found, Gaping Wound In Head, Under Pile Of Kindling Wood

BAIL IS REFUSED

Police Probe Foul Play Angles —Doctor Thinks Row Of Wood Toppled On Her

CHATHAM, Ont., Feb. 26.—(CP). —Walter Turner of Dresden, arrested here last night after the finding of the body of his wife, Evelyn, under a pile of wood at their home yesterday, was formally charged with vagrancy before Magistrate Arnold in police court to-day and remanded to jail for a week. He was not asked to plead.

Meanwhile, authorities continued investigation to determine whether the woman might be the victim of foul play. The body with a gaping wound in the head, was to be brought from Dresden to a local hospital for an X-ray examination in connecttion with the post-mortem, ordered by Coroner J. A. McMurchy.

At the home of Mrs. Rose Glenn, Chatham, where police late last night located the husband, it was learned the eight-year-old son of the couple, Ellwood, is in the care of his grandmother. He was brought to Chatham yesterday by Turner when accompanied by two brotners and a sister of the dead woman.

"Do you want a week's remand?" Magistrate Arnold asked Acting Crown Attorney Morice G. Smith, after the charge was read.

"Yes," said the prosecution.

"You will be ramanded for one week," the court told the prisoner.

Bail is Refused.

"Could I get bail?" the defendant asked.

"No, sir. No bail at the present time."

Turner, a short stocky man, dressed in a blue suit without a vest, walked quickly out of the court room after Provincial Constable Alvah Peters.

Police remained silent in connection with the case. It was expected Inspector Oliver, head of the Provincial Police of this district, would arrive here to-day to supervise the investigation.

Mrs. Rose Glenn was reported to be in a state of collapse at her home as the result of the death of her daughter, and could not be reach-

Russia Is Unable To Get Satisfaction Over Refusal To Patrol Biscay Bay

LONDON, Feb. 26 (CP-Havas) — The Soviet Union and Portugal today both renounced participation in the naval blockade of Spain's coasts, scheduled to begin March 6.

Unable to get satisfaction on its refusal to accept the Bay of Biscay as a patrol area, the Soviet government instructed Ambassador Ivan Maisky to announce the surrender of Moscow's previous demand for participation in blockading the Spanish coast.

Portugal took a similar step, leaving the blockade entirely in the hands of Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany.

WEEPING, CROSLEY CHARGES HE IS NOT GETTING JUSTICE

Prisoner Interrupts Trial In Dramatic Scene Asking He Be Found Guilty

JUDGE MOVES GUARDS

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 26—(CP). —Dramatic scene was enacted today in the trial of Convict Chester Crosley, for the murder of Gaurd John McCormick of the Kingston penitentiary, when the prisoner suddenly stood up in the prisoner's dock and asked to be allowed to say something. He was ordered by Justice Keller Mackay to sit down, but he insisted he was not getting justice.

Crosley, as he started to sob, asked that he found guilty and "get the whole thing over with.' He said that there was nothing for him to live for and that the Judge did not know the foundation of the whole affair.

At the same time the convict objected to the presence in the prisoner's dock of the two guards. His outburst was quieted by his counsel, W. M. Nickle, though Crosley continued to sob audibly for some time. Justice Mackay ordered the guards to move away when counsel was conferring with the accused.

Guards For First Time.

For the first time since the opening of the trial, the convict was accompanied into the prisoners' dock today by two uniformed guards of the penitentiary.

Since Monday Crosley had been allowed to sit alone in the dock, with guards being stationed at the doors and one sitting outside the dock. No explanation for the change was given.

Two fellow-convicts, who saw the struggle between Crosley and Guard McCormick outside the dispensary gave evidence, as did Instructor Frank Doyle of the mail bag department. He told of finding that Crosley in June last had a knife hidden and later turned it over to the instructor.

Instructor Doyle said that when he learned Crosley had the knife, he asked him for it, and the accused went quietly and got it. The knife had come from the shoe shop and Crosley had told the witness that he had it there for his (witness) protection. Under cross-examination by W. F. Nickle, K.C., Doyle said there was no argument about getting the knife.

He told of Crosley being in the penitentiary in 1920 and in 1926, but when he came back to the institution from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary in 1934 he was a different type. Crosley kept saying that he was not well, and wanted something to make him sleep.

Boot And Shoe Men Say Not Enough Imported To Hurt Them

Blow To Us Say Brewers — Tobacco Rates To Have Little Effect

TORONTO, Feb. 26 (C.P.)—The business man's reaction to the budget and new trade agreement presented in the House of Commons by Finance Minister Charles Dunning pointed to-day toward a mixture of opinion.

The textile industry tended toward criticism. The boot and shoe trade expressed little concern; the packers were pleased that the British quota on Canadian bacon and hams is continued.

The man with the biggest smile was the civil servant whose salary is more than $1,200 a year. The remaining five per cent. salary cut of the original 10 per cent. slash is restored.

Reductions in the tariff on British textile goods under the new United Kingdom-Canada trade agreement were seen by Dr. A. O. Dawson, president of Canadian Cottons, Ltd., as a serious blow to the industry. Dr. Dawson, also head of the Cornwall and York Cotton Mills Co., said "cuts in the present rate are serious in view of the reductions made last year."

In Ottawa, Major Douglas Hallam, secretary of the Primary Textile Institute, said it was impossible at present to forecast "the cumulative effect of these reductions," but expressed hope the reductions "will not result in diminishing employment by unduly increasing the importations of textiles from Great Britain."

Shoe Men Indifferent

In London, Ont., J. J. McHale, president of Scott-McHale, shoe manufacturers, said the 2½ per cent reduction granted British boots and shoes under the new treaty was small and would not create a demand for the imported product.

H. T. Wright, manager of Murray Shoe Co., London, said there are no women's shoes and few men's shoes imported from Great Britain.

MINE-DAMAGED SHIP MAKES PORT

227 Passengers Are Safely Disembarked At French Port After Scare Off Spain

PORT VENDRES, France, Feb. 26 (C.P.-Havas). — The 10,609-ton British liner Llandovery Castle, filling with water through a hull ripped by a Spanish under-water mine, was manoeuvred into this harbor at dawn to-day and all its 227 passengers disembarked.

The liner made the port here under its own power last night after hitting a submerged mine off Cape Creus, a Spanish promontory not far from the French border.

With part of its bow shattered, the ship's pumps kept pace with the incoming water and the vessel, listing badly, anchored outside when the pilots decided it was too dangerous to bring it in.

Passengers and crew spent the night on board while a call went out to Marseille for the powerful tug Marius Cambon, due her this morning with a crew of experts.

The latter were to examine the damage done and with their help it was to be decided whether the Llandovery Castle could be towed to Marseille or whether it would have to remain at Port Vendres for repairs.

The Llandovery Castle, owned by the Union Castle Mail Steamship Company, Ltd., was en route from London to African ports, and was between Gibraltar and Marseille, its next port of call, when it hit the mine.

Britain Inquiries

LONDON, Feb. 26 (CP Cable)— The British Government is making searching inquiries into the mining of the liner Llandovery Castle.

Official information so far received has not made clear whether the mine was laid by Insurgents of the Spanish government, or whether the mine had broken loose from its moorings and was drifting loose.

These points have to be determined before action can be taken.

Detroit Pages A Pied Piper To Save Police Department

Mice Carry Off Trap, Frighten Women Witnesses And Bite News Reporter

OVERRUN WHOLE BUILDING

DETROIT, Feb. 26 (CP). — The greatest mice hunt in the history of the Detroit Police Department continued merrily today with sharp-eyed officers reporting an influx of rats into the situation. Detectives scouted about for one good pied piper.

Mice began getting in police hair three months ago when the department restaurant was converted into an office. Deprived of a regular place to steal food, the mice have been running all over the building in their search for things mice like to eat.

A patrolman brought in a mouse trap one night and caught 13 and his finger. He only caught 12 the next night, but missed the finger.

But the third night—horrors—the trap disappeared. The police laddies swear the mice ganged up and carried it off.

One daring little mouse almost frightened a woman witness to hysterics in the accident investigation bureau. Two months ago a newspaper reporter was bitten and required hospital treatment — it was never ascertained what happened to the mouse.

More than 600,000 men are now employed in the machinery industry of Germany.

Swan Goes To Town And Stirs Things Up

Alton, Hampshire, Feb. 26.

A SWAN visited Alton yesterday and for a time turned the town topsy-turvy.

It snapped telephone wires and partially disorganized service, caused a traffic jam by alighting in the middle of the town's main street, walked in and out of the museum and strolled to the front door of a hospital, where it sat down.

Eventually two policemen drove it into a paddock.

"Gone With the Wind," by Margaret Mitchell, was chosen as the most distinguished novel; "An American Doctor's Odyssey," by Dr. Victor Heiser, most distinguished biography; "The Flowering of New England," by Van Wyck Brooks, the most distinguished general non-fiction; "The Country Kitchen," by Della T. Lutes, most original, and "I Met a Gypsy," by Norah Lofts, most distinguished "forgotten" book.

Hunger Forces 250 Miners To Abandon Suicide Strike

Eat Last Sack Of Ponies' Oats Before Staggering From Hungarian Shaft

MANY ARE WOUNDED

PECS, Hungary, Feb. 26 (A.P.).— A "suicide" strike of 250 miners collapsed to-day and the men, half-dazed from hunger and many bleeding from wounds suffered in an underground fight, staggered out of the shaft.

Sobbing wives and relatives greeted them. Some of the grimy-faced workers, too weak to walk, were carried on the shoulders of their comrades.

One miner said they had eaten the last sack of oats intended for pit ponies during the two days they remained in their stronghold. Each striker, he said, received a handful of the grain twice a day.

Ponies Believed Dead

The 16 ponies in the mine when they declared the hunger strike, were believed to have drowned or to have died of poison gas seeping into the 656-foot shaft.

The mine management immediately started to repair water pumps and mine elevators in the hope of resuming work within a few days.

Police expressed doubt, however, that operations could be resumed soon. They asserted that "Communistic propaganda" for a general strike in the Pecs field might interfere.

In the mine, fighting had raged through the night over growing disaffection in the hunger strikers' ranks.

Threatened by rising water, stag-nant and deadly gases, groups of the workers were said to have revolted against strike leaders and battled worker-guards who barred their escape from the pit. Picks, axes and hatchets were used as weapons.

Premier Announces $6,000,000 Sulphide Mill Will Be Built at Nipigon

Work To Start At Once Employ 1,500 In Year, Capacity Of 400 Tons

Government Will Make 5,000,000 Cords Pulp Available Over 21 Years

HEPBURN TALKS ROADS

Thinks Dual Highway With Boulevard In Centre Best

TORONTO, Feb. 26 (C.P.).—Construction will start immediately on a $6,000,000 sulphide mill at Nipigon, Premier Hepburn announced at the banquet of the Ontario Good Roads Association last night.

It will be run by a group of Canadian, United States, and British capitalists, headed by R. O. Sweezey of Montreal.

The new company, which will be incorporated under the name of Lake Sulphide Pulp Company, Ltd., will start work on the construction of its 200-ton mill on June 1, this year. A year from then it proposes to be in operation, employing as a start some 1,500 men between the plant and its bush operations. In 1939, it plans to raise the capacity of the plant from 200 to 400 tons.

Under its timber reallocation legislation of last year, the Government will make 5,000,000 cords of pulp available to the concern over a period of twenty-one years. Approximately 225,000 cords will be cut annually.

Hon. Mr. Heenan, with the Prime Minister assisting from time to time, has been in negotiation with the Sweezey interests for several months now. Only yesterday, in a series of conferences at Queen's Park, were negotiations brought to the consummation stage, and an agreement reached. Early ratification of the contract by Order-in-Council will be authorized by Cabinet, Mr. Heenan stated.

Empire of the North

In his address Mr. Hepburn urged his hearers to turn their eyes to Ontario's "empire of the north." Southern Ontario highways would become arterial avenues for serving the north, he said. Unprecedented development in Northern Ontario had come from President Roose-

Anglo-Canadian Pact at Glance

(By the Canadian Press.)

Canada — Retains free entry into United Kingdom for all Canadian products except on a limited number of commodities; is guaranteed preference margins on 21 commodities, including wheat, butter, cheese, apples, timber, copper, canned salmon, zinc, lead, patent leather;

Is given a reduced rate on silk stockings;

Is guaranteed against increase in tariff on automobiles;

Retains maximum quota of 280,000,000 pounds of hams and bacon exports to United Kingdom;

Is safeguarded in exports of cattle and meat, up to 50,000 head of cattle, per annum;

Great Britain — Receives tariff reductions on 179 items and guarantees against increases on 246 items;

Is guaranteed that preference tariff margins on 91 items will not be lessened;

Is given assurance dumping restrictions on British goods will be removed, if Canadian manufacturers of like goods are found to be dumping them into the United Kingdom.

Canadian tariff reductions embrace textiles, glass, iron and steel, machinery, leather, boots and shoes, paper products, paints and varnishes, soaps, brushes and silverware.

Both countries agree not to increase British content in goods for export above 50 per cent.

Both countries are free to suspend preferences if commodities are exported by enterprises enjoying monopolistic control and operating to the detriment of the consumers.

Tariff schedules went into effect at midnight on February 25.

BIG LUMBERJACK IS HANGED IN HULL

Omer Girard Dies On Gallows For Murder Of Two Aged Men

HULL, Que., Feb. 26.—(CP). — Omer Girard, big, black haired evangelist-lumberjack, was hanged in the Hull jail court-yard early today for the murder of two aged Namur, Que., men.

Girard, convicted of the murder of Leon Leclair, 84-year-old goatherd and his 72-year-old eccentric friend, Alfred Dudevoir, walked the 13 steps unhesitatingly and unaided Rev Father Poirer of Montreal, who said mass, accompanied him to the court-yard.

The charred bodies of Leclair and Devoir were found last April 7 in the smouldering ruins of Leclair's home at Namur. They were robbed of $650 which Devoir was known to have possessed when he moved to Namur from a small settlement near Granby, Que.

CATTLE TRADE CLOSED FIRM

Receipts Much Heavier During Past Week On Toronto Livestock Market

HOGS ADVANCED TEN CENTS

TORONTO, Feb. 26.—(CP). — Cattle receipts were a little heavier on the Toronto livestock market this week, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported, but volume on other market classes was near last week's level. Hog prices advanced about 10 cents during the period and some grades of cattle closed higher. Calves regained an early loss of 50 cents. Lambs were up 25 cents on some sales with sheep unchanged.

After a slow opening, cattle trade picked up and closed firm with a good cleanup on all offerings. Toronto shipments to United States were light, totalling only a few loads of steers and some heavy bulls. Buffalo reported about 1,000 Canadian cattle selling at a top of $10.25 for heavy steers and ranging down to $7. The majority went between $7.50 and $9.50.

Weighty steers ranged from $5.50 to $7 cwt., a few choice heavies reaching $7.50. Good butcher steers and heifers sold at $5.75 to $6, with choice light steers up to $6.25. Common butchers were as low as $4.50.

Butcher cows traded mostly between $3 to $4.50, canners and cutters from $1.75 to $2.75. Bulls moved slowly at $3.60 to $4 for butchers and at $3.25 to $3.50 for bolognas. Fed calves brought $6 to $8 cwt., according to quality.

Stocker trade dragged between $4 and $4.50 for the bulk with some tops at $4.90. Milkers and springers were unchanged at $60 to $65 for the best of the untested kinds.

Calves suffered a decline of 50 cents at the opening, tops slipping to $8.50, but came back to finish firm at $9. Common vealers sold as low as $5 cwt. Export shipments were around 1,000 head.

Hogs held Monday's gain to the close. Bacons brought $8.35 to $8.50 off trucks with f.o.b. hogs quoted at $8 cwt.

Rail-grades were quoted on a basis of $11 to $11.35 delivered.

Sheep and lamb receipts included 1,000 head from the west. The market was stronger at $9.75 for most good lambs, some bringing $9.50. Common to medium feed-lot lambs were priced form $7 to $9.25 cwt. Best light ewes brought $5 on the sheep section with culls down to $1.50 and $2.

JUDICIARY LOST APPEAL IN LONDON

Must Pay Provincial Income Tax Privy Council Rules

LONDON, Feb. 26 (C.P. Cable).—An appeal by the Judiciary of Saskatchewan seeking exemption from provincial income tax was dismissed by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council to-day.

Their Lordships remarked that members of the Saskatchewan Appeal Court which originally gave judgment in favor of the Province, were in an embarrassing position by being from the nature of the case personally interested in the point in controversy.

Paid By Dominion.

In the judgment of the Lower Court answering both questions in reference affirmatively, it was pointed out that the judges in question, being persons residing in Saskatchewan and in receipt of salaries from the revenues of the Dominion were prima facie subject to taxation by the province in respect of incomes just as other residents.

The Court had before it two decisions of the Supreme Court of Canada in which a provincial tax upon the salaries of civil servants was upheld.

Their Lordships held that this in effect disposed of the present case unless judicial emoluments were in a class apart, protected by some paramount principle making inapplicable to that form of income a tax imposed by statute in terms wide enough to include it.

The Privy Council found there was no foundation in the realities of the situation for any such conception. Neither the independence nor any other attribute of the judiciary could be affected by a general income tax which charged the official incomes on the same footing as other citizens.

AVILA, Spain, Feb. 26 (AP).—The insurgent command asserted today the general government offensive on the Madrid front had collapsed after an entire battalion of Madrid militiamen had been annihilated with machine guns and hand grenades. The number of soldiers caught in the wholesale slaughter was not estimated but insurgent officers said the battalions usually number between 600 and 1,000.

WIFE EARNED $35,313

Sum Coming To Her After 30 Years Cooking On Farm.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 26 (AP).—If you're a farm wife and you have been cooking the family's meals for a period of 30 years, you have earned $35,313—at least that is what Miss Julia Newton of the farm credit administration told a farm women's meeting here.

Miss Newton yesterday figured the labor of cooking a meal as being worth 15 cents a meal, and she said that in 30 years there would be 233,425 meals.

Despite the Depression!

Even during depression years, the total resources of Investors Syndicate continued to increase substantially. Now, they total $90,889,855—a tribute to the stability, strength, and conservatism of an institution that has helped thousands to achieve financial independence.

In Canada, the LIVING PROTECTION plan of Investors Syndicate is being used by thousands of Canadians throughout the Dominion to build up a financial reserve for their maturer years. Under this plan, a little set aside each month—regularly—returns a sizeable little fortune in 180 months.

During the past seven years of depression and recovery, Investors Syndicate has paid out to its contract-holders no less a sum than $55,352,834.

Our booklet "A New Plan of Life" tells you all about the plan. Your copy awaits your request.

CLOTHING TRADE WOULD FORM C.I.O.

Canadian Group Proposes Joining John L. Lewis Union

MONTREAL, Feb. 26 (CP)—Enrolment of Canadian labor in the ranks of the committee for industrial organization, formed by recalcitrant American Federation of Labor officers, is sought by the Dominion section of the Amalgamted Clothing Workers of America.

The clothing workers, in their annual convention here Sunday, unanimously recommended formation of a Canadian CIO division linked with the John L. Lewis union which has split the A.F. of L. ranks of the question of industrial and craft unionization.

The delegates from Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal, representing about 6,000 workers, approved the CIO for Canada in adopting a resolution presented by Stanley Morisse of Hamilton. They also approved Morisse's suggestion that action on the move should not be left to the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

The convention decided to back Hamilton steelworkers now enrolled in a United States CIO branch who want to form a distinct Canadian CIO group.

The 40-hour week in the three centres covered by the convention was sought also by the delegates and they decided to open negotiations with manufacturers' associations to this end. A proviso was that wages should not drop below present standards.

Increased wages, called for in a Toronto resolution, were advocated by the convention also. At the same time, it asked an unemployment insurance fund, into which employers and employees would each contribute two per cent of payrolls.

TORONTO BROKERS' LICENSE CUT OFF

H. M. Carruthers Charged With High Pressure Stock Sales By Phone

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Feb. 26 (CP) —Advice the Ontario Securities Commission has suspended the brokerage license of H. M. Carruthers and Company, Toronto, was received here today by G. Earle Logan, secretary of the New Brunswick Public Utilities Commission.

Logan said the suspension was the first definite action following a request for interprovincial co-operation against high pressure methods of selling stocks by long distance telephone.

The Toronto firm, Logan said, sold stocks to persons in Chatham, N.B., and Moncton, N.B., in contravention of regulations designed to prevent frauds. Other firms have been reported to the Ontario commission for similar methods, he said.

Canada Lowers British Duties On 179 Items In Customs Tariff Affect 40 Per Cent Of Imports

Britain Continues Free Entry Of Dairy Products, Bacon, Hams And Fat Cattle

ORDERLY MARKETING

OTTAWA, Feb. 26 (C.P.). — In addition to concessions negotiated in the new trade agreement with the United Kingdom, Canada retains all the advantages secured under the 1932 pact, Finance Minister Dunning indicated in his Budget speech yesterday.

Reciprocal benefits to the United Kingdom are assured by reductions in the British preferential tariff in 179 items. These include textiles, glass tableware, iron and steel, including machinery, vacuum cleaners and sewing machines, enamelled ware and electrical goods. Reductions are also made on leather, boots and shoes, on many paper products, paints and varnishes, earthenware, canned fish, soaps, brushes and silverware.

Guarantees in 246 Items.

Britain is guaranteed against preferential tariff increases in 246 items of the Canadian tariff and against decreases in preference margins on 91 items. These include some chemicals, vegetable oils, window and plate glass, cotton yarns for mercerizing, linen fabrics, anthracite coal, tin plate, steel wire and structural steel.

Canada is guaranteed preference margins on lumber, canned salmon, apples, dairy produce, tobacco and patent leather, while British duties are cut on natural silk stockings, increase of duty on Canadian automobiles and parts is guarded against.

The Dominion continues to be given a chance to expand exports of hams and bacon up to 280,000,000 pounds per annum, while export of Canadian cattle is safeguarded within the regulations governing British meat supplies.

The agreement was signed on Tuesday, and becomes effective "at a date to be agreed upon." It will remain in force until August 20, 1940, and thereafter, subject to six months' notice by either government. Reductions in duty on United Kingdom products become effective at midnight, February 25.

Obtained by Canada

Summarized, the advantages obtained by Canada are:

Continuance of unrestricted free entry for all products except those reserved under 1932 agreement.

Guarantee of margins of preference on scheduled list including lumber, canned salmon, apples, dairy produce, tobacco and patent leather.

Reductions in rate on natural silk stockings, and guarantee against any increase in duty on motor cars and parts.

Assurance of opportunity for expansion of bacon and ham exports to annual maximum of 280,000,000 pounds.

Safeguarding of exports of cattle and meat within framework of United Kingdom program for regulation of meat supplies.

The advantages obtained by the United Kingdom are:

Reduction in the Canadian customs duties on commodities under 179 tariff items. These include reduced rates, or free entry, on textiles, including those of wool, cotton, silk and artificial silk, as well as on clothing and wearing apparel, knitted goods of all kinds, blankets and carpets; on glass tableware and cut glass; on various primary forms of iron and steel, and on a wide range of processed steel goods, including machinery, vacuum cleaners and sewing machines, enamelled-ware and electrical goods; on leather and leather products; on boots and shoes; on numerous paper products; and on paints and varnishes, earthenware, canned fish, soaps, brushes and silverware.

Guarantee against upward revision of existing British preferential rates, on commodities dutiable under 246 items of the Canadian tariff. These bound rates may be reduced, but cannot be increased during the term of the agreement.

Guarantee that margins of preference in favor of United Kingdom goods, under 91 items of the Canadian tariff, will not be reduced. Except as regards certain primary steel products (enumerated under 23 tariff items), this commitment to maintain fixed margins in favor of United Kingdom goods relates almost entirely to products not of a class or kind made in Canada. Important commodities upon which fixed margins are covenanted include various chemicals, vegetable oils, window and plate glass, printing presses, Diesel engines, X-ray apparatus, cotton yarns for mercerizing, linen fabrics, anthracite coal, wide steel plate, tin-plate, galvanized sheets, black steel sheets for galvanizing or tinning, steel wire and finished structural steel.

Content requirement; Neither government to increase content requirement above 50 per cent without consent of the other.

Monopolistic control: Either government to be free to suspend or modify specific preferential margins if satisfied, after inquiry that monopolistic enterprise of exporters is prejudicial to welfare of consumers.

Unprotected dumping: The Government of Canada to take action in cases of complaint by the Government of the United Kingdom regarding the dumping in that country of Canadian products.

Not directly related to the trade agreements, but affecting in some respects are the following reductions under all tariffs:

Reduced rates generally will apply on fumigants, grapefruit rinds, negative film for motion picture cameras, plastics and plastic materials, spinal braces, blends of oils, clay saggars, decorative marble, spectable parts, copper, alloys, soapstones, stranded steel tubing, seamless well-casing, forged steel rolls for rolling metals, steel wool in retail packages, corset rivets, certain motion picture cameras, parts for surgical instruments, silk tinsel thread, certain types of combs, violins and violoncellos more than 100 years old, and cocoa residues.

Reductions affecting only intermediate or general tariff, or both, relate, among others, to licorice products, egg-cleaners, comb blanks, guns, plate glass in various sizes, electric razors, seamless steel cylinders, printing plates for periodicals, cotton clothing and all unenumerated manufacture of cotton, and slipper cloth wholly or partly of wool.

Other tariff changes show there are no increases in rate under the British preferential tariff. Increases under other tariffs apply to insopropyl alcohol, steel wool in bulk, gas for heating or illuminating, and hard rubber in sheets or strips.

The home-consumption drawback on paper used in the production of periodicals is increased to 75 per cent and the drawback provision covering parts for aeroplane engines is widened in terms.

TORONTO, Feb. 26—(C.P.)—Ernest Webb, 62, once a noted walker, died in hospital last night from injuries received in a fall from a ladder while cleaning street lights. He came to Canada in 1912 to race George Goulding at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

Born in London, England, Webb represented his native land at the 1908 Olympic Games in London and at the 1912 Games in Sweden.

MOTORBIKE CLUB HEARS ADDRESS

Chas. Banks, Owner Of First Motorcycle In Canada, Speaks To Kawartha Club

A big attendance of members of the Kawartha Motorcycle Club last night heard an interesting address by Charles Banks in the Chamber of Commerce. A number of non-members was also present to hear the owner of the first motorcycle in Canada tell of the old days in this sport. He had a copy of a 1901 Cycling Auto-Car News with unique pictures of early motorbike experiences. President Fleming introduced Mr. Banks to the gathering.

In 1901, Mr. Banks bought the first motorcycle in Canada, being in Galt at that time. He told of his first trip from Paris to Seaforth, Ontario, at a maximum speed of 18 miles an hour—a companion accompanying him on a bicycle. His first long trip was from Galt to Buffalo. The chief trouble, he stated, in those days was the difficulty in obtaining proper gas. That first year, Charles Banks received $100 for a week's riding at the Toronto and London exhibitions. He started in business in Peterborough in 1910, selling Indian motorcycles, and he owned the first gasoline pump in this city, a one-gallon pump. Mr. Banks outlined a number of amusing incidents in the pioneer motorcycle days and left some worthwhile advice to the club before concluding his entertaining speech.

HALL'S BRIDGE

CAR IS DAMAGED BUCKHORN CRASH

Collides With Truck-load Of Hogs At End Of Bridge

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HALL'S BRIDGE, Feb. 26.—What might have been a serious accident occurred Tuesday afternoon, when one of the W. H. Baker trucks loaded with logs collided with a car driven by Mr. Kelly of the Carew Lumber Company of Lindsay.

The Kelly car was badly wrecked and a few logs were spilled from the truck. The "Smith" end of the bridge at Buckhorn has a particularly nasty end, with a right-angle turn, and it is a place that calls for careful driving and courteous give-and-take attitude on the part of all drivers meeting at that point.

Mocassin Dance

Mocassin dances were held on the Buckhorn rink on Friday last, and the preceding Friday, but owing to the weather the attendance was not large—80 and 35 only for the two events. Jim Irvin's orchestra supplied the music. The dances were arranged and managed by the Buckhorn hockey team.

FIRST TEST MATCH TO MUSIC ARTIST

British Judges Are Expected To Have Wide Sympathies

LONDON, Feb. 26—(CP).—Lord Hewart, the lord chief justice, in a speech at the golden jubilee banquet of the Birmingham jewellers' and silversmiths' association, indulged in a bit of audible sighing over the trials and tribulations of being a judge. The life of a judge, he said, was not as easy as it seemed. "He is required to exhibit profound and permanent impartiality. He must be at one and the same time a cold and remote figure—a stranger to the joys and sorrows of human life—but somehow also a man of the world, intimately understanding the emotions and the pre occupations of mankind," Lord Hewart said.

At one and the same time he must be a miracle of experience, knowledge and sympathy, but he must also be capable at decent intervals of asking such questions as 'What is a Test match?' and 'Who is Gracie Fields?'

The Lord Chief Justice said there were many conflicting conditions of various demands on a judge.

Staying in Business

It was in 1925 that work was started on rebuilding the Bank of England, and the work is not yet completed. That is twelve years, and perhaps it might be regarded as a case of puttering about far too long. Quite likely in this country people would have started long ago writing letters to the papers asking if the work were ever going to be completed.

This can be stated. If 100 of the best cracksmen available were allowed to work for a year with no interruption they might hope to penetrate the vaults. They have been built to last 1,000 years. If a robber were to get into the building he would be faced with a wall of solid concrete 50 feet deep and eight feet thick, and the blocks are so keyed one to the other that dynamite could not dislodge them. Beyond the wall the intruder would be sure to step on traps which set alarms ringing, after which he would come to double steel grills, then two other doors of steel, each weighing 18 tons. If one knows how, the doors open very readily, but if the intruder makes the attempt each step would set in motion more alarms.

If there were an invasion and a way was forced to the vaults of the Bank of England the invaders could readily be drowned for a flood of water can be released to completely submerge the treasure. The water can be turned on from inside the bank, from Scotland Yard or from the Governor's house ten miles from the city.

And in that vault will go the nation's supply of gold. Working on a vault for 12 years and not having it all at the point of completion, and doing so on the basis that it will last for 1,000 years rather leads to the general belief that John Bull intends to stay in business for some years to come.

A Peculiar Old Man

James Foster died at his home near Wallacetown in Elgin County a few days ago. He was 87, and reports say his home was of the tumble-down variety. People in the neighborhood all knew him, but they never went to his place where he lived alone, and the reason for their absence was that James Foster wanted no person about the premises. He was an old-age pensioner. Neighbors came to help him when he was taken sick, but often enough they found the door barricaded. Yet this strange old man left a will, and his executors looked through the house after the funeral. They found a baking powder tin high on the wall, and in it was $700; there was $100 in a sock behind the table; $10 in 25 cent pieces under a couch, several hundred dollars in a bank account and some bonds of unknown value.

James Foster had worked as a laborer in the district and the money he had was what he had saved, although it is believed the cash found in the house was what he had been saving month by month as his pension money came in. One brother lived with him, but died, and in an old note book was made this entry: "Brother William died 12 noon May 2, 1895." Since then he has lived alone except for the company of three cats. The cats had become so accustomed to seeing only James Foster that they run for shelter when a stranger approaches. Neighbors admit readily enough they liked the old gentleman, but he would admit no one to the tumble-down place he called home. And the neighbors say too that he died probably just as he wanted to—alone.

It is all very peculiar. The desire for companionship is deep rooted in most people. Not many people enjoy being alone for any considerable length of time, and it is difficult to fathom the mind of a man who had lived alone since 1895 and who made it known that he wanted not even his kindly neighbors to enter his house.

The City as an Employer

In making restoration of salary cuts the City Council is doing what a number of industrial concerns have been doing, but there is a difference between the City Council's position as an employer of labor and that of any other employer. If a company or a private employer makes restoration of a wage reduction it is done with a full knowledge of all the facts. He knows his revenue is increasing, and he knows his profits are better, and from these known facts he is certain of his ability to restore wage cuts.

A City Council is in a less favored position. It secures its revenue from people living on every street in the city; from those who have sufficient salaries and from those whose earning power has not been restored to its former level and from some whose earning power has been a rather meagre thing for a protracted period. The truth is the City Council does not—like the private employer—know the condition of its money sources with equal accuracy. The City Council itself may appear as the employer of such labor as it requires, but the plain fact is the City Council is only the medium through which payment is made. The actual employers who are doing the paying are the people who are living on every street in the city, the people with good earnings, with fair or indifferent or poor earnings.

That is the only point where there can be an difference of opinion with the move to start restoration of salary cuts to civic employees. The reductions which were made in Peterborough were: $600 and under 5%; $600 to $1,200, 10%; $1,200 to $1,800, 12½%; $1,800 to $3,000, 15%; over $3,000, 20%.

With the restoration of one half of the salary reduction there ought to be general consent, but there will remain that one point—that many of those who have to pay the increases have not yet benefited by having their own former earning power restored.

Not Making a Gift

There is quite a discussion going on concerning "Bingo" in Toronto. Mayor Robbins will inform police commissioners he considers it quite all right for any church organization or club to hold Bingo games for charitable purposes.

Whether Mayor Robbins is an authority on the question of church financing is something on which we have little information. His opinion is probably no better or no worse than the opinion of any other individual. Tithing and the "first fruits" are mentioned as the method of maintaining the Lord's work, but the methods adopted by what we refer to as the early Christian church are not set forth with the regularity or precision of a Mosaic code. It is recorded that those who were joined together in the early Christian church brought their possessions and placed them in a common fund and that fund was dispensed according to the needs of the individuals. We know too there was a certain young man and he was rich, who came to the Master for instruction, and he was told to sell what he had and give to the poor. Also it is on record that a widow who put a mite in the collection box was considered by the Master to have given a great offering because she put in all she had.

It seems fair enough to draw the conclusion from these instances that giving was something attended by sacrifice. The giving which seemed to be commended was that which was done because the individual wanted to make the gift, and when people are doing a worthy thing because they want to do it they are operating under the finest motive yet devised. If a person has to be entertained or fed or amused before he parts with money he is not making a contribution. He is paying for something and receives value for it.

If an individual feels disposed to go and play a game of Bingo that is pretty much his own business, but he should never cause or permit himself to think that by so doing he is making a contribution to some worthy object. He isn't. He is merely playing Bingo.

Canadian Cattle in U.S.

Senator Borah, Republican, started a fight of his own at Washington to try and head off the move for the renewal of the reciprocal trade agreement with Canada for another term of three years. The House at Washington has already voted to extend the agreement another three years after its termination on the 12th of June.

Senator Borah based his attack on the text "the burden of these reciprocal trade agreements falls on agriculture." During the last presidential election in United States the Republican leaders exploited that field thoroughly, but the plea went flat because it was so easy to answer.

It has been shown repeatedly that imports from Canada never at any time depressed the markets for United States farmers. Beef cattle often came into use to bolster up the argument, but a little reasoning showed how poor the argument was. When the price in United States goes to a higher figure than in Canada, then the increase in price has to be sufficient to cover the tariff, and so Canadian cattle go to United States only at a time of high price. When prices are depressed there are no Canadian cattle going there to keep them down. It is also a fact that the comparatively small number of Canadian cattle entering the United States market has been a factor in determining the price. Canadian producers appreciate the degree of access they have to the United States market. It is not overstating the case to say they would like the door to be opened a little wider.

It Came And It Went

A report coming from Sarnia a few days ago told of a car driver having a collision with a deer near Sylvan. The deer were said to have been six in number, but only one was hit by the car. There was no serious damage done, but it is a matter of speculation as to how many people except those living in the immediate vicinity would know anything of that place mentioned—Sylvan. It is typical of numerous small places which used to exist in many parts of the province. It is on No. 7 Highway about eight miles from Parkhill, in Middlesex county. Today one could drive through there and be quite unaware of the existence of Sylvan.

In 1852 there was built there the first grist and saw mill in that district, and the creek which flowed through there was blocked to provide the power. In addition to the mill there were several houses and a boarding place for some of the men who worked there. Then came the blacksmith shop, and the general store and postoffice. It was quite a settlement.

We recall well enough having made a trip to that place only a few years ago with a woman who had been born there. As a child she had played on the logs which used to float about in the mill pond, and on the same pond she skated in winter. She had not been there in 50 years and was anxious to see what the old place looked like. Where the grist and saw mill used to stand was an orchard, and where the mill pond used to be there were cattle pasturing, and in the summer season there was small trace of what used to be the stream which provided sufficient power to drive the mill. There were none of the houses left. One section of an old mill stone partly buried in the ground was the only visible evidence that a mill had ever existed there. As a trip back to the old home it was not much of a success. Across the way there was the old church on the hill, and back of it the ever-growing cemetery.

This province has many such places. We have them in our own district, and the pity seems to be that they came, played well their part in the process of our early development and then departed without proper or worthy record having been kept of their history.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A newspaper heading says that Premier Hepburn "failed to satisfy Hon. Leopold Macauley on election date." Or any other date, we would imagine.

In Los Angeles a bunch of sit-down strikers in a pie factory refuse to eat the company product. That may be an explication of union loyalty or merely evidence of inside knowledge.

Alberta youth has been getting a kick out of his first ride on a street car. He will not get a real thrill however until he is fortunate enough to board a Toronto tram and find a vacant seat.

Tourists from the United States paid two million dollars for gasoline in Ontario last year. And every mother's son of them kicked about the price, at least on the first purchase.

Mr. Macaulay's complaint that the Hepburn pulpwood policy is turning Northern Ontario into an American woodpile was a neat phrase and more than that there is some reason to feel that it was accurate as well.

According to the Italian reports all Ethiopians found in possession of arms have been liquidated. We understand they are just as dead as if the official communiques said they had been shot.

Northern birches are threatened with a new species of beetle which according to a timber inspector will kill every tree in two years. Another nice little problem for the Forestry Department.

Premier Aberhart is asking the people of the east to support social credit. The difficulty, however, of backing a system of which nothing so far has been seen should be apparent even to Mr. Aberhart.

It cost the United States $173,000 to print in the official records last year the speeches that were not delivered in the House but published at the request of members. A trifle expensive perhaps but still preferable to having to listen to them.

In reply to a question asked in the House of Commons, Hon. Mr. Rogers stated the cost of the Tory commission investigating the importation of coal into Canada had amounted to $22,246.50. And that amount of money would have filled a good many coal bins.

Premier Hepburn has declared war on Senator Meighen on the Abitibi issue and proposes another probe as soon as the necessary legislation is passed. Surely there is enough machinery now for investigating such things without having to draw up a new set of rules.

WRONG

(By A. E. K.)

¶ My Uncle Eben's pretty shrewd, nor are his ways loose shod or crude, he's filled with mental vim; when uncle makes a business deal, it's always safe for me to feel, that he is going to win.

¶ My uncle dabbles some in stock, he told me how he sold and bought and how his profits grew; he bought in stuff when it was low, when it went up he let it go, he knew just what to do.

¶ And Uncle Eben named a list, on none of these he ever missed, they all were goodly stuff; he said a boom would never last, a person had to move quite fast, and get out soon enough.

¶ I tried what Uncle Eben said, to see if I could forge ahead, I needed cash indeed; for feed is short inside the mow, I need another brindle cow, and new potato seed.

¶ And so I went and bought some stock, three different kinds I got a block, I watched it like a pup; I counted well on Eben's rule, to work collected like and cool, but sell when it went up.

¶ And I keep watching all I bought, to see if I should sell or not, but now I wear a frown; the plan I use don't work out right, it goes up neither day or night—but keeps on coming down.

Defence Plans Are Considered

(Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. MacNEIL: Have any purchases been made or contracts placed for tanks or armoured motor vehicles?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver) No; in the estimates we are now considering there is provision for some few light tanks. In the reorganization of the militia which was effected on December 15 last there are six tank battalions created; each one is to be supplied with one light tank for instructional purposes, and the tank depot at London, Ontario, will have three tanks for instructional purposes.

Mr. MacNEIL: What purchases have been made or what contracts have been placed for the purchase of machine guns?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Twelve Bren light automatic machine guns, two of which have arrived in Canada, were ordered from the British War Office. There is provision in these estimates for twenty-one more guns of the same kind for instructional uses in the various units throughout Canada; there is also provision for a substantial further number. It has not yet been decided whether they will be obtained from England or manufactured in Canada. An endeavour is being made to see if they can be manufactured here.

Mr. COLDWELL: What company has secured the manufacturing rights of the Bren gun?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): None so far. Several have been endeavouring to do so.

Mr. COLDWELL: The gun is still under the control of the Czechoslovakian company?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): No; the British War Office.

Mr. DUPUIS: I assume that the government was authorized under previous estimates to place orders for such guns in England?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver) Yes. Orders went out last year and the year before.

Mr. BENNETT: Do I understand the minister to say that so far as small arm munitions are concerned, we are in a position to manufacture all our requirements in Canada?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver) No; I said this, that we are endeavouring through inquiries to find out if we can do so. Last year we certainly did not have the facilities in this country, and as far as I know we do not have them yet. Various people have been endeavouring to obtain the rights for manufacturing machine guns, but so far there is absolutely—

Mr. BENNETT: No—small arm munitions. I gathered—and I want to be sure I am correct—that we have facilities in this country to manufacture all the small arm munitions we may require. Is that right?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): That is right. We have the facilities here for manufacturing small arm munitions, and we are providing in these estimates for the augmentation of the productive capacity in the arsenals with reference to small arm munitions.

Mr. BENNETT Small arm munitions are manufactured at the present moment, I suppose, at the arsenal at Quebec?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Yes.

Mr. BENNETT: What will the Valcartier arsenal manufacture?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): It is another operation of an exactly similar kind to the Quebec arsenal production, an extension of it.

Mr. BENNETT: And what about the Lindsay arsenal?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): The Lindsay arsenal is at the present time used only for the storage of equipment.

Mr. BENNETT: I know that.

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): The Lindsay arsenal, as my right hon. friend knows, was used for this purpose before and could be so used again. We have made investigations of the cost of so doing. According to the estimates we have received it would cost $400,000 to place the Lindsay arsenal in a position to manufacture small arm munitions.

Mr. BENNETT: The equipment was not taken away?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): No; it was stored there.

Mr. BENNETT: And I suppose it is obsolescent as compared with current equipment; is that the position?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Yes.

Mr. BENNETT: And those are the three places at which we manufacture small arm munitions?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): That is quite correct.

Mr. BENNETT: When we come to shell cases, we of course manufactured shell cases in large quantities in this country during the war. Are we in a position to manufacture shell cases in Canada now?

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): I believe that to a small extent that is now done in the dominion arsenal at Quebec. Put my right hon. friend may know that recently a private corporation in Canada is carrying out at Hamilton an order for shell cases for the British government.

Mr. BENNETT: Yes. That is the National Steel Car Corporation.

Mr. McNEVIN: In view of the fact that Lindsay arsenal has been mentioned, I might state that while some of the machinery is obsolete and out of date, a large number of machines are still fit for certain operations.

OUT OF BALANCE.

(Sudbury Star)

AS THE Ottawa Journal says there is little that a royal commission could tell the Government and people of Ontario (about Northern Ontario) which is not now perfectly well known to them.

The North does not ask for favors, but for simple justice; not for sympathy, but co-operation. And a point that should not be overlooked is that if Northern Ontario is prosperous the rest of the country will prosper.

RESULT OF A SERMON

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Would you be so kind as to allow me a few lines in your paper. Having been in your city for some weeks and going to a different church each week, I might say never did I get a hand shake till I went to Mr. Rowland's at Mark St. They name it the "House of Friendship," which I think is the truth. Never did I see a face or a hand which meant as much to me as the hand of that minister.

I had left my home down east some years ago through a few words with my father, and had never heard of them till today. Mr. Rowland preached on the Prodigal son which hit me at heart. Now little did this man know the one good thing he did that night. I went to the shack I had to stay in and wrote home. Today my father has sent me the fare to come home and all will be friends again.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, I remain

RELIGION COMMENDING WHAT GOD CONDEMNS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Would you kindly indulge me once again with some of your valuable space in which I may defend the pure unadulterated Gospel of Jesus Christ, which by His grace and power we are trying to bring to the forefront in our city.

On Feb. 8 of this year an article appeared in the Examiner by the writer on "Sold Out to The Devil" (which article was in the Examiner's office prior to its being published and date placed on bottom of same, which my opponents failed to see, Feb. 6th).

The writer has received many condemning remarks for the article and especially for not publishing same before the man of action left town. I plead not guilty.

However let me say I had, nor have, no fight nor malice against any individual for the weapons of our warfare are not carnal but mighty through God to the pulling down of the strongholds of Satan. My article was not addressed to the said Kirma, but to the City of Peterborough, of which he is not a citizen, but so far as the city was concerned was a foreigner (whether Oriental or otherwise it matters nothing). The truth is my letter is doing exactly what it was intended for, that is, it is bringing out what is accepted by many as Christianity among whom is my last critic, "G. M." who writes like a preacher under cover. It would have been well if he would come out in the open.

I wish to repeat my former statements, beer-rooms and gambling dens are by no means condoned by me or my people, but a decided stand is taken against them in private and public, yet I also repeat that they are not undermining the Christian faith and sending souls to hell at the rate as such things that are by my opponent termed innocent pleasures, and the looseness of professed Christians.

What he said may be true re young girls carried home drunk and drunken drivers killing people, yet, these number in the minority to the masses falling for the supposed innocent things that are ruinous to real Christianity. The young girl carried home drunk is no alluring advertisement for the devil, nor the drunken driver. They stand out as sign posts and red warning signals flashing before the eyes of the public, whereas the professed Christian who can commend such doings as the word of God condemns, and when such things are brought to our city with glaring lights dragging the righteousness of God in the dust, it has an effect on the youth and child that will by no means lead them to God and heaven. Does God condone in one generation what He condemned in others? Does God condone in one man what He condemns in another? No friend, God is still the righteous, holy God as He always was, and while He is a God of Love, He is also a God of Justice. Our city has its department of charity and mercy but it also has its police department of justice for the offender of its laws.

Let me also advise my critic friend and readers that the young girls that are taxied home intoxicated, and the drunken drivers do not all come staggering out of beer parlors, but from house parties and not all in the south end, and from dances in some public dance halls under the auspices of some that should have control, as well as some religious organized doings. These are some of the innocent pleasures G. M. refers to.

When the apostle Paul rebuked the spirit of divination in the young woman, in the book of Acts, who was making gain for her masters by her soothsaying, (present day magic work) the whole town turned against Paul and sympathized with the one practicing divination and her employers. I agree with G. M., it does look like we are in the dark ages and rather than take a stand with a man of God, will side with that which is contrary. The writer is aware of where the shoe pinches.

What God condemned in the Old Testament as wrong in the way of trangressions, He condemns in the New Testament. Wrong is wrong, and is never right. Right is right, and is never wrong.

The Old Law said, "Thou shalt not kill", but Jesus said "I say unto you, if you hate without a cause you are a murderer" (whether we think we are in the dark ages or not). The Old Law said, "Thou shalt not steal," but Jesus said, to covet was the equivalent of stealing. The old law said, "Thou shalt not commit adultry," but Jesus said, "He that looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultry already with her in his heart." If the standard of Old Testament living under the law was high, Jesus lifted it still higher.

The writer signed "G. M." refers to God being 'the father of us all.' This is the popular idea of God and man, but God disclaims "the Fatherhood of all men." Jesus said of the scribes and Pharisees, "Ye are of your father the Devil, and his works will ye do." He called some "a generation of vipers." Does God father snakes or vipers? Folks have such a vague idea of love when it comes to God's love. God's love is not the sentimental stuff that our radios produce and what many professing Christians display. Jesus loved the Father more than He loved man. He loved His Father's house more than those in it, in so much that he twice cleaned out of the temple money changers and kicked over their tables and made whips and drove all such out saying, "Make not my Father's house a house of merchandise and a den of thieves." He drove out the oxen and sheep and doves. I wonder what would be the display of His love to the Father were He to return today? He would have a lot more than oxen to drive out, there would be pool tables, billiard tables, card tables, and while He would not have the live oxen to drive out, He would have the kitchens to clean out, for about the only difference there is in today and His day is the ox is killed today before he is brought into the temple and he is sliced and put between two slices of bread and sold for a quarter, cheating the restaurant man.

The scripture is surely being fulfilled, in 2 Tim. 3, among many other things that were to characterize our day ("Last days"), the apostle says, "They shall be lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God, having a form of Godliness, but denying the power of God, from such turn away." These people of whom he speaks, have a form of Christianity but deny the power of God. Now is it any wonder I said beer was not responsible for the destruction of as many souls as present day pleasures upheld by professed Christians.

This letter concludes my answers. Still yours for righteousness,

G. A. CHAMBERS

Why They Get Big Salaries.

(From the Ottawa Journal.)

NEWSPAPERS continue to comment on the incomes revealed in the United States tax returns for 1935, published some weeks ago. Mr. William Randolph Hearst, the eminent publisher and real estate owner, topped the list that was given, his income being $500,000. Next to him came a number of the highest-paid cinema stars, these being followed by certain executives in steel and other great industries.

The figures in this list must be of salaries only, for in 1935 there certainly were people in the United States who had incomes—however gained—greater than the half million attributed to Mr. Hearst.

There may be reason to gird at dazzling profits made by people who enjoy privilege under the law. There is a good reason to cry "Soak the rich" when the people referred to make big incomes in a "racket" of any kind. But it would seem that the actor is not in either of these classes. Americans marvel that a tap dancer, for instance, should be paid twice as much money as a President of the United States. But the only reason why the dancer prospers is that people pay to see him dance. Nobody is compelled, or bribed, to pay admission to his show. The movie magnates are said to be in business on a strictly money basis. If so, that is proof positive and unquestionable that they pay actors according to the box office scale. And what could be more just? Whether a cinema star, has become such by good luck or by hard work, he surely is not called upon to share his takings either with the movie magnate or with anyone else.

The saying about tricks in all trades is far older than the moving picture. But it certainly is not easy for an outsider to believe that there can be any trick in this new trade by which an actor can fool or bully another actor's "fans" into attending his shows rather than that of the performer whom they admire.

We are well content that the actor should have his big salary. We wish him joy of it. If he has any of our money, he has given an honest return for it in the form of a good show;

JUST ONE PLACE.

(Montreal Star)

THE politicians having demonstrated their utter inability to decide who shall "pick the pockets" of the people and who shall spend the "loot," the Dominion Government has wisely decided to take the advice of the business leaders and appoint a Royal Commission to decide for them. It would have seemed a simple question if the politicians had not tangled it up.

There is just one place to get the money to spend, no matter who spends it—the pockets of the people. There is practically no disagreement over what this money should be spent for—public services, relief, transportation facilities, justice, defence, etc. There undoubtedly is a costly lot of over-lapping, but the staff of any good business house could dispose of this if the politicians would keep their hands off—and their fingers out.

What is the problem, then? The people have to pay in any case—the same people. The people—the same people—hire the servants (public) who do the spending, whether they have only one "p" (M.P.) after their names or two "p's" (M.P.P.). These same people get the benefit of these same services, whether they are performed by an administration sitting in Ottawa or by one sitting in the Provincial capital. Nobody cares very much who does what—except the gentlemen who get the "kudos" and the cash for doing the job.

THE HUMAN ELEMENT.

(L'Action, Catholique, Quebec)

TOO often in the past our forest industry has aimed at nothing but the millions that could be taken out of it. That is why this exploitation profited the outsider before all. That is why our people played nothing better than third or fourth fiddle in an industry in which we should often have played first fiddle. That is why our people were in the Canadian forests nothing more than carriers of water and sawers of wood. If things have not already changed, they are on the point of changing. . . . As M. Louis Philippe Cote points out, it must not be forgotten that a lumberman represents the human element in forestry exploitation. A government which has a social sense and regard for equity will see to it that he is assured a fairer part in the revenues from the forest. We believe that there never has been a time when the big companies were better disposed toward workmen in the forests. Let everybody profit from this good state of affairs.

quest was receiving real consideration. We also met the Hon. Mr. Howe, Minister of Transport, with regard to improving the road along the canal from the Lift Lock to the C.P.R. We were told that the Department would pay for a retread surface on this road if the city did the work. We also asked that something be done to straighten the road leading to the canal on MacFarlane Avenue. This is on the west side of the canal, part of the old Norwood Road. If we can provide the property required to remove that dangerous curve the Department will do the work. We also asked Col. LaFleche, Deputy-Minister of Defence, to pave the road on the west side of the Armouries, and were told that the work would be done if the condition was found to be as reported."

Mayor Macdonald said that the deputation also called upon Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, in regard to prospective work, and spent several hours in the House listening to Hon. Mr. Dunning's speech on the budget.

"I would like to add that the support of Mr. Duffus was splendid. Every door was open to us, and it was very apparent that Mr. Duffus is highly regarded around the Parliament Buildings. He even found an opportunity to introduce us as a deputation to the Prime Minister. I don't think we overlooked very much on this trip, and from our reception I believe we have made some real progress."

SOME 500 PLANTS IN TEXTILE TRADE HIT BY TARIFFS

Secretary Hallam Hopeful New Rates Will Not Mean Less Employment

BACK TO 1929 SITUATION

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—(CP)—Hope the cuts made the textile schedules under the new Canada-U.K. trade agreement "will not result in diminishing employment by unduly increasing the importation of textiles from Great Britain" was voiced last night by Major Douglas Hallam, secretary of the Primary Textile Institute. This organization embraces the woollen, cotton, silk and knit goods divisions of the industry.

"What will be the cumulative effect of these reductions it is impossible for the moment to forecast," Major Hallam said, in a statement issued following Finance Minister Dunning's budget delivery. "From a quick examination it would appear the protection afforded by the new rates will have been brought down on the whole to approximately what it was prior to the 1930 increases."

Reductions in woolen cloth, knit goods and hosiery were the most serious. Taken with those in cotton and artificial silk they would, said Major Hallam, affect some 500 factories.

How Britain Has Gained.

"Great Britain has been steadily increasing its sales to Canada of textiles since the cuts in rates were started in 1932, and continued in subsequent years," said Major Hallam's statement. "The increase of penetration into the Canadian market of British cotton piece goods since, and including 1932, are in square yards, as follows:

1932—27,238,000.
1933—48,704,000.
1934—63,321,000.
1935—59,892,000.
1936—73,725,000.

"In woollen and worsted cloth, Great Britain has increased its penetration of the Canadian market in square yards as follows:

1932— 9,944,200.
1933— 9,678,500.
1934—13,066,000.
1935—13,513,000.
1936—16,334,000.

"It would now appear inevitable that this trend of increased imports from Great Britain will continue.

63,000 Employees.

"Employees in the primary textile industries in Canada now number approximately 63,000. It is to be hoped that the cuts now made will not result in diminishing this volume of employment by unduly increasing the importation of textile goods made by workers in Great Britain. The seriousness of the cuts in knit goods and hosiery may have an important affect on the trend of employment in these industries."

Major Hallam cited that in the past five years the six divisions of the primary textile industries had been operating on a low margin of profit. This ranged from a loss of 1.9 per cent in the woollen branch in 1931 to a gain of 6.4 per cent by the hosiery in 1935. (The average worked out at 3.5 per cent).

"These are the profits the shareholders in textile industries obtained. If these shareholders had had their money in Ontario government bonds," the statement said, "they would have obtained at least 4½ per cent without any risk."

Major Hallam said the wages paid in Canada were "substantially higher" than in Great Britain.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Important price changes were lacking in yesterday's dull Toronto Livestock Market session. The few cattle offered were cleaned up at steady prices. No sheep appeared on the market.

Medium to good butcher cows brought $3.50 to $4.25. A few fed calves traded between $6 and $7.50.

Calves ranged from $5 to $8, with one top vealer bringing $9.

Bacon hogs closed at $8.35 to $8.50. Sows dropped $1 cwt. to a top of $5.

One lot of good lambs went at $9.75.

MONTREAL LIVESTOCK

Cattle section, which opened strongly at the start of this week's livestock trading, developed a weak undertone and prices closed $1 down. Cattle prices were steady to firm while hog division held steady and unchanged along with sheep and lamb section.

Receipts: Cattle, 1,485; calves, 1,661; sheep and lambs, 132; hogs, 5,030.

In addition, 153 cattle and 1,591 hogs were received on direct consignment to Montreal, while 46 cattle were handled on through billing to Canadian points.

Good butcher steers sold from $6.25 to $7.25, while mediums made between $5.25 and $6, with common steers from $4 to $5. Heifers ranged from $3.25 to $5.50, with medium good to good butcher cows from $4 to $4.50. Medium cows sold from $3 to $3.75, while canners and cutters brought from $1.50 to $2.25, and common butchers mostly $2.50 to $2.75. Common bulls ranged from $2.50 to $3.75, with butchers from $4 to $4.75.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 27. — Wheat prices turned weaker on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as reports of cloudy skies and forecasts of rain and snow were made for the United States winter wheat belt.

Strengthened at the start by gains at Liverpool, Winnipeg quotations slumped rapidly later to finish 1 to ⅝ cent lower. Drying up of export demand after 500,000 bushels had been sold and weakness at Chicago which led to paring of Liverpool gains were factors in the decline along with the United States weather situation.

Liverpool, after being up ⅝d to 1⅛d, finished ⅝d higher in all futures, while Buenos Aires was unchanged at noon. United States markets were weak. Argentine wheat shipments for the week were estimated at 8,083,000 bushels compared with 7,882,000 a week ago and only 1,196,000 last year. Not since March of 1929 have Argentine shipments for any one week exceeded 8,000,000 bushels. Cash wheat trade was thin and coarse grains mixed.

predicted removal of the sales tax on raw and salted hides would be a boon to the industry and of particular benefit to the export business.

A department store head, Major Gordon Ingram of the Smallman-Ingram Store, London, said reductions in tariffs on clothing, floor coverings and other household materials should mean a saving in household expenses. He predicted a price reduction in Britishmade socks and stockings.

Boom to Packers

J. C. McLean, president of Canada Packers, Ltd., said continuance of the quota on Canadian bacon and hams would be greeted with satisfaction. Although the quota has not been filled in the last four years he found its continuance "of enormous value to Canadian hog producers" because of the "valuable privilege in maintaining and expanding their market."

J. A. Caulder, president of the Dairy Corporation of Canada, said he was pleased the dairy industry was not touched. Continuance of the present status, he added, assured the industry stability for the British market is the only one where producers can find an outlet for surplus products.

Hard On Brewers

Lowering of the preferential duty on ale, beer, stout and porter placed hardships on the brewing business, said Norman J. Dawes, president of National Breweries, Montreal.

Walter M. Stewart, president of the Macdonald Tobacco So., said in Montreal that removal of the 25 per cent ad valorem duty on cigarettes under the British preference would mean little to the tobacco industry of Canada as few cigarettes are imported.

TRADE AGREEMENT AID TO FARMERS

H. B. Cowan Expresses Strong Satisfaction With Term

Strong satisfaction was expressed to-day by H. B. Cowan, over the agricultural features of the budget address of the Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance in the House of Commons on Thursday, and with the terms of the new Anglo-Canadian trade agreement. Mr. Cowan is secretary both of the Canadian Dairy Farmers' Federation, representing approximately 150,000 organized dairy farmers, and of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture, representing approximately 600,000 farmers.

"For the past few years," said Mr. Cowan," the National Farmer Unions of the United Kingdom, backed by a strong Conservative support in the British House of Commons have been urging upon the British government, first the imposition of quotas on imports of farm products and more recently levies in preference to quotas. It was proposed that the money raised by levies on imports of dairy and other products should be utilized to promote home production in the United Kingdom. About a year ago the British Government issued a White Paper which to some extent committed it to the adoption of this policy. This would have hit a heavy blow to agricultural interests of the Dominions," Mr. Cowan said. "Our Canadian national producer organizations have been in contact with the producer organizations in the other Dominions, and all have been contacting their respective governments.'

"The fact that the British concessions include continued free entry of Canadian dairy products, bacon, hams, fat cattle, beef and eggs is of great importance to the farmers of Canada, and it is gratifying that the government has succeeded in negotiating such an important and favorable agreement."

DAVID G. MELTON REFUSES COMMENT

Any Statement Should Be Made By The Industry As a Whole

David G. H. Melton, manager of the Bonner-Worth mill of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, interviewed by telephone at the head office of the company in Toronto this afternoon in regard to the effect on the textile industry of the tariff clauses in the budget, declined to make any comment for publication.

"My opinion is that any statement should be made by the industry as a whole," Mr. Melton said. "At this time I do not wish to say anything as to possible effects at Peterborough."

HUSBAND HELD AFTER DRESDEN

ed for a statement. Miss Mabel Glenn, her daughter, declined to comment on the case.

Son is With Aunt

"The boy is not missing as reported," Miss Glenn said. "My two brothers, Wilfred and William, and myself went to Dresden yesterday afternoon after receiving a telephone call from Dr. Ruttle and we brought the boy back with us. Mr. Turner accompanied us. When the doctor telephoned, my mother was told that my sister had been seriously injured."

The couple, it was learned, had been married about nine years. Before going to Dresden, Turner lived in Chatham and worked at the Motor and Coach plant and also at the International Harvester Company. It was while he was working at the latter plant he met the girl he later married. Turner's mother is dead, but his father, James, lives in Woodstock.

Most coherent account of the event of yesterday was a detailed narrative supplied by Dr. J. A. Ruttle who was called to the residence close to the end of Hughes street after Turner had discovered the lifeless body of his wife in the woodshed attached to the rear of the house.

"I received the call and went down to Turner's house to see what was wrong," Dr. Ruttle said.

"The call came into my office just about 11.30 o'clock Thursday so I went down to the house and knocked on the front door. The door was not locked so I stepped inside without waiting for an answer. When I went in the front door I did not hear anyone and, for a moment, I though I was in the wrong place.

"I Think She's Dead

"I started towards the rear of the house and Turner came to me from the kitchen meeting me about halfway. As he walked towards me he said, 'I'm afraid she's gone—I'm afraid it's too late.' I said to him, 'What do you mean, Walter' And he replied, 'I think she's dead.'

"I then walked back to the kitchen with Turner and found Mrs. Turner's body lying on a couch. I felt her pulse, and she was dead. I think she had been dead about half an hour before I saw her," the doctor said, in answer to a question.

"Turner then took me back into the woodshed at the rear of the house and showed me the spot where he found his wife's body. There was a small amount of blood where the body had lain and pieces of wood were evidently pulled aside by Turner as he sought to release his wife's body," the doctor said.

"The wood was evidently piled one and a half or maybe two feet high on the ground," Dr. Ruttle continued.

Dr. Ruttle said that when he was out in the shed he was told by Turner that the pile of wood had extended to the head of the shed, a distance of about 12 feet. Dr. Ruttle estimated the top five feet had evidently fallen down from the pile on top of the unfortunate woman.

ESKIMO STANDARDS RAISED BY WHITES

Taught How To Trap, Natives Are Faring Much Better Nowadays

EDMONTON, Feb. 26—(C.P.). — Eskimos of the Arctic coast have benefitted by invasion of the white man in the opinion of L. F. Semmler, tall and raw-boned free-trader who operates three fur-trading posts on Coronation Gulf, 1,000 miles north of here.

White men have taught Eskimos how to trap and have improved the Arctic natives' standard of living, said Semmler, here en route to visit his mother at Portland, Ore.

"When the white man first went into that country the Eskimos had only a few traps and did not know much about trapping," the hardy northerner said. "The white men have taught them how to trap and now they catch large quantities of fur.

"They depend pretty well on the white traders for their supplies, particularly food, and they have become accustomed to white men's fare. They do not depend so much on seal for their meat supply.

Live on Deer

"Those who go inland, however, live principally on deer and caribou and their principal needs are tobacco, traps and ammunition. In good fur years the Eskimo are well off, much better off than before the white man came."

Semmler, whose wife and three children live with him at one of his posts, 55 miles north of Coppermine, declared one of the vital needs of the Western Arctic coast is an independent transportation company to bring supplies to white traders and native trappers.

At present free traders and natives must reply on vessels operated by rival fur trading companies to bring in supplies. Natives cannot trap when they are forced to hunt to provide themselves with food, he explained. A reliable transportation system would revolutionize the industry.

"If natives could get supplies in they would be able to devote much more of their time to trapping. There are virtually hundreds of miles of untouched fur-trapping country stretching north that is only waiting to be developed."

Semmler thought that "with a good captain in charge" a boat could make a trip each year from Vancouver with supplies, and it would be a "sound business proposition." Captain Pearson, Arctic trader who lives at Seattle, has made such voyages every year for the past 30 years.

57th Regiment Chapter Of I. O. D. E. Elections By Acclamation

SPLENDID YEAR

Mrs. W. Gordon Hall was re-elected as regent of the 57th Regiment Chapter of the I.O.D.E., at the annual meeting held on Thursday afternoon in the Officers' Mess of the Prince of Wales Rangers.

All officers went in by acclamation, as follows: Mrs. T. W. H. Young, honorary regent; Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, regent; Mrs. R. E. Clarke, first vice regent; Mrs. R. G. Cottrell, second vice regent; Mrs. N. M. Henry, secretary; Mrs. L. R. Groomoridge, Press secretary; Mrs. C. E. Newman, educational secretary; Mrs. W. Ashby, Standard bearer; Mrs. R. G. Cottrell and Mrs. D. A. Loomis, Empire Study; Mrs. F. J. Frappe, Current Events; Mrs. G. R. Melton, Soldiers and ex-soldiers. Councillors for the coming year will be Mesdames J. S. Fanning, D. A. Loomis, W. L. Sharpe, P. G. Wallace, H. Dodds, W. R. Andrews, G. R. Melton, C. H. Stuart, W. Hughes, and Miss Ida Wesley. Representatives to the Local Council of Women will be Mrs. R. G. Cottrell, Mrs. G. A. Helson and Mrs. T. W. H. Young.

Mrs. Hall presided at the meeting, at which annual reports were presented. Mrs. N. M. Henry reported on the year's work, showing donations made to the Endowment Fund, Cancer Fund, Crippled Children's Fund, Well Babies' Clinic, Rangers' Band, Health Association, Y.M.C.A., Upper Canada Track Society, Red Cross, Children's Aid Society, Humane Society, Girl Guides and the Susie Sorabji Memorial Fund in India. The last-named donation completed the $50 which enabled the chapter to have its name inscribed on the Memorial plaque.

Other endeavors of the chapter during the past year included the decorating of 250 graves of soldiers in the Little Lake Cemetery and St. Peter's Cemetery; a library and bale of clothing sent to a Northern school; calendars sent to ten schools; two pupils assisted financially at the Collegiate Institute, and Christmas cheer distributed, consisting of fourteen well-filled baskets, milk, fuel and clothing.

Substantial Balance

The treasurer, Miss Mamie Rogers, reported expenditures amounting to over $420 during the year, with a substantial balance on hand.

Mrs. J. S. Fanning reported for relief work, with expenditures of $43.84; Mrs. R. G. Cottrell reported on flowers sent to sick members; Mrs. T. W. H. Young reported for the Local Council of Women; Mrs. W. L. Sharpe reported 622 visits to the hospital with Mrs. G. A. Helson, with gifts of fruit, books and flowers.

Four new members were welcomed to the chapter: Mrs. C. B. Hughes, Mrs. C. Lord, Mrs. E. M. Noftall and Mrs. H. K. Clifton.

Mrs. Hall, the regent, gave a splendid talk on the I.O.D.E.; its origin, aims, ideals and growth. In memory of the late Mrs. John Bruce of Toronto, a prominent member of the Order who presented the charter to the 57th Regiment Chapter here twenty-five years ago, the members stood at attention in a silence period.

A program was mapped out for the ensuing year, with a silver anniversary tea planned for March; a bridge party for April; a garden party for June; a bridge party for October, and an Armistice tea for November.

Mrs. Leslie Groombridge gave two pleasing solos, after which tea was served, in charge of Mrs. R. G. Cottrell and Mrs. R. E. Clarke.

MASONIC PICNIC IS DECIDED SUCCESS

Peterborough Lodge Carries Off Honors In Bowling, Billiards And Volleyball

More than two hundred took part in the various competitions last night in connection with the fourth annual Masonic Winter Picnic in the Y.M.C.A. Besides recreations like bridge and billiards, such athletic events as bowling, volleyball and exhibition wrestling were held. Members of H. B. Cowan's amateur wrestling class staged some lively matches, and several members of the Leaders' Corps put on exhibitions on the rings in the gym.

The Peterborough Lodge won out in bowling, billiards and volleyball, while the Corinthian Lodge was successful in the bridge competition. No. 2 team of the Peterborough Lodge rolled 977 to help swell the total of 3,316; Corinthian rolling 3,274; and Royal Arthur totalling 3,120. Peterborough won four games in volleyball to three for Corinthians and one for Royal Arthur. In the billiard tournament, Peterborough Lodge came out on top with 217 to 169 for Royal Arthur, and 141 for Corinthian. Personnel of the high bowling team was: A. Sproule, E. Barrie, N. Crowe, A. Lister and D. Grant.

W. L. Ferguson and Dr. J. J. Craig, two past masters of Royal Arthur, staged a wrestling match with the honors going to Mr. Ferguson in two straight falls.

The volleyball tournament was the centre of attraction all evening, and the winning Peterborough team consisted of A. Hood (captain), D. A. Loomis, D. T. Crawford, R. L. Dobbin, F. Shaw, J. E. Girven, C. Elliott, W. Rankin, and E. Jones.

The billard winners were E. Hardie, M. Metheral, D. Grant and F. Rappe comprising the winning team.

The bridge honors went to Dr. A. W. McPherson and Stan. Couper.

This annual event is an unique feature and is an outstanding event in Masonic circles.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta

WONDROUS is the strength of cheerfulness, altogether past calculation its power of endurance. Efforts to be permanently useful must be uniformly joyous—a spirit all sunshine, graceful from very gladness, beautiful because bright. Carlyle.

Dear Friends:

How are you when you are trying to be as good as you can? Do you go around like a martyr, with no cheerfulness about you, casting gloom instead of sunshine in your path and those around you, or are you "happy good," instead of "sad good."

Some good people can be the very dickens to live with, and bring out the worst in those they would like to help. After all, serving God should not be a gloomy affair, and if you are cheerful about it, you will be far more likely to draw others towards Him, than by going around with a long face and a pious air.

There is nothing so very exasperating than to see a person assume that, because they have seen the error of their ways and are trying to do better, all others are headed straight for Hell, if they do not follow the rules they have set up for themselves.

Even today, there are more arguments about religion than any known thing. There isn't only one road leading into Peterborough, or any place for the matter of that. Then why think and act as if the road you have chosen to lead you to Heaven is the one and only? There are many who never will even see the road you are travelling, that may stand a better chance than you have of getting into Paradise.

God gave Moses the ten commandments and you should know them. Jesus gave us the Lord's Prayer. But He also gave us another, when He said, "Children, Love one another." He said: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all they heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it; Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets."

He didn't say "Thou shalt go around with a long and gloomy face and take all the pleasure out of your life, and all those you meet up with." He didn't say that there was only one or two forms of religion that would get us into Heaven, and that you had chosen the best one. In fact, when you study it out, He had very little use for forms of any kind. He LIVED His love for God. And when you use your religion as an irritant to annoy members of your family, when you are so "good" that you are a blasted nuisance to live with, then you are not practising religion in its truest form at all.

You are only feeding your own ego, pandering to your own idea of how a good life should be used, not so much to benefit anyone least of all yourself, but to set yourself up above your fellows.

Jesus is the only true example that we can follow, and nowhere can you read that He set Himself up above anyone. He was divine, BUT—He was also human, and He lived as a man with men, when He was here on earth. It would have been very easy for Him to assert His divinity and overwhelm all He came in contact with, but we read where He ate with the poor, lived with them, understood their troubles and helped all He could.

So, if you have felt that the light has shone on you, for pity's sake receive it joyfully, scatter some of the joy around you, and some of it will fall on yourself, so that all you meet will be tempted to try and get this joyful living for themselves, and you will be a much easier person to live with.

You may feel that you have been born again, which is right and proper, but remember that you still have the same aggravating habits you had before, with the added annoyance of gushing this newfound goodness at everyone you meet. And remember that being a Christian simply means following Christ's example, and not setting yourself above anyone.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA

BATTLE OF THE SEWERS

Besieged Fascists Forced Underground In Oviedo.

BAYONNE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Feb. 26 (AP)—The hand-to hand struggle for possession of Oviedo, "pearl of the Asturias," spread into the ancient sewers of the devastated city today, government commanders reported. Blasted out of their strongholds above ground, including the heavily fortified Vega Arms Factory, the remnants of the Insurgent garrison were reported to have barricaded themselves in sewers in the Santo Domingo section.

MILADY WILL PAY LESS FOR BRITISH SUITS, COSMETICS

Housewife Will Also Benefit On Utensils And Tinned Foods

BOOST TOURIST TRADE

OTTAWA, Feb. 26 (C.P.).—With reductions in duty on British textiles and cosmetics under the Anglo-Canadian Trade Treaty, it will cost milady less to be beautiful.. And the housewife who uses British utensils and tinned foods also is benefitted generally.

Duty on woven fabrics is reduced from 27½ per cent. to 22½ per cent. It was believed woollen dresses and suits will be cheaper in Canada. There is a sharp decrease in the tariff on British cotton goods as well, which may lower the prices of clothes to the consumer.

Possibility of stimulation to the tourist trade was seen in these tariff decreases with the anticipation many women would come to Canada from United States to buy cheaper British-made goods and cloths.

In the sphere of cosmetics, duty on non-alcoholic toilet preparations, including powders and perfumed preparations, are reduced from 20 per cent. under the 1932 agreement to 15 per cent. under the new.

Soap powders and mineral soap are reduced from 22½ per cent. to 20 per cent. Toilet articles such as brushes, buffers, combs, cuticle knives and perfume bottles remain with the same British preference tariff of 17½ per cent, as do alcoholic perfumes, such as cologne, lavender water, lotions and skin washes. The duty on the latter items is 30 per cent.

For the housewife there is a reduction in the British rate of from 30 per cent. to 12½ per cent. on cocoa and chocolate and from 15 per cent. to 12½ per cent. on non-sweetened biscuits.

More than 342,227,000,000 cubic feet of gas was consumed in the British Isles in 1936.

W.M.S. Group Meets In The Powell Home

The regular meeting of Group F of the George Street W.M.S. was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Roy Powell with 15 members present.

The meeting was opened with a hymn, followed with a prayer by Mrs. Lane and the Lord's Prayer in unison. The roll call was answered by a Gem on the Book of Romans. There were five missionary books read in the group for the month of February. Mrs. Morton explained the Birthday Tea to be held on March 12.

A duet was sung by Miss Lenore Lewis and Miss Gwen Boorman. Mrs. Brown read the scripture and a temperance talk "The History of Wine" was given by Mrs. Nelson.

Mrs. Brenton, the herald for India, gave an interesting talk on the progress of medical work in that land. Mrs. Lane told a few incidents in the life of Dwight L. Moody.

Mrs. Powell and her group served refreshments and the ladies voiced their appreciation with a hearty vote of thanks.

Coe Hill Young People Say Farewell To Pastor Who Is Leaving

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COE HILL, Feb. 26.—Owing to the departureof Rev. and Mrs. Vatcher for their new field at Carleton Place the Young People's Society of the United Church held their weekly meeting on Monday evening, February 22 in placeof Tuesday, February 23.

The Missionary convenor, Miss Hazel Soble was in charge of the meeting, and chose as her topic "The Why of Missions". Unknown to Mr. Vatcher, the Young People had previously arranged a program of contests and community singing under the management of Miss Gladys May, the social convenor. After which a tasty lunch was served.

The president called the gathering of about sixty people to order. Miss Marjorie Giles read an address, while the president, Mr. Joe Offenburger presented Mr. and Mrs. Vatcher with a beautiful 'refector' floor lamp, having a celanese shade with candlewick trimming.

Although completely taken by surprise, the recipient replied suitably thanking them for the gift and expressing his appreciation to the Young People for their loyal support and wishing them every success in the future. He recalled with pleasure many happy hours spent together and expressed his regret at leaving such a jolly group of willing workers. All joined heartily in singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and the meeting was closed with the Mispah benediction. Mr. Vatcher will be greatly missed by the community.

Personals

Mrs. R. P. Gunter entertained the Ladies' Club on Wednesday evening. The program consisted o fcontests and music, after which lunch was served.

Isobel Sisson Declared Winner After Enjoyable Program Is Heard

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Feb. 26.—A most enjoyable entertainment was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith by the St. Mary's A.Y.P.A.

The program was in the form of amateurs put on by the members. The jovial Major was enacted by the president, Ben Page with Rev. A. R. Holden filling the part of announcer in genial manner. The program was as follows:

Song, Gladys Wright and Marjory Page; dramatic recitation, Isobel Sisson; mouth organ solo, Lawrence Staples; recitation, Muriel Hannah; recitation, Bob Reid; recitation, Vera Strachan; mouth organ duet, Douglas and John Smelt; reading, Jean Smith; reading, Charles Morton; mouth organ solo, Kenneth Henderson; piano solo, Doreen Smith; duet on combs, Robert Sisson and Harold Page; reading, Gordon Smith. Miss Isobel Sisson was declared the winner.

The A.Y.P.A. will meet on March 10 for the regular meeting immediately, after Lenten service at the Rectory by initiation of Rev. and Mrs. Holden.

The hostess served refreshments with several assistants, and a very hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith and family for their very kind hospitality. Recreation period followed the supper hour.

SOFTLY TAILORED SPRING'S SLOGAN

Left, stiffened white lace dinner dress; right classic two-piece tailleur and top-coat in beige cashmere

By LISBETH

Softly tailored seems to be the watchword for spring suits. The swagger line is incorporated into the coats of street suits with the longer coat, the molded line being the basic styling for the suit to wear with separate furs. The basque motif is applied to tweed suits with short jackets.

A suit with three-quarters jacket in swagger styling uses strips of black velvet running vertically from neck to hem in back to bring out the back ripple of the jacket and accent the slim skirt.

Ribbon trimmings on suits and flowers at the neck are frequently seen in new suits, but simplicity is the rule, accompanied as I said before with softly feminine touches that relieve said simplicity.

The classic tailleur and topcoat for spring wardrobes is illustrated here made of soft beige cashmere. It may be worn with any number of color accessories.

Feather-Trimmed Hat

Note the chic brown straw hat, turned up in Spanish brigand style with a nifty feather. A plaid wool scarf finishes the neck of this suit.

Plaids are strictly in the picture in suits as they were last autumn. Sometimes they fashion the entire suit, sometimes they are combined with solid color, as a plaid skirt and solid colored jacket or the order reversed. The tailored theme in formal clothes is portrayed in the stiffened white lace dress shown here. A color note is introduced through a wide panel on the slip and the large flower worn in the bodice. Covered shoulders, square and low-cut decolletage and tucks in the skirt are effective style features of this charming dinner dress. Both are Stein and Blaine models.

Tight-fitted collarless jackets and flared skirts are shown frequently by one Paris designer. With these are worn contrasting short-sleeved blouses. Pockets galore seems to be the slogan.

OMEMEE

GOLDEN WEDDING QUIETLY MARKED

Mr. And Mrs. William Best Married Fifty Years Ago In Otonabee

Mr. and Mrs. Soles entertained Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Best on Tuesday evening, it being the latter's 50th wedding anniversary. On account of poor health the occasion was quietly celebrated by the highly respected couple and a few friends.

Mrs. Best whose maiden name was Susannah Agnes Blizzard was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Blizzard of Otonabee and was born May 30, 1862.

Mr. Best was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Best of Emily and was born on the farm where Chester Best now lives about four miles southeast of Omemee on July 1, 1857.

The wedding ceremony of 50 years ago was performed at the home of the bride's parents by the late Rev. Mr. Andrews of Keene. The bridesmaim who is Mrs. Strong, a cousin of the bride is still living in Portland, Oregon. The groomsman was Walter Fair, who at present resides in the west.

Mr. Best resided on the homestead until 21 years ago when he and his wife moved into Omemee. Mr. and Mrs. Best were formerly Presbyterians but since church union, health permitting have been faithful members of Trinity United Church. The numerous friends of the village and surrounding county wish many more years of happiness to Mr. and Mrs. Best.

VETERAN ACTOR DEAD.

LONDON.—Edward Irwin, veteran actor, died here to-day. He was 70 years old.

Irwin, one of the well-known figures of the stage, was co-author of the play "Sunday" which gave Ethel Barrymore her famous curtain line, "That's all there is, there isn't any more."

OMEMEE

Born in Omemee, February 22 to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Graham, a son.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. L. M. Curtis at this time in the death of his father, at Brockville Sunday, February 14.

The many friends of Mrs. J. Sanderson will regret to hear of her serious illness.

Rev. T. G. MacTavish, Messrs Fred Weir and Arthur Marshall returned home Wednesday evening from visiting friends in Toronto.

Warden and Mrs. Moncrief are attending the good road convention in Toronto.

Dr. and Mrs. McPhee are visiting friends in Toronto.

Mrs. D. Belch was a visitor to Lindsay, Wednesday.

RICHMOND STAYS IN TORY COLUMN

Credit Victory To People's Support Of Government's Arms Program

RICHMOND, Surrey, Feb. 26—(CP Cable).—Richmond remained in the Conservative column to-day. The House of Commons seat was won yesterday by Major George Steven Harvie-Watt in a by-election that saw a light turnout of voters.

Major Harvie-Watt, a barrister and former Member of Parliament for Keighley, polled 20,546 votes against 7,709 for George Henry Rogers, London transport official, his only opponent. In the 1935 general election, Sir William Ray, Conservative, received 30,433 votes to 10,953 for I. Gassman, Labor.

Sir William recently retired due to ill health. Major Harvie-Watt credited his victory to an indication the people stood behind the government in its rearmament plans.

GIRLS RETRIEVE LOST GOOD NAME

Winnipeg Writer Finds Many Go Astray But Make Fresh Start

WINNIPEG, Feb. 26 (C.P.).—Girls to-day are sowing their wild oats even as the boys do, and staging a come-back to their places as sober and righteous citizens, declares Pearl L'Ami in The Free Press.

"Whether through the leniency of modern society, the assistance of social workers or through their own brazenness, or indomitability, as you will, girls to-day can turn their backs on a quite lurid past, and marry happily and well.

"Mrs. George Patterson, of the Juvenile Court, estimates that 25 per cent. of the girls who have passed through the court in the last few years have completely reinstated themselves in society and are either married or doing well in jobs. 'We regard that as a very hopeful percentage,' Mrs. Patterson said.

"Never one to condemn those for whom she works unceasingly, Mrs. Patterson yet admits that the younger girls to-day are a tougher proposition than their elder sisters. They are more wilful, more brazen and infinitely wiser in their waywardness than those of a few years ago. 'But,' she declared, 'they are loyal and courageous in their own way.'

Young Very Knowing.

"Mrs. Patterson could not quite diagnose the attitude of the younger generation. 'Little girls of 12, 13, and 14 are very knowing these days. They come before us with glazed fingernails, faces all done up, and very self-possessed. Very often they are the younger sisters of girls who have already gone through the courts, but the little ones know so much more than the older ones did at their age.'

"A greater degree of drinking among girls is one of the factors in juvenile delinquency, Mrs. Patterson finds, but there is very little use of drugs among the minors. 'That is one of the evils youngsters are fairly free from,' she said.

"Thieving is another matter. 'The eternal Eve drives the young girls to all sorts of lengths to obtain finery. Petty shoplifting, particularly at the beauty and lingerie counters, is a major pastime for a great many girls, and the more daring get away with dresses. They are so light-fingered they frequently are not caught.

"'Mothers cannot help but know their girls do not come by this finery honestly when they are in poor circumstances. Sometimes they aid and abet their daughters, but more often they are so dominated by the girls that they dare not interfere. Parents, especially the parents of new Canadians, whose daughters have got ahead of them in the ways of this new country, are losing their grip on the family.'

"Nor does this state of affairs apply to the new Canadian alone. Girls in every part of the city and boys as well have a way of taking the bit in their teeth and going their own pace these days."

IS SEEKING DIVORCE

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Catharine Marach, 40, asking a divorce in Superior Court, alleged her husband: (1) Choked her pet dog to death; (2) Killed two canaries, and (3) Tortured her by caressing a "plump" woman in a taxicab beneath her window.

from foreign countries and under the intermediate tariff the duty will now be 20 instead of 25 per cent. it continues free under the British preference and has a duty of 25 per cent under the general tariff.

Plates used for printing magazines in Canada formerly faced a duty of 7½ per cent under the intermediate tariff and 25 per cent under the general. They are now free under the intermediate.

This will chiefly affect United States magazines printed in Canadian plants from plates sent over the border weekly or monthly. The general rate is unchanged and they continue free in the general tariff.

Well-drilling apparatus and parts, for exclusive use in drilling for water, gas or oil, or in prospecting, well packers and seamless iron and steel tubing of a class or kind not made in Canada are made free under all tariffs. Some of the items formerly were 15 per cent under British preference, 27½ per cent in the intermediate and 30 per cent in the general tariff.

Forged steel rolls, important to the metal industries for rolling steel are to be free under all tariffs. In some classes the duty was formerly as high as British preference 10 per cent, intermediate 27½ per cent and general 35 per cent.

Marble from Italy.

Decorative marble of certain kinds had a duty of 30 per cent British preference, 35 per cent intermediate and 40 per cent general. It will now be free under the British preference and the intermediate tariffs. In the general tariff the rate will be 35 per cent. This marble, much of which comes from Italy, is used for interior work in churches and public buildings.

Canadian motion picture producers will benefit under cuts in duties on professional movie cameras and film. Under the British preference the duty of 15 per cent on such cameras and film is entirely removed. It is reduced from 25 per cent to 10 per cent in the intermediate and from 30 per cent to 15 per cent in the general tariff.

10 P.C. Off Electric Razors.

The 10-per-cent intermediate duty is removed from electric razors, a change directly affecting United State manufacturers of these articles. They continue free under the British preference and the 10 per cent. duty still applies under the general tariff.

Surgical instruments have been made free under all traiffs. The duty ranged from 10 per cent. to 45 per cent. on certain types of these instruments in the three tariff categories.

Hard rubber blanks for use in the manufacture of combs have been made free. Formerly they were free under the British preference, but had a duty of 7½ per cent. intermediate and 10 per cent. general.

WORK TO START AT ONCE ON MILL

velt's action in increasing the price of gold, Mr. Hepburn said.

Announcement of a new policy for segregation of tubcular mental patients in separate institutions was made by the premier. He said the legislature would be asked to vote sufficient funds to take care of the ever-increasing number of mental patients.

From April 1, 1935, when the province assumed the whole cost of provincial highways, to Dec. 31, 1936, Ontario counties had been relieved of assessment totalling $2,120,000, the premier said. This year there will be a saving of $1,700,000 by the assumption of 184 miles of county roads as provincial highways.

The dual highway with a boulevard in the centre was the type of road best suited to Ontario, Mr. Hepburn believed. He maintained it was much safer and eliminated the glaring headlight danger. "The question is whether we can finance this type of highway," he said.

Plenty of Backing

George Henry, Conservative leader in the legislature, told the meeting Premier Hepburn knew a great deal more about provincial problems than he did two and a half years ago.

"We're all back of you if you'll only loosen the purse strings as far as roads are concerned," Mr. Henry told the premier.

The association voted to oppose any move of the federal government to assume control of motor transport in the province. T. J. Mahony, Hamilton, who presented the resolution, said if the federal government had failed to solve the problem of the railroads it was not likely to successfully control motor transportation.

Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, urged municipal bodies to adopt economies in road expenditures. In the interests of agriculture the minister suggested officers of rural municipalities adopt a pay-as-you-go policy which he believed essential as the farmer at the present time would not grow wealthy on the present price of produce.

dom commodities is reduced to 91 items. This, the minister said, gave Canada a wider latitude for bargaining with other nations.

A British Guarantee

Great Britain is also given a guarantee that dumping restrictions on United Kingdom goods will be removed by Canada if it is found Canadian manufacturers of like goods are dumping them in the United Kingdom. Canadian tariff reductions embrace textiles, glass, iron and steel, machinery, leather goods, boots and shoes, paper products, paints and varnishes, soaps, brushes and silverware.

Both countries agreed not to increase the "British content" of goods for export above 50 per cent, and both remained free to suspend preferences if commodities were being exported by manufacturers enjoying monopolistic control and operating to the detriment of the consumer.

Give Canada More Latitude.

In negotiating the new trade agreement, Mr. Dunning said, the government had endeavored to translate into policy the criticisms aimed at the 1932 agreement by the Liberal party in opposition. It was the endeavor to work out an agreement more mutually fair and leaving more latitude to Canada to make trade agreements with other countries. It was also a criticism of the Liberals in opposition that the 1932 agreement bound the hands of a succeeding government. This treaty runs normally only to the natural time of dissolution of the present parliament.

Mr. Dunning presented a cheerful picture of mounting revenues during the current fiscal year, resulting in an over-all deficit of $87,000,000 where he had budgeted a year ago for $100,000,000. Revenues had increased by some $60,000,000 over the previous year and Canada's exports had reached the $1,000,000,000 mark for the first time since 1929.

In exports Canada had ranked fourth among the nations of the world, moving up during 1936 from fifth place, while she retained fifth place among the nations in total trade.

Considering all forms of exports, visible and invisible and including tourist traffic, Canada's exports were $617,000,000 more than her imports, which left a good volume of foreign credit with which to meet obligations abroad.

Since 1929 no year had dawned with greater promise for Canada, Mr. Dunning declared. But he voiced a warning against possible development of a speculative craze which would lead the country into another economic collapse similar to that of 1929.

OBITUARY

MISS JOSEPHINE TROTTER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 26.—Miss Josephine Trotter passed away on Tuesday, February 16, at the home of her brother, Rev. W. Trotter, Collingwood, after a long illness following a serious operation.

Miss Trotter was born near Madoc village 63 years ago. She was educated and spent her early life here, later entering the ministry as a Deaconess of the Holiness Movement Church.

The funeral was held on Friday, February 19, from the home of her niece, Mrs. J. M. Irwin, in Madoc, to the Holiness Movement Church. Interment was made in Lakeview Cemetery.

The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Cooke, superintendent of the Holiness Movement assisted by six ministers of the church, who accompanied him from Ottawa, Prescott, Kingston and Belleville. The text was taken from Rev. 7:14: These are they which come out of great tribulations and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb." Beautiful hymns were sung, "Abide With Me," and "A Charge to Keep I Have." Rev. Mr. Prichard of Ottawa and Mrs. Raymond of Madoc sang as a duet, "Loved Ones in Glory, Looking This Way."

From the residence to the church, local pall-bearers officiated, Messrs. William, John and Robert Devolin, Elliott Trotter, Frank Pinch and Clarence Platt.

Six minister officiated as pall-bearers from the church to the cemetery. These were those who had been co-oworkers with the late Miss Trotter in the Holiness Movement Church.

Miss Josephine Trotter is survived by one brother, Rev. Wesley Trotter of Collingwood; Minnie Trotter of Buffalo; and Mrs. H. Bailey (nee Mary Trotter), of Indiana, Alberta.

ARNI JEANNERET.

TWEED, Feb. 26.—Pioneer days of the Ardoch district in the northern part of Frontenac County were recalled with the death of Arni Jeanneret, 89, one of the original settlers. He died at his residence at Ardoch.

With his wife and six children, Jeanneret arrived when the place was a wilderness almost sixty years ago, and he had taken an active part in its development for more than half a century. All hardships of pioneering, the courage to work and the will to overcome odds were part of his life. He came to Canada from Switzerland with his wife and children in 1877 and first obtained work in Westport on a dairy farm where he milked fifty-five cows twice a day for a salary of $8 a month.

He obtained a position with the K. & P. railway when the line from Sharbot Lake to Renfrew was being built and to earn money he toiled at night, removing trees which he sold for ties. Often in his work he was forced to use a lantern in the woods when there was not enough daylight for him to accomplish all he wished.

Jeannerets wife, who predeceased him twenty-two years ago, was an able partner in the pioneering. She is remembered as a woman of remarkable strength, who could do the work of a powerful man and often carried a 100 pound sack of flour from Ompah to their little home, a distance of six miles. With the aid of her eldest son, her husband was busy in the bush and on the railway. She owned a wagon and trained a team of oxen.

GEORGE BYRON DENYES.

TWEED, Feb. 26.—George Byron Denyes, a life-long resident of the district, passed away on Thursday morning, February 25, at the home of his niece, Mrs. Beaty, Port Hope, where he had made his home in recent years. He had been in failing health for some time but had been confined to bed for only the past two weeks.

Born in the Township of Thurlow eighty-six years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Denyes, the late Mr. Denyes lived in Belleville and vicinity all his life. He was a member of the United Church. His wife predeceased him a number of years ago.

CAVAN

Messrs. D. White, L. Pudsey, H. Tinney, F. M. Staples, R. Staples, W. Pudsey, Ralph Staples, Archie Matchett and David Staples were among those from Cavan who attended the sale of Mrs. R. White and sons at Yelverton on Tuesday.

The Rev. J. R. Trumpour attended a meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church on Tuesday.

The many friends of Miss Norma Gillis will be pleased to know that she was able to return to her home on Saturday after her recent operation in Nicholl's Hospital, Peterborough.

Mrs. E. Syer recently spent a few days with her daughter, Mrs. R. Bonner, Centreville.

The C.G.I.T. girls of Cavan United Church sponsored a social evening in the Sunday School rooms of the church on Wednesday evening. After a sumptuous supper of pancakes and other good things had been served crokinole provided entertainment for the evening. Prizes were won by James Cook and Eileen Argue.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Staples, Whitby, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matchett.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Sutton, Peterborough, visited Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fallis on Monday.

A congregational meeting of the Cavan United Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Kennedy on Wednesday evening. The pastor, the Rev. J. R. Trumpour, spoke on "The Christian." Next Wednesday evening the meeting will be held in the church, when the pastor will further discuss the same topic.

BRIDGENORTH

The card party and dance held at the home of Mr. R. G. Petterson last Friday night, under the auspices of the rink committee, was a very successful event. A good crowd was in attendance and an enjoyable time reported.

Mrs. Roland Stabler who has been quite ill is recovering nicely.

Miss Edna Wheeler, of Belleville, and Mr. Frank Leggett of Toronto, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Robison.

Mrs. Charlie Curtiss, who has been quite ill for some time, we are pleased to report much better.

Born, on Friday, February 19, at St. Joseph's Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. George Herd, a son.

Mrs. Albert White, who has been ill with pleurisy, is able to be up again.

Misses Ina and Opal Robison returned on Saturday from Belleville where they spent the past week with their friends.

The W.A. will hold their regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon of next week at the home of Mrs. R. J. Petterson.

Peterboro' Men's Artists Club Has 117 Pictures On Exhibit; Organization's First Showing

Club Has Been In Existence Only a Year And Much Success Achieved

IN RICHARD HALL STORE

Members of the Peterborough Men's Club are staging an exhibition of their work on the top floor of the Richard Hall Co. store. It may be that in the name the word "amateur" should have been included, because that is the idea in the organization. The club has been in existence only a year or so, and the members came together in order to exchange ideas and offer helpful suggestions and give a degree of encouragement to those who were just starting.

When it came to the point of placing the work on display there were some obstacles in the way, and the chief one was the feeling that some of the members had not become convinced they were doing work of sufficient merit to be placed on exhibition. This was overcome finally, and the display is there for all who care to go and see it. And people should see it. Most people do not know how long it takes to attain a degree of efficiency with water colors or oils, and it is rather a pleasant surprise to see to what degree of success a good deal of the work has been advanced.

Some of Members of Club.

Charles Saunders, manager of the Richard Hall Co., has been an amateur artist for a number of years, but he has only recently gone at it with a more serious degree of application. He paints because he likes to do it. F. Ford, manager of Purity Bakeries, has been painting for 18 months. He likes it too. There must be something in the designing of rugs and carpets which causes the gentlemen employed at it to desire to paint pictures. Jack Hammer, a Yorkshireman in this country only a few months, has most of his exhibits in pencil. J. Tattersall, another designer at the same plant, has been painting for 18 months, and some of his work is admittedly strong and outstanding. Alex Kelly is another designer with the same company, and the report is that he "has just started," but he is progressing rapidly; Stanley Harris of Harris & Boddy, studied several years in London and in oils he finds outlet for his talent; Hugh Robertson, as the name indicates, is a Scot, with the Highways Department, and he has not been long at the brush. H. Steggles, of the A. Wander Co., has been painting for about three years, and one of his most interesting contributions is a portrait in oil of the head of the Wander Co. Carl Browne, teacher of mathematics, finds relaxation and diversion in painting, and in that sphere of art he is graded as a first year student. The things also appeals strongly to J. E. R. Munro, principal of Queen Alexandra school, and he is becoming adept in either water color or oil at the end of his first year.

Have Received Help.

"F. H. Brigden, of Toronto, the outstanding Canadian artist, has has been a great help to the members of the club in Peterborough," said Mr. Saunders. "He has been here several times and has gone out in the country to some spot where there was sufficient and good material on which to work, and he has sketched and worked with us and given a good deal of instruction?"

"Just how does he do it?" asked the Examiner.

"Why, he just gets us all started, and tells us to come back after a while and show what we have been doing. He looks it over and tells you to get some more color in that stone, and more strength in that tree and look again and make sure of the shades on the water. It has been a great thing to have some help from such an artist as Mr. Brigden. Then

Well-Known Singer Passes After Brief Illness In 33rd Year

BORN IN ENGLAND

Stanley Willis, foreman of the Induction Motors Winding Department at the C.G.E. plant for the past eight years died at Nicholls Hospital this (Friday) morning after a brief illness. He was in his thirty-third year.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. William Willis of this city, who survive, the late Mr. Willis was born at Harwich, England on October 8, 1904. At the age of sixteen he entered the service of the C.G.E. Company here. He was a member of Royal Arthur Lodge A.F. and A.M., and was a soloist in St. Paul's Church Choir and member of Peterborough Male Voice Choir.

Besides his parents, he leaves his wife the former Cora Tulley and a small son Richard, also three brothers and two sisters.

A private service is to be held at Comstock's Funeral Home on Saturday at 2 o'clock p.m. followed by a public service under Masonic auspices at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church at 2.30 p.m. with full choir in attendance. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery. The Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's is to officiate.

CRUSHER PLANT IS OPENED AT MADOC

Directors And Shareholders Attend Formal Opening Of Plant

Directors and shareholders of Canadian Slate Products Limited attended a formal opening of the new crusher plant on the company's property at Madoc this afternoon.

Production has already begun at this new unit which has been installed to turn out slate flour and granules. A recent series of tests by the mines department of the University of Toronto showed 97.23% of No. 1 grade slate flour passed a 325 mesh screen; and on No. 2 grade 85.96% passes 200 mesh screen and 80.33% passes 326 mesh screen.

The company's recent progress report announces that deeds have been obtained to 54.82 acres of additional property, "and we now own outright the main belt of slate at Madoc."

A new process building is being fabricated by the W. Gordon Steel Works of Tweed and will be delivered within the next month. It is 75 feet by 124 feet and will be used to manufacture roofing slates of all sizes. A new diamond saw has been purchased for this department and a 57 B.H.P. Ruston Diesel engine which is at the property and ready to be set up. Six new machines for trimming slates will arrive from Wales about March 16.

EDWARD KING OF AUSTRIA?

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 26.—(CP).—C. Ellison Kaumeyer is back from Austria with an idea—a tricky angle on the movement for restoration of a monarchy in the land of the waltz.

He says the Duke of Windsor will have first refusal of the crown once worn by the Hapsburgs if it is auctioned on the block of personal popularity, and adds: "Influential personages" in Austria think they may be able to get the Duke to accept.

F. W. Beatty of Port Hope has done much the same kind of training work for us. It has meant a great deal to have such assistance."

The exhibit is one which people in Peterborough should see. We believe the general opinion will be that the work is creditable, much of it showing signs of promise and understanding. There are 117 pictures in the exhibit and they have been tastefully arranged so that viewing them can be done with pleasure. Peterborough residents will be quick to notice that much of the beautiful in their own district is being placed in picture form by our own artists, and probably few districts have as many outdoor opportunities as are placed at the disposal of painters in this area.

HOME IMPROVING PLAN ENDORSED BY THIRD GROUP

Unanimous Support Is Given Plan By Plumbers, Electricians And Tinsmiths

AID TO FARMERS

Unanimous support of the Home Improvement Plan was affirmed by a largely attended meeting of the plumbers, steamfitters, tinsmiths and electricians at their group meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night.

This was the third sectional meeting this week, and the painters and decorators will conclude the series tonight.

Fred O. Goodfellow was appointed to the general advisory committee as the representative of the lumbers, steamfitters and tinsmiths, and W. Gordon Hall was named as the delegates of the electricians.

"I think the Home Improvement Plan has great possibilities," Gordon Hall said. "We are not looking at it simply from the benefit it may be to our pockets. It is broader than that. We all want to see plenty of work for men who are on relief so that they will have a chance to earn money for their own needs, and get back into the ranks of the employed. We would like to feel that we had heard the last of the blue ruin talk of recent years."

Mr. Goodfellow expressed similar approval of the Plan, and said he would give it all the support he could offer.

Questions about the practical operations of the Home Improvement Plan were asked by quite a number of the men, and it was discussed with them by Roland Denne, chairman, R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne and D. B. Faulkner, representing the city's group of bankers, Alderman James Dutton, T. L. Ashton of the Examiner and others.

Aid To Farmers

Alderman Dutton said it might not be generally known that, as a special aid to farmers to avail themselves of electric power, the Hydro-Electric Commission had agreed to assume the expense of building service connections to farm homes on roads on which power lines have been erected. The cost of these connections had to be borne by the farmers in the past, but the new arrangement was undertaken by the Commission as a means of encouraging farmers to provide their homes and premises with the advantages of electric power. Alderman Dutton said there were possibilities that this assistance might be a means of producing work in the country for electricians.

Stimulating Business

"Several men told me this afternoon that they intend to go ahead with improvements to their homes which they have been putting off three and four years," Mr. Denne reported. "They don't have to call upon the Home Improvement Plan to get money for the work, for in both cases they have money in the bank, and they are able to take care of the cost themselves. From these and other similar statements to me I believe that a large number of people in the city and district are going to do their bit in starting employment by having necessary repairs and improvements made to their homes. We can't tell how extensive this move will be, but we hope it will be so general that there will be work for everybody."

Offering Help

"We are just ordinary men," Alderman Dutton said, "but all we have in effort and ability we are putting at your service in the desire to see a rehabilitation of the building trades. I don't know of any other industry that has been so adversely affected all through these six or seven years. We know how the building industry was revived in the Old Country resulting in a great wave of prosperity. In the United States they planned for an expenditure of $250,000,000 on a movement like this, and as a result of all the effort and publicity the sum of one and one-quarter billions of dollars was spent by private individuals.

The government of Canada is setting aside $50,000,000 to be taken up through the avenue of loans. If private enterprise were to be stimulated in the same measure as in the United States it would mean at least $100,000,000 being put into the industry by private individuals. That would keep every man busy for a long time. We all believe that is all we are striving for and the effect it would have on our people and our country makes it worth the support of everybody. In Philadelphia $21,000,000 was spent on an enterprise of this kind, and $14,000,000 of that amount went to labor.

To the end of January 3,506 loans were reported in this country with the total borrowing being $1,151,000. Ontario has borrowed $681,000, so the plan has started to work. Employment has received some stimulation. The banks are working with the rest of the country to put the Home Improvement Loan across. In the United States the banks were guaranteed against loss up to 15 per cent. Their actual loss was less than one per cent.

There is no reasonable obstacle in the way of a person getting a loan for the purpose of making improvements under this Plan. The two main objectives to be kept in mind is the rehabilitation of the building industry, and the hope that a great number of men will be taken off the relief rolls."

Mutual Help Suggested

Mr. Faulkner suggested that the men of the different trades could help one another by enquiring about other work when they are themselves employed on jobs. They might find opportunity to mention tactfully work that would appeal to a home owner, and then pass the information on to some tradesman who could follow up the tip. He said there were some intimations that the government's program might be widely extended. There were reports that instead of a maximum of $2,000 for one house this might be increased for apartment houses to $1,000 for each apartment, and there was some likelihood of $250,000,000 being provided for a new housing plan.

Mr. Hicks-Lyne reviewed the practical operation of the Home Improvement Plan referring to concrete examples as to how loans could be obtained.

After Franco's Troops Stormed Malaga

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up By Examiner Reporters.

AT THE EMPRESS.

Among the guests registered at the Empress Hotel are S. Grandmaison, Ottawa, A. M. Wright, Hamilton and F. J. Spry, Oshawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Noakes, Toronto.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Ken Graham, clerk at the Empress Hotel has been doing a lot of hand-shaking today. The arrival early this morning of a ten-pound girl baby in the Graham family is given as the reason for a flood of congratulations.

TEN YEARS AGO.

Ten years ago Walter Peters, weather observer, was recording the fact that February of that year had been a very mild month in Peterborough with only three days showing a temperature below zero.

GAINING MOMENTUM.

As a result of the enthusiasm engendered by this week's series of meetings, the Home Loan Improvement campaign is already bearing fruit. Roland Denne chairman of the local committee told The Examiner today that he had been informed by several citizens that they are undertaking extensive home decorating operations.

GIVEN AN OUTING.

The management of the McCrae Machine and Foundry Company of Lindsay are to give their employees a treat a week from tomorrow when they will be taken to Toronto to see the professional hockey game between the Maple Leafs and the Canadiens. A special train is running from Lindsay to Toronto on that occasion.

SNOW CLEARANCE COST DOWN.

Peterbrough City and the rural municipalities in this district which found it necessary to spend unexpectedly large sums for snow clearance on their roads last winter, are eyeing the calendar hopefully. Up to the present, snow clearance costs have been negligible this winter, excepting the contract outlays. Within two or three weeks the likelihood of any heavy fall of snow will be past.

BINGO GAMES FOR SALE.

The stamp of legal disapproval has been placed on bingo by the Attorney-General, but local dealers in such games are worried little. They have seized upon the advantage of the widespread publicity the game is receiving and displaying bingo sets prominently in their show cases. Peterborough citizens have become addicted to the game as a source of home amusement as well as a gambling device, they report.

ENTERTAIN KIWANIANS.

Entertainment at the Kiwanis luncheon to-day was provided by some of the cast from the operetta to be presented by the students of P.C.V.S. next week. Students who were introduced to the club by Carl S. Browne included Olga Westbye, Merle Smith, George Hall, and James Hawthorne. The program included vocal duets and solos, and a dance number. Jack Lewis expressed thanks of the club to the youthful entertainers.

OF SIMILAR NATURE.

Two minor automobile accidents very similar in nature were reported to city police overnight and this (Friday) morning. J. J. Kellough, Port Hope, stopped on Highway 7 to pick up John Bateman R.R. 7 Peterborough, when he was struck from the rear by another car allegedly driven by Alxeander Miron of Orillia. The Kellough car received damages to the rear spring shackle, the gasoline tank cover and frame. Proceeding east on Charlotte street and about to make a left turn north on Reid street, an automobile driven by W. H. Bell, 506 Charlotte street, was struck from the rear by a car stated to have been driven by George Walton, 516 Bolivar street. The left rear fender of the Bell car was damaged. Both accidents were attributed to the sudden stopping of the cars that were struck and to the icy nature of the road surfaces which caused the other two cars to skid.

LENTEN SERMONS

On Sunday morning at St. Paul's Church, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr will commence a series of Lenten sermons under the title: Crucifiers of Christ Today. The specific themes to be dealt with are as follows:—Feb. 28th, The Indifferent; March 7th, The Unfair; Mar. 14th, The Prejudiced; and Mar. 21st, The Envious. On Sunday evening, March 7th, the interesting series of sermons, illustrated with copies of the great religious masterpieces, given a year ago, will be repeated, with different subjects. The following will be the subjects at this season: "Christ lamenting over Jerusalem" (Eastlake); "Christ leaving the Praetorium" (Dore); "The elevation of the Cross" (Rubens); and on Easter Sunday, the famous picture by Schonherr, "Touch Me Not." As before, copies of the picture suitable for home decoration, will be given free to each family in attendance on each evening.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT

There was a slim docket in Magistrate's Court this (Friday) morning the sole offender being John McMullen, a transient who was fined $10 and $4.50 costs with the option of ten days imprisonment after pleading guilty to an intoxication charge.

ADDRESSES "Y's" MEN

As guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the "Y's" Men's Club at the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday Charles Shaw spoke on the subject, "Four Things." There was a hundred per cent attendance and the address was greatly appreciated by those present. President Roy Lewis was in the chair.

MARK STREET W.M.S.

Mrs. E. W. Rowland, group leader, was in charge of the meeting of Mark Street W.M.S., in the absence through illness of the president, Mrs. Matchett. The usual reports were presented and prayer was offered by Mrs. Rowland, the theme for the devotional hour being Christian Stewardship.

CASTLE REMANDED FALSE PRETENSES

Found Guilty In Windsor Court Over Lindsay Factory Deal

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 26 (CP)—Found guilty of false pretenses John Everett Castle, inventor, was remanded in custody for one week for sentence by Magistrate Brodie today.

An appeal may be launched.

Magistrate Brodie explained his judgment. He could not convict Castle of obtaining $2,000 by misrepresentation as stated in the charge. He contended, however, that Castle had obtained an initial payment of $500 for stock in Castle Motors, Ltd., on the statement that a factory in Lindsay had been purchased for $47,000 in cash and was free of encumbrance.

Castle entered as his defence a blanket denial of testimony presented by Herbert C. Bastlake, complainant. Castle maintained Eastlake had been fully apprised of the motor firm's position before he invested.

POPULATION DESERTS TOWN

VALENCIA, Feb. 26 (AP)—The entire population of the small town of Tortosa was reported today to have fled to the hills to avoid Insurgent air raids.

British ambulance drivers from Barcelona said more than 100 bombs were dropped in a raid Tuesday night.

Members of Royal Arthur Lodge, A.F. & A.M. No. 523 are requested to attend the funeral of our late Brother, Stanley Willis.

Service at St. Paul's Church at 2.30 p.m.

Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

CORONATION YEAR WILL BE FEATURED BY FLOWER LOVERS

Two-Year-Old Royal Oaks And Acorns Will Be Available To Plant

IMPROVE STREETS

Plans to feature Coronation Year in the activities of the Horticultural Society were discussed at its meeting Thursday night, as the president, John A. Smith, reporting on the annual convention of the Ontario Society last week, said that this idea had been stressed in the proposals of the Provincial organization.

Two-year-old royal oaks and acorns will be available at a nominal cost to cover shipping expenses from Great Britain, and it is likely that the society will sponsor a ceremony commemorating the crowning of the Empire's new monarch, King George VI., and Queen Elizabeth.

It has also been suggested that the city and its home owners, factories and offices be requested to co-operate in this plan to make the entire summer more decorative than ever with flowers. Details of this proposal will be outlined at a later meeting.

Mr. Smith also announced that the district flower show will be held in Peterborough on August 13 and 14. Bobcaygeon had also been nominated for this honor, but the preference was given to Peterborough, and with representatives from the horticultural societies of a wide area attending this event here it is hoped that a special effort will be made by the citizens to enhance the city's floral appearance.

Some effort to improve the appearance of Lansdowne Street for the purpose of arresting the attention of tourists and other visitors that they may be diverted up town on George Street was also mentioned as a project for consideration.

Elmwood Park, home of A. Wander Company, Limited, have not only achieved a striking effect in their lawn decoration, but they also planted hollyhocks and other flowers in a long row along their Lansdowne Street frontage. Similar attractiveness at the foot of George Street, it is believed, would create a favorable impression on visitors as they reached the main street leading to the centre of the city.

The next meeting of the Society will be on Thursday, March 11, in the office of A. D. Runions, representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Mr. Smith said he hoped all the members would keep this date open.

COTTAGE LOOTERS.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 26 (CP).—Alleged by Provincial police here, working in conjunction with Quebec Provincial police, to have made overnight visits to Brockville for the purpose of robbing summer residences at Fernbank and Hillcrest, west of here on the St. Lawrence waterfront, four Montreal men, Alcide Brais, Romeo Fertin, Albert Caron and Charles Lapointe, will be brought here today for trial after having been arrested in Montreal.

The Rambling REPORTERS

FIND EXACT REPLICA

Noting a representation of the famous spoon from which holy which will be poured in anointing George VI in the coronation ceremonies, in Scott's Scrap Book in the Monday issue of The Examiner, it occurred to George Benton, 782 Water street, there was an air of familiarity about it. He and his wife searched a drawer of souvenirs at their home and found an exact replica of the spoon.

How they came into possession of the replica, they do not recall. They believe it may have been bought as a souvenir in England by an early member of the family at one of the past coronations. The spoon is sterling silver. — C.P.K.

FLOOD PICTURES GO FAR

The fame of Port Hope's annual flood has spread far. Perusing a Greek newspaper he had just received from Athens yesterday, John Econs, manager of Brooks Grill, found a view of Port Hope's flooded main street prominently displayed on the paper's front page.

The paper was the "Freeman," published in Athens. Lines under the cut indicated it had been obtained through a Paris picture service. Views of flooded Cincinnati accompanied the Port Hope flood scene.—C.P.K.

TWO PICTURES STOLEN.

An unusual theft was reported to Chatham police by Robert Baxter of Peterborough this week. He complained that two pictures representing the exterior and interior of a concrete stave corn crib which he manufactures were lifted from his trade exhibit at the Western Ontario Corn and Seed Show in the Chatham Armouries on Wednesday night. The pictures were 8 by 10 inches in size and could be of value only to some person interested in making a similar produce, he said. He is fully protected in regard to the design by patents. Police are investigating.—K.C.

SIX FUNDAMENTALS ARE RECOMMENDED

Fathers And Sons Of St. Andrew's Church Hold Banquet

Six fundamentals for success were recommended to his more youthful hearers by Fred E. Johnston of the Collegiate staff as he replied to the toast to "Our Fathers" at the St. Andrew's United Church father and son banquet last evening. The fundamentals were: Industry, integrity, intelligence, concentration, initiative, and inspiration.

It is the duty of the father to cultivate these fundamentals in his boy, he declared. He suggested also it remained for the father to teach the boy the value of healthy living and that religion is essential for success. "Religion is to the business man to-day what the sunshine is to a plant," he said.

Referring to concentration, Mr. Johnston said: "There are more failures in the world to-day because the child was never taught the art of intensive concentration than from any other cause."

Eighty fathers and sons of St. Andrew's Church attended the banquet. In the chair, Ray Morrow served as toastmaster. Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean, church pastor, replied to the toast to the church and Jack McKone, Jr., spoke appropriately in proposing the toast to which Mr. Johnstone responded. Jim Morrow, son of the chairman, responded to the toast to "Our Sons."

An illustrated address on the subject of the famed Peace Gardens along the border between the United States and Canada by H. J. Moore, Toronto horticulturist, was the feature of the program. G. A. Gillespie introduced him to the gathering, referring to him as the "man who builds fortresses of peace."

STAY-IN STRIKE.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS BADLY LIGHTED KINSMEN TOLD

On Dull Days Unfortunate Children Have To Sit In Virtual Darkness

LEGISLATION FORECAST

Members of the Kinsmen Club, whose service work activity is among underprivileged children suffering from defective vision, were particularly interested in the address on "Highlights of the New Science of Seeing," presented by John Dishart, as guest speaker at their dinner meeting on Thursday evening.

Mr. Dishart, who is considered one of the foremost among local authorities on correct lighting, argued that while civilization has lifted many burdens from the back of humanity, it has imposed tremendous strains on the eyes of those who are daily forced to do close work at office desk or factory bench.

Statistics show, he said, that 20 per cent. of school children have defective vision, and he claimed that this condition was due in large measure to the fact that schools in general are the worst lighted of all public buildings. "Right here in Peterborough there are desks in some class-room corners where on dull days the unfortunate children who sit in them have to work in virtual darkness," Mr. Dishart contended.

Forecasts Legislation.

The speaker foresaw the day when legislation might conceivably be enacted to make proper lighting of schools compulsory, and raised a question in the mind of Norman E. Elliott, who subsequently moved a vote of thanks, in what degree defective vision among local school-children might be attributed to improper lighting of class-rooms.

Remarking on the stress which is laid on dental hygiene, Mr. Dishart asked, "If the teeth are so important, and they are, how much more important are the eyes?"

He explained there are three elements in seeing, namely, the light; the seeing task; and the eye. The one variable factor in this trio of elements is the light which can be controlled. At that point, he asserted, the science of seeing steps in, because it is here that science tells us the proper amount of light to use for various eye uses.

Mr. Dishart stressed that the question of proper lighting is not merely a question of relieving eyestrain, but is a matter of reserving untold quantities fo nervous energy which is rapidly sapped away under improper lighting conditions.

No lamp for reading purposes, he urged, should be less than 100-watts.

Alex. Sollitt presented Mr. Dishart to the members of the club, while at the close of his address he was tendered the motion of thanks by President Don Loucks, who was in the chair.

Two new members were initiated into the club in the persons of Bob Leybourne and James Ireland. Both were introduced by Bert Lacey, while the initiation ceremony was performed by Dr. Bob Nott, immediate past president.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturay, February 27.

JUDGING by the prevailing planetary configurations, this may be a day in which some progress may be made along the lines of routine endeavors, new contracts or fresh attacks on old projects. Elders may assist in this, although there seems to be anxiety or grief in connection with an elderly person. Sign all contracts with due consideration.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly prosperous year, with new or renewed contracts offering some spur to the ambitions. Outside of this, things may move along in routine grooves, but the intervention of an elder has bearing on certain developments.

A child born on this day may be talented and fairly ambitious, but it may carve its way by methodica and systemate methods, with close attention to details. It may benefit through elders or through feminine interest.

Rev. Dr. McLean's Address

The Examiner of Monday, February 22nd, reports the Rev. Dr. McLean, of St. Andrew's as having said at the George St. Forum that religion "is man's reaction to his environment."

This, I understand, is the new creed of the United Churches, but of course it does not seem to me to be Christianity nor the "religion" of those who believe in a personal God and a Saviour. When his "religion" depends upon his own 're-action to his environment," man renounces all promise of a future life and all restraint outside of himself. He becomes his own God. This is only, of course, the old scepticism sitting up again in its grave clothes, but it is not fair to our youth to let this "new religion" pass without protest.

CANADA'S CURLERS BEGIN TO RALLY FOR THE TANKARD

Sensational Welsh Squad Of Four Years' Building Centre Of All Eyes

HAS ENVIABLE RECORD

TORONTO, Feb. 26 — (C.P.). — From all parts of Canada they're coming to participate in the Dominion championships next week, and the curlers freely admitted today the team to beat in the 1937 Macdonald's Brier Tankard play will be the sensational Welsh rink from Winnipeg Deer Lodge.

For Jimmy Welsh, 27-year-old skip, has established an enviable record in his four-year effort to build up a rink of titular calibre. The quartet of youngsters he heads has been established favorites to win the trophy Manitoba already has held in seven of the nine years it has been played for nationally.

It's taken Jimmy four years to do it, but now he has a world of holding the famous curling trophy. Ever since he played second for Jim Dougla' rink from Winnipeg that lost the Dominion title in Alberta in 1933, Welsh has been building.

He gathered around him Jock Reid, Harry Monk, and Fred Smith. Youngsters all, they've played together in the past four seasons and a few weeks ago realized their ambition. They won the British Consols Trophy in the 49th annual Manitoba bonspiel and the right to represent that province in the Brier finals.

Broke Many Records.

Incidentally, they broke records that had stood since 'way back when. In winning 34 of the 35 games they played—frequently playing four games a day in the Manitoba 'spiel—they annexed the Consols, Grand Aggregate, Dingwall, Birks and Macdonald Memorial Trophies.

Ken Watson of the Stratchona Club caught Jimmy in an off night. The 1936 winner of the Brier eliminated the Welsh rink from the Purity Trophy in a semi-final match only to be knocked out himself in the following round.

They tell a story back in Winnipeg of that match. It was the only one of Jimmy's games in the 'spiel his mother, herself no mean curler and who had participated in the ladies' bonspiel, had witnessed. She had expressed delight at being eliminated in one of her own matches. It gave her a chance, she said, to watch her Jimmy play.

All of the Welsh curlers are proficient in other sports as well as the ancient Scottish game. All golf in the summer. Smith used to be seen frequently sprinting around the cinder paths and was formerly a keen football player. Monk played hockey for nine years before turning to curling as his chief wintertime recreation.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(C.J.P.)

TONIGHT'S THE night that tells the tale. Our Colts will either step into the second round of the O.H.A. junior "B" playdowns, or they will hang up their blades for the season—all depending on what they do with the Red Indians of Kingston here. The local lads must overcome a deficit of three goals to the Kingston on the round, or beat 'em by four to cop the nod. It's a puck natural and will likely pack the arena with customers. No increase in prices but fans are urged to cut out smoking in the rink tonight. Not only to make it easier to follow play but also because athletes tearing around at top speed are bound to slow up before long when sucking in gulps of stale smoke. Give the Colts a break in this crucial contest.

* * * * * * *

WE FIGURE the Buckland boys should win the game and probably the round. Maybe we're screwy but that's how it looks to us. At the end of the first frame in Kingston, we said: "Peterborough has a better team," and some of the Limestone City rooters around agreed. But the Colts did not play good hockey from then on. They became disorganized on the large foreign surface. If they just make themselves at home and go in there battling, they should knock off Kingston. It ought to be a rousing old tussle all through.

* * * * * * *

THIS IS the way the Colts will lineup: Goal, Harding; defence, Al Clark and Webb; centre, Starr; wings, Heal and Wright; alternates, Gee Clark, Kingdon, Brady, Connelly and Crowe. And Kingston will likely be like this: Goal, Bridgen; defence, Smith (12) and Crawford (14); centre, Partis (17); wings, Carr-Harris (16) and Belwa (15); alternates, Knott (5), Younger-Lewis (4), Evans (9), McColm (8) and Clarke (11). Our advice to the Colts is: Get is there and play natural hockey; don't get the jitters and start figuring out plays away ahead; don't figure this Kingston outfit is a championship team—it won't go far if it does win here; and you're not so hot if you can't lick this crew. And to the fans: Don't miss this battle royal if you have to shake the works out of that dime bank you bought Junior for Xmas!

* * * * * * *

FIVE BASKETBALL games are listed for here tonight and two tomorrow eve. At the Y.W. this p.m. at 7.45, St. John's girls play C.G.E. Juniors; at 8.15, it's C.G.E. Seniors vs. Marconi; and at 9.00, "Y" Quakers meet Westclox Juniors. At the P.C.I. gym tonight, Port Hope senior girls play P.C.I. cagers while the junior boys from Port Hope meet the local lads in interscholastic scraps. Up at the Y.M.C.A. tomorrow evening at 7.15, Dominion Life plays St. Paul's while at 9.15 it's P.C.I. vs. Neill's in Senior City Cage Loop games.

* * * * * * *

AS AN added attraction at the "Y" Saturday in the gloaming, the Toronto Central "Y" volleyballers play Peterborough Y.M.C.A. champions at 8.15 o'clock. Tickets may be purchased from any of the local team or in the local league. The Peterborough squad is practising three times a week under Doug Loomis, just readying up for Provincial tournaments. Word has been received already that Orillia will enter a team in the Eastern Ontario intermediate group playdowns here on March 6th. The following are likely to see action against Toronto here tomorrow: Stan Payne, Russ Kitchen, Bob Bolton, Eric Vincent, Nels Stanger, Ab Dryland, Art Rhodes, Cec. Richardson, Bill Stanbury, Don Crawford, Alex Fitzgerald and Ed Shortt. A worthy bunch of volleyballers. Fans will like this game, we imagine.

BEFORE A crowd at the Brock last night that just missed being a sellout by 1800 people, the Senior City Hockey League schedule was finished up. Outboard Marines took a 5-3 nod over Mayfairs; Westclox got a 4-2 decision over Bewdley and Lakefield took a 4-3 tilt from Millbrook. Since the replay Bewdley-Lakefield game will not be run off, this leaves Westclox on top with Mayfairs next and then Lakefield and Marines in a tie for third place. These latter two teams will clash in a sudden-death game Monday night at the Brock, the winner going into league semi-finals but the loser dropping out. By the way, semi-final and final playoffs in this Blood and Thunder Loop are both home-and-home series with goals counting. Top teams will be into their playoffs next week.

GEORGE ST. Bantams won the Church Puck Loop title last night over Park St., their first shield since 1931 and '32. Those former champs had such players as H. Kingdon, W. Wright, S. Currie, A. Fair and R. Heard. This year's titular team is about as strong with R. Parnall, E. Routley and W. Hamilton looking like coming O.H.A. material. Coach Bert Hamilton had from 10 to 15 players to draw from every game and his squad was real classy. Park St. had a good team which M. Smith coached, having neat teamplay and two stars in R. Ainslie and H. Campbell. They were unlucky in having to play-off with such powerful opponents. These churches have been softball finalists the last two years with Park St. winning in '35 and George St. in '36. Games Monday: Murray St. vs. St. Paul's at seven in juvenile finals, and Murray St. vs. All Saints at eight in senior finals. The juvenile tilt last eve was postponed.

LOTS OF athletic activity last p.m. at the "Y" in connection with the Masonic picnic. Volleyball, bowling, etc. A couple of H. B. Cowan's amateur grapplers, Jim Thorburn and Bill Hogan, put on a match with the former getting the nod. Two more, Fred Williams and Edgar Horton, had a no-decision match. And three members of the Leaders Corps, Bill Taylor, Jack Wolstenholme and Tom Dunlop, put on a smart exhibition on the rings.

AUSSIES ARE OFF TO GOOD START IN FIFTH GAME

Sparkling Centuries By Bradman And McCabe Provide Start

342 FOR THREE

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 26 —(CP Cable)— Sparling centuries by Don Bradman and Stanley McCabe gave Australia an excellent start in the fifth and deciding test match against England today. When play closed the Antipodean total had been carried to 342 for three wickets, the Aussie skipper compiling 185 out and McCabe, 112.

A crowd of 52,342 sent up a cheer when Bradman won the toss and sent the Australians in to bat. With a perfect wicket to play on the home team had a real advantage and made the best of it.

Victory will give Bradman and his colleagues the rubber and the mythical "ashes" emblematic of world cricket supremacy. The teams are tied with two wins each.

Bradman gave a faultless display and equalled the record of 12 centures made by Jack Hobbs, famous Surrey batsman, in Anglo-Australian tests. When play closed the young skipper had been at the wickets for two hours, 30 minutes, hitting 17 fours.

The score card:

Australia—First Innings

J. H. Fingleton, c. Voce, b. Farnes	17
K. E. Rigg, c. Ames, b. Farnes	36
D. G. Bradman, not out	135

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP).—The United States most successful amateur last year, Jesse Owens, is perhaps this year's most unsuccessful professional...There's talk of plenty of money, but of money there's little or none.

Pepper Martin's birthday is supposed to fall Monday, but we won't be celebrating...He was born Feb. 29...There are a lot of ball players in the National League who wish he, like his birthday, would arrive only once every four years.

Lefty Gomez should be signed by tonight...Sol. Ruppert has been using the man-to-man defence against his holdouts so far, but after tomorrow, they'll be scattered all over the country, and he'll have to shift to the zone.

United States middleweight champion, Freddie Steele, has an abnormally low pulse beat...It's only 44, and the average is around 77...Joe Gould spells Max Schmeling's name with two "l's"...But anyway you spell it, Schmeling will probably give little Joey many a headache before the summer.

Burleigh Grimes says he's going to take the daffiness out of Brooklyn Dodgers, which is a real accomplishment when you realize the Dodgers have five left-handed outfielders—Johnny Cooney, Heinie Manush, Eddie Morgan, Nick Tremark and Wildcat Wilson...Headline, Athletics have five shortstops...That should be about right...The odds are at least five to one against the A's in any ball game.

Curlers Who Represent Manitoba

The province of Manitoba will be well represented in the Dominion curling championships by this fine rink from Deer Lodge. They played sensationally in the Manitoba bonspiel to win 33 out of a possible 34 games. It equalled the great record made in 1910 by the Cassidy rink when they won 36 out of 37 games. They won the trip to Toronto for the Dominion meet, the grand aggregate, the Dingwall Grand Challenge trophy, the Birks and the Macdonald Memorial trophies. From LEFT to RIGHT they are: Harry Monk, lead; Jack Reid, second; Jimmy Welsh, skip; Fred Smith, third. This rink will be a strong threat for the Macdonald Brier trophy, emblematic of Dominion curling supremacy.

BANTAM TITLE WON BY GEORGE STREET

Defeat Park Street 8-6 In Overtime To Cop Church League Shield

George Street won the bantam championship of the Church Hockey Loop last night at All Saints' rink with an 8-6 decision over Park Street in overtime. They had won the first game, 4-2, and went through the season undefeated. Tied 6-all at the end of regulation time, George Street ran in two more in the extra inning. It was an exciting game and fast, with Park Street having a 5-2 lead at the end of the first period, Campbell scoring two with Ainslie, Briscoe and Anderson getting one each. The George Street goalie muffed some of these. Parnall and Routley tallied for the Uniteds.

The game was played in four frames due to holes along one side of the rink. George Street kept forcing play after the first period with Parnall getting two more counters and Routley and Burns one each to make it 6-5 for the United with five seconds to go. Campbell then tied it up, but in overtime Routley and Parnall tallied to cop the title. George Street earned the win on speed, with Parnall, Routley and Hamilton being too fast for their rivals, and Parnall and Ralph strong on defence. The Park Street boys played good combination, and in R. Ainslie and Campbell had a neat defence. Martin, Drury and Briscoe went best of the forwards. Teh teams:

Park Street.—Goal, Ainslie; defence, Drury, Campbell; centre, Ainslie; wings, Smith, Briscoe; alternates, Taylor, Martin, Anderson.

Referee.—D. Charlton.

SKIING

by Charles Schaer

SWISS SKI INSTRUCTOR

Unforced christiania swing — Jerked christiania swing

53—Jerked and Unforced Swings

The principal element used to produce rotary action of the skis is the basis on which swings are classified as unforced or jerked. When rotary action is produced by utilization of body momentum and weight the swing is said to be unforced; when produced by vigorous body muscular effort the swing is said to be jerked. The classification is thus applicable to forms of the christiania and telemark only. In both tples of christiania swing, the skis are held close together, inside ski leading, knees pressed together and thrust forward. In the unforced swing the body is leaned backward and the heels weighted while in the jerked swing the body is leaned forward and the toes weighted.

The body is held erect throughout the unforced swing and the screwing or twisting motion is comparatively slow and lacking in vigor. As a result the expenditure of muscular energy is low. The backward lean of the body, weighting the heels, applies the body momentum and weight at a point to the rear of the skis' centre of resistance to turning and rotary action having been started by body muscular effort is prolonged by momentum and weight.

In the jerked swing the position of the body is constant but varies in a quick up and down or down and up movement. During this change the pressure on the skis, due to body weight, varies and is a minimum just as the body commences the downward movement from the highest point reached in the upward movement. It is just at this instant that body muscular effort is applied to produce rotary action of the skis. The outward movement of the hips and the inward turning of the shoulders must be vigorous so that sufficient energy is put into the body screwing motion to carry the skis well around. As the body sinks after the screwing motion the skis are again weighted but the rotary action being practically completed, momentum and weight enter into it only slightly. The more vigorous the body screwing the more abrupt will be the swing.

ALL SAINTS' WIN SENIOR CONTEST

Yank Out 4-3 Decision Over Murray Street In Second Game Of Playoffs

In a hectic game at All Saints' rink last night, All Saints Seniors kept their unbeaten Church Hockey League record by downing Murray Street by a 4-3 score in the second of their final series. The first ended in a 2-all draw. Murray Street may enter a protest over the winning goal, so this game may wind up as a tie, too.

Both teams turned in on hard all through and had the goalies on the jump. Maudsley and McDougall scored two in the second after a scoreless first frame. The Baptists went strong in the third to take the lead with three neat ones by E. Spencely, Watkins and Whatman. The referee over-ruled the goal judge in allowing the third marker. All Saints ganged up toward the last and Mortimer and Fisher scored. This last was disputed. The winners, with their superior manpower, were evenly matched by the well-balanced Murray Street team. Whatman was best for the losers, with McNabb going fine in goal. Seabrooke and Rusaw stood out for All Saints and the two lines looked well-balanced. The teams:

All Saints.—Goal, Jay; defence, Rusaw, Beauclerc; centre, Maudsley; wings, Fisher, Frost; alternates, Quirt Seabrooke, Williams, McDougall, Mortimer.

Murray Street.—Goal, McNabb; defence, Mann, E. Spencely; centre, Palmer; wings, Whatman; alternate, F. Spencely.

Referee—L. Parnall.

Keene And Warsaw Battle To 3-3 Tie

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Feb. 26.—After 60 minutes of shinny, due to the tactics of the visitors who shot the puck the length of the ice throughout the game, Keene and Warsaw battled to a 3-3 tie on Keene ice in a regular Westend League fixture.

For Keene, Wood tallied twice and Campbell once, and for Warsaw, Payne (2) and Clements were the marksmen.

Payne, Bowen and Clements were best for Warsaw, with Wood and Nelson going good for Keene.

Lineups:

Warsaw.—Goal, Tice; defence, Bowen and Clements; centre, Bell; wings, Watts and Payne; subs., Moore, Thompson, Miles Thompson.

Keene.—Goal, Renwick; defence, Nelson and Joyce; centre, O. McCarthy; wings, Fletcher and Bowie; subs., Gall, Wood, D. McCarthy, Campbell, and Richardson.

Canucks Make Finals In Southend League

Canucks qualified for the midget Southend Hockey League finals last night by nosing out a 3-2 win over King Edward at the Sacred Heart rink. They now meet St. Peter's for the loop title. In a fast, close contest, there was little difference between the young squads and the issue was always very much in doubt. Jones counted two for the winners with Cauley getting the other. For King Edward, Henwood and Gillespie were the scorers. The teams:

Canucks: Goal, Cournyea; defence, Vitarelli, Giardino; centre, Cauley; wings, Nicholls, Jones; alternates, Hallihan, Collins, Condon.

King Edward: Goal, Shea; defence, Gillespie, Self; centre, Henwood; wings, Carr, B. Gillespie; alternates, Jamieson, Cox.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The draw for the Vice-Skips Bonspiel has been made and play will commence Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock and will continue each night until a winner is declared.

It is a straight knock-out proposition and each game will be 12 ends.

Rinks must be schedule rinks, but this year, owing to a new rule passed at the annual meeting, the skips will have to play lead while the vice-skip takes charge of the rink. The second player will play vice, and the regular lead will play second stone.

There has been a lot of controversy over this and we are anxious to see how it works. Of course here is another idea behind this move...but you who are interested in curling will have to do your own thinking.

Tonight should provide a real outstanding contest when T. Donaldson clashes with W. Harvey for the championship of Group C.

Both rinks have come through with only one loss...We know who is going to win but we will not explode it till about 10.30 p.m.

FURTHER RELIEF GIVEN MAGAZINES

Drawback On Paper Increased From Fifty To Seventy-Five Per Cent.

OTTAWA, Feb. 26 (CP)—Publishers of periodicals who import their paper are given further relief in yesterday's budget.

The tariff on such paper ranges from 12½ up to 25 per cent. In the past they received a drawback of 50 per cent of the duty when the paper was used in the "production of periodical publications enjoying second-class mailing privileges, the pages of which were regularly bound, wire stitched or otherwise fastened together." This drawback has been increased to 75 per cent.

A drawback of 60 per cent is allowed materials and all parts used in the production of engines for use exclusively in the equipment of aircraft.

Under the old tariff the drawback was allowed if the materials were used in the manufacture of aircraft engines and the change enables the drawback to apply when the engines are merely assembled in Canada. The tariff rates range from 10 to 27½ per cent. As there are no aircraft engines produced in Canada, the old drawback was of little benefit except for parts.

LEAFS HAMMER CANADIENS 3-1 AT MONTREAL

Two Goals In Opening Canto Give Toronto Sufficient Edge

DEFENCE GOING WELL

Victory Brings Smythemen Within Three Points Of Second Place

FORUM, MONTREAL, Feb. 26 (C)—Two first-period goals provid- d Toronto Leafs enough margin or a 3-1 National Hockey League riumph last night over the ction- ading Montreal Canadiens. The ictory brought Leafs within three oints of second place.

One of the best mid-week crowds f the season—more than 8,000— atched Bill Thoms and Nick Metz hoot the early goals.

Then they saw Canadiens at- empt to come from behind with a isorganized attack that seldom aused the tight-checking Leafs uch bother.

Thoms scored at 5.06, swooping ast Goaler Wilf Cude to bat home is own rebound, while Metz fired back-hander six minutes later af- er Bob Davidson and Frank Fin- igan had relayed the puck around anadiens' defense.

"Buzz" Boll, pulling off a smart ake play, sent Leafs into a 3-0 lead arly in the second period and at 1.06 Johnny Gagnon poked in the nly Canadien goal after George rown sent him close in on the eaf cage.

Featuring Leafs strong defence, he game was fast throughout with he checking particularly hard in he third period when five penalties ere handed out. Gordon Drillon rew one of them, his first of the eason. It came in the closing min- tes when he engaged in a bump- g and pushing duel with Paul aynes. Teams:

Toronto—Goal, Broda; defense, ay, Hamilton, centre, Metz; ings, Davidson, Finnigan; subs, owler, Horner, Boll, Conacher, H. ackson, Thoms, Apps, Drillon, endall.

COLTS MUST WIN TONIGHT'S GAME

Local Juniors Have To Overcome Three-Goal Deficit In Tangle With Kingston Here

A fighting gang of local junior puckster are set tonight to give Kingston Red Indians the battle of their lives when these O.H.A. junior "B" teams clash at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink. With goals counting in the two-game series, and Kingston three up from their 5-2 win over the locals Wednesday, it's a case of overcome that lead for the Colts or elimination. The teams appear quite well-matched, with Kingston having an edge on their large home rink but the young Petes probably a bit better at the Brock. The latter will likely stage a horrid offensive from the start in an effort to cut down that three-goal lead. They should win the game and have an even chance of winning the round. A packed rink is expected for this important contest.

Manager Frank Buckland will use his regular lineup, with their Webb or Jopling the spare defenceman. Crowe and Al Clark are the other two with Harding in goal. Starr, Wright and Heal make up one line with Kingdon, Gee Clark with both Brady and Connelly will aletrnate on the other. Kingston will be at full strength from their last game and full of fight. They have a classy first-string forward line, a powerful blocking defenceman in Smith (No. 12) and a good goalie. Fireworks may be looked for in this tilt.

N.H.L. All-Stars

(By the Canadian Press.)

Walter Broda, Toronto — whose able goaltending backed Leafs' strong defence to a 3-1 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Wally Kilrea, Detroit — who led Red Wings' offensive with a goal and assist as they beat the luckless Chicago Hawks, 3-1.

Nels Stewart, Americans — whose first-period goal forced Boston to open up, paving the way for the New Yorkers' 3-1 triumph.

OUTBOARD MARINES DEFEAT MAYFAIRS

Keep In Running For Playoffs With 5-3 Decision In Late Rally

Outboard Marines kept in the running for a playoff berth in the Senior City Hockey League last night by punching out a 5-3 decision over the Mayfairs before slim crowd at the Brock St. rink. They rapped in three goals in a hot third frame to one for the losers after Mayfairs had a 1-0 edge in the first inning and the count was 2-all to end the second. Play was fast, exciting and fairly close with some hard checking shown.

The Marines trotted out a bunch of veterans of other O.H.A. days and they turned in a scrappy heady game to get the decision against the speedier Cafe Kids. Beavis was good in the winners' net and had protection from a strong defence. With all the forwards going well, there were no outstanding players on this squad last night. Mayfairs made it a battle all through with Mowry, Meyette, Hill and Cournyea looking good.

Mayfairs Start It

Mayfairs got the lone tally of the first heat, Cournyea getting one that was disputed and resulted in goal judges being changed. Hill took Gardner's pass to make it 2-0 in the second but Dundas scored from Cripps and Wood took Maudsley's pass to end the second at 2-2. Coursey got a nice one in the third after working hard for one. Mowry backhandled one in on a smooth rush but Marine got two more to finish it, Maudsley scooping in Dundas' pass at close range and Payne's long shot getting by Currie. The teams:

Marines: Goal, Beavis; defence, Cripps and Lebarr; centre, Payne; wings, Dundas and Dallin; alternates, Maudsley, Cournyea, Coursey, Wood and Howe.

Mayfairs: Goal, Currie; defence, Vitarelli and Gardner; centre, Driscoll; wings, Meyette and Mowry; alternates, Cournyea, Hill and O'Leary.

In Care of Police

In a bitterly fought contest between Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Americans in New York, the Amerks emerged victorious after a game featured by a free-for-all which took a squad of police to quell. In this picture Dave "Sweeney" Schriner of Americans (ARROW) can be seen in the care of one of the police. The sleek, well-groomed hair of the Amerk is all mussed up, quite unusual for Mr. Schriner. The most unconcerned player on the ice seems to be "Turk" Broda of Toronto, who can be seen leaning nonchalantly against his goal waiting for the fray to end. This was the last meeting of these two teams for the season.

WESTCLOX WINS OVER BEWDLEY

Loop Leaders End Schedule In Blood And Thunder Circuit With 4-2 Nod

Westclox finished their Senior City Hockey League schedule last night at the Brock St. rink with a 4-2 victory over Bewdley. It was a fair game with the Bewdley boys battling hard all the way against superior odds. The count was 1-0 for the Clockmakers in the first frame and 3-1 for them going into the third. Good goal-tending by Sloan and some nice checking by his buddies held down the count.

With both net-minders making some neat saves, play was fairly close most of the distance. The first line for Bewdley went good and Walker turned in an excellent all-around performance. For Westclox, the Field-Williams-Dinesen line was always dangerous and the alternates were close behind them in effectiveness. Their husky defence did some neat blocking. A few penalties were drawn but play was mostly clean and fast.

Pat Gets First

Calladine notched the only counter in the opening inning. In the middle chukker, O'Leary scored on Padgett's assist and Williams got another for Westclox, with Elliott banging one home for the Rice Lake crew. Both sides found the cage once in the third, Calladine getting one on Padgett's pass for the East City team and J. Mercer sinking the final marker for the losers. The teams:

Bewdley: Goal, Sloan; defence, D. Sidey and Walker; centre, J. Mercer; wings, Elliott and L. Mercer; alternates, Watson, P. Sidey, Morton and Jewison.

Westclox: Goal, Tharby; defence, Whatley and T. Parsons; centre, Field; wings, Williams and Dinesen; alternates, Calladine, O'Leary, F. Parsons and Padgett.

Over Thirty Members Already In Club With Short Season Arranged

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 26. — Marmora Badminton Club now has a membership of about thirty and much interest is being taken in this newest form of recreation.

The members are to be divided into groups and a schedule will be played off. No tournaments will be held this season due to the lateness of the start, but it is anticipated that next season turnaments will be arranged between local groups and with teams of neighboring villages.

Miss Hilda Thompson is president of the club and Stewart Blake is secretary-treasurer. The general opinion is that badminton has come to stay.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Sweeney Schriner of New York Americans, picking up a point here and there in a bid for his second straight scoring championship, moved into a three-way tie for second place in the National Hockey League scoring race last night with an assist that boosted his total to 37 points, three behind the leading Larry Aurie of Detroit. His was the only change in the Big Seven, Johnny Gagnon of Canadiens being the only other leader to register a point.

The leaders:	G.	A.	Pts.
Aurie, Detroit	22	18	40
Schriner, Amerks	16	21	37
Apps, Toronto	13	24	37

WINGS DEFEAT HAWKS BY 3-1

Victory Sends Detroit Three Games In Front Of U.S. Section

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(CP)—Scoring a goal a period, Detroit Red Wings beat Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 last night and drew out three games ahead of the United States section in the National Hockey League.

It was Chicago's twenty-third defeat of the season against ten wins and six ties.

Syd Howe's goal in the first period gave Detroit a quick lead, but in the second period, in which Hec Kilrea and Pete Palangio drew majors for trading a few harmless punches Louis Trudell knotted the count.

Late in the period Hec Kilrea put the Wings in front again on a shot from deep right wing, and in the final minute of the game his brother, Wally, added another goal on a pass from Johnny Sorrell.

Detroit— Goal, Smith; defense, Bowman and Goodfellow; centre, Pettinger; wings, Howe and Bruneteau, subs—Lewis, Aurie, Barry, H. Kilrea, W. Kilrea, P. Kelly, Sorrell, Orlando, MacDonald.

Chicago—Goal, Karakas; defense, Blair and Seibert; centre, Romnes; wings, Thompson and March. Subs, —Gottselig, Kelly, Palangio, Larochelle, Trudel, Levinsky, Weibe and Jackson.

Officials—McCurry and Ion.

First Period.

1—Detroit, Howe (Pettinger) . 1.25
Penalty—Blair.

Second Period.

2—Chicago, Trudel (Gottselig, March) 5.15
3—Detroit, H. Kilrea (W. Kilrea P. Kelly) 18.20
Penalties—Palangio (major), H. Kilrea (major), March (misconduct), Blair.

Third Period.

4—Detroit, W. Kilrea (Sorrell) 19.20
Penalties—None.

LAKEFIELD NOD ENDS SCHEDULE

Northerners In Tie For Third Place In City Loop After 4-3 Win Over Millbrook

Final Senior City Hockey League standing:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Westclox	9	1	0	18
Mayfairs	5	3	2	12
Marines	4	3	3	11
Lakefield	5	4	1	11
Bewdley	2	7	1	5
Millbrook	1	8	1	3

Lakefield took a 4-3 victory over Millbrook last night to wind up their schedule at the Brock St. rink. With Bewdley declining to replay the final game—which was protested—with Lakefield, the win puts the Northerners in a third-place tie with Marines and they will settle it Monday night in a sudden death game. Last night's tilt was fast and clean with the score 0-0 in the first and 3-1 for Lakefield going into the third.

Edmunds got one for Millbrook in the second frame with Chittick counting once for Lakefield and Deeth getting two, one aided by I. Charlton and the other on Sabatino's pass. Chappell got one more for them in the third, while McCarthy tallied for Millbrook and Wainman's goal at the final bell—it being allowed — made it 4 to 3. The whole Lakefield squad showed up well while the first line for Millbrook and Cathcart on defence were good most of the way. There was little choice between the goalies. The teams:

Millbrook—Goal, Ferguson; defence, Edmunds and Cathcart; centre, Wainman; wings, McCarthy and Raper; alternates, Sloan and Skitch.

Lakefield—Goal, Junkin; defence, Sabatino and I. Charlton; centre, Chittick; wings, Blewett and Jewell; alternates, Deeth and Chappell.

Referee—Herb Payne.

CANADIANS BEAT GERMANY BY 5-0

England Forced Into Second Overtime Period To Defeat Swiss 2-0

LONDON, Feb. 26 (C.P. Cable).—Switzerland yesterday produced the only startling surprise of the world's amateur hockey championship to date by extending the undefeated English team to two overtime periods before England won 2-0.

Canada defeated Germany 5-0 in the night's other game as the final round of the tournament opened.

To-night the vital Canada-England match will be played in a crowded Wembley rink.

Forsey and Redding Click.

Forsey and Redding each scored twice, with "Puffy" Kemp, notching the other goal ,while Ken Campbell hung up his fifth shutout in seven games.

COMBINES BEAT TWEED OUTFIT

Tweed Crew However Had Cinched a Playoff Berth—Score Was 8 To 7

PLAY WAS CLOSE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 26. — The Norwood-Havelock Combines finished up their Trent Valley Hockey League schedule last evening at Norwood Arena, with an 8 to 7 win over the fast-flying Tweedites. This match made no difference in the standing, the Combines having already been eliminated and the Tweed crew having cinched a playoff spot. The score was a good indication of the play with the Combines having the advantage in the first, Tweed in the third, and both breaking even in the second.

The locals started with a bang in the first stanza running up a total of six goals before the visitors could get organized. H. Leal notched Tweed's lone counter of the period with just a minute to go.

The Tummon brothers opened the scoring in the second on a smart combination play with the elder one, "Tip," ramming it home, followed closely by Combine tallies from G. Puffer and Voyer. Maguire then put Tweed back in the running with two fast counters before the period ended.

The locals went into the third with a four-goal lead and Tweed making every effort to tie it up. Their aggressiveness was almost rewarded when they made the count 8 to 7 with two counters by W. Leal and one by Maguire.. The play commenced to roughen up during the latter part of the period, finally ending in a general brawl with H. Leal and Tip Tummon of Tweed and Godin of the Combines taking a trip to the cooler. With the one-man advantage the locals opened up, but failed to pierce the stout defence put up by Maguire, Cournyea, E. Tummon, and Goalie Thompson.

Tweed's first line of Maguire, W. Leal and Cournyea and Tim Tummon were outstanding for the visitors, while Davidson in goal, Rod Webb, and Voyer were most effective for the locals.

The line-ups:

Tweed — Goal, Thompson; defence, J. Tummon and E. Tummon; centre, W. Leal; wings, Maguire and Cournyea; alternates, Geraldi, Marsh, Long, Elsbury, and Leal.

Combines — Goal, Davidson; defence, R. Webb and L. Rogers; centre, Hagerman; wings, J. Voyer and G. Puffer; alternates, J. Raithwell, E. Godin, C. Puffer, N. Rogers.

ROSENEATH

MRS. SANDERCOCK IS VICE-PRESIDENT

Elected By Roseneath W.A. To Succeed Mrs. L. Turner, Resigned

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Feb. 26.—The regular meeting of the Women's Association of Roseneath United Church was held on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. E. Braithwaite and Mrs. E. Blodgett as joint hostesses. The meeting was held at the latter's home.

The president, Mrs. A. Nill presided. During the devotional period Mrs. L. W. Scott gave a talk entitled "Lenten Thoughts," showing that Lent means more than self-denial or self-discipline, but is a period of spiritual housecleaning among churchmen.

The theme of the roll call was self-denial or sacrifice. Two readings "The Cross' 'read by Mrs. M. Davey and "The World for Christ" read by Mrs. C. Sandercock were in keeping with the Lenten theme.

During the business period, Mrs. E. Blodgett, secretary, reported two bundles of remnants received and Mrs. A. Braithwaite, Mrs. C. Sandercock and Mrs. M. Davey were appointed a committee to prepare the material for distribution among the members to be made into articles for the bazaar.

Mrs. L. Turner vice president resigned, and Mrs. C. Sandercock was elected to this office.

It was decided to hold a quilting on March 11, in the town hall

The march meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. L. W. Scott, Mrs. E. Blodgett and Mrs. A. Braithwaite, are a committee to arrange for a program.

A short program was enjoyed: Mrs. O. Robins read "Happiness in Small Things"; Mrs. S. Sandercock read "Mystery"; Miss Irene Brown read "Make Room for God's Blessings," and Mrs. M. Davey conducted an interesting contest, which was won by Mrs. D. Brisbin and Mrs. K. Harvie.

Following the benediction the hostesses served refreshments, and all enjoyed a social period. The attendance numbered seventeen.

Personals

Mrs. William Rogers of Centreton is visiting her brother M. Davey and Mrs. Davey.

GOOD PRICES PAID AT FARM AUCTION

Stock And Implements On Wright Property Are Successfully Sold

(Examiner Correspondence.)

YELVERTON, Feb. 26—On Tuesday afternoon a splendid sale of farm stock and implements was held at the farm of Mrs. Richard Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wright, near Yelverton.

Ted Jackson of Port Perry was the auctioneer. About twenty head of well-bred Durham cattle were offered for sale with prices going from forty to sixty dollars, the younger animals demanding the higher price. The auctioneer stated that he was pleased to announce that there were some young horses for sale. One ten-year-old mare was sold to Mr. Everett Stinson of Janetville for the sum of one hundred and seventy-five dollars. The remaining horses were younger and brought good prices.

Sheep sold at thirteen dollars and seventy-five cents each with none over eight years of age and were considered well sold.

There was also a liberal offering of pigs, hens and geese, all of which brought comparatively high bids.

A fine line of implements for farm use was satisfactorily disposed of. A quantity of oats sold at 70c per bushel, rye at 96c per bushel and eight tons of timothy hay sold at $10 per ton.

Owing to fine weather and good roads for motoring the crowd was unusually large.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wright are retiring from farm work to live in Lindsay. Mr. Wright taking up salesmanship for the Case Co. Mr. Gordon Robinson and family of View Lake have rented the Wright farm and will shortly move in. Mr. Ivan Wright and family who have occupied the Muirhead farm west of Yelverton will take over the farm left vacant by Mr. Robinson's removal.

DEBT REDUCTION PLAN

Alberta Mortgage Firm Lays Idea Before Aberhart.

EDMONTON, Feb. 26 (C.P.). — A voluntary debt reduction plan for Alberta, designed particularly to reduce interest rates in farm mortgages and cancel arrears in drought areas was submitted to Premier Aberhart to-day by representatives of the Dominion Mortgage and Investment Association of Alberta.

The basis of the plan was division of the province into drought and non-drought areas, calculated on crop records for the past six years. In both areas interest rates would be reduced to six per cent on farm mortgages. In drought areas, unpaid interest accumulated prior to Jan. 1, 1936, would be cancelled

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

In Hollywood following an ingenious maneuver on the part of his young wife, Janet, Joel Paynter, second-rate Broadway actor, makes screen history in the course of eight months. Fame and fortune are theirs following one outstanding picture in which Joel plays an important character part. He obtained the role because Janet cultivated the right people and Vernon Chester a leading director. Denied a baby because the studio frowns on domestic notes in building up Joel as the popular American lover, Janet finds happiness eluding her, despite everything money can buy, because she has nothing more to do. Janet discovers that 3,000 a week melts rapidly living as they now do. After buying a small group theater in Cape Cod as a lark, Joel promptly forgets about it. Janet goes east alone for a visit.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 21

"JANET PAYNTER trained east today alone, did you know?"

"You mean she actually went away and left the gorgeous Joel alone in Hollywood?" Laughter.

"He wouldn't be alone anywhere. If he were my husband I'd never go as far away from him. Why did she? I thought they were filmland's famous devoted couple."

"Nobody knows why she went." Business of shrugging shoulders. "But, after all, she couldn't expect to hold him forever. She's hardly in his class."

"Somebody told me that she had a lot of money. Was a debutante in New York and he hadn't a red cent when he was a chorus boy and they were married."

"Well, it's all over now, I guess."

"Who do you suppose will be the next one?"

"I'd put my money on Carol Griest. She doesn't care whom she tells that she refuses to make another picture for Modern Century until they borrow Paynter to play opposite her."

"You know, he has kept the record pretty clean, Paynter, I mean. You never see him at any public affair that he isn't with Janet. And I think she's cute."

"Cute? She's smart but she's quiet as a little mouse. I must say I can't see what he sees in her. She must have had money. Anyway, she's gone back east like most of the girls who can't stand the gaff of having a handsome husband that 20 million women rave about."

Janet Paynter, one short day out of Hollywood, sitting serenely in the depths of a big chair in the observation car and gazing out over the desert, was unaware of what tongues were wagging over her so soon, of what conjecture there was rampant over her departure.

It was utterly inconceivable in Hollywood that an idol's wife should go east alone for the simple reason that she desired to see her old friends for a brief few weeks.

It had to be a breakup! It either meant that life was intolerable to both of them together and the wife was leaving her husband. Or else, it meant that they were aware of the fact that they were beginning to bore each other and it was best to try a trial separation. A simple vacation was incredible just because it was simple. All conduct was motivated by emotional reasons in Hollywood and simple facts were not emotional and therefore not understandable.

If Janet had been the wife of a young stock broker in New York who suddenly decided to go to Boston or Chicago or Detroit to visit a friend nothing would have been thought of it.

But scarcely had the first word been out that Janet Paynter was eastward-bound, than the tongues began to wag, the scribes to swing into action and all the forces of the publicity machinery to move.

It buzzed on telephones and in telegraph offices. Before Janet had arrived at Albuquerque, the movie-going, newspaper reading public knew that Janet Paynter was on her way east without her husband. The inference was plain. The Paynters were going to split up.

Janet didn't know that. That anything she did could be of any interest to the public was beyond her comprehension.

When the usual phalanx of news reporters met the Century on arriving in Chicago, and sought her out, she thought it extremely odd and decided it must have been because there were no stars traveling on the same train.

They asked her the most personal question about Joel and her marriage. Long schooled in the art of keeping in the background, Janet merely smiled or said "It's ridiculous," or, "I haven't the least idea what you're talking about." She was willing to talk about everything except her marriage or Joel. She was always careful about those two subjects. Janet had began to realize that what the studio wanted her to say and do was important.

She didn't take the questions of the reporters seriously and therefor when her train from Chicago to New York was boarded by a Mr. Kelcey "of the New York office" at Harmon, 42 miles out of New York, where a steam locomotive is exchanged for an electric, Janet was a trifle stunned.

Mr. Kelcey had been waiting the arrival of the Century impatiently. He was anxious to reach Mrs. Paynter "before the train arrived at Gran Central$ and she was besieged by reporters."

"What on earth would they want to besiege me for?" Janet asked, considerably annoyed that she had to endure the company of this worried and annoying young man for the last hour of her trip.

Now that she was far away from the coast and nearing New York and Martha, she was beginning to experience a new feeling of anticipation. She had never been truly lonesome since she had known Joel. There had been no wrench for her in leaving the job she had enjoyed, the circle of friends she had had in the days before she had married. She had left New York with only the slightest pang. But then she had had Joel always at her side.

Now she was alone. Every small garment, every appointment in the airplane luggage neatly piled in her drawing room was hers. There were no pipes in her jewel case as there usually were in her joint travels with Joel. Joel's slippers were not to be found, wrapped in her soft chiffons. There would be no box of imported shaving cream crowding out her small crystal jars of cosmetics. Snoud she open her case suddenly, no neckties, no discarded shirts would tumble out.

Janet felt strangely lonesome for those things even while she first began to enjoy the feeling of being a complete entity. She was not really a Mrs. Paynter. She was a lady traveling alone with every minute of her time beldnging to herself.

She could do exactly as she pleased. If her feet were tired, she didn't have to stand on them and pretend to feel fresh as a daisy or have them walked over at a night club. She didn't have to push her way through mobs of people with outstretched hands begging for autographs. People wouldn't turn to look at her in the streets and she could turn and look at as many people as she wanted to.

If she wanted to buy a five-dollar hat, no salesgirl would say, "But Moddom, you wouldn't be interested in that."

Not Mrs. Joel Paynter. She was free of the price she had to pay for being with her celebrated husband.

She was free to curl up for hours and listen to Martha talk. To hear about the shiftless Harrigans wo'd never done a lick of work in their lives but paid for their maintenance in Chester with the humorous doings in their brood of children. To hear about the new young doctor who was young to Chester even though he was 50. To hear about the changes in the church board. To hear all the things that would be music to her ears after the tiresome, repetitious gossip of Hollywood. Not to hear a word about "the picture I'm making."

At least she would be free, when she got rid of the young Mr. Kelcey who was trying to capture her attention while she packed the things she had been using on the train.

"Er.....Mrs. Paynter, I'm afraid you'll have to tell me the truth so that we'll know how to meet the press," he was saying amazingly enough. He captured her attention.

"The truth? About what? And why would the press meet me?"

He was embarrassed but business-like. "About your sparation. What statement do you wish to make regarding leaving Mr. Paynter. They'll ask you about a divorce."

"A divorce!" Janet turned a shocked face to him. "What divorce? I haven't left Joel! And I'm not going to! We're as happily married as we always have been. You can tell that to your press. And you can get rid of them any way you please but I'll not say one word to them. This trip is my party and the public has nothing to do with it! Now, if you'll excuse me, please, I'll finish my packing!"

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CHEESE CAKE

When Uncle Wiggily hopped into the Jolly Old Sea Dog's garage to se about getting new American cheese tires for his auto in place of the old bologna sausage ones, the rabbit gentleman didn't know what was going to happen.

He thought perhaps some of the Bad Chaps had sneaked in the back way to finish eating what was left of the sausage tires they had started to nibble.

"But, no. They couldn't do that. Their eyes are still too filled with red pepper," thought Mr. Longears, as he remembered how the Fox and Bob Cat had run away howling. "It must be something else."

Uncle Wiggily saw the Jolly Old Sea Dog of the garage standing in front of racks in which there were many tires. Some were made of rubber balls and they were very funny When you rode in a car with rubber ball tires you bounced up and down in the funniest way.

"What's the matter?" asked the rabbit gentleman. "Have you no cheese tires to put on my car in place of the old, fuzzy bologna sausage ones?"

Of Course He has

"Oh, yes, of course I have," growled the Jolly Old Sea Dog.

"Then why did you call me in here as if something dreadful had happened?"

"Because I just thought of something, Mr. Longears."

"What is it?"

"Do you want plain American cheese tires on your car or toasted cheese ones?" asked the Jolly Old Sea Dog. "That's what I wanted to know and why I called you in. Now, w... cheese?"

"Oh, plain cheese, by all means," said Uncle Wiggily. "I think it would look too ostentatious and proud-like to be riding around on toasted cheese tires. Later, when I get to be a movie actor or something like that I may go in for toasted cheese tires. But not now, if you please."

"I think you are wise," barked the Sea Dog. "You'll get more mileage and less punctures out of plain cheese tires than toasted. So what ho! Avast and belay and let the stormy winds blow!"

With that he jacked up Uncle Wiggily's car and soon had the new cheese tires on and the old bologna sausage ones were taken in trade.

"I can sell them to a friend of mine who has an auto lunch wagon," said the Sea Dog. "His car always stays in one place, so it doesn' matter what sort of tires he has."

Uncle Wiggily drove back to his hollow stump bungalow with the new cheese tires on his car.

Home Again

"Now will you come riding with me, my dear?" he asked his wife.

"Right gladly, Wiggy," she answered. "Do you think we may have an adventure, my love?" she asked, speaking sort of high high hat like.

"Maybe" said Uncle Wiggily. So he and his wife drove on and on and on, riding most merrily on the new cheese tires until they came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Longtail, the mice.

"Oh, let's stop and see them," said Mrs. Longears. So they did and Mrs. Longtail asked them to stay to lunch, which they also did.

"I wish I had some cheese cake for you," said Mrs. Longtail. "But we are all out of cheese."

"Oh, it doesn't matter," said Uncle Wiggily.

But just then in came Jolly Longtail, the boy mouse.

"Mother! Mother!" he squeaked. "I found a lot of cheese out in front of our house. "Oh, such a lot of cheese! Look!"

"Oh, now I can make Uncle Wiggily a cheese cake," said Mrs. Longtail. So she began. And what happened after that I'll tell you in the next story, Uncle Wiggily's bouncie ouncie.

But please don't let the goldfish try to go swimming in the canary bird cage.

ROSENEATH

MRS. SANDERCOCK IS VICE-PRESIDENT

Elected By Roseneath W.A. To Succeed Mrs. L. Turner, Resigned

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Feb. 26.—The regular meeting of the Women's Association of Roseneath United Church was held on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. E. Braithwaite and Mrs. E. Blodgett as joint hostesses. The meeting was held at the latter's home.

The president, Mrs. A. Nill presided. During the devotional period Mrs. L. W. Scott gave a talk entitled "Lenten Thoughts," showing that Lent means more than self-denial or self-discipline, but is a period of spiritual housecleaning among churchmen.

The theme of the roll call was self-denial or sacrifice. Two readings "The Cross" 'read by Mrs. M. Davey and "The World for Christ" read by Mrs. C. Sandercock were in keeping with the Lenten theme.

During the business period, Mrs. E. Blodgett, secretary, reported two bundles of remnants received and Mrs. A. Braithwaite, Mrs. C. Sandercock and Mrs. M. Davey were appointed a committee to prepare the material for distribution among the members to be made into articles for the bazaar.

Mrs. L. Turner vice president resigned, and Mrs. C. Sandercock was elected to this office.

It was decided to hold a quilting on March 11, in the town hall.

The march meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. L. W. Scott, Mrs. E. Blodgett and Mrs. A. Braithwaite, are a committee to arrange for a program.

A short program was enjoyed: Mrs. O. Robins read "Happiness in Small Things"; Mrs. S. Sandercock read "Mystery"; Miss Irene Brown read "Make Room for God's Blessings," and Mrs. M. Davey conducted an interesting contest, which was won by Mrs. D. Brisbin and Mrs. K. Harvie.

Following the benediction the hostesses served refreshments, and all enjoyed a social period. The attendance numbered seventeen.

Personals

Mrs. William Rogers of Centreton is visiting her brother M. Davey and Mrs. Davey.

GOOD PRICES PAID AT FARM AUCTION

Stock And Implements On Wright Property Are Successfully Sold

(Examiner Correspondence.)

YELVERTON, Feb. 26—On Tuesday afternoon a splendid sale of farm stock and implements was held at the farm of Mrs. Richard Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wright near Yelverton.

Ted Jackson of Port Perry was the auctioneer. About twenty head of well-bred Durham cattle were offered for sale with prices going from forty to sixty dollars, the younger animals demanding the higher price. The auctioneer stated that he was pleased to announce that there were some young horses for sale. One ten-year-old mare was sold to Mr. Everett Stinson of Janetville for the sum of one hundred and seventy-five dollars. The remaining horses were younger and brought good prices.

Sheep sold at thirteen dollars and seventy-five cents each with none over eight years of age and were considered well sold.

There was also a liberal offering of pigs, hens and geese, all of which brought comparatively high bids.

A fine line of implements for farm use was satisfactorily disposed of. A quantity of oats sold at 70c per bushel, rye at 96c per bushel and eight tons of timothy hay sold at $10 per ton.

Owing to fine weather and good roads for motoring the crowd was unusually large.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wright are retiring from farm work to live in Lindsay. Mr. Wright taking up salesmanship for the Case Co. Mr. Gordon Robinson and family of View Lake have rented the Wright farm and will shortly move in. Mr. Ivan Wright and family who have occupied the Muirhead farm west of Yelverton will take over the farm left vacant by Mr. Robinson's removal.

DEBT REDUCTION PLAN

Alberta Mortgage Firm Lays Idea Before Aberhart.

EDMONTON, Feb. 26 (C.P.). — A voluntary debt reduction plan for Alberta, designed particularly to reduce interest rates in farm mortgages and cancel arrears in drought areas was submitted to Premier Aberhart to-day by representatives of the Dominion Mortgage and Investment Association of Alberta.

The basis of the plan was division of the province into drought and non-drought areas, calculated on crop records for the past six years. In both areas interest rates would be reduced to six per cent on farm mortgages. In drought areas, unpaid interest accumulated prior to Jan. 1, 1936, would be cancelled.

The Day That I Forget

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

In Hollywood following an ingenious maneuver on the part of his young wife, Janet, Joel Paynter, second-rate Broadway actor, makes screen history in the course of eight months. Fame and fortune are theirs following one outstanding picture in which Joel plays an important character part. He obtained the role because Janet cultivated the right people and Vernon Chester a leading director. Denied a baby because the studio frowns on domestic notes in building up Joel as the popular American lover, Janet finds happiness eluding her, despite everything money can buy, because she has nothing more to do. Janet discovers that 3,000 a week melts rapidly living as they now do. After buying a small group theater in Cape Cod as a lark, Joel promptly forgets about it. Janet goes east alone for a visit.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 21

"JANET PAYNTER trained east today alone, did you know?"

"You mean she actually went away and left the gorgeous Joel alone in Hollywood?" Laughter.

"He wouldn't be alone anywhere. If he were my husband I'd never go as far away from him. Why did she? I thought they were filmland's famous devoted couple."

"Nobody knows why she went." Business of shrugging shoulders. "But, after all, she couldn't expect to hold him forever. She's hardly in his class."

"Somebody told me that she had a lot of money. Was a debutante in New York and he hadn't a red cent when he was a chorus boy and they were married."

"Well, it's all over now, I guess."

"Who do you suppose will be the next one?"

"I'd put my money on Carol Griest. She doesn't care whom she tells that she refuses to make another picture for Modern Century until they borrow Paynter to play opposite her."

"You know, he has kept the record pretty clean, Paynter, I mean. You never see him at any public affair that he isn't with Janet. And I think she's cute."

"Cute? She's smart but she's quiet as a little mouse. I must say I can't see what he sees in her. She must have had money. Anyway, she's gone back east like most of the girls who can't stand the gaff of having a handsome husband that 20 million women rave about."

Janet Paynter, one short day out of Hollywood, sitting serenely in the depths of a big chair in the observation car and gazing out over the desert, was unaware of what tongues were wagging over her so soon, of what conjecture there was rampant over her departure.

It was utterly inconceivable in Hollywood that an idol's wife should go east alone for the simple reason that she desired to see her old friends for a brief few weeks.

It had to be a breakup! It either meant that life was intolerable to both of them together and the wife was leaving her husband. Or else, it meant that they were aware of the fact that they were beginning to bore each other and it was best to try a trial separation. A simple vacation was incredible just because it was simple. All conduct was motivated by emotional reasons in Hollywood and simple facts were not emotional and therefore not understandable.

If Janet had been the wife of a young stock broker in New York who suddenly decided to go to Boston or Chicago or Detroit to visit a friend nothing would have been thought of it.

But scarcely had the first word been out that Janet Paynter was eastward-bound, than the tongues began to wag, the scribes to swing into action and all the forces of the publicity machinery to move.

It buzzed on telephones and in telegraph offices. Before Janet had arrived at Albuquerque, the movie-going, newspaper reading public knew that Janet Paynter was on her way east without her husband. The inference was plain. The Paynters were going to split up.

Janet didn't know that. That anything she did could be of any interest to the public was beyond her comprehension.

"What on earth would they want to besiege me for?" Janet asked, considerably annoyed that she had to endure the company of this worried and annoying young man for the last hour of her trip.

Now that she was far away from the coast and nearing New York and Martha, she was beginning to experience a new feeling of anticipation. She had never been truly lonesome since she had known Joel. There had been no wrench for her in leaving the job she had enjoyed, the circle of friends she had had in the days before she had married. She had left New York with only the slightest pang. But then she had had Joel always at her side.

Now she was alone. Every small garment, every appointment in the airplane luggage neatly piled in her drawing room was hers. There were no pipes in her jewel case as there usually were in her joint travels with Joel. Joel's slippers were not to be found, wrapped in her soft chiffons. There would be no box of imported shaving cream crowding out her small crystal jars of cosmetics. Should she open her case suddenly, no neckties, no discarded shirts would tumble out.

She didn't have to push her way through mobs of people with outstretched hands begging for autographs. People wouldn't turn to look at her in the streets and she could turn and look at as many people as she wanted to.

If she wanted to buy a five-dollar hat, no saleslgirl would say, "But Moddom, you wouldn't be interested in that."

Not Mrs. Joel Paynter. She was free of the price she had to pay for being with her celebrated husband.

She was free to curl up for hours and listen to Martha talk. To hear about the shiftless Harrigans wo'd never done a lick of work in their lives but paid for their maintenance in Chester with the humorous doings in their brood of children.
